

Cindermen Will Hold Doubleheader Today

Varsity Boys to Tackle V. P. I. Gobblers, While Frosh Engage Combined Team from Greensboro and Wilmington High Schools.

Only the mist of several hours time separates the University of North Carolina trackmen from their first foe of the season. While Captain Henderson is leading his varsity teammates against the Gobblers from V. P. I., Carolinas's aspiring yearlings will compete for cinder honors against a dual threat in the form of a combined team from Greensboro and Wilmington Highs.

V. P. I. presents as its outstanding men, Captain Penn, who in a recent meet with Davidson captured first place in both the mile races and second in the 880, and Shanklin, who placed well up in the sprints at the Southern Conference meet at Birmingham last spring. These two men form the nucleus for the Virginia team but they are backed by strong assistance in both the sprints and the field events. Peak of football fame is also expected to enter the meet today.

Harold Osbourne and Morgan Taylor, two world record holders, have been training the V. P. I. squad this spring and have assisted the Gobblers in their preparation for the Carolina meet.

Wilmington and Greensboro have two of the strongest high school teams in the state. In the recent meet held at Davidson, Wilmington finished second and Greensboro third, Charlotte having captured first honors. In a dual meet with Charlotte, Wilmington almost deadlocked the score with the strong western team, losing by the margin of only a few points. With these two schools uniting their strength, Carolina's first-year men should have their hands full of keen competition. A number of freshmen from these two cities will be running today against their teammates of last year. Among these are to be found Farmer from Wilmington and Phoenix from Greensboro.

North Carolina will lay its hopes today upon nine lettermen who remain from the team of last year; these men, headed by Captain Johnny Henderson who enters the meet as premier two-miler of the south, are: J. K. Smith, sprinter, Harrison in the 440, Nims competing for the first time in the 880, Harper and Adkins with the weights, and Barkley and Fisher as milers, and Cowper in the vault. All of these men have met the keenest competition of the South and will enter the meet tomorrow as veterans and lettermen; however Carolina might also rest its hopes upon the mass of new material that enters the college cinder world for the first time today. Besides this new material there are men on the squad who saw action last year but failed to earn their monograms.

The Gobblers rolled in yesterday, twenty-seven strong; Wilmington High also made her appearance yesterday, while Greensboro will be in town this morning.

Both meets begin this afternoon at two o'clock on Emerson Field.

"Bareback" Dresses Banned from School

From Jacksonville, Florida, comes the news of six high school girls being ordered out of the Robert E. Lee High School in that city for wearing "bareback" dresses, locally called "sunbacks," on the theory that the more skin exposed to the sunshine the healthier. Some of the girls, protesting indignantly, refused to "go home and put on more clothes."

"My mama approves and I don't think it's any teacher's business what I wear," declared one.

Superintendents in other schools said they saw nothing immodest in the latest fad, but Dean of Girls Marguerite Culp of the Robert E. Lee High School said she intended to have a showdown on the matter if her edict was not obeyed.

Press Turns Out Another New Book

The latest book published by the Carolina Press came out April 4th. This book "Science and Religion Today," was written by Thornton Whaling, and contains the McNair Lectures for 1927, given each year at the University. Dr. Whaling follows the provisions of the Foundation by confining his discussion to the connection between science and religion, and man will find his remarks stimulating and provocative. Dr. Whaling is Professor of Systematic Theology at Louisville Presbyterian Seminary.

Tar Babies Will Meet Danville Hi

The University of North Carolina freshmen will play their second home game of the season here next Monday afternoon. The Tar Babies will have as their opponents the strong Danville High School team. After dropping their first game to the Oak Ridge Cadets the Tar Babies are determined to get their revenge on the boys from the Virginia city. The freshmen have been improved since the Oak Ridge game, several weak positions having been bolstered. The lineup which saw service in the game last Monday was: Longest and Wall at first; McKinnon or Waterhouse at second; Branch at short; and Moore at third. In the outfield there are several good prospects. Belton, Dunlap, Cozart, Hutchinson, and Daniels are all showing up well. Chapman and Greene are the pitchers who have seen service thus far. However, there are one or two new pitchers who may see service next Monday. Bob Kushner seems to have the catchers berth cinched although Gill has shown up well as a receiver. A schedule which will be ready next week will include games with all the first year teams in the big five as well as a number of nearby high schools.

Plans Swimming Pool for the Hill

C. H. Weaver is planning to build a swimming pool along side the Durham Road on the outskirts of Chapel Hill. His proposed site is on the slope of the hill a little way this side of the one-mile bridge.

Or, he says, he may build a lake instead of a pool. He has not quite decided. He has acquired a large tract of land, running up along the highway and embracing the creek valley a half mile or so up from the bridge.

Engineering and sanitary experts have been engaged by him to make an examination of the ground, to estimate the volume of water that may be obtained from the creek, and to devise a method of so sterilizing the water that it will conform to modern health standards. He will not go ahead with his project until he has received final reports from these experts.

Jones Gives Talk Before Rotarians

As a feature of the weekly banquet program held by the Chapel Hill Rotary Club last Wednesday evening in the ball room of the Carolina Inn, Professor Howard Mumford Jones, of the University English department, read "The Education of Paul Gant," one of his own stories. The story, humorous to a certain extent, but in all true to life, was of a studious young man who sacrificed the greater portion of his life to study, obtaining in the end a doctor's degree with honors, which entitled him to teach in a University. His salary, however, was so low that he was forced to find other employment. As a happy conclusion, he obtained the job of janitor in his own apartment, upon which salary he and his wife could live very comfortably indeed.

Flora MacDonald Talent on the Air

Red Springs, April 4.—The faculty and students of the school of music of Flora MacDonald College, Red Springs, N. C., will broadcast from Station WBT, Charlotte, Monday, April 8th from 8:30 until 9:00 o'clock p. m. The program will consist of violin solos, vocal solos and piano solos.

Woodard To Lead 1930 Wrestlers

At a recent meeting of the varsity wrestling squad Wayne Woodard, of Bryson City, N. C., was chosen to lead the Tar Heel mat team next year.

Woodard, who wrestles in the 135-pound division, distinguished himself this season as one of the most outstanding 135-pound wrestlers in the South. He won most of his matches by falls. Very seldom is such an honor conferred on a rising Junior. This speaks plainly of Woodard's ability on the mat.

Since the reopening of the University in 1875 it has drawn students largely at North Carolina, at one time as high as 92 per cent. of the student body coming from within the state. The present average is around 82 per cent. Large numbers of North

FOUR RUN LEAD GIVES HEELS WIN

Ball Holds Generals after Mates Get Off To Comfortable Start.

The University of North Carolina baseball squad unlimbered the big guns early and scored a 7 to 5 victory over Washington and Lee on Emerson Field Thursday. It was the first Southern Conference Tri-State League battle for the Tar Heels.

Tom Cox, slender Tar Heel lead-off man, hopped on Gene White's third pitched ball in the first inning, spanking into deep left center for a home run. Henry Satterfield tripled behind Cox, and the dirty work was well started. Five hits and a sacrifice in succession counted four runs for the Tar Heels.

Ball Pitches Win

With such a lead, Jim Ball, veteran southpaw, rocked along in fine style until a streak of loose fielding got him in hot water. The generals staged a three-run rally in the seventh, but Ball held them down in the closing rounds. The Tar Heel worked a nice game and kept the Generals' nine blows pretty well divided.

Jim Barnhart and Jimmie Maus each pounded a pair of hits to lead the Tar Heel attack, although every member of the Carolina club except Jessup had at least one wallop. Jessup was up only once. Faulkner, General gardener, hit three times for the visitors.

Carolina students, however, have moved elsewhere to live and now one-third of the alumni live outside of North Carolina. So even though the University is the material property of a single state, it is a national institution whose influence knows no boundaries.—Tar Heel Topics.

The Manager of the Freshman Rifle Team has asked that all candidates for the team report at Memorial Hall this morning at eleven o'clock for a match with V. M. I. Any freshman who feels qualified to fire in the match is asked to report.

Professors Building

It is interesting to note the number of Professors that are having houses built or going to build houses this spring. Dr. English Bagby, Psychology professor is going to build an attractive lodge out in the western section of Chapel Hill. Prof. J. Minor Gynn is now building an attractive brick veneer bungalow on North St. And Prof. Mackie is to start soon on a residence on the Gingham road, and is to use a new type of colored plumbing.

A Novelty in '71—A Necessity Today

ACCORDING to old records the first passenger elevator in San Francisco was installed in a photographer's gallery on Montgomery Street in 1871.

Time has wrought great changes since then, and the San Francisco of today is a great city with many tall buildings in which Vertical Transportation is a necessity instead of a novelty.

From coast to coast, American cities are constantly growing; populations increase each year, and buildings mount higher and higher. The Otis organization, which pioneered the way with the world's first safe elevator, is today meeting the needs of the present and planning to anticipate the requirements of the future.
