

MANY COLLEGIANS ENTER CONTEST TO WIN AN EAGLEROCK AIRPLANE

As the greatest development of the day, aviation has caught the attention of the great American college student body, to judge from the heavy early response received by the Alexander Aircraft company concerning its 1929 aeronautical scholarship contest among college undergraduates.

In the first few days following announcement of the contest, inquiries were received from students of 62 colleges. Indications are that several thousand students will bid for the new Eaglerock airplane or the 4-year university scholarships in aeronautical engineering and business aeronautics which will be awarded the winner. Lesser prizes will include free solo flying courses and flight instruction manuals.

Co-eds, as eligible as the men, are showing themselves equally air-minded. Students with no flying experience, but with ready ideas on things aeronautics, are competing on an equal basis with those who have worked in the new industry.

Such universities as Massachusetts Institute of Technology, University of Michigan, and Stanford University, have endorsed the contest. Felix W. Paylowski, Professor of Aeronautical Engineering at Michigan, writes, "I indeed appreciate the generosity as well as the wise policy of the Alexander Aircraft company which prompts it to assist the numerous young and able students who are anxious to enter the field of aeronautics, but who are handicapped from doing so because of lack of sufficient funds for obtaining proper training in the fundamentals of this new and fascinating profession."

Dialectic Men Will Hold First Meeting Of Quarter Tonight

The Dialectic Senate meets tonight to begin the work of the winter quarter after an unusually long recess. The meeting will be important not only because it will be the first gathering of the senate during the winter quarter but because new officers will be installed.

Alpha Psi Delta Holds Meeting

Alpha Psi Delta, an honorary fraternity, held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening, January 9, in New West building. This was the first meeting since November as the December meeting was postponed because of the closing of school. The program planned for the December meeting was given at this time. In addition to this, the members who attended the session of the American Psychological Association in New York City during the vacation gave reports on the various papers heard, and discussed the actions of the association in business session.

The members who attended the meeting of the A. P. A. were: Dr. Dashiell, Dr. Crane, Dr. Goudge, Dr. Jordan, and Messers De Wick, Bayroff, and Barkley.

Three former Carolina students presented papers at the meeting. These men were: John H. McFaden, now instructor in the University of Pittsburgh; James R. Patrick, Ohio University; and W. D. Glenn, of New York University. Mr. K. L. Barkley, present instructor in the Department of Psychology, also presented a paper. These papers all treated of experimental work done in the University of North Carolina under the direction of members of the Department of Psychology.

A movement was launched at the meeting of the A. P. A. for the organization of a national psychological fraternity. Local men are on the council for handling the organization proceedings, and the prospects are good for the success of the venture.

Philological Club Will Hear Norman Foerster Tuesday

The Philological Club will meet Tuesday evening January 15, in the lounge of the Graduate Club, according to announcement made by officials. Professor Norman Foerster will present a study, "Literary Scholarship in an Age of Science." Refreshments will be served.

Glee Club Members To Have Pictures Made

All regular members of the Glee Club are asked to meet on the south side of South building tomorrow morning at 10:30, at which time new pictures will be taken for the Yackety Yack. Ordinary street clothes are to be worn.

At the Carolina

How does it feel to be on the brink of stardom after years of struggling for a foothold on the ladder of success?

"Terrible!"

The answer was supplied by Joan Crawford, who appears to be just about to climb the topmost rung to cinema triumph.

After years of hard work and study Joan finds herself virtually a star, playing the featured role in "Dream of Love," which is at the Carolina Theatre today.

"I feel just like a college student who is about to receive a diploma that will send him out into the world as a lawyer, doctor, engineer or qualified member of some similar profession," she said.

Rev. Mr. Olive Looked for Bible But it Was Gone

Some religious-minded thief has stolen the Bible from the stand on the rostrum in Memorial Hall. When Rev. Mr. Olive of the Baptist church, who was to lead the devotional exercises in Chapel yesterday, tried to find the Bible, it was most noticeably missing from its accustomed place. Then to give a bit of good advice, Mr. Olive advised all those who have an inclination to steal to take a Bible, for maybe it will do the person who takes it some good.

Phi Assembly Will Install Officers At Meeting Tonight

The Philanthropic Assembly will hold its first meeting of the winter quarter tonight at 7:15. New officers are to be installed. After the installation exercises an opportunity will be given those who wish to join the society.

Name Omitted In List of Legislators

In the list of legislators printed in the last issue of this paper who are alumni of the University the name of Harold Burke, of Taylorsville, was omitted. Burke, who was a student in the University's Law School last year is representing Alexander County in the House. "Judge" Burke is a Democrat.

Movement for Daily Tar Heel Will Be Discussed by The Activities Committee with the Carolina Magazine. The most recent expression of the same question was the controversy over the first issue of the Carolina Buccaneer.

A committee composed of Walter Spearman, chairman, Glenn Holder, George Ehrhart, Marion Alexander and Mr. O. J. Coffin will report on the tentative plans worked out for the daily Tar Heel.

The work of the Activities committee is purely advisory. The plans suggested will probably be embodied in a proposal which will be put before the student body for a vote within the next few weeks.

Packed Theatre Sees Revelers

tion far enough to include this with the rest of the program. It is our belief that Miss Nettina Strobach knows a lot more about acting and playwrighting than we do, and is an efficient worker in her official capacity as secretary of the Carolina State Dramatic Conference, but nevertheless she failed on this piece.

Mrs. Wooten's Revelers were fair, Mr. Tom Hunter being the best of the four imported to appear on the program.

The part of the program that seemed to get over biggest with the audience was the set of two sketches depicting in burlesque style an incident that the authors claim happened recently when Miss Helen Dorth and Arnold Borden attempted to collaborate upon an original play. They were good, but not as interesting as "The Twelfth Night" scene or "Saint George and the Dragon." Walter Spearman impersonated a bust of George Washington with extraordinary finish and in true journalistic style. We warrant that his is the best two word act in the world.

There were cakes and ale and dancing from eleven o'clock on. Willie Strowd's negro orchestra furnished the music.

Bloody Body on Office Floor at One A. M. Sends Scribes Away

West building and Ed Hudgins' room. But the most earnest pounding upon the door did not avail to wake up the student president, and the editor and his assistant gave up the hopeless task. They hurried to the room occupied by Bob Stone, ticket taker at the Carolina Theatre, who knows almost everybody, and dragged him out of bed. The trio felt the need of further reinforcements and hastened to the Y, where they aroused J. O. Allison and Mac Gray. Valiantly the little army headed for the Tar Heel office and resolutely marched up to the door. Suddenly they whirled around and prepared to beat a hasty retreat, for an ominous thrashing about was going on inside the closed door. Could the murderer, not satisfied with the mutilation he had wreaked upon the body of his victim, have come back to disfigure it still more?

Abruptly the door was jerked open from the inside, and five pairs of feet began frantically to function. A pleasingly uncorpse-like voice called the fugitives back, however, and warily they slackened their pace and looked around. The corpse was following them in a decidedly wobbly gait.

"Say, guvsh, wait a minute," the bloody lips articulated. "Ish thiah Pettigrew? I bu-uu-mped my head and Ish can't unnerstan' very well, an' I wanna go home."

Free Trial "Sells" Man This Smoke

Chicago, Illinois, July 12, 1928

Larus & Bro. Co.,
Richmond, Va.
Gentlemen:

Replying to your circular letter of June 29, be informed that your sample packages were received. With them I received the pamphlet describing your product, which I was able to enjoy reading because there was not in the circular matter the usual distasteful sales talk which makes the recipient of a sample package feel obligated or uncomfortable.

I believe your practice of giving your prospect a sample and then letting him make up his own mind will gain you many more customers than will the usual modern sales practice of pushing the product down the prospect's throat. As a matter of fact, since receiving your sample and your advertising matter I smoked up the sample package and have since purchased a number of cans from neighborhood dealers, all of whom carry this tobacco in a city of this size.

I have found Edgeworth to be a satisfactory blend at a very reasonable price, and although my past acquaintance is brief, I look forward to a long membership in the Edgeworth Club.

Yours very truly,
Jeff Corydon

THE ANATOMY OF SMOKE PLEASURE

You see the fact is that once you've chosen Camels, you're somewhat the fair-haired boy. Perhaps a word of explanation is in order, but we're disinclined to elucidate at length. We could probably trace the cool course of a mellow Camel-cloud through your smoke-channel—and explain what makes it "click." But as the osteopath said to the bacteriologist, "Don't bacilli." Have a Camel!
