COLLEGIATE PRESS DELEGATES HOLD 16TH CONVENTION

Walter Spearman Presides over Three-Day Session at Davidson and Queens.

The sixteenth semi-annual convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association closed a successful three day session at Davidson Saturday. Davidson College and Queens College entertained the delegates jointly. There were one hundred and two delegates from sixteen colleges, including the editors and business managers of the college papers, magazines and annuals.

Charles Pratt and Aubrey Brown of Davidson and Jean Craig of Queens made up the program committee.

Registration began on Thursday, November 6, at 3 p. m. At five the delegates attended receptions in their honor at the Davidson fraternity houses. At eight a banquet was held in the Maxwell-Chambers hotel at which Dr. J. W. Daniels of Clemson was the speaker. The first day closed with a theater party.

At the business session Friday morning Dr. Frazer Hood, head of the Davidson Psychology Department delivered the address. Upon adjourning the group journeyed to Charlotte and attended a luncheon at the Meyers Park Club, complimentary of Queen City Printing Company. In the afternoon Hugh Merrill of the Queen City Printing Company, addressed the Convention at Queens College. Tea was served at the college, followed by a theater party at the Carolina Theater, Charlotte.

At 7:30 there was a dinner dance at Hotel Charlotte by the compliments of the Observer Printing House. Walter Spearman was toastmaster, and Clarence Kuester, director of the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the visitors to the city.

At the general business session Saturday morning at Davidson, Lee Weathers, president of the North Carolina Press Association, made an address. Discussion groups for each class of editors and a group for all the managing editors were formed.

The delegates from the Hill were Walter Spearman of the Tar Heel; Robert Hovis of the Yackety Yack, Bill Perry, Garland McPherson, and Emmet Wilson of the Buccaneer, and John Marshall and Joseph Mitchell of the Magazine.

The next meeting of the N. C. C. P. A. will be held in April at Greensboro College at which time officers will be elected. The present officers are Walter Spearman, University of North Carolina, president; Miss Katie Gravelly, N. C. C. W., first vice-president; Charles Pratt, Davidson College, second vice-president; Miss Alice Dowd, Meredith College, secretary, and A. S. Parker, Guilford College, treasurer.

Track Star Injured In Fall Over Ties

Howard Cox, 23, senior in the University, from Erwin, Tennessee, stellar cross-country runner, suffered a split right knee cap when he stumbled and fell over the railroad tracks in front of the entrance to Emerson field late Friday afternoon. Cox and Barkley were finishing a five mile training jaunt when in jumping over the tracks Cox's leg slipped from under him, striking his knee on a sharp rock.

The injured runner was rushed to the field house at Kenan Stadium where four stitches were taken in the injured knee cap. Cox was one of the mainstays of the team which lost three of its stars by graduation last year. He finished third in the V. P. I. meet and tied for first place in the State College meet. He was being pointed for the Duke meet Saturday and his absence leaves an immense gap to be filled by Coach Dale Ranson.

Yackety Yack Proofs Must Be Returned

The Yackety Yack urgently requests that all men who have not as yet returned photograph proofs to Wooten-Moulton do so at once. No pictures can be completed until proofs are approved and the editor has requested the co-operation of the students.

North Carolina Collegiate Press Association Delegates

Above are pictured the one hundred and two delegates from sixteen North Carolina colleges who attended the sixteenth semi-annual convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association held at Davidson College last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The Association was entertained jointly by Queens College and Davidson College. The next meeting will be held at Greensboro College in April.

Campus Agog As Hoover-Smith Forces Go to Polls Today In Death Struggle

Political Knell of One of Candidates Will Be Sounded.

CAMPUS FOR SMITH

Womenfolk Seem to Be Passive; Candidates Lack Sex Appeal.

Voters of both parties will be able to vote in the national election from twenty minutes after six o'clock this morning until the sun sets at one minute after five o'clock tonight. The polls are in the high school building on Franklin street. Registrar Robertson urges all those who are registered to vote early as the polls will close promptly at the scheduled time. In order to avoid the rush he urges that those who can, do their voting in the morning.

Both Democratic and Republican leaders are hard at work today lining up their workers for the local contest.

Today the keepers of the house do tremble. The last bets are being placed, and odds are scarce. The campus is more agog than any time since the last Dempsey-Tunney fight. Wrangles in the dormitories become more numerous, and arguments in the frat houses grow hotter. It is well that the end is near. We are becoming politics drunk. Our eyes are growing blinded to all things save brown derbies and double chins.

Bets are heavy, and they give Hoover the advantage. One finds about as many men openly backing Hoover with full confidence as there are backing Smith. The majority would like to believe in a Smith victory, but common sense and hard facts are beginning to sap the majority's confidence. Hoover was as forthcoming as Smith money last night. Smith money is probably harder to find today. The staunch Democrats are beginning to have misgivings, as the anti-Smith men grow jubilant. This trend is unmistakable.

The campus womenfolk seem rather passive about the affair. It must be admitted that neither of the candidates has so much as a plugged dime's worth of sex appeal. The feminist element is not taxing its brain and nervous system over the contest. It is understood, however, that Mrs. Smith lost co-ed votes for her husband when she told Queen Mary of England that she was "doggone right" about so and so.

Tonight the long watch will drag along hour by hour, and by this time tomorrow everyone will have accepted for better or for worse the results by word of radio.

Bradshaw Conducts College Discussion

Dean Francis F. Bradshaw led an open forum discussion of the subject "Who Should Attend College" at a meeting held in Richmond Friday, October 27. The meeting was held under the auspices of The Southern Women's Educational Alliance and the University Club of Richmond, and was called for the purpose of discussing college entrance requirements.

Although the group came to no formal conclusions on the subject, the discussion acquainted the representatives of the various colleges who attended with the higher requirements that are being made now.

Tar Heel Staff Will Meet Tonight at 9:00

There will be an important meeting of the Tar Heel staff at nine o'clock tonight in the Tar Heel office, it was announced yesterday by Editor Walter Spearman. Many changes will be made on the staff and new beats assigned. According to Spearman, every man who expects to remain on the Tar Heel must be present at this meeting.

MANY LEADERS TO BE HERE IN EDUCATION MEET

Two Governors, Thirty College Presidents, and Many Others Plan to Attend Southern Education Conference.

Two governors, thirty college presidents, and ten superintendents of public instruction are among a large number of men and women interested in public affairs throughout the South who already have accepted invitations to attend the Southern Conference on Education to be held at the University of North Carolina on November 15, 16 and 17.

The Conference, which is being planned as the first of an annual series of such meetings, is designed to bring together not only people engaged in the technical work of education but also men and women interested in public affairs throughout the South.

More than a hundred reservations already have been made, and with the Conference about two weeks off, the attendance likely to run well over 150.

The tentative program, announced today for the first time, shows an imposing array of speakers and discussion leaders.

The Conference will open Thursday night, November 15, with a banquet, at which Dr. Harry W. Chase, president of the University of North Carolina, and Dr. Douglas S. Freeman, editor of the Richmond, Va., News Leader, will be the principal speakers. Dr. Chase will speak on "The Southern States and National Standards of Education," and Dr. Freeman's subject will be "Public Education and the Public Press."

At the second day's session, over which President Henry Louis Smith, of Washington and Lee, will preside, President Lotus D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota will speak on "The Relation of Higher Education to the System of Public Instruction," and Frank D. Boyton, Superintendent of Schools, Ithaca, N. Y., and President of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, will speak on "The Responsibilities and Opportunities of the American College." A discussion led by Superintendent T. Wingate Andrews, of High Point, will follow. This will comprise the morning program.

BOARD SELECTS EHRHART AS NEW MANAGING EDITOR

Newly Created Position Is Heralded as First Step Toward a Campus Daily.

George Ehrhart, of Jackson, was selected for the newly-created position of full time managing editor of the Tar Heel by the Publications Union Board last night. He will assume the managing editorial duties with the next issue.

A series of try-outs for the place were held during the past two weeks. Ehrhart and J. E. Dungan, of South Dakota, the two applicants for the position, each had charge of the issues of the Tar Heel for one week.

The new managing editor will have complete charge of copy reading and head writing for all issues of the Tar Heel. He will devote a large portion of his time to his duties with the publication.

Creation of the new full-time managing editor's position is heralded as the first step toward the establishment of a daily students newspaper here. The standards of the publication are expected to be considerably raised as a result of the action.

Glenn Holder and John Mebane, former managing editors of the Tuesday and Thursday issues, respectively will become assistant editors. Will Yarborough, the other managing editor, becomes sports editor.

Registration Is 2504

The total registration of the University this year is 2504 according to the figures given out at the registrar's office yesterday. There has been quite a bit of discussion and controversy over the exact number here this year.

The Amazons Are Upon Us!

Sign at Gym Stands Guard over Total Inadequacy of Co-ed Costumes as Girl Basketeers Do Their Stuff; "Doc" Lawson Coaches Co-ed Aggregation.

By Margaret Broadus

They've taken the gym, and are besieging the track field,—men guard you the stadium!

It's 7:00 o'clock at the gym and a sign reading "No Men Allowed" guards with cool insolence the approach to that masculine stronghold of old, but them days are gone forever! And within, Dr. Lawson coaches a girl's basketball team, teaching both the old-young and the young-old "girls" how to get athletic and the sign stands guard over the total inadequacy of their costumes—not from a quantitative point of view but from an appreciation of a rough setting for "our pretty co-eds." They frankly admit that it's not because the costumes aren't skirts that men aren't allowed, but that it is because they are so funny looking.

In fact, the order of the day is to make 'em as funny looking as you can. The ladies of Chapel Hill have come to the aid of the maidens, destitute as they are of proper clothing

British Women Debaters Engage University Trio In Sharp Forensic Clash

Dashiell Will Explain Red Head Psychology

The regular meeting of the Red-Head Club tonight at the Parish House at 7:30. This meeting is due to be of exceedingly great interest to the members of the club. The main speech of the evening will be delivered by Dr. Dashiell of the Psychology Department. His topic will be "The Psychology of Red Hair."

GRAIL WILL GIVE DANCE SATURDAY

Second Grail of Season Will Follow South Carolina Game.

The Order of the Grail will give its second dance of the season Saturday night in Bynum Gymnasium. The dance will begin promptly at nine o'clock, several of the girls already assuring the officials of the Order that they will be there at that time.

The music will again be furnished by the Carolina Buccaneers, who have successfully performed in the past, and who have a special program planned for the occasion. The decorations and lights are slated to be exceptionally good. The chaperones at the last Grail dance say that it was the best held, but the officers plan to make this one even better. The South Carolina game will be played on that afternoon and should be a drawing card for a large number of girls.

Stag tickets will be placed on sale in the rear of the gymnasium at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night. Those desiring to buy one are requested to do so as early as possible as there will be only a limited number on sale. After the tickets are sold out, no one will be admitted to the floor unless accompanied by a girl. The Grail plans to reduce the number of persons attending the dances in the future, in order to relieve the congestion that has been prevalent heretofore. Those purchasing tickets must stand in line so that they may purchase them as quickly as possible. All members of the football squad who play in the game Saturday may purchase their tickets at the front door of the gymnasium after the dance begins.

The officers of the Grail state that the rules in force at the previous dances will be enforced Saturday. The regular German club rules as to conduct on the floor will be strictly enforced. In addition to those rules the officers state that no freshmen or spectators will be admitted, and that smoking during the dance will be absolutely prohibited. No girls who leave the dance when it is in progress will be readmitted.

About One Thousand People Heard Debate in Memorial Hall Last Night.

The representatives of the British Debate Union engaged the debaters of the University of North Carolina in forensic combat before 1,000 people Monday night in Memorial Hall. Computation of results of the debate had not been completed at the time the Tar Heel went to press.

The three women from the British Isles, Miss Leonora Lockhart, Miss Nancy Samuel, and Miss Margery M. Sharp debated the affirmative side of the question, resolved: That the disadvantages of co-education outweigh its advantages. The negative side of the proposition was upheld by E. H. Whitley, J. C. Williams and R. M. Albright.

In the staid British style of debating the three women upheld the merits of the co-educational system. They pointed out that the co-educational system prevalent in England today has always been considered an example of success and that in the future co-education will be accepted throughout the world.

The representatives of the British Debate Union have been in the United States five days, competing in that time in two debates. They were declared victors in both of the contests with George Washington University and with Hood College. The itinerary of the British Debaters includes most of the colleges and universities of the Southern and Eastern states.

The combatants in the debate have all seen service on the debating platform. The list of recent speaking trips by the English women include an extensive political tour during a recent campaign.

Two of the young women have starred in dramatics, and one is a contributor to Punch, New Troy, and The Spectator. Miss Nancy Samuel is the daughter of Sir Herbert Samuel, G. C. B., and High Commissioner of Palestine. She is a graduate of Somerville College, Oxford. She was president of the Junior Common room, and of the Somerville Dramatic society.

Miss Margery M. Sharp, A. B., of Bedford College, London University is only twenty three years of age, despite having at various times dropped her education to follow journalism and business. While in college she was secretary of the University Union Society, a member of the Union Committee, an associate editor of New Troy, and the Granta, and her college magazine. Nine years of her early life were spent in Malta.

The third member of the group is the great grand niece of the distinguished son-in-law and biographer of Sir Walter Scott. She won a scholarship to Cambridge where she is a senior in Girton College.

The visitors inspected the Playmakers theatre Monday afternoon an expressed favorable comment on the work being done here in dramatics. Following the inspection tour they were guests at tea given by Mrs. Harry Chase. The three young women expect to remain in Chapel Hill a day or two before continuing their trip South.

RHODES SCHOLARS WILL BE CHOSEN

University Student Will Probably Be Among Two to Be Selected at Duke Dec 8.

The two Rhodes scholars from this region will be chosen at a meeting of the Duke Union at Durham December 8. The Rhodes scholarship committee has recommended five Carolina men: Charles Lipscomb, Walter Spearman, Ed Hudgins, Jack Crowe, and Charles Rouse.

Other colleges in the state are sending in their recommendations. The final decision will not be known until after the December meeting.

Staff Meeting of Yackety Yack Today

There will be a short and important meeting of the entire Yackety Yack staff today at 2 p. m. in the office, according to an announcement by the editor.
