Activities Committee To Discuss Changes in Student Publications

Movement underway for Daily Tar Heel With Monthly Supplements for the Carolina Magazine and Buccaneer.

The first meeting this year of the Student Activities Committee has been called for January 10. A banquet will be served the members of the committee at the Carolina Inn, after which several proposed changes will be discussed by the group.

Of the greatest importance to the student body is the consideration by the Activities Group of a sweeping change among the publications, by which in order to establish a daily Tar Heel it is proposed to abolish the Buccaneer and the Carolina Magazine and run monthly supplements of each.

Due to agitation on the part of some of the faculty and a considerable number of students interested in publications on the campus the Activities Group has called this meeting for the purpose of considering the plausibility of making the daily Tar Heel and the Yackety Yack the only student publications; of placing editorial responsibility so that by some plan to be worked out the editors of the two publications may have ample freedom in the management of their publications and yet at the same time guarantee to the faculty and the student body that this privilege will not be abused; and a review of the five year period that the Publications Union Board has been in existence with a probable recommendation for its continuance.

D. E. Hudgins, Jr., president of the student body, has appointed the following committees to conduct research into phases of the publication problem. On a committee to prepare a history of the Publications Union Board, Will Yarborough has been appointed chairman, and Bill Perry and Mr. J. M. Lear associate members.

J. G. Adams, Jr., is chairman, and John Marshall and Dean Addison Hibbard members of a committee on the matter of editorial responsibility.

Walter Spearman is chairman of the committee chosen to propose a daily Tar Heel. Assisting Spearman on the committee are Glenn Holder, George Ehrhart and Mr. O. J. Coffin. President Hudgins announces that all the members of the Activities Group consider the problem of student publications and any other problems that would interest the entire group.

Dr. Knight Speaks Before Students at A. and T. College

Dr. Edgar W. Knight, professor of education at the University, spoke at the regular meeting of the Research Society of A. and T. College in Greensboro Wednesday night.

Dr. Knight is ex-president of the North Carolina State Educational Association, and by virtue of his long years of service as an educator, he has been placed in a position to do a large amount of research work.

Dr. Knight spoke last night on the subject, "The Improvement of Teaching."

William Cain Society Gives Varied Program

Several Talks and Three Reels of Pictures; Last Meeting of Quarter.

Bringing to a close its work for the fall quarter, the William Cain Society, student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers, presented a very interesting program at its meeting last Thursday night in Phillips Hall.

This was the first meeting held in some time, the last regular meeting having been omitted on account of the Thanksgiving holidays, and was well attended. Three reels of the motion picture "Power" was shown. This picture illustrated the development in power development by steam and electricity. Two students in the Engineering school, George Lockhart and Walter Parks, made short talks to the society. Lockhart spoke on "Highway Bridges," and Parks on "Railroad Signals." These talks were very informative and well prepared.

At the close of the program, the meeting adjourned until the winter quarter.

Order of Grail Dance Tonight

The Order of the Grail will stage the last dance to be given this quarter tonight in Bynum Gymnasium. The dance will begin promptly at nine o'clock, tickets being placed on sale at 8:30 in the rear of the gymnasium building. All those wishing to buy tickets are urged to come early in order to avoid any congestion at the last minute. The Carolina Buccaneers will furnish the music. The usual rules in respect to conduct will be enforced, and no freshmen or spectators will be admitted.

SPEARMAN WILL ATTEND ANNUAL STUDENT MEET

Will Be University's Representative at the Fourth Congress of the National Student Federation.

Because of the inability of Ed Hudgins, Jr., president of the student body, to attend the fourth annual congress of the National Student Federation of America at the University of Missouri, December 12, 13, 14 and 15, Walter Spearman, editor of the Tar Heel, has been appointed as official delegate to the convention.

The National Student Federation of America was organized four years ago to further world mindedness, and to facilitate an early realization of this plan of international debating, mutual tours between Europe and the United States, and yearly discussion congresses have been indulged in each year.

The convention that Spearman will attend is the one and only official national gathering of student leaders in the United States during the year. The purpose of the congress is to provide an opportunity for the most prominent students in the country to discuss together their common problems, to decide on concerted action in regard to the responsibilities of the N. S. F. A. to the world federation of students, and to further student contact by meeting on a social as well as a business basis.

The aims of the congress embody the fundamental purpose of the N. S. F. A. itself, which is to achieve a spirit of cooperation among the students of the United States and giving consideration to questions affecting student's interest.

Two hundred and fifty delegates will gather at the University of Missouri to hear Henry Wordsworth Dana, Dean Walter Williams, Norman Thomas, George Wickersham and Henry Elmer Barnes, noted speakers at the various meetings of the congress.

On the calendar of the convention this year are such subjects as Fraternities, the Honor System, Student Government, Athletics, Journalism International Relations, and Militarism in Education.

E. H. Miller of Washington and Lee University and the Harvard Law school is the president of the N. S. F. A.

Candidates for Master's Degree To File Notice

The graduate office announced yesterday afternoon that all candidates for the master's degree must have filed their intention of applying for admission to candidacy for the degree on or before Friday, January 4, 1929.

In addition to filing applications for consideration as candidates for the master's degree, a program of studies must be approved by the individual advisers. General subjects for the theses must also be decided upon before January 4.

A transcript of all undergraduate work should be filed with the graduate office, the only exception to this being the Carolina graduates whose undergraduate work is already on file.

BARRISTERS AND DEBATERS FACE SAME PROBLEMS

Breckenbridge Tells Debate Class That Their Questions Are of a More General Nature Than Legal Ones.

"The legal world distinguishes very carefully between a mere presentation of facts and proof," declared Professor Breckenbridge in a speech to the University Debate Class Thursday night in 201 Murphey. The speaker pointed out that the problem of the debater is similar to that of the lawyer in that both are confronted by the problem of choosing facts to present, but contended that the lawyer must not rely on hearsay. He was of the opinion that debate questions are more general than legal questions, for they have a wider range of effect. In concluding this phase of his address he stated that the legal answer must be either positive or negative.

Professor Breckenbridge was of the opinion that legal arguments and debates differ mainly in that a great part of a debate is based on opinions; whereas what one person told another is valuable in working up a law case only in so far as it indicates a clue to a real source of evidence. The speaker emphasized the fact that the lawyer must rely only upon those things which are facts and must not in any case rely on opinions, even though they may be very convincing. He maintained, however, that debaters and lawyers have in common an intention to convince. Professor Breckenbridge asserted, also, that both must anticipate the attack of their opponents.

"In preparing a legal argument one must go through a lot of facts and choose those which deal specifically with the case under consideration," declared Professor Breckenbridge. He asserted, moreover, that the debater usually formulates his argument on the basis of a central theme and then proceeds to back it up by a mixture of facts and opinions of prominent men.

Epworth League to Present Program

The special feature of the Epworth League program Sunday evening at the Methodist church will be a number of instrumental and vocal selection of sacred music. The violin, voice, and piano will each have a place in the seven o'clock service.

Wilmington Defeats Statesville To Retain State Gridiron Title

From the lower Cape Fear there came two boys. One played quarterback and was a blonde, the other played full-back and kept his complexion hidden by a head gear, but exhibited his football wares along with the bare-headed blonde. But the western boys brought along a boy who almost equalled the two eastern stars. In fact he almost outdid the two plunging backs from the lower corner of North Carolina. The two eastern boys were Olsen and Brittain. The westerner was Mills.

These boys almost monopolized honors in the annual high school championship game played here yesterday. Wilmington for the second successive time copped the title with a 14-9 win over Statesville. Both teams seemed to pick certain parts of the game to score. Statesville ringing up their nine points in the first half, while the Champions waited until the last half to annex the title.

The game was good. It was the best high school football game played in recent years in Chapel Hill. Neither side seemed inclined to yield much to the other and it was for three long runs to bring twenty of the points scored. The other three points came from the foot of this same Mills boy who gave Wilmington so much trouble. He booted the ball from the twenty yard line through the up-rights—following a fumbled punt by Brittain.

Statesville scored its touchdown when Mills took the ball on an off-tackle play on the forty yard line, cut back and raced the remaining distance to the goal for a touchdown.

Little happened during the remainder of the half, but the fireworks broke loose during the early part of the

Tar Heels and Blue Devils to Fight For State Championship Title Today; Five Duke Stars Playing Last Game

Veterans Will Be Playing Their Third Contest Against Tar Heels; Will Be Missed By Methodists When Roll Is Called Next Year.

Five members of the Duke University Blue Devil football squad will make their final appearance in a Duke uniform when the Devils meet the University Tar Heels in Kenan Memorial stadium today for the championship of the "Big Five."

The men who will be lost by Duke this year are Harry Hollinsworth, of Newton, a halfback who has seen action in nearly every game this season; Captain Hunter, of Charlotte, whose playing this year has been unusually brilliant; Okle Jones, of Spencer, all-state guard last year and bidding for the same berth this season; Carlton Weatherby, of Faison, named by a number of sportsmen this year on their all-state selections; and Brummitt, of Oxford, one of the first substitutes used in the line.

These men have figured prominently in Duke's games this year and will no doubt be missed when roll is called at fall training next year. They will be playing in their third contest against the Heels Saturday yet a victory to be scored by their side.

O. C. Godfrey, who has alternated this year with John Jankoski as fullback of the Duke eleven, will be out of the game with Carolina Saturday due to an injury received in an automobile wreck at Greensboro Sunday. Jankoski will take up the regular fullback reins as he has recovered from an early season injury.

Dr. J. M. Bell to Attend Chemical Society Meeting

Dr. J. M. Bell, dean of the Chemistry department, will leave Chapel Hill during the latter part of next week for Richmond, Va. He will attend the conference of the Virginia branch of the American Chemical Society and will deliver an address on next Friday evening. He will speak about "The Present Status of the Theory of Solutions."

ATTENTION CHEERIOS

On account of the continued cold weather the Cheerios will not wear their uniforms today, but are asked to sit in the cheering section.

Blue Devils Have Crossed Heel Line Once in Six Years

The University football squad will be fighting for more than a state championship when it meets the Duke Blue Devils in Kenan Memorial Stadium today. The Tar Heels also defend a goal line that the Blue Devils have crossed just once in the last six years.

Although the rivalry between Duke and Carolina dates back to 1889, the two institutions have fought six of their eleven gridiron battles since the fall of 1922. There was more than a quarter of a century that faculty rulings prevented the annual engagements. Since the revival in 1922, the Tar Heels have won every game, while the Blue Devils have scored one touchdown.

That touchdown came in the first quarter of the 1923 meeting. The Tar Heel quarterback elected to pass deep in his own territory, and Ed Bullock grabbed the pass and sprinted 20 yards to a touchdown. A final half comeback gave the Tar Heels a 14 to 6 decision for the game.

FIVE PLAYS ARE READ BY AUTHORS

Three of the Five Plays Read Will Be Given in February.

Five plays were read in the local theatre at the authors' reading of the Playmakers organization last night. "Ananias and Sapphira," by L. W. O'Connell; "The Family," by Catherine Wilson Nolen; and "Halfbreed Yellow," by G. Yates McDaniel, all of which are the products of students registered in Professor Koch's and Hubert Heffner's classes at the University. "Oh Promise Me," is a play produced in the courses that Professor Heffner taught at the University of Arizona a few years ago. The other play read last night, "Graveyard Shift," is the work of Edith Daesking who wrote the piece under the tutelage of Professor Koch while he was teaching at the University of California last summer.

The play committee composed of Dr. Urban T. Holmes, Mrs. Anne Majette Grant, Mrs. Louis Graves, Mr. A. C. Nash, and Mr. A. S. Lawrence, will select the three plays that will be produced February 8 and 9.

Monday a committee including Professors Fred Koch, Hubert Heffner and Sam Selden, Mr. A. S. Lawrence, and Mrs. Anne Majette Grant will judge the tryouts for parts in the plays. Two plays will be staged, one at 4:30 and one at 7:00.

Di Senate Will Elect Officers At Next Meeting

The regular meeting of the Di Senate Tuesday night will serve a two-fold purpose: The early part of the program will be the election of officers for the Winter quarter and the election of the president for the Spring quarter. At eight o'clock the Senate will adjourn and go as a body to Gerrard Hall to hear the Mary D. Wright Debate. Calvin Graves and B. C. Moore will represent the Di in this contest; whereas the Phi will be represented by R. M. Albright and E. H. Whitley.

The election of the president for the Spring quarter at such an early date has not been customary heretofore. The reason for the apparent haste, however, is due to the fact that the Yackety Yack is demanding the pictures of the senate's presidents earlier than usual.

Wheeler to Take Up Duties Again

Dr. A. S. Wheeler of the Chemistry department will sail from France on the nineteenth of December for New York, and he is expected to be in Chapel Hill to resume his duties for the Winter quarter. Dr. Wheeler is now on leave of absence and has been touring Europe for the past several months.

Schwartz Will Likely Start at Center; Pete Wyrick, Sophomore Back is Definitely Out Of Game; Game Likely to Be Played in Air.

The end is near. Only a few hours remain before the king of all sports will hang up its mantle and give way to another sport. The last dying words of North Carolina football will be uttered on Kenan Field when the final whistle of the Duke-Carolina game sounds.

The other teams in the state hung up their equipment Thanksgiving day. But Carolina and Duke lingered a while longer. They will quit today. To many the outcome of the contest this afternoon will determine the success or failure of the 1928 campaigns for the two teams. But to those who know, Carolina has already concluded a successful season. They did that when they beat Virginia last Thursday. Duke, too, has been favored this year and have had their most successful season since football was reinstated after the war.

But the game is important. It will decide the state championship. It will also serve to bring together the two most powerful grid machines in North Carolina in the finest stadium in North Carolina. The proximity of the two institutions has made the rivalry that existed long before Duke became Duke and was merely Trinity College more intense. It is possible that the players on the two teams prefer to win this game more than any other. It seems so from the atmosphere around the two football camps and on the campuses of the two institutions.

Duke with only one casualty among its long list of luminaries will meet a crippled Tar Heel team. Captain Harry Schwartz, star pivot man of North Carolina, will probably start in spite of injuries, however there is slight chance that the torn ligament he suffered in the Virginia contest will have healed enough for him to play this afternoon. However, the loss of the captain of the team is not the only handicap the Heels will be under, for Pete Wyrick, sophomore quarterback, will be unable to play in the game this afternoon. Ever since the Cavalier game, the Carolina field general has been confined to his bed with an injury suffered two weeks ago. The only casualty in the Blue Devil camp is that of Godfrey, fullback. He was injured in an automobile accident after the Davidson game.

All other members of the two teams are in good condition. They all are also primed for this game. It will be the climax to successful seasons for both teams. And then too, it is the first time that Duke has made a real bid for State Championship honors. It is also the first time that a real Collins coached eleven has made a bid for a title.

The game is likely to be played in the air. Neither team yields much to the other in the forward wall. Few teams have gained comfort from facing the Carolina line, and according to many the Duke line is the best in the state. The weight of the Devil line will be a big factor in their

Freshman Friendship Council to Entertain

Upchurch of Duke University Will Be the Speaker of the Evening.

The Freshman Friendship Council will entertain with a banquet Monday night, December 11, in the social rooms of the Methodist church. The dinner will be served by the ladies of the church, after which a special program will be offered. Mr. D. O. Upchurch, of Duke University, will be the speaker of the evening, and Miss Elizabeth Farrer will read. The Y. M. C. A. Quartet will render several selections, and a piano solo is also on the program. Approximately sixty men are expected to attend.

This supper is an innovation of the Freshman Council, and a similar supper is planned for each quarter. All freshmen, whether members of the council or not, are invited to attend. Tickets to the supper can still be obtained for fifty cents from any of the following members of the Membership Committee: J. E. Dungan, J. D. McNairy, Clarence Phoenix, Aubrey Perkins, and E. J. Wall.
