War Fund Sweeps Toward Undisclosed Goal Carolina Takes On Powerful Penn Quakers In Philadelphia

Saturday Game Is Major Test For Tar Heels

By Lloyd Koppel

Carolina tackles its second inter-sectional contest of the first V-12 gridiron season this Saturday when once again a Tar Heel representation moves to Franklin Field, Philadelphia, to meet the Quakers from the University of Pennsylvania.

Playing their Northern opponent for the first time since 1939, the Tar Heels will be hard-pressed by the Penn outfit, defeated only once and out to avenge the 30-6 defeat suffered by George Munger's squad at the last meeting between the two schools. Those were in the days of "Sweet" Lalanne, George Stirnweiss, and a guy named Severin, however, and the dopsters on this year's contest place the boys from Philadelphia as heavy favorites.

Top Teams

The Penn team, made up almost entirely of V-12 transfers and veterans, remains one of the top teams in the country, playing undefeated ball until last week when they fought stubbornly against a strong Navy outfit, only to fall victim of the Middies' powerful reserve forces and lose 24-7.

They will be at full strength this Saturday with several members who were nursing injuries last week expected to be ready for the Carolina game. Frank Kane, veteran end, was unable to practice several days before the Middle contest because of an injured shoulder, and Les Zetty, the tackle who has played brilliantly all Fall, spent a day in the infirmary last week with a heavy cold, but both should

Eight-Count Them-Eight Beauty Queens Will Reign Supreme on Duke Weekend

Yearbook Heads Concoct Scheme

By Sam Whitehall

"And in the year 1943-44, not one, but eight coed beauties reigned supreme over the campus at the University of North Carolina."

Believing the old adage that it is impossible to please everybody, the 1944 Yackety-Yack, on the night of November 20, will sponsor the newest and most novel beauty contest ever to hit the campus, with the object of naming the eight most beautiful women at Carolina. The ancient Order of the Grail has planned the biggest single dance of the fall for that Saturday night, in Woolen gymnasium, following the Carolina-Duke entanglement.

On that Arabian night, amidst as much silk, satin, lace and frills as WPB rulings allow, a group of potential queens will be presented to the student body, and to seven secret and impartial faculty judges. After looking them over long and hard, these sages will retire and after lengthy deliberation, emerge with the names of the winners. This selected array of feminine charm and grace is destined for unfading fame within the pages of the beauty section of the annual.

Beauties in the making will be sponsored by the four sororities on campus, the fraternities, the Carolina Independent Coed Association, and the Graduate Women's Association. By the noon deadline on Saturday, November 13, each sorority will have turned in the names of three entries; each fraternity one entry; the CICA, which includes stray Greeks, six entries; and three entries will be in from the graduate women. These names are to be handed in to Margaret Fountain or Margery Martorell in the Yack office on the second floor of Graham Memorial.

Entry Rules

In case of a duplication of entries, the organizations sponsoring the same coed will be informed, and one of the two will select a new sponsor. Each coed entered in the contest must have a photograph of herself turned in to the Yackety-Yack office by noon on Wednesday, November 17. Failure to turn in a picture by this date will automatically disqualify an entry.

The Grail dance, from 8:30 to midnight, will cost the gentlemen seventy-five cents, "stag or drag." Gals will attend the Beauty Ball attired in long dresses with all the trimmings.

The contesting beauties will be presented in a figure at nine o'clock, and the decisions made by the judges will be announced during intermission.

The revolutionizing of the method of picking the girls to be featured in the beauty section of the Yackety-Yack, came about this year after students had made many and long complaints to the effect that former judges had either been prejudiced, or the selections had been made absolutely on the basis of photographs, without even allowing the judges to see the people they were judging. In this way, the selections will be made on a combination basis, with judges considering both the merits of the coeds in person, and their photogenic potentialities. The names of the judges will not be made public until after the selections have been made, and Editor Karl Bishopric promised that "we have the most unbiased men on our faculty for the job."

Last year selections for the beauty section of the annual were made by student judges, and in the years before pictures of a large number of coeds were sent off to some well-known personality, who selected the assigned number without ever having seen the girls in person.

Further details concerning the Beauty Ball will be made in next week's issue of the TAR HEEL.

Campus Leaders Striving To Smash Old Figures

The all-campus war relief drive sped toward an undisclosed goal last night as first reports of contributions began to come in from canvassers, special gift collectors and V-12 representatives; and Co-Chairmen Julia Weed and Turk Newsome stretched their plan of a "short appeal" into a two-week campaign.

Coeds, Navy-men, civilians and Marines launched their door-to-door canvass early today, distributing pledge cards and accepting donations from Carolinians.

UNC Sends Large Group To Assembly

Chairman E. O. Brogden, AS, V-12, yesterday released details on Carolina's delegation to the Seventh Annual North Carolina Student Legislative Assembly to be held in Raleigh at the State Capitol Building, Friday and Saturday.

About 150 delegates from all over the state are expected to come to the assembly to discuss matters of "vital importance to state and national affairs." Host to the group is Pi Kappa Relta Forensic Fraternity of N. C. State College. The UNC delegates will be co-sponsored by the Debate Council and student government. The Assembly will run in accordance with parliamentary procedure.

The bill to be introduced by the UNC group is that "The Federal Government shall charter all corporations engaged in interstate commerce."

Organizations sending representatives include the Debate Council, Student Council, Woman's Government Association, Coed Senate, Carolina Political Union, Student Legislature, International Relations Club, YMCA, Carolina Independent Coed Association, Phi Assembly, and Dialectic Senate. The delegates, as they stand now, are Earl Pardue, Denny Hammond, E. O. Brogden, Reid Thompson, Lawrence Britt, John Steadman, Harvey Hamilton, Pug Upchurch, Mary Lou Truslow, Frances Erwin, Gene Byrd, Faison Thomson, Bill Crisp, Ralph Glenn, David Josephs, Bob Romand, Ben Perlmutter, Bill Britt, Lucy Lee Kennedy, Charles Harrington, and Jean Newton.

Last year, Carolina was officially represented at the Sixth Annual Assembly by eight delegates with Richard Bailey, executive secretary of the Debate Council, acting as its chairman. The bill they introduced was a resolution on post-war peace

Annual To Take Last Frosh Pics

Karl Bishopric, editor of the Carolina yearbook, urged all freshmen students who have not had their pictures made for the Yackety Yack to meet on the steps of South building tomorrow at 12:50. This will be the last time freshmen pictures will be made.

Fraternities and organizations on campus who desire pictures in the Y-Y should have these pictures in the Y-Y office by Sunday, midnight.

Along with his picture deadline, Bishopric asked that all photographers who desired to work with the Y-Y, contact the office in Graham Memorial in the very near future.

Odum To Speak At 'Y' Supper

First of a series of "Post-War Reconstruction" discussions, featuring Sociology department head, Dr. Howard W. Odum, will be initiated Thursday night at the regular bi-monthly YM-YWCA Supper Forum to be held in the Methodist church tomorrow night at 6:00 p. m.

Dr. Odum will lead the discussion on "The Planning Board Movement as a Pattern for Post-War Reconstruction." Tickets may be purchased from YMCA members or in the Y office for thirty-five cents until Thursday noon. Only 125 tickets will be sold. Y head Comer has especially invited V-12 and civilian males to attend.

Sound and Fury's 'Gadabout' Satirizes Anything and Everything in Chapel Hill

Fall Show Opens Thanksgiving Day

By Margaret Woodhouse

Some of the campus notables are going to see themselves coming and going when a rejuvenated Sound and Fury presents "Gadabout," a musical comedy parody on Carolina life, November 25, 26, and 27 in Memorial Hall.

Familiar personalities fit through the intrigue of a football week-end, complete with big name band, their collegiate-minded torch singer and the confusing, contradictory orders issued by the V-12 division of the Navy Department.

S&F History

Sound and Fury was originated in the spring of 1940 by Carroll McGaughey and Sanford Stein. Its first production was "One More Spring" followed by "Standing Room Only" and "Baghdad Daddy" given in 1941. All three of these were original shows, written and produced by students. The last official president, Ben Hall, left the organization in the hands of Libby Izen and Joan Kosberg.

The group was inactive last year and plans to revive it were made when Mary Louise Huse and Jack Ellis wrote the script and songs for "Gadabout." Outstanding among the tunes will be the title song "Gadabout," "I Knew You When" and "Big Love Song Blues" sung by Miss Kosberg. The directors would like to take the show on the road if the various details can be arranged with the administration heads. Cast

The cast is headed by Betty Don Sweat, soprano transfer from Ward-Belmont Junior College, who plays the part of Judy, a stagelocked coed. This is her first experience in musical comedy. The male lead, Tom Richards, the traditional football hero, is carried by Harold Gould. One of the semi-professionals in the cast, Gould drove a neighbor's car to California just for the ride, then thumbed his way into SOUND AND FURY'S photogenic chorus takes time out during Memorial hall rehearsals to pose for the Tar Heel lensman. As usual, S&F has gotten together a group of campus beauties for the chorus line and choreographer Libbie Izen is hard at work getting them all to lift the same leg at the same time.

"Gadabout" is the show and it's the first original one for S&F in a year. Unveiling will come on Thursday, November 25—one of the Thanksgiving days.

WGA Sets Up Scholarship Fund For Senior Coed

Applications for the new WGA $200 senior scholarship fund must be filed in the South building office of Ed Lanier by noon tomorrow.

The scholarship was set up last week by the Women's Government association and will hereafter be awarded in the spring to a rising senior. To qualify for the scholarship, the senior coed must have an above-C average, extra-curricular work to her credit and show need for the financial assistance.

At the same time, the senate voted to give $600 to the Athletic association. This money will be used to fit out a recreation room in the gym for visiting team entertainments and other social activities.

At last week's meeting, Kitty Kelly was elected campus-wide chairman of the War committee. Nine Breger will also serve on the committee with her.

Senate heads asked all subsidiary organizations to get their reports in to Carol Cobb as soon as possible.

Nominations Open For Student Council

Three civilians and three V-12ers must be elected to fill vacancies on the Student Council, Denny Hammond announced yesterday, in order to maintain the 8 to 7 civilian-Navy ratio established in the reorganization of the Council last year.

Nominations can be made to the Council at any time. They will be considered and recommendations will be submitted to the legislature for approval.
