

U.N.C. Enters World Student Organization

N. S. A. A., of Which Carolina Is Member Voted Into Confederation des Etudiants.

The National Student Association of America, of which the University of North Carolina is a member, has been admitted into a world wide organization known as the Confederation des Etudiants with international headquarters at Brussels, Belgium.

The Confederation des Etudiants was formed after the World War with the intention of furthering permanent peace. The work of the organization has been advanced by annual conventions held once yearly in one of the college centers of a member country. This last year the convention was held at Paris. The Confederation also interests itself in publications, international debating, and inter-collegiate athletics.

In addition to the United States, twenty-six European countries, South Africa, New Zealand, Hongkong of China, and Uruguay, are also members.

Princeton Organized N. S. A. A. Princeton University was the first university in the United States to be interested in the movement, and in 1926 organized the National Students' Association of America. Since then Princeton has been instrumental in bringing to this country each year a debate team from either Oxford or Cambridge for a six weeks tour of the most important colleges.

This year two teams from the British Isles and one from the University of Sidney, Australia will tour different sections of the United States. The team of three British women that will debate the pick of Carolina's forensic champions in Memorial Hall next Monday night will tour only the Southern and Central states, while their brothers from the University of Oxford will cover the Northern and Eastern route. The debaters from "down under" have signed a contract to stump the West. Last week they debated the University of Hawaii and are debating California students this week.

U. S. Team in 1930 Next year will see not only a repetition of these same invasions but others made by the champions of Canadian colleges, and English speaking teams from Holland, South Africa, and Germany. In the fall of 1930 a championship team representative of the colleges in the United States will be sent to the British Isles for a four weeks tour.

In an effort to produce world mindedness the National Students' Association sent one hundred elected students to tour Europe last summer. The fortunate students spent the entire vacation traveling in the twenty-six countries of the Confederation. The one hundred were divided into eight groups which visited different sections of the continent.

As a return gesture students were sent to the United States last July from Czechoslovakia, South Africa, Sweden, and England.

Mr. McKie expresses the hope that this movement will bring formal speaking back into favor. The newspapers, the appeal of radio, and the great multiplication of pleasures, has caused the decline of debating within the past fifteen years. Putting the interest in an international plan is bound to create interest.

Local Orchestra Plays Over Radio

Last Monday evening from 5 to 6 o'clock Jack Wardlaw's University of North Carolina Orchestra furnished the listeners-in on radio station WPTF at Raleigh with an hour's entertainment of snappy musical numbers. The group was called upon for several request numbers, the most popular being "Lilac Time."

Last night the orchestra went to Greensboro to play at a country club dance. The group has played at the co-ed dances this fall and also at the Smith Building reception last Friday.

Movies

A notable picture comes to the Carolina for a showing today and tomorrow, when "The Woman Disputed" with Norma Talmadge is presented. Once again this great actress brings a stage success to the screen. As a play, it had a sensational triumph in New York as well as in two of the great capitals of Europe.

Five months were spent making "The Woman Disputed." Innumerable details of casting, production, settings, locations and lighting were gone into before a camera crank turned. Miss Talmadge's policy of "shooting" a picture in its written sequence was strictly adhered to. The training of men for the military and battle episodes was a tremendous task. The building of massive, impressive sets took weeks of planning and then construction.

The fascinating background of Austria as it was before the world war, gay, seductive and luxurious, an Austria that will never be again, all this Henry King, the director, brought to this production. An interesting innovation was the elimination of Kleig lights. Incandescent lighting, which gives a softer and much more natural effect on the screen was employed exclusively.

Norma Talmadge, star of this important picture, has been acclaimed by many noted movie critics as the greatest emotional actress on the screen. What is she like? Those who have seen her have mentioned her youth and beauty. But nobody can say what she is exactly like. She is tall, she is small, she is a child, she is a woman. She is delicate and nervous. And, as a sensitive artist, she is always what her part demands. As Mary Ann Wagner in "The Woman Disputed," she brings a new character and a new problem to the screen. It is a character stronger than she has ever played and a picture sensational and powerful in the plot it represents.

WHO'S WHO LIST HAS 49 HILL MEN

University Triples Other Southern College Lists; Raleigh Close Second in State.

In the number of famous men listed in the 1929 edition of Who's Who in America Chapel Hill ranks first in North Carolina in respect to the number of men mentioned from this state with forty-nine men listed; Raleigh second with forty-eight men; Asheville third with thirty-three; Durham fourth with thirty; and Greensboro fifth with twenty-eight.

Another interesting feature of this book is the rating of the faculty of the University of North Carolina with that of the faculties of other southern universities. Carolina has over three times as many men listed in Who's Who as any other college or university in the southern states. Carolina has forty-nine men, the University of South Carolina, fourteen, the University of Alabama has eleven, and the University of Virginia and the University of Florida have ten each. The Naval Institute at Annapolis has only eight men listed. These facts show that the University of North Carolina has the best faculty in the South.

Those of Chapel Hill are: James M. Bell, Eugene C. Branson, Gustave M. Braune, Frank K. Cameron, Dudley D. Carrol, Harry W. Chase, Collier Cobb, Oscar J. Coffin, Robert E. Coker, William C. Coker, Robert D. W. Connor, P. H. Daggett, Norman Forester, M. B. Garrétt, Louis Graves, E. R. Groves, J. G. de Roulhac Hamilton, A. Henderson, Addison Hibbard, George Howe, E. V. Howell, Moward M. The Doshisha University of Kyoto, Japan, will send a team to the islands to appear against the University of Hawaii in April, 1929, while the latter will go on an extensive tour of the orient this next summer under the auspices of the Pan-Pacific Union.

Di Senate for Full Publicity to Be Given To Graham Work

He suggested that the Tar Heel publish a feature story about the proposition. The senator was of the opinion that a full understanding of the proposition on the part of the student body is preliminary to any action on the project.

Bledsoe Urges Publicity "This discussion so far has been very edifying. Anyone wishing to put the project over should go back and get all of the facts," stated Senator Bledsoe. He urged that some member of the senate, preferably the Senator who introduced the bill, take it upon himself to investigate.

Yackety Yack To Be New Improved Book

(Continued from page one) published. The views, the opening sections, and the border designs have already been selected. Wootten-Moulton Studios are again doing the photography and their work this year is excellent.

Students Must Co-operate The only thing now that will keep the book from being a success is the failure of the students to cooperate. The dead line for all pictures of the Seniors, Juniors, fraternity members and pledges, and other individual photos is December 10. No individual pictures will be taken after that time. This ruling makes possible the appearance of the Yackety Yack on its scheduled date. The fee of 50 cents is paid at the appointment desk at Sutton's drug store. One dollar for photography fee must be paid when the picture is taken. The Junior and Senior space fee is collected.
