TECH ALUMNI TO HAVE RESERVED SEATS IN STADIUM

One Thousand from This and Neighboring States Are Expected.

That famous song about the "Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech" will be floating up in huge volume from the hollows of Kenan Memorial Stadium when the North Carolina and Tech football teams meet here for their titanic struggle on Saturday, October 27.

It will be sung not only by the hundreds of Tech students expected to accompany the team here aboard the special train from Atlanta but also by the hundreds of Tech alumni who have planned to converge on Chapel Hill on that day.

Georgia Tech alumni in this and neighboring states are planning to hold a reunion here in connection with the game. Ira W. Summerlin, a Tech alumnus now residing here, is in charge of local arrangements. Already, he says, almost a thousand Tech alumni have made reservations for the game.

R. J. Thiesen, Secretary of the Georgia Tech Alumni Association, is cooperating in the reunion plans. He has supplied Mr. Summerlin with a list of all Tech alumni living in this and nearby states.

A special section of Kenan Stadium is being reserved for the Tech alumni.

Former University of North Carolina athletes will also make the day an occasion for a general reunion. They will have seats together in a special section of the stadium and will also be together at a buffet luncheon.

COX ADDRESSES STUDENT BODY

Former Carolina Man Makes Strong Appeal for Democratic Party.

General Albert L. Cox, Raleigh attorney and former State commander of the American Legion, made a strong appeal for Al Smith, Max Gardner and the whole Democratic ticket before the students, faculty members, and Chapel Hill people in Gerrard Hall on Tuesday night. He declared that Al Smith's political enemies have not dared to utter one suspicion of moral turpitude or public wrong against him but have resorted to a whispering campaign centering around his religion and not his public acts.

Speaking under the auspices of the Student Democratic club, General Cox characterized Smith as a "man who by his force of character and desire for public service has elevated himself as few have, who has passed through practically every office in New York State, four times governor, whose every effort has been to make the (Continued on page four)

Oil Paintings Will Be Displayed During Graduate Open House

On Friday evening, October twenty-sixth, at eight thirty o'clock the members of the faculty and the residents of Chapel Hill who will be present at the second annual open house of the Men's Graduate Club in Smith Building will have the pleasure of viewing the collection of oil paintings of Mr. Raymond Everett, which is now being exhibited in the lounge and dining room of the Graduate Club building. Mr. Everett, a professor of Art and Architecture in the University of Texas, is an artist of national reputation, having won many prizes for his artistic creations. His paintings, of which his favorites are the landscapes of Texas and Old Mexico, have been exhibited in New York, Boston, Baltimore and other centers of American art. The exhibition of Mr. Everett's paintings will be the central feature of the evening's entertainment.

The rooms will be decorated with jack-o'-lanterns, and the atmosphere of Halloween will be dominant throughout the evening. Jack Wardlaw with his full orchestra will furnish the music for the occasion. Refreshments will be served. The members of the faculty and the residents of Chapel Hill are invited as guests of the evening, and a large number is expected to be present.

MOVEMENT NOW UNDER WAY TO UNIFORM BAND

Boxes To Be Placed on Campus Friday for Free-Will Offering.

B. H. Marshall, Jr., President of the University band, issued a statement Wednesday explaining the financial campaign that members of the band are now conducting, in an effort to obtain funds to purchase uniforms for the organization.

The University, faculty and students, seem to have long been undivided in a strong opinion that the University band should be equipped with uniforms. But no benefactor has offered the required amount in cash, and the University has had no funds available. This year, though, talk has been stronger than ever for uniforms, and urged on by this the members of the band decided to inaugurate this campaign, Marshall said.

"Several phases of the campaign are already under way, and progressing with fine success," Marshall said yesterday, "and we now want to make an especial appeal to the student body for their support.

"We propose a free will offering to be made by the students at the pep meeting Friday night before the Georgia Tech game. No man will be personally solicited. And no one will be embarrassed by this offering. Large boxes will be conveniently placed, and the students are simply asked to give what they feel they want to give and can give.

"If every student would give a dollar, the fund would be well on towards completion. But we are not making a dollar limit either up or down. Every man give what you can, and feel assured thereby of a whole hearted appreciation from the band."

This entire campaign plan, Marshall says, has the official approval of the President of the University, the Business Manager, the Alumni Secretary and the President of the Student body.

The faculty has already been canvassed and is responding in a fine way. Merchants of Chapel Hill are being asked to contribute, and are responding. A full account of this will be published later. The Alumni will also be given an opportunity to assist.

Those in a position to judge such things have assured the band officers that they feel this campaign can be put across. But it will be a case of every man doing his part. And without a really earnest response on the part of the student body the project will prove an impossible one. But with a whole hearted response on the campus to use as a lever, the rest will become much easier, Marshall feels.

The band hopes to complete the campaign and place the order by the middle of next week, to assure delivery in time for use at the Thanksgiving game in Charlottesville and at the Duke game which follows here.

Institute of Politics Will Open Friday

An Institute of Politics will be held here Friday under the auspices of the North Carolina League of Women Voters and the University extension department. There will be a meeting at 2:30 p. m. in Gerrard hall and another at 8 o'clock Friday night. Mr. Frank P. Graham will outline the Democratic platform at the first meeting and M. S. Breckenridge will outline the Republican platform.

At the 8 o'clock meeting Mrs. J. Bordne Harriman of New York and Mrs. Elbert Russell of Durham will be the speakers. A cordial invitation is extended to students and townspeople to attend. A large crowd is expected to be present.

Students Must Get Tickets for Tech Game By 5 P. M. Friday

Student coupons must be exchanged for Georgia Tech game tickets in the Y. M. C. A. lobby not later than Friday at 5 p. m. Freshmen and upperclassmen desiring seats with visitors outside the student sections must have their cards and coupons checked and exchanged promptly. Absolutely no student tickets will be handled after the above day and hour.

Carolina Students Will Decide Their Presidential Choice Today

All Members of Student Body and Faculty Eligible to Vote.

Carolina's first political battle of the year opens this morning at 10 a. m. in the form of a presidential straw vote. Any member of the student body or of the faculty is eligible to throw the power of his vote behind his candidate for the office of President of the United States. For a large percentage of the student body this will be the only opportunity that will be open to express by vote his or her choice between Smith and Hoover. This vote will be cast under the auspices of the Student Body and all members are urged to take part. Voting will begin in front of Gerrard Hall at 10 a. m. and will continue until 5 p. m. this afternoon.

Although this election will play little or no part in state or national politics, it will be a method of determining how the campus stands on the question. In addition to that it will end many disputes as to which party is the strongest on the University campus.

This is not the first of these elections that have been held in North Carolina for almost every college in the state has thrown the question to (Continued on page four)

HOOVER FAVORED BY DI ASSEMBLY FOR PRESIDENCY

Corruptness of Both Parties Laid Bare During Heated Discussion.

The discussions of the Dialectic Senate Tuesday night were centered around Alfred E. Smith. Senator Caton introduced the following resolution: "Be it resolved that the Dialectic Senate go on record as preferring Alfred E. Smith to Herbert Hoover for the Presidency."

"It is unnecessary to say that honest government is desired by the American people. Yet Dr. Nicholas Murray is the only Republican in whom I have confidence and he has come out for Alfred Smith." Senator Taylor Bledsoe made these statements in defense of his favorite. "Alfred Smith stands for the Democratic Party, while Hoover represents Republican fascalty," declared the Senator. He said that the matter of oil scandals has already been discussed for a great while, but new complications are developing all the time. During Harding's administration Congress began to smell like oil whenever the President mentioned the subject. The Senator was of the opinion that the whole Republican party is tainted with Sinclair's oil money. (Continued on page four)

Tar Heel Alumni To Vie With Tech Alumni for Cheering Honors.

The Carolina-Georgia Tech game in Kenan Stadium here Saturday, October 27, promises to be the most colorful game of the Tar Heels' home season.

According to word received from the Georgia institution's alumni office more than 1,000 Tech alumni from this and other Southern states, as well as a whole train load of Tech students, will converge on Chapel Hill that day to support the big Yellow Jacket team.

Across the field on the Carolina side will be just as devoted a Carolina group—the old boys who carried the Blue and White to many an athletic victory in days as far back as the "dashing nineties," when football warriors wore mustaches.

For it will be general homecoming day for all former University athletes, and indications are that hundreds of them will be present. A whole section has been reserved for them in the middle of the field. They will be distinguished by special "NC" monograms and special honors will be paid them.

From one side of the big stadium will reverberate the notes of the famous song about the "Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech" and from the other will come back just as lustily the "Hark the Sound" of Tar Heelia.

The old boys vying with the young to see who can yell the loudest in support of their team, rival bands vying to see who can play the loudest and the longest, cheering sections each trying to out-yell the other, and last but not least, two big husky teams matching odds on the gridiron will give color aplenty to the big game.

PROF. KOCH GIVES TALK IN CHAPEL

Advises Freshmen To Continue to Be a Freshman Always.

"Always be a Freshman," was the advice of Professor Frederick K. Koch to the Freshmen in a chapel talk Tuesday morning. "I hope you will continue to be freshmen as long as you live, and will keep that fresh attitude of looking on life. Never become an old man. Never become stale, for who wants to become stale? "The greatest thing in life is keeping up the illusion. Living it. Loving it. That is being a freshman constantly." As a part of this talk on the theatre, Mr. Koch said. "Those of you who come now, don't have the experiences we had. You have only the movie. But thank God for the movie, for if you didn't have that you would have nothing.

"There is now a revival of the theatre; more and more the road shows are coming to town; more and more the colleges and schools are taking up drama. The group that we have here is unique. The Carolina Playmakers in the ten years it has been working has acquired national fame. Some of its accomplishments are: two volumes of plays, the first of which has had three editions; the second, two. It has placed before the nation and the theatre the drama of the Carolinas."

In closing Professor Koch said that the Playmakers extends an invitation to all. It has no fixed organization; and tryouts are held for every production; and everyone is invited to tryout for the plays which the Playmakers will present.

Number of House Parties Planned For Coming Week

Due to the large number of alumni expected for the Georgia Tech game here Saturday, several of the fraternities are planning entertainments for the week end. Some of the fraternities had arranged to give dances, but they were called off on account of the dances being held in Durham.

The Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity is to present quite an elaborate affair in the form of an entertainment for the pledges and the visiting members of the fraternity from Georgia Tech. The Delta Kappa Epsilon and the Sigma Delta fraternities will also entertain their members and a few visitors. A number of other fraternities are planning socials, but definite plans for them have not yet been made.

A very large number of girls and fraternity alumni are expected here, and the entertainments should prove great successes.

Barrere Little Symphony Orchestra Is Well Received

The Barrere Little Symphony Orchestra, which appeared in concert here last night in Memorial Hall at 8:30 p. m. lived up to its reputation as being the finest small orchestra in the world. There was no question as to its ability, and there was no doubt left in the minds of those present as to the excellent quality of their performance. Each artist is a recognized virtuoso, and Barrere himself was wonderful beyond words. His name which he has made for himself of being the world's greatest flutist fits him well. His excellent technique, and the remarkable facility with which he played even the most difficult numbers marked him as master of his art.

The Chanson Triste by Tschaiowsky and Troika by the same composer proved to be the most popular of the numbers rendered, and the harmonic effects and tonal colorings presented in the other numbers were highly appreciated by the audience.

About 200 people were present at the performance. It was held under the auspices of the University of North Carolina music department, of which Professor Paul John Weaver is the head.

O. Max Gardner To Attend Monogram Club Reunion Here Saturday

There will be a meeting of the Oak Ridge Club tonight at 7:15 in Gerrard hall.

Send the TAR HEEL home.

Georgia Tech Game To Start at 2:30

Because of the numerous requests received, the Georgia Tech-North Carolina game here Saturday is to be played at 2:30 instead of 3 o'clock, as previously advertised, it was announced tonight by Graduate Manager Charles T. Woolen.

The change in time was made in order to enable those coming from a distance to get well on the way home before darkness.

Announcement of the change was made yesterday in letters sent to all in whose names reservations have been made.
