

First Students After Civil War Lead Their Class Back in Reunion

Robert W. and Francis D. Winston, Who Raced for Honor of Being First Student, to Lead 50-Year Class Back to University at Commencement Time.

When the University re-opened its doors after the Civil War in 1875, two brothers staged a footrace over Strowd Hill and into the little University village for the honor of being the first student on the "Hill". Together they began their course, and together they finished, graduating in 1879, in the first four-year class after the Civil War.

This next month, exactly 50 years after, these same brothers will lead their class of fifty-year graduates back to the University for a commencement reunion and get-together. And what stories and reminiscences of the "good old days" may be expected.

They are well known, these two brothers. Francis Donnell Winston, he who with his short legs but long head, won the race, has been senator, assemblyman, judge, lieutenant governor. And Robert W., he who lost the race, has been legislator, judge, publicist, and author.

Commencement, the ever old and ever new, always promises its interest for the meetings of the "old grads" who come back to swap their yarns and tell their stories of "other days." But this year's commencement at the University promises to be of exceptional interest with these venerable old 50-year graduates scheduled to reunite again.

There will also be reuniting classes of 1, 10, and 25 years. Fourteen classes are scheduled for reunions in all, and a host of the old grads are expected back for the annual festivities.

General Albert L. Cox, of Raleigh, is chairman of the Reunion Committee, and the class secretaries and other officers are working on elaborate plans for the annual "Alumni Day," to come this year on June 8, second day of the four-day exercises.

Alumni Secretary Maryon Saunders announced today the preliminary program arranged for Alumni Day. It calls for a general get-together meeting at 10:30 o'clock, the annual alumni luncheon at 1 o'clock, a band concert at 4:30 o'clock, class suppers from 6 to 8 o'clock, and the annual Alumni Ball at 10 o'clock.

Large Delegation to Attend Conference

A great deal of interest is being taken in the Blue Ridge Conference to be held from June 14 to the 24th. Quite a number of Carolina students are planning to attend, and from present indications Carolina will be well represented in the conference.

The following men will go from here this year: K. W. Blair, J. C. Connolly, S. E. Crew, Clyde Dunn, J. C. Eagles, Jr., W. F. Humphries, P. A. Hunt, E. R. Hamer, J. D. Idol, F. M. James, J. R. Knott, J. A. Lang, Henry London, T. E. Marshall, Jr., John Miller, J. A. Park, Jr., H. N. Patterson, K. C. Wright, J. C. Williams, Claude Farrell, A. A. Perkins, R. M. Grey.

Several members of the faculty will also make the trip, including President H. W. Chase, Dean Francis Bradshaw, and Dr. Bagby of the English department.

German Club Moves Into New Quarters

The officers of the German Department have been recently moved from their old location in Murphy hall to the first floor of Saunders hall where they will occupy the rooms left vacant when the department of Commerce and Economics moved to Bingham hall, the new commerce building. Dr. C. B. Toy, head of the German department states that the accommodations at the new location are "very satisfactory."

NOTICE

The Debate Class will hold its regular weekly session tonight in 201 Murphey. Owing to the fact that several important matters are to come up, the secretary of the class urges that every member be present. The secretary also urges that those who are taking the course get their term papers in to him at an early date.

Dr. Crowell Will Address Whitehead Medical Society

Dr. A. J. Crowell, well-known Gynecologist and Surgeon of Charlotte will address the Whitehead Medical Society in Caldwell Hall, Friday evening, May 10, at 7:30.

Dr. Crowell is head of the Crowell Clinic of Charlotte and is probably the best known man in his field in the State. His lecture should be of interest to the general public as well as to those who are studying medicine. For this reason a cordial invitation is extended to anyone interested to attend this lecture. Pre-Medical students, and especially those who have been accepted for admission to the Medical School for next year, are urged to attend.

YACKETY YACK IS DISTRIBUTED

1929 Annual Has Many New Features; Is Out Earlier Than Ever Before.

The 1929 Yackety Yacks have arrived and are now being distributed from the office in the basement of Alumni to the students. The new annual is complete with views and cuts of the campus and with pictures of the members of the junior and senior classes and of the members of the fraternities.

The color scheme of the book is red, gold, and green. The cover and fly leaves are of dark red with inscriptions and borderings in gold, and the first pages of the sections are in red, green and light gold. The pages in the Alumni, Faculty, and University sections have green borderings, while the pages of the other sections are bordered in gray.

The success of the new issue of the year book is due mainly to the work of Junius G. Adams, the editor-in-chief, and his staff of assistants. The features and innovations of the book are the work of Adams, whose past experience as assistant to the editor enabled him to direct the preparations of the 1929 issue. The assistant editors were Robert Hovis, Travis Brown, and Linwood Harrell. Will Yarborough had charge of the athletic section.

Guy Hill, business manager, was instrumental in obtaining the early delivery of the annual. He was aided in the business work by Fleming Wiley and a staff of assistants. Claude Farrell was in charge of the advertising.

The faculty section is composed of the pictures of the ten professors chosen by the senior class as the most representative members of the faculty. The pictures of ten girls chosen by the editors comprise the Vanity Fair section. The individual pictures of the fraternity houses are omitted in the new issue.

A section is devoted to each of the major sports, with pictures of the stars on the various teams. A copy of the schedule with the scores and a resume of the season of each team is included in the athletic sections. The coaches and managers appear with their teams. The teams in the minor sports are listed together in one section.

The Yackety Yack is dedicated to the late Dr. Andrew Henry Patterson, teacher here for 20 years and dean of the School of Applied Science until his death last September. Dr. Patterson was an alumnus of the University and retained his interest in the students and their activities while he was a member of the faculty.

The present supply of Yackety Yacks has been exhausted and further delivery must be held up until Monday afternoon at two o'clock, according to Guy Hill.

Crockford to New York

Dr. H. D. Crockford of the Chemistry Department left on Sunday for New York City, where he will attend the National Exposition of Chemical Industries during the present week.

FULL PROGRAM IS ANNOUNCED FOR SCIENCE MEETING

North Carolina Group to Assemble at N.C.C.W. Tomorrow and Saturday.

Greensboro, May 8.—The leading scientists in colleges of North Carolina have places on the program which Dr. H. R. Totten, Chapel Hill, has announced for the 28th annual meeting of the North Carolina Academy of Science in Greensboro at North Carolina College for Women tomorrow and Saturday.

Perhaps the greatest public interest will be in the Friday evening meeting in the auditorium of Students building when Dr. J. P. Givler, chairman of the N. C. C. W. science group, will make an address of welcome and the annual address of the president will be heard. J. S. Holmes, state forester, is president of the academy. His address will be on "A State Forest Policy for North Carolina."

There will be three general sessions of the academy, one opening on Friday at 10:30 a. m., another that afternoon at 2:30 p. m., and the third on Saturday morning at nine a. m. Separate meetings of the chemical, physics and mathematical sections will be heard on Saturday.

One of the most interesting figures in the general sessions will be Dr. E. W. Gudger, of the American Museum of Natural History, of New York, whose subject will be "A Pug-Head Sea Bass." Ten years ago Dr. Gudger left his position as head of the biology department at N. C. C. W., to take his present post. He was one of the State's leading scientists and teachers. He is a past-president of the academy of science and is termed one of the mainsprings of its organization.

The meeting will bring exhibitions by Jay R. Traver, of N. C. C. W., on aquatic insects, Earl H. Hall, of N. C. C. W. on an ophioglossom fern found around Greensboro, and by several others.

The physics meeting on Saturday at 9 a. m., will be presided over by W. T. Wright, of N. C. C. W., its chairman. Presenting papers will be G. D. Collins, Olin B. Ader and J. Chester Swanson, of Duke University, E. K. Plyler, Theodore Burdine, M. W. Trawick, Otto Stuhlman, Jr., and T. J. Steele, of the State University, and H. B. Barney, of State College.

J. W. Lasley, of the State University, is chairman of the mathematics section meeting at 10:30 a. m., on Saturday. Presenting papers will be the chairman, Edward T. Browne, and E. A. Cameron, of the State University, and W. W. Elliott, of Duke University.

Chemical section, meeting at the North Carolina section of the American Chemical society, will meet at 9 a. m., and again at 2 p. m., on Saturday. Presiding will be L. G. Willis, of State College. Papers will be given by H. B. Arbuckle and H. S. Davidson, Jr., of Davidson College; A. S. Wheeler, D. R. Ergle, E. H. Edminister, H. V. Harshman, H. D. Crockerford, L. E. Warraick, R. B. Norton, F. K. Cameron, R. W. Bost, J. T. Dobbins, W. M. Mebane, H. A. Ljung, R. A. Lineberry, J. G. Park, R. F. Abernethy, F. C. Vilbrandt, E. R. Ward, C. L. Thomas, W. J. Mattox, A. E. Hughes, J. M. Bell and S. M. Martin, all of the State University; Paul Gross, of Duke University; L. F. Williams, J. R. Piland, H. M. Sigman, G. R. Shelton, F. E. Rice and H. M. Thompson, of State College.

Connally and Uzzell In Freshman Debate

W. E. Uzzell and W. E. Connally represented the Carolina Freshmen in their debate with the Davidson Freshmen in Gerrard Hall last night before a very enthusiastic audience of students and village folks. The Tar Heel team upheld the negative side of "Resolved, That the jury system should be abolished in civil cases." The Davidson yearlings presented the case of the affirmative.

Upholding the affirmative side of the same question Harry Gump and Ben Aycock engaged the Wake Forest Freshmen at Wake Forest.

The winners had not been ascertained at the time the Tar Heel went to press last night.

Golden Fleece Tapping Tonight Is Causing Much Speculation on Campus

Special Train Will Carry Students To Carolina-Virginia Game Saturday

A special train will carry the University of North Carolina student body to Greensboro Saturday for the annual Carolina-Virginia baseball game, carded for the Gate City's Memorial Stadium at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

This game, long acknowledged as the outstanding attraction of the Dixie collegiate season, is expected to draw a crowd of more than 10,000 people this year, and among the fans will be close to 2,000 Carolina students, all pulling for a Tar Heel victory.

The special train, put on by the Southern Railway, will leave Chapel Hill here at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and arrive in Greensboro before noon. It is scheduled to leave Greensboro at 11:55 Saturday night for the return trip. Excursion rates will make it possible for practically all University students to follow their baseball team that day.

Plans are already laid for a colorful pilgrimage. The University students will parade up Elm Street upon arrival in Greensboro, led by their cheerleaders and the 40-piece University band. They will occupy their own cheering section at the game Saturday afternoon, and on Saturday night will be guests of the two girls' colleges in Greensboro at the annual receptions that have become post-game features of the Carolina-Virginia classic.

Ten Possible Prospects Are Picked by the Reviewer with Farris, Gray and Holder Heading the List; Gardner to Speak.

With the approach of the Golden Fleece's annual tapping tonight interest on the campus is mounting. Also, as in the past, speculation is rife as to whom the Fleece will select for this honor, the highest bestowed upon a student at the University.

In past years there have usually been several outstanding men who were candidates for this honor, but the number has usually been small. This year, despite the apparent lack of interest in affairs by students, there is a larger number of men who may be considered as possibilities for the honor.

Governor O. Max Gardner will be the principal speaker on the program tonight.

Following precedent established many years ago, the Tar Heel again publishes a list of men worthy of consideration.

Ray Farris, Charlotte, N. C., by virtue of being president-elect of the student body and captain-elect of football, stands at the head of the Tar Heel's list. The Charlotte boy has been outstanding in football for two years. Breaking into varsity competition as a guard late in the season, he soon became the outstanding lineman in "Big Five" circles. He was selected on the mythical All-State team for two years. Beside his football ability, Ray is vice-president of the Monogram Club, a member of the Grail, and was president of the junior class. He is a member of the Sigma Phi Sigma fraternity.

Gordon Gray, Winston-Salem, N. C., was recently installed as president of the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic fraternity. Maintaining almost a perfect average during his first eight quarters in the University, the Winston-Salem boy made all but one A on his courses. Besides Phi Beta Kappa honors, he has been business manager of the Carolina Magazine during the past year, a member of the Yackety Yack staff, assistant manager of baseball, and a member of the basketball squad. He is a member of the Minotaurs (Sophomore social order) and the Gimghouls (junior social order), and is a commencement marshal. Gray is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity.

Glenn Holder, Greensboro, N. C., has been outstanding in the publication field at the University. First as the star freshman reporter, then as managing editor, assistant-editor, and finally as Editor of the Tar Heel, he has learned the publication game from the bottom up. He will edit the daily Tar Heel next year. During the present year he has served as secretary of the Publications Union Board, been a member of Sigma Upsilon literary fraternity, a member of the Magazine staff, a member of Epsilon Phi Delta, Amphoterthen, and the junior class executive committee. He is a member of Sigma Delta social fraternity.

Travis Brown, Charlotte, N. C., has been elected Editor of the 1930 Yackety Yack. Before climaxing his publication efforts with this honor, he served as section editor of the book, Assistant Editor of the book, and as a member of the Publications Union Board. He is a member of the Grail, Epsilon Phi Delta, track squad, Amphoterthen, and has been in the Y. M. C. A. cabinet. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta social fraternity.

Junius Adams, Asheville, N. C., edited the 1929 Yackety Yack, managed and captained the 1928 and 1929 golf teams, and is at present vice-president of the Southern Conference Golf Association. Serving for two years on the Yackety Yack staff he was selected as editor last year in the campus elections. His greatest achievement lies in the establishing of golf on a sound basis at the University. He is vice-president of the German Club, a member of the Sheiks (sophomore order), the Gorgon's Head (junior social order), the German Club executive committee, student activities committee, and was assistant-leader of the Gorgon's Head dance as well as commencement marshal. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity.

PHI ASSEMBLY DISCUSSES STRIKE

After Much Talk Assemblymen Come to No Decision as to What Should Be Done.

The Phi Society decided to install next year's officers before the end of the spring quarter.

The meeting of the Phi Assembly for May 7, 1929, was called to order by Speaker Crumpler as usual. The roll was called and the minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

The bill: Resolved, that it is the opinion of the Phi Society that our state government pursued the right methods in settling the recent mill strike disagreements in North Carolina.

Splendid arguments were presented by both sides. Representative Hobgood was of the opinion that the state government used the right methods in settling the recent strikes disagreements in N. C. He argued that if troops had not been sent, disorder would have been more prevalent.

Representative Wilkinson argued that the previous speaker was wrong in his opinion because the sending of troops was out of order. He declared the worker's only weapon was the prevention of other people's employment during strikes and the sending of troops prevented the use of their only weapon of defense. He stated that furthermore if troops were going to prevent the use of this one weapon in time to come a pleasant class would develop in N. C.

Representative Carr was of the opinion that a strike should be settled by the course it takes. Representative Baldwin condemned the state's sending troops to Gastonia and the after actions of the troops on the ground that the actions were uncalled for. The mill class is emotional and the troops only served to arouse the mill workers' emotions.

Representative Taylor disagreed with the state's actions because North Carolina has no minimum wage laws.

A motion was made and seconded that a vote be taken. A deadlock occurred in the vote. Consequently it was necessary for the speaker to cast his vote. He decided in favor of the negative, and it was concluded that the majority of the opinions were contrary to the state's action.

Before adjournment a committee was appointed to revise the constitution of the society at an early date.

City Elections Pass Off in Quiet Manner

The Chapel Hill city elections passed off rather quietly Wednesday inasmuch as there were no contestants for the offices. The voting was light, only 102 votes being cast.

Zeb Council was reelected mayor; C. L. Eubanks, M. E. Hogan, and M. G. Braune were elected to serve as Aldermen for the next four years. Three aldermen are elected every two years in order to maintain a consistent program of activities.

The bill providing a Recorders court was passed by a vote of 93 to 8. This will make it possible for the prompt settlement of minor offenses which previously have had to be carried to Superior court. A Recorder will be chosen some time in the near future.

HEEL SCIENTIST HOME FOR MEET

Dr. E. W. Gudger, Fish Specialist to Attend Meeting in Greensboro.

Greensboro, May 8.—Dr. Eugene W. Gudger, 15 years a popular professor of biology at North Carolina College for Women, and long a member and once president of the North Carolina Academy of Science, will be staging a homecoming on Friday when the Academy convenes here for its two-day annual meeting.

Dr. Gudger, who is starred on the list of the nation's 1,000 leading scientists and is one of the foremost authorities on fishes in the country, will be attending his first meeting since he left the State nine years ago to take an important research position with the American Museum of Natural History.

He is now Bibliographer and Research Associate in the Department of Ichthyology (which translated means plain fishes) of the American Museum of Natural History. He will bring to the Academy this year a paper on this his favorite study, the subject being "A Pug Headed Sea Bass," which Dr. Gudger has just discovered.

Dr. Gudger, a native of Waynesville, received his Ph. D. degree at Johns Hopkins in 1905 and was at North Carolina College for Women until 1915. He was secretary of the Academy for ten years from 1908-18 and was president in 1919. He has done much work in research in ichthyology and has written a number of interesting articles on the life histories, habits and embryology of fishes and on unusual methods of fishing practiced by primitive people. He is a member of a number of scientific societies, including the important Salmon and Trout Association of Great Britain in which he holds a corresponding membership.

Candler Now Oldest University Alumnus

The death of Dr. William Marshall Richardson, of Raeford, Fla., leaves to William Gaston Candler, of Candler, N. C., the title of the University of North Carolina's "oldest living alumnus," according to information from the Central Alumni Office today. Dr. Richardson died in his 98th year.

Mr. Candler, now a retired attorney, was a law student at the University in 1854-55, during the presidency of David L. Swain. He obtained his law license at the June 1885, term of Supreme Court which is believed to be the oldest law license held by any man in the State. Mr. Candler was born in Buncombe County, his father being an eminent lawyer of the ante-bellum days and a contemporary of the Vances, Woodfins, Davidsons and other outstanding jurists of the period.

Law Professors Attend Meeting

Dean McCormick, M. T. VanHecke, and R. H. Wettach of the Law School left Wednesday for Washington to attend the meeting of the American Law Institute which will be in session the 9, 10, and 11.
