

TAR BABIES LICK BABY DEACONS

Floor Work of Bill Suggs at Center Was Feature of the Game.

The Tar Babies turned in a decisive win over the Baby Deacons of Wake Forest Saturday night when they defeated them forty-four to twenty-one. The game, which was played as the curtain raiser to the varsity fray between the two schools, was fast and full of thrills. It was the first time that the Carolina freshmen had run into another freshman aggregation and they showed that their previous two wins over high schools were good indications of their strength. By their win Belding's charges got off to a flying start in the race for state freshman honors.

The Tar Baby attack was varied and the scoring was divided among a number of men. Johnny Green, flashy forward, led the scoring with eleven points scored on four field goals and three free tosses. Jenks Hutchinson, former Charlotte High School star who has been one of the leading scorers in every freshman game this season, was runner up to Green with a total of nine points scored on three field goals and three foul goals. Meyers, lanky center from Charlotte, followed Hutchinson with four field goals to total eight points. Other scorers for the Tar Babies were Moore, Reid, Sachs, and Alexander. Coach Belding used eleven men during the game. The floor work of Bill Suggs at center was outstanding.

Coach Emmerson of Wake Forest used eight men in an unsuccessful attempt to stem the Carolina attack. Webb with a total of nine points scored on three field goals and three foul goals led the scoring for the Baby Deacons. Newsome was runner up with seven points. Edwards and Mitchell were the only other men to score for Wake Forest.

COLLEGIANS GO IN FOR PHOTOGRAPHY

Simple Machine With Powerful Lens Enables Students to Get Permanent Record of College Days.

College men and women have come to the point where taking moving pictures at big games and winter sports-festivals is the mode. In the East, where football originated, the students are going in for moving picture photography with the same amount of interest and enthusiasm that they show for archery, hockey and soccer. Movie clubs are next, for in this day and age of simple movie cameras, which now even take color pictures and which are being shown in all attractive colors, it is possible to get a permanent record of your college days. And now one can even secure an f. 4.5 lens to give telephoto effects and objects will be larger and nearer when shown on the screen.

Yanks Secure Outen From Hornet Outfit

Champions Settle Differences over Possession of State College Star.

W. A. "Chink" Outen, State College athlete who recently was listed as a New York Yankee rookie and for whose contract the Charlotte Hornets set up a claim, now is the property of the Yankees, according to an article in Friday's New York Herald-Tribune. The story follows: The complicated case of W. A. Outen, the North Carolina State College outfielder, infielder, pitcher and catcher, was settled yesterday, when the Yankees bought his release from the Charlotte Club, of the South Atlantic League.

The Yankees thought he was their property until the Charlotte Club pointed out that he was on its reserve list, having signed two years ago. There was nothing for the Yankees to do but relinquish their claim to him. After doing this they bought him from Charlotte.

Where Woman Leads

Another thing a woman can do that a man can't, when they give a quiet little dinner and hire a colored man for $2 and all he can eat to wait on the table, is to act as if they always had a butler.—Ohio State Journal.

Unbreakable Corner

The ice combine, as we gather from the news, still has a grip on the Arctic regions that the most determined Eskimo housewife isn't going to be able to shake off.

Corn Made Into Starch

More than 70,000,000 bushels of corn in this country were converted into starch in the last year.

THE SPORT PAN

By YARBOROUGH

COLLINS HITS THE SPOT

In his somewhat abbreviated talk the other night on winter football, Coach Collins hit the nail on the head when he said that the real work of football is done during the winter practice sessions and that the play comes during the fall. It takes time to drill the fundamentals of football into a large squad of men and the only time that the coaches have to do it is during the winter season. Once a man masters the real fundamentals of the game he seldom forgets them. It's like learning to swim, once one masters the art he never forgets.

Take the past season for instance, many of the men out there doing a great part of the work were sophomores or rather were undergoing their first year of varsity work. Others showed noticeable improvement over their past season's performances. Without under-rating the experience they gained before entering the University, we are rather firmly convinced that this was due to the work they did during the winter. One of the most outstanding examples of this was Bill Koenig. Bill saw a little service during the 1927 season, but his play was far from promising anything for the future. Yet when he stepped into the breach caused by injuries to the varsity tackle, the Greensboro boy showed he knew his football. Before the end of the season he was one of the outstanding tackles of the state. This was due, we believe, to the winter work he did. One seldom notices whether a certain player is playing correct football or not, but when holes are being opened and gain after gain being registered it is invariably the rule that there are several men in there who know what they are doing. Koenig was doing quite a bit of good work all through the season. There are quite a few other men who showed improvement due directly or indirectly to their winter work. Prominent among these are two sophomore backs, Strud Nash and Henry House. Both did good work on the freshman team, but neither did the work they did last fall. They were freshman stars, nothing more. Last fall both delivered the goods and in good fashion. At times both starred, but their greatest contribution to the football team was their ability to play an allround good game. Chick Meehan, coach of N. Y. U.'s great football team, once said that the spectator should never watch the man with the ball until he crossed the line of scrimmage. Until that time he was merely carrying the ball, someone else was doing the work. We followed this practice fairly consistently during the past season and that is why we happened to notice the great improvement in these three men.

HARD WORK AHEAD
Monday Coach Collins gathered his football aspirants together and told them what he planned to do this winter. Perhaps he didn't tell them what he planned to do, anyway he told them something about the winter practice. This week the practice will get underway. In about two weeks the schedule of winter games will get going and we will be able to get a line on what's what for next year.

Just now things look pretty good for the coming campaign, but one can never tell what will happen. There happens to be only one varsity quarterback left, Pete Wyrick. Pete did good work last fall, but a coach has a pretty tough job on his hands if he goes through the season with only one quarterback, or he has a pretty good quarterback. Branch and Moore are up from the Frosh, but both will need seasoning before they will be ready for service. There are other reserve positions that must be filled before prospects will look as good for the 1929 season as they do on paper. This is the time that those positions will be filled. Little difference will be made between the players during this winter session. So whether a man is a freshman or a monogram man, he should get out there and get to work.

FAIR SEX UNFAIR

Will Rogers, who recently turned the tables on John D. Rockefeller by presenting him with a shiny new dime, was talking at Daytona Beach about the acquittal of a young woman who had murdered her aged husband.

"Now that we've given young women the vote," he said, "I don't think they ought to go about murdering us husbands and then getting acquitted any longer. It isn't fair. It reminds me of a young woman who snarled at a man on a crowded trolley car: 'Say, look out what you're doin', you old four-eyes. That left spectacle glass of your'n has bent my new hat pin.'"

To err is human; to forgive is miraculous.

WHITE PHANTOMS TO MEET STATE

Will Be An Important Factor in Deciding "Big Five" Championship Honors.

Carolina's varsity basketball team will engage the flashy outfit representing N. C. State in the first "Big Five" game of the season to be played on the home court. The contest, which will be called at 8:30 o'clock in the Tin Can, will be one of the important factors in deciding the "Big Five" championship.

As a record for the current season, State boasts victories over Wake Forest and the University of South Carolina. Carolina's encounter with the Demon Deacons resulted in a walk-away for the Tar Heels. But, earlier in the week, the South Carolina Gamecocks sprung a surprise here when they crashed through their Southern Conference of four losses out of as many starts, to eke out a victory from the University quintet by a narrow margin. The casual onlooker cannot judge the comparative strength of two teams, however, by comparative scores. But by comparing the type of playing exhibited in successive games, one may deduce the trend of a team. And when there is considered the vast improvement in the style exhibited by the Tar Heels in their game Saturday night over their form in their engagement on Tuesday night last, it can be justly judged that the University cagers are on the road upward.

University Quint Downs Deacons

"Tiny" Harper's Sharp-Shooting Was Feature of Game; Downtin Dropped in Nine Foul Shots.

The University basketball quint, with "Tiny" Harper leading the attack, overwhelmed Wake Forest's Demon Deacons in the Raleigh City Auditorium Saturday night, 42-19. The game was played before a crowd of 1,500 and was classed as a "home" game for Wake Forest.

The Tar Heels went into an early lead and at the half were out in front, 28 to 7; and all of those seven points that the Deacons had gained came from free throws. Wake Forest turned the game into more of a contest in the second half, but the Deacons were still unable to cope with the superior passing and shooting of the Carolina five.

"Tiny" Harper's sharp-shooting accounted for seven of Carolina's 17 field goals, and an additional field throw that he caged made him high scorer of the game, with 15 points. His great height of much over six feet was also the bulwark of the Tar Heel defense. Nearly every time a Deacon tried for a goal, Harper's big frame went into the air to take the ball off the backboard and begin a drive to the other end of the court.

Al Downtin, Wake Forest's scoring ace, was well covered during the game by Hackney and Price. The only field goal he caged was batted in after a melee under the basket. He dropped in nine foul shots, however, to lead the scoring for the Deacons and ranked next to Harper as high scorer for the game.

Von Luckner Thrills Students With Adventures of His Life

(Continued from page one) examinations he joined the German Imperial Navy and became a lieutenant. He advanced rapidly in the navy. He was in the Battle of Jutland, the greatest sea battle of all time.

When the British fleet blockaded the North Sea Germany was cut off from the salt-peter mines of South America. It was useless for Germany to break through the blockade with steamships as she had no coaling stations. Von Luckner conceived the idea of running the blockade with an old windjammer.

When he had received permission to try his plan he proceeded to disguise his ship as a Norwegian sailing boat. This he succeeded in doing after long and painstaking preparations. Only 27 of his crew of 60 could speak Norwegian. He fixed up family papers for his men, forged papers for his ship and prepared to deceive the British.

In a most dramatic fashion the Count told of the night that he passed through the blockade. The British came on board his ship, and for two hours examined everything; they found all well, and then wished him bon voyage. Thus he commenced his work of preying on Allied commerce. The Count's ship destroyed 100,000 tons of salt-peter, sank a half million tons of enemy shipping, sent many ships to the bottom, cruised over 60,000 miles, but never did he destroy life.

To err is human; to forgive is miraculous.

INTRAMURALS TO START ON MONDAY

Closing Entries Today; Twenty-Six Dormitories and Frats Entered.

The annual Intramural basketball grind will begin next Monday, January 28. At present there are twenty-six entries in the league, thirteen each of the dormitories and fraternities. The closing date for entries is today. Following the custom of years gone by there will be three games running simultaneously, one on each of the three intramural courts in the Tin Can. As usual the games will begin at four o'clock and five o'clock in the afternoon.

The opening of the schedule has been delayed this season on account of inability to secure balls, but balls will be ready by Thursday at the latest and the individual groups will be allowed to get in three days practice before Monday. Some Intramural official will be at the Tin Can each afternoon beginning Thursday to issue balls for half hour practice sessions. These sessions will be held from four until six. This delay in opening should have given most of the entering teams ample time to take on some semblance of playing form, and enable the managers to draw some possible line on possible chances for the season's flag.

Hamilton Will Write Book on Southern States

(Continued from page one) ceedings and reports of educational bodies and institutions, fraternal orders, commercial, professional, philanthropic, religious, social, patriotic, and scientific organizations, and files of Southern newspapers.

The purpose of the plan is best described by saying that it is planned to gather anything and everything which may in any way throw light upon the past and present of the states of Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia,

DR. J. P. JONES
Dentist
Over Welcome-In Cafeteria
PHONE 5761

Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, and Texas.

Dr. Hamilton and the University of North Carolina approach this great undertaking in no narrow institutional

A good reporter knows instinctively what questions to ask.

Patronize TAR HEEL advertisers.

POPE-CROWDER CO.
Chapel Hill, N. C.
More Goods for Same Money—
Same Goods for Less Money
Everything—That's All!

Still Going On

Lacock's Big Shoe Sale on

NUNN-BUSH
JOHNSON-MURPHY
SMITH SMART SHOES
JOHN C. WINTER BRITISH FOOTWEAR

It Enables You to Save 25 to 50 Per Cent. on Your Footwear.

It's Your Big Savings Opportunity

Lacock's Boot Shop

Figure This Out for Yourself

DRINK

SHERRY COLA

A
"Tingle in Every Glass"

and

Light up any good cigarette—a Camel, Chesterfield, Old Gold, or even a Lucky.

Remember
Sherry Cola and a Good Cigarette

Enjoy Both

Patterson Bros.

PHONE 5514

From old kettle to new world

SOMEbody has to believe in the big possibilities of little things. James Watt saw the lid of his tea-kettle dance—and today our civilization is built largely on steam. In the field of communication, Bell saw the possibilities of a little vibrating diaphragm. Today from the telephone at his elbow a man talks to his next-door neighbor or across the continent, just as he chooses.

Men in the telephone industry, in commercial and administrative as well as technical work, are constantly proving that little suggestions, little ideas, little changes, when smoothly fitted into the comprehensive plan, may be big in possibilities of better public service.

BELL SYSTEM

A nation-wide system of inter-connecting telephones

"OUR PIONEERING WORK HAS JUST BEGUN"