NUMBER 14

Hon. Junius Harden, Republican Candidate for Congress, to Speak In Chapel Hill Wednesday Night

Comes from One of the Largest and Most Important Districts in State; Is Well Versed on Campaign Issues.

SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS MAN

Has Long Been Prominently
Connected With Industrial Life of the State.

Hon. Junius H. Harden of Burlington, N. C. will speak for the Republican party and its candidates Wednesday night at seven fifteen in Gerrard Hall. Mr. Harden is the Republican candidate for Congress from the fifth Congressional district, which is one of the largest and most important in the state, and is well versed on the issues of the campaign.

Mr. Harden was born in Graham, North Carolina, and spent his boyhood on the farm. He was educated at Graham Normal College and at Bryant & Stratton Business College, of Baltimore, and early in life caught the vision of industrial progress and public-spirited service. He has for many years been active in community projects, and has a long list of successful business ventures to his credit. He is directly responsible for the location of a mammoth rayon plant at Burlington. He is a successful business man, and holds many positions of trust in his home town. He has been a member of the Christian Church since boyhood, and is now secretary of the Western North Carolina Christian Conference and a member of the board of trustees of Elon College. Mr. Harden has always been quick to discern the needs of his community and state, and has devoted his energies mainly to fulfilling them.

The Student Republican Club went to great efforts to secure Mr. Harden to speak here, and are to be highly complimented for their action. Mr. Harden has declared, since he received the Republican nomination, that he saw no place in the present campaign for partisan abuse, vituperation, or setting tirades, and his campaign speeches so far have been remarkably free from them. Since being booked here, he stated that his speech is not to be one of denunciation of the Democratic party or its candidates but one that will extol the virtues of the Republican party and its various candidates. He is to make a particularly strong appeal for the students to favor the party of their convictions. Mr. Harden is unusually well acquainted with the critical facts. He is a very effective and appealing speaker, and his knowledge of the facts combined with his excellent oratory is certain to produce a speech of interest to everyone. Democrats, as well as Republicans and non-partisans, are urgently invited to come out and hear him.

The meeting will begin promptly at seven fifteen, in order not to conflict with the musical concert in Memorial Hall, and will be over in time for those who wish to attend the concert to get there by eight thirty.

Smith Occupants Will Entertain

The instructors and graduate students living in Mary Ann Smith building will give their second annual reception to the members of the faculty and the residents of Chapel Hill on Friday evening, October 26, at 8 o'clock. Smith building was entirely refashioned a year ago and has since been the home of the men graduate students of the University. It has the most attractive living quarters on the campus, and many residents of the town have expressed their desire to visit the graduates in their beautiful dormitory. The men in Smith extend a cordial invitation to the members of the faculty and the townspeople to attend their open house on Friday evening.

Gaston County Club To Hold Meeting

All Seniors, Juniors, and Sophomores from Gaston County interested in the reorganization of the Gaston County Club are requested to meet on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A. at 10 o'clock tonight.

President Harry W. Chase was confined to his home yesterday because of a slight cold, and was unable to make an address at Chapel Hill as had been planned.

Republican Club To Hold Meeting

A very important meeting of the Republican Club will be held on the first floor of Saunders Hall at nine o'clock tonight. All members are asked to be present, as the club will be organized for the straw vote to be held Thursday, and several important announcements will be made. All anti-Smith men will be welcome.

GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION TO HOLD MEETING

Plans Are Rapidly Going Forward for Entertainment for Members.

The annual business meeting of the General Alumni Association will be held in Chapel Hill December 7-8th, according to an announcement by Maryon Saunders, alumni secretary. The date was set Saturday at an alumni board of directors meeting at the Carolina Inn.

The Alumni Association used to hold its annual business meetings at Commencement, but the festive atmosphere of graduation and reunions was poor background for more serious business considerations. So the time of meeting was changed several years ago to the fall of the year. The annual alumni convocation is called the General Assembly, and it is the constitutional convention of the alumni. Regular delegates and representatives of the various alumni clubs and class organizations attend the General Assembly to discuss matters germane to the general aims of the Alumni Association; formulate general policies; legislate for and control the work of the General Association.

No program for this fall's General Assembly has been yet outlined, said Mr. Saunders. A committee will be appointed by the alumni president to begin plans immediately, and announcements of this committee will be made soon. The program will cover parts of two days; alumni will gather Friday and hold sessions until Saturday morning. December 8th is the date of the football game with Duke University, and alumni in attendance at the General Assembly will have opportunity of seeing this game.

There are 34 University of North Carolina alumni clubs in the state. All these have met requisites of membership, organization, etc., and are called chartered clubs. Practically every county in North Carolina has an alumni organization, but not all are chartered. In addition to the alumni clubs in the state there are also alumni organizations in out-of-state alumni centers. New York, Chicago, Washington, Atlanta, Norfolk—all have thriving organizations of alumni. There are also other local alumni organizations out of the state. Every chartered alumni club has a voice in the General Assembly, and delegates are allowed from each club.

Practically every University class since '79 now has a permanent organization, and is also represented by vote in the General Assembly. Thus University alumni are organized both geographically, and by college classes.

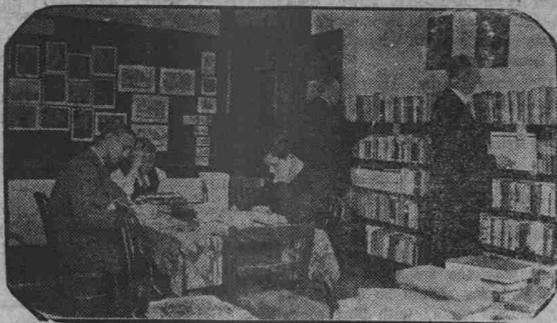

Mayor Issues Order

On behalf of the police department, the mayor of Chapel Hill has asked that the townspeople and students please refrain from parking their cars on the streets after ten o'clock next Saturday morning unless it is absolutely necessary that they do so. A large number of visitors is expected for the Ga. Tech-Carolina game, and it is necessary that they have some place to park their cars.

Approximately fifty extra officers from Durham, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, and Raleigh will be on duty, whereas, there were only eight extras on duty last Saturday for the V. P. I. game. That will give an idea of the number of visitors expected.

The Theta Phi fraternity announces the pledging of J. S. Newsom of Sandersville, Ga.

Bull's Head Book Shop

Above is an interior view of The Bull's Head Bookshop, which has, in the two years since its opening by Howard Mumford Jones, author and professor of English at the University, become the rendez-vous of campus literati and the general meeting place of all those in Chapel Hill interested in the current novel. The interior scene above suggests somewhat the thoughtful and bookish atmosphere of its print and novel lined walls.

FORDHAM GIVES TALK IN CHAPEL

Explains to Freshmen the University Ruling Concerning Bad Checks.

In a chapel talk yesterday morning J. B. Fordham explained to the Freshmen the student council regulations in regard to bad checks. It was explained that over a million dollars in checks will be made out by the students at the University during this year and of this large amount there are some which are bad, due to carelessness.

As the rule was explained, when a bad check is returned to the office, a messenger is immediately sent to the man who gave the check. The notice sent includes the student council ruling on this subject which is:

1. A student has 48 hours in which to make a bad check good and report to this office during office hours with such check or receipt. The penalty for not doing so is check probation.

2. The extreme limit within which a student may take up a check and report to this office is 10 days from the time he receives this notice. The penalty for not doing so is automatic suspension from the University for the remainder of the current quarter.

In any case a check returned due to circumstances within the student's control will cause him to be placed on check probation. Second offense draws automatic suspension from the University with the right of appeal to the student council.

It was explained by Mr. Bradshaw who introduced Mr. Fordham, that 95 per cent of the checks that come back are due to carelessness, and he requested that all students be very careful in handling their checking accounts.

All students and members of the faculty are urged to cast their ballot. Although many of those voting will be unable to vote in the general election next month, all are asked to take an interest in this straw vote, because it is merely a method of determining which of the presidential candidates is most popular on the campus.

DORMITORY CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Bradshaw and Hudgins Chief
Speakers at the Gathering.

The Carolina Dormitory Club held its first monthly meeting this year on Thursday night, October 18, at the Episcopal Parish house. The members of the Club enjoyed a sumptuous supper prepared by the ladies of the Episcopal Church. There was a good attendance, twenty four out of the twenty six were present.

Dean Bradshaw spoke to the Club about its place in the development of campus life. He congratulated the club on its record in helping solve dormitory living and study problems. He encouraged the club to keep up the fine spirit of cooperation that was manifested last year.

Ed Hudgins, president of the student body, gave the club the assurance that the Student Council would back every move of the Club in promoting and developing the Dormitory Council system. He said that the dormitory councils in the several dormitories had aided in solving many dormitory problems that were reviewed by the Student Council last year. He again delegated the authority that was granted the dormitory councils last year in dealing with noise, agents, and undesirable occupants.

The secretary of the Club explained to the new members the origin and development of the Club and told them of the recent accomplishments of the organization. He asked that each member feel that he was an important part of an integrated organization organized for the betterment and enjoyment of campus life in the dormitories. His main plea was for cooperation with the attempts of the Club.

Is Outspoken in His Appeal for
The Democratic Ticket from Constable to President; Has Made Many Speeches in State.

MEMBER OF CLASS OF 1904

Was Connected With Numerous Activities During His College Career.

General Albert L. Cox is speaking to the student Democratic Club tonight in Gerrard Hall at 7:30. Members of the Club are enthusiastic to have General Cox speak under their auspices, and have invited all students, faculty folk, and townspeople to attend tonight's rally.

General Cox is well known in Chapel Hill and among the people of the State. His activities as a student, in the Alumni Association of the University, the American Legion, and in politics, mark him as an outstanding son of the University. He was graduated from the University with the Class of 1904, and is now the permanent president of that class. In college he was a varsity football player; baseball and track man; member of the Phi Society; member of Golden Fleece; and was extremely popular among his college mates. General Cox served on the board of directors of the University Alumni Association, and has also been president of the association.

In 1916 General Cox was captain of a North Carolina national guard unit and served on the Mexican border. He went to France as commanding officer of the famous 118th field artillery and saw extensive service on the front. Following the war he was given the rank of brigadier general in the officers reserve corps, and since has been active in that field. In the American Legion General Cox has been an outstanding leader, and was only barely defeated for the position of national commander at the San Antonio convention. General Cox retired as State Commander of the Legion this month. In politics General Cox is outspoken in his appeal for the Democratic ticket from constable to president. He is making political speeches throughout the State in interest of the Smith ticket. The University student Democratic Club is fortunate in having General Cox speak here tonight.

Officers of the Democratic Club are: Phil Whitley, of Windell, president; Wex Malone, of Asheville, vice-president; and Mac Covington, of Laurinburg, secretary-treasurer. The club is organized to support the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith and the entire Democratic ticket, both state and national. It is planning to muster a heavy vote in the straw vote which will be taken Thursday of this week under the supervision of the Student Council.

Immediately after the speaking tonight an executive committee of the student club will be named. This committee will be composed of the officers, and a member elected from each dormitory on the campus. A large attendance is expected.
