SAYS JUDICIAL SYSTEM CUSSED ON EVERY HAND

Tells Law Fraternity of the Failings of the Legal Profession.

W. J. Brogden of Durham, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, was chief speaker at the meeting of the Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, following its initiation exercises, which were held Thursday night.

Judge Brogden began his talk with the statement that today we hear cussings on every hand concerning our judicial system. "They cuss the courts; they cuss the judges; they cuss the juries and everyone else connected with the judicial system.

"Our courts in North Carolina today offer the most simple and concise system that can be obtained. One party simply files a paper stating that another has done him wrong. The other files his paper denying the charges, and then the parties proceed to trial.

"We are today in an age of standardization; men and women must have a degree. The high schools, colleges, and law schools are all made to conform to a certain standard.

"There is a difference in law observance and law enforcement. Our trouble today is a lack of law observance.

"Delay in the proceedings of the law is criticised. The reason is congested dockets. One remedy that has been suggested is to limit the right of appeal. Some states have already taken a step towards this, but in North Carolina we grew up with the idea that every case, no matter how small, should be tried by the same tribunal that hears the highest cases.

"Another suggestion is to increase the number of judges. In 1889 our Supreme Court heard 208 appeals. Now we hear 800 per year.

"During the year 1926-27 there were 13,892 criminal cases tried in North Carolina. Of this number only about eleven per cent were acquitted. This makes the odds are nine to one against the man who defends.

"Stand by the courts of your state. They must not yield too much to the pressure from the outside. They must stand as an unchanging guaranty that the humblest as well as the greatest may, with equal deliberation, and with equal justice, share the machinery of the law together with its progress. Preserve, hold to, and cherish the ideals of justice."

Appropriate Funds To Improve Campus

The Legislature last week passed a bill which gives the grounds committee of the University $30,000 to be used in work on the campus during the next two years. The larger part of this, says Dr. W. C. Coker of the committee, will be used on South Campus, and the work will soon be begun on this area. Grading will be done, the railroad tracks will be removed, and a labyrinth of paths connecting the buildings will be laid out.

The grounds committee has just had some of the unsightly footpaths on the campus dug up and planted in grass, and Dr. Coker says that he hopes this will be the last time this work will have to be done. However, he is not optimistic over the prospects, for these trails are replanted and worn smooth again about twice a year.

Give Concert at Meeting of Southern Musical Education Conference.

The University of North Carolina, Glee Club, just recently returned from their second appearance in Asheville during the last two weeks, left in their wake much enthusiasm among the Asheville townspeople and visitors over the concert which they gave there on Wednesday night. Appearing jointly with Mieczyslaw Munz, masterful Polish pianist of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, they called forth much applause and comment among the large crowd of national musicians gathered for the biennial Southern Musical Conference. Included in the number of invited guests that thronged the Hugh Civic Auditorium were 400 music teachers, representing every southern state, 400 high school boys and girls from all the states of the South, and 75 of the most prominent musicians of the north and middle west. Owing to the length of the evening's program, no encores were given by the Glee Club, although many were demanded. Other highlights in the conference which the Glee Club attended were the All-Southern High School Orchestra and Choral Meetings which featured Friday night's program. The former organization included 150 juvenile musicians and the latter 265 voices of excellent quality. Among the speakers on the week's program were Professor Paul John Weaver and Dr. N. W. Walker, both of the University of North Carolina. BAGBY TO TALK TO DEBATE SQUAD

Will Discuss Psychological Aspects of Loyalty in American Colleges.

Professor English Bagby, of the department of Psychology, will speak at the regular weekly meeting of the debate class Thursday night in 201 Murphey at 7:30. Professor Bagby will discuss the psychological aspects of the proposition that loyalty is the curse of the American colleges. In consideration of the fact that this will be the last meeting of the class before the try-out for the team which will meet Harvard, he expects to confine his address almost entirely to the negative side of the proposition. The Carolina team will uphold this side of the argument.

The squad which will represent Carolina against Harvard will be chosen on the night of March 28. The competitive system will be used. The team will be composed of two men. The usual debate squad requirement will be enforced; that is, no student shall be eligible for the team who is not an active member of the organization. Law students are eligible for the team.

Harvard's unrivaled prestige in forensic activities together with the fact that Carolina and Harvard have not met in a debate for a number of years has created a great deal of interest in this particular debate which will be held in Chapel Hill on the night of April 9.

STATE STUDENTS PAY IN CASH FOR CUTTING CLASSES

Recent Ruling of Faculty Causes Much Adverse Criticism from Techmen.

That every student who misses a class without an excuse shall be required to pay a fine of fifty cents was a plan adopted by the general faculty of North Carolina State College at a meeting on March 2. It is hoped that the scholarship of the institution will be raised thereby.

The plan also rules that a student shall either make up or receive a zero on all written work missed for any reason, the make-up work to be done under the supervision of an advanced student or an instructor approved by the department that the work is in. Furthermore, a fee of fifty cents will be charged for the make-up unless the absence is excused by the dean of students, and this fee will be one dollar if the student fails to present himself for the work, unless the absence is excused by the instructor in the course.

There has been much adverse criticism of the plan, the students are radically opposed to it, and some have even said that they would leave the school if such a plan was put into effect. It appears that they will have to leave, for, according to President Brooks, the plan will go into effect at the beginning of the third term, March 14, 1929.
