

Battle Of Carolinas In Kenan Field Today

GAMECOCKS AND HEELS HAVE MEN ON INJURED LIST

Birds Expected to Present Flashy Backfield in Zoebel, Beall and Wimberly.

Eleven plumed Gamecocks from the University of South Carolina will strut across Kenan Field this afternoon and show their wares against the crippled Tar Heels.

The Birds have been crippled all this season but now after resting their stars for two weeks, the South Carolinians will present the same team against the Heels that whipped Chicago, trampled Maryland, and ran roughshod over the Cavaliers of Virginia. Those birds will be flying higher this afternoon than they flew against Clemson or the Citadel. Zoebel, the highest flyer of Coach Laval's team, will be back in shape. This boy has been heralded as one of the outstanding backs of the south. He is credited with being able to do anything that a good back should do, and the remarkable thing is that he does them all too well to suit most teams. He is just the type of back that Billy Laval of "Purple Hurricane" fame likes to use. But young Zoebel is not alone, for the Sandpapers have Carlyle, Beall and Wimberly, two backs that fit in perfectly with Laval's offensive style of football. Beall is only a sophomore, but he has seen as much service as has most of the varsity men. For four years he played regular on the Columbia high school team, then he journeyed over to Carlisle school at Bamberg, S. C., and played a while longer. Wimberly has been doing good work this year and is a veteran of the first class.

Coach Collins has been hampered all week on account of the numerous injuries suffered by the Heels. All told there are more than a dozen Carolina players on the injured list. Some of those injured are likely to play today, but indications are that the Tar Heel attack will be slowed up considerably. Howard and Adkins, varsity tackles, were both injured in the Tech game two weeks ago and while both may play for a while this afternoon, indications are that neither will be in shape for service to any extent. Sapp, all-state end last season and one of the mainstays of the Carolina team this year, may also be held out of the game this afternoon. He has been working all this week along with the other cripples, but it is doubtful if Coach Collins will use him. However, the big Winston-Salem boy may be necessary, especially since Presson is out for the remainder of the season with a broken hand and Fenner, sub end, is suffering from an infected foot. Donahoe and Schwartz are both suffering from minor injuries, but both will play today.

Back of the line, the list of casualties is not so heavy, but there are enough injured to cause Coach Collins worry. Harden and Gresham fullbacks, are both out for the time being. The former with a bad knee and the latter with a broken hand Gresham still has his hand in a cast and Harden is being treated for his knee. The remaining three fullbacks, Spaulding, House, and Foard have been scrimmaging. But Foard and House are suffering from shoulder injuries while Spaulding has been troubled with a leg injury. Nash flashy halfback, hurt his ankle Friday in scrimmage, but the Charleston boy will be ready for service this afternoon.

Despite the large number of injured men Coach Collins has been driving the squad hard in preparation for this game.

Long to Preach

Rev. Nat G. Long of Nashville, Tenn., will preach at 11:00 A. M. Sunday in the Methodist church. Mr. Long is visiting the colleges and universities throughout the South, he being the official representative of the educational interests of his church. The speaker has a wide experience as a student and as a preacher at home and abroad.

Strud Nash

Probably the most outstanding of the sophomore backs is Strudwick Nash of Charleston. The South Carolina boy will face his home state University this afternoon, and he is counted on to bear a good part of the Tar Heel attack.

High Schools Hotly Contesting in State Football Tournament

The high school athletes of the state are hard at it this week end contesting in the closely fought second round of the annual high school football championship tourney. The first division or the Eastern half of the state, will see four districts of evenly matched teams struggling for victories, while the Western division will witness a similar competition. Most of the games are being played on Friday to permit the high and prep school men to attend the games of the colleges on Saturday.

The first division matches this week end are between: Oxford and Roxboro at Oxford; Raleigh and Henderson at Raleigh; Sanford and Hamlet at Fayetteville; and Wilmington and New Bern at New Bern.

The Western schools will meet as follows: Greensboro and Alexander Wilson at Greensboro; Winston-Salem and Leakesville at Winston-Salem; Monroe and Lexington at Lexington; and Hickory and Waynesville at Hickory.

Frosh Work Falls In Education School

Mid-term grades for freshmen in the Education school show some very interesting and important facts. Out of one hundred and twenty-four freshmen registered in the school 85 received unsatisfactory grades on one or more courses, thirty-six passed all their work, and twenty-four were failing all their work. These statistics outwardly show that a large per cent of the freshmen in this department are falling behind, but many of the unsatisfactory grades are "W's", which can normally be pulled up to passing. Some "X's" will too be pulled up to passing no doubt.

Of the twenty-four that passed no work at all only two received as bad as three "X's"; others had two "X's" and one "W." The percentage of courses registered for that were passed was 52.8 per cent.

HEEL HARRIERS WILL MEET DUKE THIS MORNING

Cross Country Team Has Not Suffered Defeat in Six Years.

The University of North Carolina will send two cross country teams abroad this morning which must extend themselves to the limit to win from the much-touted representatives of Duke. Carolina's varsity and freshman runners will race the rival Blue Devils at eleven o'clock over a five mile course, starting and ending on the Duke athletic field.

One of the University's proudest athletic records likely will be seriously threatened when the Carolina harriers face Duke today. The Heels have cut a wide swath through the Dixie field since 1922, and for six years no team has defeated them in a duel meet. However, the team realizes the real task before it today, and enters the race with a determined spirit to win.

Coach Dale Ranson announces the following as the probable seven men to represent Carolina in the varsity cross country meet: Baucom, Barkley, Brown, Fisher, Henderson, Lowry, and Wrenn. In recent workouts, Barkley, Brown, Henderson and Lowry have been showing up best. Fisher, who was one of the best runners on last year's championship team, has rounded back into shape, and will participate in his first meet of the season. He should prove a real asset to the team with his fine fighting spirit. Baucom and Wrenn, who have been more or less on the injured list this year, look like they will be in good shape for an excellent run today, judging from their improvement in the last few days. Coach Ranson feels assured that the whole team is going into the long race today with the idea that it is a real test, and that if possible, they will come through with a victory.

Freshman cross country runners have gone through strenuous workouts recently and seem to be in good condition for their meet with Duke's first year men today. Phoenix, Pierce, and Farris have made the best showing in the early season. The probable team of the freshmen follows: Draper, Farris, Gilchrist, Mason, Phoenix, Pierce, and Pursler. These men were successful in their first and only race this year, defeating State's harriers handily. The Tar Babies face this meet with Duke with a real determination to win from their rivals, and the campus hopes that its confidence in the freshman representatives will be justified by the outcome of Saturday's engagement.

Carolina Man Yells For South Carolina

(News and Observations)

"I'm thinking about going over to Chapel Hill today and yell for the University of South Carolina as an expression of my appreciation for what South Carolina did Tuesday," said "Red" West. "I'm just finding out what a good State it is, and I hereby retract all the cracks I've taken at it in the past."

Soph Field General

Pete Wyrick, another of the fast moving sophomore backs playing on the varsity this year, has become regular quarterback on the Tar Heel eleven. At the beginning of the season he lacked experience to fill the position, but in the past games he has shown a great ability as a field general.

Bay State Votes on Sunday Baseball Bill

Sunday baseball in Massachusetts was a strong probability Tuesday when returns from slightly more than half the state showed the vote on the referendum had been in favor of Sunday sports.

Returns from 846 precincts out of the state's 1,605 were 385,389 for the measure and 224,376 against it. This vote included a majority of the precincts in the city of Boston.

Meredith Freshmen Give Howell's Play

"The Mouse Trap," a play written by William Dean Howells, was successfully presented at Meredith College recently by members of the freshman class under the auspices of the Little Theatre Dramatic Club. The audience was small but appreciative and the play was well given.

Miss Tucie Phelps, as Mrs. Somers, the heroine, showed considerable talent. Miss Winnie Wilburn as Mrs. Roberts gave a very good interpretation of her part. The remainder of the cast was as follows: Miss Augusta Haywood as Mr. Cambell, Miss Lucy Meredith as Mrs. Curven, Miss Lillian Aldridge as Mrs. Bemis, Miss Elizabeth Thornton as Mrs. Miller and Miss Dorothy Lindsay as Jane. All of these supported Miss Phelps with ability.

Large Senior Class at N.C.C.W. This Year

N. C. C. W. November 7.—Present indications, shown from figures in the office of the registrar, point to the conclusion that North Carolina college in June will send out the largest graduating class in the 36 years history of the institution. At present the class of 1929 numbers exactly 299.

Graduates in recent years were in numbers as follows: Class of 1923, 125; class of 1924, 141; class of 1925, 194; class of 1926, 259; class of 1927, 266; class of 1928, 275.

Carolina To Give Birthday Passes

Beginning Monday the Carolina Theatre will revive a custom originated last year by sending out complimentary passes to boys in the University on the occasion of their birthdays.

A list of all those whose birthdays occurs during the school year has been made out, and passes will be sent to them when the red letter day comes around. More than fifteen hundred will be remembered in this fashion.

To Meet Unusual Election Wager

Winston-Salem, Nov 7.—Payment of election wagers is in order. Robert R. Kinney, city tax collector, will head the procession. He was an enthusiastic Smith supporter and backed up his belief with a wager that if the Democratic candidate was not elected he, Kinney, would roll a wheelbarrow around the Court House square. In the wheelbarrow are to be three Negro babies.

In these days, though a candidate speak with the tongues of men and of angels and have no radio hook-up, he doesn't get anywhere.
