PLAYMAKERS COME INTO GREAT NATIONAL PROMINENCE

KOCH PRESENTS DIFFICULT PLAY THIS WEEK END

Reservations for the "Enemy of the People" Made at Sutton's and the Box Office.

The first performance of the 1928-29 season to be made by the Playmakers will be Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People" Friday and Saturday nights.

The production of this play is a decided departure for the local theatrical unit, as they have preferred to stage less difficult productions heretofore. The direction has rested in the hands of three persons, and a very finished and studied effect is expected.

The cast is headed by H. T. McCone, an amateur actor of considerable experience, he having appeared in productions at Swarthmore College and Leland Stanford University.

575 Season Tickets

Through an error on the part of the printer in filling the Playmakers' order for season tickets, only 575 were printed instead of the requisition of 600. Turning the mistake to good use, the group announces that these extra seats will be used for complimentary visitors.

The theatre seats only six hundred and ninety for both nights that the plays will be presented. Only a few seats will be sold at the single admission price of one dollar, the rest being reserved for the Playmakers' organization. All the season tickets have been sold.

Reservations Same

Following the custom of former years Sutton's Drug Store and the box office of the theatre will be used for reserving seats at the performances of "An Enemy of the People."

Beginning tomorrow morning the two places will be prepared to punch the season passes in exchange for reserved seats, and to sell the few single admissions that are available. Hubert Heffner, associate director, urges all who will attend the performances to secure their reservation on this day if they wish to have any choice as to the position in the house they will sit.

The play will commence at eight-thirty as usual with Playmaker bills, and in this instance will continue through eleven o'clock.

HUGE PEP SHOW PRECEDES TECH CAROLINA CLASH

Dr. Connor and Prof. Graham Enthuse Assembled Students Into Fighting Mood.

The pep show Friday night was a roaring success. It was on the eve of the now historical Tech game, and the atmosphere was tense with excitement. Syncopated strains of music from the University Band livened the crowd as it entered Memorial Hall.

Inside there were two jazz orchestras alternately serving up music. A friendly rivalry appeared to exist between the two organizations. Each tried to out-play, out-blow, and out-shake the other. Feet shuffled, shoulders rocked, and even the walls of the hall seemed to sway.

Chandler Peps Up

Then Bill Chandler bounced and slid upon the stage, shouting and clapping his hands. The team had arrived. The band boomed out "Hark the Sound." The crowd cheered, rose to its feet, and drowned out the music with a deafening roar.

The roar gradually ceased. "Chuck Collins! Come up here and tell us something!" shouted the cheerleader. The coach went. After quieting the applause he gave a short talk. The theme of his talk was optimism but not confidence. Georgia Tech's Tornado was going to be calmed by a scrappy team.

Connor and Graham Speak

Other speeches and some odd entertainments held the interest of the audience. Dr. Connor gave an appeal for funds with which to buy uniforms for the band. Professor Graham endorsed Dr. Connor's remarks and gave a brief but forceful talk on football. The crowd had a holiday spirit.

"Job's Kinfolks" On Vitaphone Program

One of the important plays on the Northern Tour Bill of the Playmakers is "Job's Kinfolks" by Lorretto Carroll Bailey, a sophomore student in the Extension Department. The poignant depth of the play marks it as one of the best ever produced here. The Vitaphone production of it will be viewed by millions of people throughout the United States and Canada.

Democrats To Meet

The Democratic Club will meet tonight in Gerrard Hall at nine o'clock. This is an important meeting and both new and old members are urged to be present.

W. O. Saunders, editor of the Elizabeth City Independent will speak under the auspices of the club Thursday night in Gerrard Hall at 7 p. m. it was announced yesterday.

GIRLS COME TO GLADDEN HEARTS OF FRATERNITIES

Greeks Give House Parties for Feminine Visitors to Georgia Tech Game.

The last week-end was probably the most enjoyed one that has occurred this year. The fact that Carolina was to play Georgia Tech on the home field was enough to guarantee a week-end far out of the ordinary, but when the news came that two dances were to be held in Durham on successive nights, an enjoyable time was more than assured.

To a stranger who would chance to pass fraternity court, he would have at once thought that it was a group of sorority houses with a group of boys visiting, so great was the number of girl visitors at the various houses. There were at least twenty thousand people at the game and a good percentage of these were girls. Besides adding color to the crowd at the game, they enlivened a bit the drab lives of the residents of the fraternities. Several of the fraternities gave delightful house parties, and all of them had open houses for visiting members and guests.

On Friday night a dance was held in Durham at the Washington Duke hotel. The crowd was so large that two ballrooms and two orchestras were necessary to accommodate them. The music was especially good and the dance was a great success. Another one was held at the same hotel on Saturday night. This dance had to be necessarily cut short, but was not lacking in any of the things which go to make a good dance.

P. J. WEAVER JUDGE AT KNOXVILLE MUSIC MEET

Professor Paul John Weaver, head of the University of North Carolina music department, has just returned from the annual meeting of the Eastern Tennessee State Teachers' Association which met in Knoxville last week end.

At the meeting Professor Weaver gave a lecture on "The Cultivation of Discrimination in Music." He was also judge of the contest between a group of state High School Glee Clubs which sang at the conference. Knoxville High was awarded first place.

Two Seniors Are Injured on Ride

Helms and Clifford Jones Receive Lacerations and Possible Fractures.

Two seniors at the University who had caught a ride to Durham immediately following the game Saturday were victims of a wreck which followed immediately after they had caught the ride. Frank Helms, student from Monroe, suffered a severe laceration of the forehead, and Clifford Jones, 20, student from Greenville, S. C., suffered a possible fractured skull and severe laceration of the scalp.

According to Jones, the man who had picked them up was driving recklessly down Stroud Hill, and passing up a long stream of motorists when he suddenly veered into a ditch. When the driver lost control, the car ran into a stone fence, shattering the windshield and cutting the three occupants of the car. The driver, whose name was not recorded, suffered a broken nose. The three were rushed to the Chapel Hill infirmary where their injuries were treated.

Gaston County Meets First Time This Fall

Gaston County Club will meet in one of the social rooms of the "Y" Thursday at 10:00 p. m. New members will be initiated at this meeting. President Froneberger urges that all Freshmen from Gaston County and all other students from that County attend this meeting. The purpose of this organization is to encourage social contact between the students of the Gaston area.

The Tar Heel Enters Its Thirty-Seventh Year of Varied and Colorful Existence

Encountered Stiff Opposition from Faculty in Early Days of Publication; Present Form Dates from 1925 When It Became Tri-weekly.

For half a century the Carolina Magazine was the only student publication on the campus. Aside from its function as a literary organ it was burdened with the general news of the campus. In 1891, however, there appeared the Chapel Hillian a weekly newspaper that relieved the magazine of its news. But due to opposition by the faculty combined with bad management the Chapel Hillian soon succumbed. The magazine had for a long time urged the establishment of a student newspaper.

In February of 1893 the "Tar Heel" made its first appearance. It was a four column, four page weekly issued by the Athletic Association. It was printed on cheap paper and contained no headlines. There were no advertisements in the first issue, but in the second six ads appeared; one was on the front page advertising De B. Whitaker, engraving and fancy stationery. The paper had much looseness in management and very little regularity in publication.

After a year of fair success a rival publication appeared called The Blue and White. It was a weekly news-

TWO INJURED IN CRASH SATURDAY

John Mills University Employee And Five Persons Hurt Here.

Two people were severely injured, narrowly escaping death, and four others were badly shaken in a three-automobile accident on the Chapel Hill-Durham highway about four miles from Chapel Hill early Saturday evening.

The injured are: John W. Mills, 25, employee of the University, five stitches in the forehead and lacerated scalp and face; Mrs. P. M. Mills, 51, lacerated forehead. Dr. N. M. Gibbs, driver of one car, New Bern, badly shaken; C. B. Ferris, G. A. Barden, and J. F. Pugh, all of New Bern, badly shaken.

Dr. Gibbs Gives Aid
Dr. Gibbs administered first aid to the injured couple and then rushed them to the University infirmary where six stitches were taken in Mill's forehead. Save for a few minor bruises and shocks, Mrs. Mills was uninjured.

The hit-and-run motorists sped on his way at a high rate of speed, witnesses said. A passing motorist gave chase and overtook the roadster in Durham. Police were called and took the alleged driver, Joseph Goodman, Jr., Greensboro, into custody. Goodman denied to police that he had been in any accident and was released when calls to the Chapel Hill police divulged that he was not wanted.

The Tar Heel's New Dress

Today we present the Tar Heel in its latest evolution. The progress of the paper from a little sheet issued irregularly by the athletic association to the present, tri-weekly considered by critics to be one of the best in the south has been one of constant growth.

The use of headlines began as early as 1860, but they were never used in the modern sense until the events of the Spanish American War and the advent of modern journalism and its thrill seeking brought into importance the use of 'heads,' as story tellers. They reached their screeching height during the World War when The Chicago Tribune ran streamers measuring about two and five-sixths inches in height.

This paper is interested in presenting attractive modern "make-up" to aid its readers in the assimilation of its news, and in its slightly changed appearance is pleased to follow the splendid leadership of the very good commercial dailies of the state.

Woofter To Survey

Proposes to Find Where Students' Money Goes.

To determine where a student's money goes when he spends it, a questionnaire will be available for students to fill out next week. Dr. T. J. Woofter, professor of Social Statistics, is in charge of the survey.

That, as Dr. Woofter sees it, is the state of affairs at present. The questionnaire, if answered honestly by all students, will give a key to expenditures. If your car is too expensive for you, or if your amusements cost more than your eats, you will be able to find it out and rearrange your budget. The plan is expected to prove of benefit to everyone. Questionnaires will be distributed and the boxes ready to receive them beginning next Monday.

JUDGE SPEAKS BEFORE NORTH CAROLINA CLUB

Judge Robert W. Winston, Judge of the Superior Court, addressed the North Carolina Club last night in 112 Saunders. He spoke with fervor on the subject of "The Quality of North Carolina Citizenship."

The central theme of the club research this year is "Country Life in North Carolina." At the first meeting this fall Professor S. H. Hobbs laid the foundation for club work by outlining North Carolina's advantageous geographical location.

The North Carolina Club has invited students from each of the ninety-eight counties represented on the campus to represent this county at the meetings of the North Carolina Club. A large number were represented at the meeting yesterday evening. This membership, however, will not be limited to single county representatives, and both students from other states and the faculty have been urged to join.

GERMAN CLUB FEES SAME AS LAST YEAR

The German Club will follow the same financial plan as was used last year. The initiation fee will be ten dollars, the yearly dues twelve dollars, and the fee for each set of dances three dollars. The club now has about forty vacancies and the new members will be voted on. Anyone wishing to join the club will please mail a ten dollar check (initiation fee) to W. L. Marshall, Jr., Secretary and Treasurer, Sigma Nu House. If he is admitted he will be notified, if not the money will be refunded.

The Sigma Chi fraternity announces the pledging of Steve Lynch, freshman of Asheville.

Films Would Be Released All Over Continent and Possibly England; Hookup With 48 States.

MAY MAKE COAST TO COAST TOUR DURING THE SUMMER

Decision Rests With Playmaker Board of Incorporation and University Authorities.

Continuing their forward progress of the past ten years, the Playmakers have at last marched into great national prominence. Hubert Heffner, Associate director and business manager of the group, has been approached by Vitaphone Reproducing Company which proposes that the bill of three plays that will be played in New York City be filmed and recorded to be released all over the United States and Canada, with the possibility of prints of it being sold in Great Britain.

Whether they will act for the Vitaphone Company depends only upon whether there will be enough free time on their tour.

To Broadcast Nov. 25
In addition to this ambitious undertaking the organization has agreed to broadcast over the National Broadcasting hookup of forty-two stations on November 25.

The Playmakers have been the most important advertising force connected with the University of North Carolina for years. They have long been known internationally among artists of the theatre, but until this fall they have never had as sweeping popular recognition as they are receiving.

May Tour Nation
Also bidding for their services are the two largest agencies in New York City, booking entertainments, lectures, and shows in continental tours who have applied to Professor Frederick Koch, director of the organization, for the right to present the Carolina Playmakers in a coast to coast tour performing a bill of their strongest plays.

Although the proposition has not been brought before the Playmaker Board of Incorporation or the University authorities, Prof. Koch and Hubert Heffner have taken the matter under serious consideration.

The booking companies have tentatively offered to pay all the expenses of the tour as well as each

GRAIL IN ANOTHER FALL DANCE SOON

Carolina Buccaneers Have Arranged Special Program for November 10.

The Order of the Grail will give its second dance of this year on Saturday evening, November 10th, following the South Carolina football game here. The dance will be held in Bynum Gymnasium, and will begin promptly at 9 o'clock.

The Carolina Buccaneers, who have a long list of successfully filled engagements to their credit, will again be the source of that rhythm to which the dancers so gracefully keep step. They have arranged a special program for the dance. The lighting in the gymnasium will be especially good. The lights will all be colored and their brilliance will depend on the type of music that is being played.

The largest group of girls that has ever attended a Grail dance will probably be present. The football game in the afternoon will be the drawing card for most of them, and they will remain over for the dance that night. According to members of the Order, girls from all over the state have already signified their intentions of being at the dance. The dance, as usual, will close at midnight.

The Grail has only one other dance booked for this fall. It will hold that on the evening of the Duke game, which is to be played here Saturday, December 8.
