WILDCATS READY FOR COLLINSMEN

Outcome of State-Cat Game Last Saturday Has Thrown Fear Into Other State Coaches; Collins To Start Game With Best Men on Squad.

All doubt as to the starting lineup for Carolina against Davidson this afternoon was dispelled when Coach Collins said that he was sending the best men on the squad against the Cats. There was considerable fear shown by Carolina supporters lest the Heels fail to take the Davidson contest as seriously as they should and suffer like State did last Saturday. But Thursday Coach Collins sent his first varsity through a session of defensive work against Davidson plays.

The game, if the precedent established during the past contests between the two institutions is followed will be a colorful affair. Only once in the past has the score of a Cat-Heel contest been one sided and that was last year when the Heels celebrated by winning the first game played in the Stadium by a four touchdown margin. However, all past games between the two teams have been close with the Heels holding an edge in the series to date. But past games mean little when the two teams meet.

That the Cats will be primed for this game is shown by the fact that last Saturday they held State College's Wolfpack to a one touchdown victory and State was lucky to get that. Coach Monk Younger has been handicapped this year by injuries. In fact at one time it appeared that the Davidson coach would do well if he had eleven men in good condition for a game. But most of the injured have recovered and will be ready for service this afternoon.

PROBABLE LINE-UP
Carolina	Davidson
Sapp	Brock
Koenig	L. E. Archie or Baker (C)
Farris	L. T. Harper
Schwartz (C)	L. G. McConnell
Eskew	C. Smith
Howard	R. G. Leftwich
Holt	R. T. David
Wyrick	R. E. Kell
Ward	Q. B. Brohard
Nash	L. H. Flynn
Spaulding	R. H. Fraley
	F. B.

In the State contest last Saturday, McConnell, Brock, and Flynn did great work. In fact their work aided Davidson materially in holding the powerful Wolfpack to two touchdowns. McConnell, center, proved unusually adept at diagnosing plays and breaking up State's passes. Brock, one of the most brilliant ends ever to play under Coach Younger, played a great game and he consistently smeared State's plays before they got under way besides breaking up Warren's tosses on more than one occasion. Flashing the best form of any Cat back this season, Flynn proved a constant menace to Coach Tebell's red jerseyed players and during the closing minutes of the game pulled off a 55 yard run for a touchdown only to have it counted for naught when the referee ruled that the whistle had blown.

However, Coach Collins will be able to match these stars with a few who will wear the Carolina jerseys. Among these, Harry Schwartz, captain of the Carolina eleven, will probably be the most outstanding. The Charlotte boy will be playing before a home crowd for the last time and despite his injured hand will likely show the Charlotte spectators that he has lost none of his old ability as a great defensive player. Odell Sapp, Winston-Salem boy, will likely be anxious to prove that the Tobacco city still leads Charlotte. Anyway he has completely recovered from a leg injury that bothered him somewhat during the last few games and will be at his regular position today. Another Charlotte boy and also Carolina star, Ray Farris, will be in the game today. Farris has proven a consistent kicker and his boots have helped the Heels out of more than one ticklish position. Back of the line, Coach Collins will have Nash, Wyrick, Spaulding and Ward. This quartet has done great

Cat Negro Ready To "Hoodoo" the Invading Tar Heels

Davidson, Nov. 15.—"Awl two gether. Less beat Carolina. Use your stiff arme and fight." Such was the quaint spelling of a glaring sign on the walls of the Davidson College gymnasium, which greeted the Wildcat football players as they began practicing for the Tar Heels this week.

The author of this placard is none other than "Doc" Charlie, noted Negro trainer of the Davidson Wildcats, and who is one of the greatest supporters of the Presbyterian football team. He is also a firm believer in the powers of horseshoes and rabbit feet.

When Carolina played at Davidson two years ago "Doc" Charlie had sewed into the trousers leg of each varsity uniform a rabbit foot. He had also buried horseshoes under each goal. Furthermore, on the day of the game he wore a conspicuous jacket with a vicious-looking Wildcat on the back, and on the front were several dangling rabbit feet, and two or three horseshoes in each pocket. He plans to be attired in this gala array Saturday.

No one has ever been able to convince the Negro trainer it was not the horseshoes and rabbit feet that defeated the Heels 10-0 that year.

work for the Heels this fall and unless something unusual happens will show Davidson some great running. Nash and Wyrick, although just sophomores, are playing great football this year and coupled with Ward and Spaulding, juniors, give the Heels a very diversified attack.

Spaulding, paired with Phil Jackson, furnished part of the fireworks last season with his passing and receiving of passes. Playing fullback this year, he bids fair to rank as one of the best fullbacks in the state this year. The big Pennsylvania boy has showed up better at his new position than he did at his old half back post, and it seems that the change was a fortunate one. Ward has been handicapped with injuries most of this season, but has been back in togs for the past two weeks and gives the Heels four excellent first string backs.

Grid Dust from the Grid Pan

Carolina should win today, so should Duke, Georgia Tech, Maryland, V. P. I., Kentucky, Wofford, and Georgia, Florida and Clemson, Vanderbilt, and Tennessee, Furman and South Carolina, and Auburn and Mississippi A. & M. have an even break. Either of the teams may win.

In the first list of teams the winners are picked because of their records so far this season and the records of their opponents. Also the sheer power of the teams are considered in picking the winners. In the second list, the result is a toss up as every team in the list has great potential power, and have shown their ability to play great football. Both Florida and Clemson have great teams, so have Vandy and Tennessee. Furman, South Carolina, Auburn, and Mississippi Aggies have played erratic football this season and thus they are given an even break.

Below is given a complete list of the Tar Heel's selections for today's games:

- Carolina over Davidson
- Wofford over Wake Forest
- V. P. I. over W. & L.

FROSH TO TACKLE MARYLAND BABIES

Reports Out That Young Liners Are Bringing Down One of The Most Powerful Aggregations in Its History.

The powerful freshman proteges of Coaches Belding, Enright, and Pritchard open the home season today at 2:30 o'clock, at Kenan Stadium, when they tackle the strong frosh outfit from the University of Maryland. This will be the third game of the season for the young Heels, they having previously won over the Dukelets and the young Princeton hopefuls. Both of these contests were one touchdown verdicts.

What few reports of the Young Liners that have drifted this way, have it that they are bringing down one of the strongest Freshman teams in the state of Maryland. Last Saturday they took the budding Cavaliers of Virginia into tow by a 36 to 0 count, so this bodes no amount of good for the Heelets.

The three freshman coaches here have also worked up a powerful aggregation that on the surface seems able to take on all comers. There is a greater abundance of material available than ever before for working purposes, and the coaches have taken this fact well in hand to turn out what appears to be the strongest freshman team of all times here, and that includes the undefeated '27 aggregation. However that may be, with the victories over Princeton and Duke to back them the little Blue Team looks good to carry on to All-State honors.

It would be hard going to pick the most outstanding youngsters in their respective positions at this time, since there is such an abundance of outstanding former high and prep school stars. At the present the most likely looking candidates are as follows: ends, Runnels, Reid, Morris, Miles, Huffman, and Johnson; guards, Hutchinson, Donovan, McIver; tackles, Rose, Branch, Alexander, Duquesne; centers, Belton and Guilbreth. There is little to choose in this array of linemen. Every one has put up good exhibitions this year, either in the two frosh contests or in varsity scrimmage.

In the backfield there is no worry as to offensive or defensive strength. In big Bill Suggs, fullback, Coach Belding has a kicker of very few equals, a good passer, and a regular ram rod when he bucks the line. Bill Estes is also showing to great advantage at the full post. Still another, McAllister, is going great at full. At the signal post Shorty Branch stands supreme. Shorty's return of punts and general running this year has been nothing short of marvelous. The sawed off Salisbury boy has a cinch at the quarterback position. Moore, of the state championship Wilmington outfit, has been doing some good work as understudy to Branch. At the halves are Slusser, Frazier, Yost, Chetty, and Houston. All of these boys are great ball carriers, and defensive men. Slusser's great running was the chief factor in the victory of the Heelets over the Duke youngsters.

- Kentucky over V. M. I.
- Maryland over Virginia
- Georgia Tech over Alabama
- Georgia over L. S. U.
- Duke over State
- Furman and South Carolina—toss up.

- Vanderbilt and Tenn. toss-up with the odds favoring Vandy.
- Auburn over Mississippi Aggies—toss-up.

- Florida and Clemson—toss-up with the odds favoring Florida.

In these slenderized days milady's problem isn't keeping up with the Joneses; it's keeping down with the Joneses.—Arkansas Gazette.

MATMEN TAKING DAILY WORKOUTS

Coaches Drilling Men in Art of Effective Holding and Breaking Locks.

There are fifty-seven men working out daily at four o'clock in the Tn Can as candidates for the wrestling team under the tutelage of Assistant Coach Motsinger. There are thirty-two men working for places on the varsity and twenty-five for berths on the frosh roster.

Coach Motsinger is at present drilling the wrestlers on such fundamental points as engaging effective holds on the opposition and breaking the locks of the opponent. His chief objective for the fall training season is to keep the grapplers in the pink of condition without overtraining them. Due to the strenuous campaign planned for the winter schedule it will be necessary for the squad to be in good trim.

Coach Quinland is at present engaged as trainer for the football squad and will not be with his charges until the end of the gridiron season. However, he will assume full charge of the mat men about Dec. 10 and hold tryouts for the varsity men who will compose the first team. Coach Motsinger will then take the frosh aspirants under his wing.

The team will be captained this year by Gene Thompson, a very clever man on the mat. Others who are fighting for a place on the team are: Peyton Abbott, captain of the team last year and undefeated for the entire season, D. L. Moore, R. H. Moore, Saunders, Haughton, Stallings, Woodard, Stone, Taylor, Sternberger, and Ferguson.

The varsity for the oncoming season will be well-balanced except for good heavyweight material now sorely needed. Coach Motsinger is hoping that the close of the football season will bring in a number of men who are able to eliminate this weakness. The yearling squad is, comparatively, on the same basis as the older men. The lightweight divisions are supplied with excellent material, but there is a very noticeable lack of good heavies.

The mentor of the catch-as-catch-can men stated that anyone who wishes to come out for the training but who has not done so thus far may report any afternoon. There have been no weights as yet meted out to any of the candidates, and anyone who takes advantage of the pre-season instruction will have an equal chance with the others as far as the coaching staff is concerned.

At the Carolina

June brides bear the brunt of jokes and smiles, according to James Hall, who co-stars with Ruth Taylor in "Just Married," the farce comedy now showing at the Pickwick theatre. The film was adapted from the stage play of the same name which ran for a year and a half. Anne Nichols, author of "Abie's Irish Rose" wrote the play.

"Newlyweds always get a big laugh," said James Hall recently during the filming of the picture. "In fact, I've given them many a one myself. Having been fortunate—or unlucky, depending on how you look at it, I have never married, myself, I haven't been able to appreciate the discomfiture that this universal giggling brings when the young June bride and bridegroom step out, until just recently.

"In 'Just Married,' in which Ruth Taylor and I are starred by Paramount, we spend a considerable time walking around the deck of a ship at sea. I am not married, but I have a 'Just Married' sign chalked on the back of my coat, and naturally get quite a laugh from the passengers as we walk down the deck. I'm afraid there would be more single men in the world if they went through an act like this."

Now is the time to send the Tar Heel Home.

Mould the man first, then the metal

CARNEGIE developed the steel industry by first developing his men. The Bell System is growing faster than ever before in its history and this growth, like the steel growth, is based on the development of men.

Today, in the telephone industry, men in supervisory positions must coordinate many and varied factors. For example, before locating a new central office, population trends are studied. While it is being built, telephone apparatus is planned, made, delivered and installed on orderly schedule. But more basic than all this, the executive shows leadership by his insight into the human equation and by the sympathy and understanding with which he adapts individual to job, moulding his men first.
