

DUKE WINS FROM HEELS FOR FIRST TIME SINCE 1921

Carolina Suffers First Loss in "Big Five"; Second in Conference.

North Carolina lost to Duke in basketball Saturday night in Durham 36 to 20 for the first defeat the Tar Heels have suffered at the hands of their neighboring rivals since the season of 1921. The outcome of Saturday's contest marks Carolina's second defeat in the Southern Conference this season and the first loss in "Big Five" basketball this year.

Each team used seven players. Coach Ashmore sent Henry Satterfield, usually a high scoring ace, into action when Duke was leading 14 to 4 after about ten minutes of play. When Satterfield went into the game he replaced Price, playing at left guard, and Captain Hackney was moved to Price's post at guard with Satterfield taking the forward position.

Croson was the main scoring gunner for the Dukemen. The big center, only recently eligible, not alone starred in this respect, but he held Harper, the Heels' giant pivot man, scoreless for the evening. Croson accounted for 15 points of Duke's total score.

Duke's shooting and passing were very accurate and defense was very effective. The Durham aggregation outplayed the Tar Heels in both periods, holding a ten-point lead at the end of the first half, which closed 18 to 8. The Devils proved sure-shots on the offense in the second half, but the Heels picked up four points in that period.

Carolina's engagement with Duke marks the last appearance of the White Phantoms in the state until they meet Wake Forest in Chapel Hill on the eleventh. Coach Ashmore's proteges leave tomorrow for a northern tour which will include two Conference games with Virginia and Maryland, and a contest with Princeton.

Girls Move Into New College Structure

Those students and faculty members of Louisburg College who were housed in the main dormitory and annex before those two structures were destroyed by fire in December, were moved into the newly completed Franklin County Building last Saturday. This greatly relieves the bad housing situation which has existed at the Louisburg institution since the fire there in early December.

It is expected that the burned buildings will soon be restored and made ready for occupancy.

Perfume in paste form is now made.

Boxers and Wrestlers Down Virginia Foes

A quadruple alliance of wrestling and boxing teams of the University of North Carolina valiantly repelled a Virginian invasion last Saturday by securing a four-sided victory over V. P. I. and V. M. I. Two Southern Conference Champions entered the struggle; one retained his crown, the other fell by the wayside.

When the V. P. I. Gobblers left the mat Saturday night, they had been met by the first defeat that had overtaken them in three years. The meet which ended with the Tar Heel wrestlers hanging to a 22 to 8 score was featured by the aggressiveness of the Carolinians and the stellar work of Stallings, Woodard and Zealy. Zealy, 125-pounder for North Carolina, gave Andes the first defeat of his career. Last year Andes carried the colors of V. P. I. to the Olympic finals.

The Tar Heel boxing team, Southern Conference champs of last year, easily defeated the V. M. I. challengers to the tune of 6 to 1. In every weight except the light heavy the Tar Heels displayed marked superiority over the Virginia Cadets. Sheffield, in the 125 pound class gained a knockout in the first round over Mallory, V. M. I. Captain Brown, defending the 160 pound division, obtained a technical knockout from Koholt in the third round.

The Tar Baby wrestling team with a 21 to 11 victory over the V. P. I. youngsters in the early afternoon won for North Carolina the first honors of the day. Each team scored one fall out of eight bouts; the Tar Heels gaining their victory on time decisions.

Following this match the Tar Baby boxers locked horns with the V. M. I. yearlings and nosed their way to a 4 to 3 victory. Wanger, V. M. I., in the first round won a technical knockout from Redwine, defender of the welterweight class.

"Puny" Harper, gigantic center on the Tar Heel basketball squad, is one of the most versatile athletes in the University. Harper plays tackle in football, although he has never played quite enough to rate a letter, and he is one of the finest weight heavers in Southern Conference track circles. He won the discus throw in the Conference meet at Baton Rouge, La., in 1927. Harper hails from Pittsboro, N. C., a little town about fifteen miles from the University.

"Puny" Harper and Henry Satterfield, stars of the University of North Carolina's crack basketball squad, present a study in contrasts. Harper is the largest man on the squad and probably the largest cage player in the state, while Satterfield is not far from the smallest. Both are stars on the hardwood court, and both star in spring sports. Harper is a weight heaver on the track squad, and Satterfield is a star shortstop in baseball.

THE SPORT PAN

By YARBOROUGH

CAROLINA SPORTSMANSHIP?

How do those fanatics on the subject of sportsmanship at the University reconcile their belief in the existence of such a thing here with the conduct of the students at the past two basketball games? That is a question that we put in all seriousness to every student, every member of the faculty, and every alumni who believes that there is such a thing as sportsmanship in existence at the University. We do not mean to include the athletic teams in this general indictment of the sportsmanship on the campus, but we mean to call to account every person in the stands at the Virginia and V.P.I. games who howled over the decisions of the referee, who derided the opposing players when they made bad plays, and who sought in the height of their imbecility to tell the Carolina courtmen how to play. Not only did they betray their gross ignorance of the game, but they condemned every student at the University as one so unfamiliar with the simple rules of sportsmanship that even the common courtesies due one gentleman from another could not be observed.

If the individual responsibility could be placed the students could well claim that sportsmanship still exists here, but the performance of the Carolina students at those two games is enough to brand every one of us as nothing short of the lowest forms of humanity, that form that is unable to face a battle without the cowardice so apparent in the stands on those two occasions marking every move we make.

This is the responsibility of every student at the University. If we are to maintain that we are gentlemen, that we know the simplest rules of sportsmanship, that we are nothing short of gutless human beings, we must end the apparent wave of howling that mars every basketball contest played in the Tin Can last week.

THE TEAM

Besides the effect of this asinine howling of the spectators on the visitors to the University it has an unfortunate effect on the team. It is impossible for a player to play his best game when there is a bunch of insignificant numbskulls in the stands laughing at any of their misplays. Some of these boys in the stands were so dumb that they couldn't even understand the fundamentals of the game without attempting to understand some of the intricacies of the game. Yet those same boys sit back and act like several overgrown morons and laugh when some boys who at least have the guts to go out for some sport and give more to the University than a black eye.

33 GAMES!
What about the baseball team scheduling 33 games for the spring quarter? Evidently they are planning to take on everything in this section of the country or they are going to play some of these teams around here several times. Under ordinary circumstances it would not be surprising to have a schedule calling for that many games. But when the veterans who will be back in togs this year are considered one finds an amazing lack of hurlers.

There is no doubt that the team proper will be able to stand up under a schedule of that kind, but it does seem that the moundsmen are going to be worked over time. So far as can be ascertained at the present writing there will be only one varsity hurler back in uniform when Coach Ashmore gets his men together for outdoor work.

MORE WINTER WORK
"Nap" Lufty told us the other day that the pitchers and catchers were already working. Someone with forethought figured out that with the heavy schedule the team will undertake this year that anyone who ever thought they could pitch ought to get out and start getting warmed up for the games. One thing is a sure bet, they will have little time to warm up during the regular season.

The captain of this year's nine also said that regular workouts would commence before very long. Some of the boys couldn't wait for regular practice to begin, they were out in football equipment trying their hitting ability the second day of winter football practice.

Captain Harry Schwartz, leader of the University of North Carolina football squad during the 1928 season, has played his last game for his old Alma Mater, but he is still working for the Tar Heel interests. He is assisting the coaches with winter football up at the University, devoting his attention to the young centers on the squad. Gilreath and Belton, up from last year's freshman squad, appear likely candidates for Schwartz' old pivot post next fall.

"Blues" Beat "Greys" In Saturday's Game

Instead of the regular game Saturday, a game was played between the "Blues" and the "Greys," teams composed of members of the four regular winter football teams. The game ended with the "Greys" leading 12 to 7. Erickson and Branch led the attack of the "Greys" and their playing was the feature of the game. In the first quarter, Houston threw a long pass to Nelson for a gain of twenty-five yards and shortly afterwards a pass from Branch to Erickson scored the first touchdown. Chetty threw a pass to Finker in the second quarter for the second score.

The "Blues" lone touchdown came in the second quarter after a pass from Wagner to Spaulding, an off-tackle run by Nash, and a short pass from Wagner to Nash.

New teams were substituted at the beginning of the third period and the entire squad was used before the final whistle blew.

"South Carolina" and "Virginia" are scheduled to play Wednesday, ever, as two of the three old veterans, Blackwood, Wagner, and Nash. Coaches Enright and Howard will choose the remainder of the team from the following: Packard, Anglin, Grindstaff, Brown, Ruelh, Gorman, Belton, Whedbee, Dunavant, Gregory, Pork, Bell, Chetty, Paxton, J. A. Branch, McAllister, Suggs, and Finker.

"Virginia" boasts of five lettermen: Adkins, Wyrick, Jackson, House, and Maus. Besides these five, the squad is composed of the following: Brennon, Tabb, Morbeck, Graham, Kerr, Wilson, Gilbreath, Rosenfield, Holmes, Blumberg, Edson, Morris, Porter, Brown, McConnel, Mazyck, Craig, and Heller. This team is coached by Sapp and Cerney.

Duke Freshmen Lick Tar Babies

Saturday night over at Duke the Tar Babies ran into the stiffest opposition of the season and went down in defeat before the strong attack of the Blue Imps. The score, which was forty to thirty-five, fails to indicate the closeness of the fray. At the end of the regular period of play the score was tied at thirty-three all. A five minute extra period was added and the Duke frosh succeeded in ringing up seven more points while the Carolina freshmen were able to account for only two.

Beaver and Adams led the Duke attack and were outstanding by their floor work. Johnny Greene, flashy forward, led the fight for Coach Belding's men and was also high scorer with a total of twelve points.

This game marked the first loss of the current season for the Carolina freshmen. Until now the freshmen have experienced little or no trouble in downing all opposition. This was their last game before they start their trip to Virginia the latter part of this week.

Phonograph records that can be folded up in a cigarette case have appeared in England.

Proves the Parker Duofold is "The College Pen"

In a canvass of 13 technical schools (names on request) it was found that as many students owned a Parker Duofold Pen as owned the next two nearest makes combined, and more would buy a Duofold next time than the next three combined.

There are several reasons. One is Parker Pressureless Touch—Geo. S. Parker's 47th Improvement—known the world around as the means to tireless writing.

28% lighter than a rubber pen, this weight alone brings the pen into action the moment point touches paper. No strain. No fatigue. This relieves finger pressure. Smooth and steady ink-flow no matter how fast you write.

No interruptions, no intrusions. A clear track for clearer THOUGHT, and better grades on papers.

Five flashing colors and a new, modern Black and Pearl. Then a "guarantee forever against all defects, so these Parker benefits are everlasting.
