

ORDER OF GRAIL OFFERS AWARDS

The Order of The Grail has been doing notable work on the campus in promoting the interest of the various elements, fraternity and non-fraternity, in campus affairs. In order to create this interest and to draw the various elements together into one body, The Grail awards each year several handsome and costly trophies.

The first of these trophies is a handsome silver loving cup. This cup is given in order to stimulate interest in intramural athletics, and it is awarded to the high-point scorer in all the various contests.

The second award, a loving cup, is awarded to the best student-athlete. This serves to stimulate interest on the part of the Freshmen in maintaining a high scholastic average as well as in athletics.

The third award, also a loving cup, is given to the most outstanding senior athlete in each of the three major sports.

The fourth award is a beautiful and costly bronze plaque showing a runner in full stride. This will be awarded for the first time to the winner of the annual inter-prep school field and track meet to be held here in April.

Duke University Glee Club Wins State Contest

DURHAM, Dec. 6.—For the second consecutive year the Duke University Glee Club won the North Carolina glee club contest, keeping the State title and silver loving cup won in last year's competition. The winning club will go to Greenville, S. C., on Feb. 8 to enter the Southern contest. Judges of the contest were Ralph Grosvenor, of New York City, representing the National Glee Club Association; Dr. Wade R. Brown, of N. C. W., Greensboro, and Edwin M. Steckle, of Charlotte and Gastonia. The judges paid tribute to the qualities of the Guilford College and Davidson College clubs.

The Duke club is under the direction of J. Foster Barnes and has 30 undergraduate members. Bruce Alexander, of Ayden, is the student director.

Prof. Koch to Read The Christmas Carol

Sunday night at eight-thirty o'clock for the twenty-second consecutive year Professor Koch will read The Christmas Carol, the immortal ghost story by Charles Dickens. Professor Koch started the custom at the University of North Dakota and brought it here with him when he transferred to the University of North Carolina.

The annual recognition of the Christmas season will be made in the Playmaker theatre tomorrow night. The stage will be appropriately set with Christmas trees and as in former years, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Harrier and Mr. and Mrs. George Lawrence will render yuletide carols between the "staves" of the story.

In past years a full house has heard the reading of the piece, and a large audience is expected to attend tomorrow night.

High School Editors Will Meet at Elon

ELON COLLEGE, Dec. 6.—The North Carolina High School Press Association will meet this year at Elon College, December 13th to 15th, inclusive, it has been announced by C. W. Kipka, editor of the local college paper, who is serving as chairman for the arrangement of this meeting here.

Every high school having a high school publication is entitled to two delegates. About fifty high schools will be represented, bringing approximately one hundred delegates to the college.

An interesting and helpful program has been arranged for the delegates. Prof. H. Babcock, an Elon alumnus, now of the University of South Carolina, will speak on some phase of journalism.

Baptist Church

Topic of sermon at 11:00 a. m.: "Faithful in a Very Little." At 7:45 p. m. the sermon in song. Topic: "The Name above Every Name."

J. E. Foster Will Interview Students

Mr. John E. Foster, representative of the W. T. Grant Company, New York City, will be in Chapel Hill on Thursday, December 13th, to interview students who are interested in making a connection with his organization.

The W. T. Grant Company operates a large number of 25c, 50c and $1.00 department stores which sell merchandise. Two graduates of this University, Ernest S. Austin, '28, and E. V. Core, '28, have recently accepted positions with this firm. They both report that they are well pleased with the Grant Company and are enthusiastic about their work.

Any student who is interested in talking with Mr. Foster should arrange for an interview immediately through the Bureau of Vocational Information, 204 South Building. Information concerning opportunities with the Grant Company is available at the office of the Bureau.

Tar Heels and Blue Devils to Fight for State Title Today

(Continued from page one) favor, but the terrific charging of the Carolina forwards will likely play havoc with any hopes that Duke has of gaining via the land route.

With both teams boasting several capable passers and pass-receivers, it is likely that the two field generals will seek the air as the best means of scoring. Duke will send Buie, passer de luxe, Hatcher, Jankoski and Murray into the fray to match the Carolina starting backfield of Whisnant, Nash, Ward, and Gresham. With their past records behind them there is likely to be the most brilliant array of backs on the field that has ever played on Kenan Field. Every man in the two backfields carries a threat and neither yields much to other. It is possible however, that the Devils have an edge on the Heels in experience behind the line, for all of the Heels are youngsters except Gresham. It is the same with the other backs on the Carolina squad. Very few have seen much service in collegiate ranks.

The forward wall will be practically the same that started the Thanksgiving contests. In the event that Captain Schwartz does not start, Earl Donahoe, utility man in the Carolina line, will be at center. Flanking him will be Ray Farris and Bud Eskew. The tackles will likely be Koenig and Howard, with the possibility of Adkins replacing the latter. Sapp and Presson will hold down the end positions for the Heels. The Duke line will have Warren and Rosky on the flanks, Weatherby and Kistler at tackles, Jones and Thorne as guards, and Hunter in the pivot position.

Henderson Represents South in Meeting of Mathematical Society

Dr. Archibald Henderson, head of the Mathematics Department of the University, last week attended the meeting of the American Mathematical Society where he delivered one of the three principal addresses. This meeting was held at the University of Cincinnati, in Cincinnati Ohio, on Friday and Saturday, November 30 and December 1. This was the first meeting under the new program of three Western meetings a year, and was largely attended by persons interested in mathematics from all over the United States.

By special request, the program committee asked three outstanding mathematicians from all the states to be the principal speakers of the meeting: Dr. Henderson was chosen to represent the South, Professor George Birkhoff, of Harvard University, the East, and Professor E. R. Hedrick, of the University of California, the West. This action by the committee not only rates Dr. Henderson as one of the outstanding authorities on mathematics in the country, but brings much honor to the University, placing it with some of the higher institutions of learning in North and West.

The subject of Dr. Henderson's address was: "Relativity: Survey and Outlook." At the conclusion of his lecture, in which he explained the results of several theories and cited astronomical problems in connection with them, he made a prediction of the future of relativity and its influence upon civilization, saying: "In mathematics relativity has furnished enough new ideas to keep the mathematicians busy for an indefinite period. Its contributions will probably be more in the changes it induces in our attitude of mind toward the universe than in specific contributions in what are often called practical lines."

Professor Hedrick spoke on "Recent Developments Regarding Non-Analytic Functions," and Professor Birkhoff on "The Mathematical Basis of Art." Other speakers on the program, which took place on both Friday and Saturday, included representatives from many of the colleges from other sections of the country. On Friday night the members and their guests were entertained with a dinner.

Dr. Henderson will remain in that part of the country for quite a while and may not return to the University until after Christmas holidays.

Taylor to Speak On Farm Relief

Dr. Carl C. Taylor, instructor at the North Carolina State College in Raleigh, will appear before the North Carolina Club at the University here to set forth the importance of adequate farm relief Monday at 7:30 o'clock in 112 Saunders Hall.

Dr. Taylor is considered to be one of the most eminent rural social-economists in the United States and the general public as well as the entire membership of the club is invited to attend the meeting.

"Doubled and redoubled"

A leading bridge expert once said, "The aces and kings play themselves; it's the little spots that make games."

What's true in bridge seems equally true in the cigarette business. Aces to deuces, spades to clubs—from the very first deal, Chesterfield made every card good!

No risky finesses, no sharp double squeezes—Chesterfield rose to world-wide popularity by straight honest selling with a straight honest product—an outstanding success in cigarette history.

So Chesterfield can bid high. Tobacco quality, perfect blending, purity, mildness, natural sweetness—with a hand like that, Chesterfield can redouble your smoking pleasure...and today, next month, next year, keep right on fulfilling the contract.
