Legislature Kills Proposal To Establish Voting Requirements

Petitions Pace Campaign For Abolishment Of Point System

Bill Set Up Limitation In Election Lists

By Sue Brubaker

The bill to establish residence requirements for voting in general campus elections was defeated, ten to five, by the student legislature when it met Thursday night.

Introduced by the Elections Committee, the bill would have limited voting and the right to hold any campus offices to those students who have been resident students in the university for a period of at least three months prior to the date of elections.

Purpose
The purpose of the bill was to eliminate the problem of having a large group voting in campus elections who had not had time to become familiar with the institutions of the university and to know the persons for whom they were voting.

The main objections to the bill were that it would not be fair to those, especially uninformed men, who were interested in student government, and would feel that they were being deprived of their right to representation. This argument was followed up by the opinion that establishing a residence requirement would not eliminate the problem of voters' not knowing the people for whom they were voting. The suggestion was made that "what we need is more adequate orientation, not the disenfranchisement of any percentage of the university students."

Another Objection

Another objection was that if the residence requirement would affect any large number of students, it would probably result in an unfair swinging of votes to the civilian students. On the other hand, if the bill would not affect any large proportion of the voting body, there would be very little necessity for passing it, and that it would probably cause unnecessary friction.

Voting privileges now remain the same as before. That is, any student enrolled in the university may vote at any general campus election.

Sunday Concert

An outstanding feature of the Sunday night concert in Graham Memorial this week will be Stravinsky's Firebird Suite. By way of contrast, works of Brahms, Wagner, and Mozart will be played.

Leading selections to be heard are The Academic Festival Overture, Brahms; Selections from "Tristan and Isolde", Wagner; and The "Don Giovanni" Overture, Mozart. The concert will be from 8:30 to 10:00 p.m.

Philanthropic Assembly Will Begin Discussion on Post-War Planning

The Philanthropic Assembly will inaugurate its first in a series of programs on post-war planning Tuesday night at 7:30 in Phi Hall on fourth floor of New East with a discussion on "Churches and a Just and Durable Peace," it was announced tonight by Speaker Frank Earnheart.

Representatives from all the Protestant, Jewish, and Catholic groups on the campus have been invited to attend this very important meeting. The YMCA and the YWCA will also participate in the discussion.

"The need has been great for some time for a meeting of representatives of all the religious groups on the campus on a neutral meeting ground to discuss this all important question which is so vital to our security and the peace of the world after the war is won," asserted Earnheart. "As the tide of war rises each day toward the crest of final victory it becomes more imperative that plans for a just and durable peace be formulated early, with concepts beyond that conceived of by the politicians."

Qualified
"The Phi Assembly, with its one hundred forty-eight years of service to the students, feels that no other organization is better qualified to act as host for such a gathering of all faiths," Earnheart stated. The Phi Assembly expressed hope that each and every student on the campus who regards the future of the United States in a cooperating world will take the time to take part in this meeting. #### SEC Will Present Operetta For Second Winter Program

By Bob Rolnik

On February 10, 11, and 12, the Student Entertainment Committee will present the second performance in its winter series with Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "The Yeomen of the Guard," produced jointly by the Carolina Playmakers and the Music department.

"The second stub in the SEC season booklet may be exchanged for a ticket to the operetta," explained Joe Salek, business manager of the Playmakers. "Twenty-five cents will be refunded to all those students who also have a Playmakers Season ticket."

"Joyful Evening"

John Toms, of the music department and Salek, co-directors of the show, promise the Memorial Hall audience a "melodious, joyful evening of music and romantic comedy." The production is one of the largest undertakings in the way of student entertainment which has been planned for the winter semester. The male chorus, which will be decked out in scarlet Beef-eater uniforms and the mixed chorus, representing merry old English townspeople are expected to add a great deal to the atmospheric and colorful scenery which has been designed.

A rehearsal schedule has been in effect since the quarter began and the "particularly large cast is now being whipped into the perfect coordination necessary to such a complicated production." The chorus is practicing separately and within the week the leading characters and the choral group will be brought together with the orchestra for the coordination of music and acting.

Leading Actors

The show brings together some of the leading University thespians and outstanding singers on the campus. Douglas Hume, speech professor on the Dramatic Arts staff takes over the popular role of the light-hearted, light-footed Jester, Jack Point.

House Canvas Adds Impetus To Coed Action

Action among co-eds in an attempt to bring about abolishment of the point system received impetus yesterday, when those backing the movement distributed petitions and placards among the co-eds.

The champions of the movement plan a door to door canvas of the girls' dormitories in order to get some consensus of opinion concerning the system. These petitions will be submitted to the Senate when it meets next Wednesday afternoon to consider the question formally.

System

The point system was originated several years ago, when the number of women at the university was quite a bit smaller than at present. At that time, only a few girls on campus held nearly all of the offices, and virtually controlled women's government.

As it is now, the point system ascribes a certain number of points to each office and any membership in any campus organization. Each girl is limited to a maximum of fifteen points.

Arguments

Those who are in favor of the continuance of the point system argue that without any restriction on the number of offices a girl may hold, a girl may take on more work than she could handle, and offices would not be so widely distributed as they are under the point system.

Those who wish to see the system abolished feel that a point system is unwise and unnecessary during present times. "University women," they say, "should be fully mature enough to

Frats Revise Rushing Dates

Announcing a change in dates for fraternity rushing of freshmen and transfer civilian students and members of the V-12 unit who entered the University last November, Dick Pollock, president of the Interfraternity Council reported the executive committee's decision to suspend rushing tonight, and extend the hours for rushing tomorrow from two to five o'clock, and from 7:30 to ten o'clock.

Formal rushing, which began Thursday night, was suspended for tonight because of conflicting athletic and social events which had previously been planned. All rushing will be ended Sunday night with a silence being observed all day Monday. Sunday afternoon is the first time a man may be asked to join a fraternity.

Violations

The executive committee also reported on violations of the present Interfraternity agreement. In the first case several fraternity members were seen eating frequently with a civilian

Alumnus Worries Over Outcome of Duke Tilts

"I heard Duke beat us twice this past season. I hope that is just rumor or Blue Devil propaganda."

These sentences were in a V-Mail letter received at the alumni office this week from Lt. Robert J. Powell, Jr., of Burlington, who is with a Marine Raider Regiment "Somewhere in the Pacific." The letter was dated Jan. 6.

"Yes," replied the Alumni Office in its letter to Powell, who was a student at the University in 1942-43, "the rumor you heard is correct. Duke beat us twice."

Powell says that he has run into other Carolina men with the Marines in the Pacific. Evidently his mail has not been getting through with regularity. But at any rate he should have confirmation now of the rumors in the Pacific about the outcome of last fall's Duke-Carolina games.

Negatives Top Affirmatives On Mural Card

By Burnie Thompson

The Carolina Debate Tournament is running according to schedule, with the negative teams having taken all but one of the events. The winning affirmative was the Eaton (V-12 Navy) team, which won by a unanimous decision.

The Hilton and Young combination, debating for both the Kenan and Di Senate negative teams has proven to have the strongest argument so far presented for the negative side. While Foss and Brinkley debating the Eaton navy team are the dark horses of the tournament and are strong contenders for the finals.

The results of the first round were: Carr Dorm affirmative over Sigma Chi, default; Carr Dorm negative over Marines, decision; CICA negative over Sigma Chi, decision; Kenan negative over Di Senate, decision; Eaton (V-12 Navy) over IRC, decision; Di Senate negative over Spencer, decision; Spencer negative over Di Senate, decision; Spencer affirmative over McIver, default.

The issue for debate is: Resolved: "That the United States should cooperate in establishing and maintaining an International Police Force upon the defeat of the Axis."

The affirmative teams have been championing the need for some organization in the Post-War world to assure against the repetition of the situation which developed after the last war and the need of some protection for the economic and social interest of the small powers, and the fact that force is the only way to combat force, as the basis for their arguments.

The negative teams, on the other hand, have contested that the difficulty of organizing such a police force with all its integral technicalities would be a practical impossibility, and that outstanding nations will not sacrifice their

Camp Butner Detachment To Aid Rally

By Sara Yokley

On Monday, "Bazooka Day" in Chapel Hill, the famous bazooka gun, a detachment of soldiers from Camp Butner and a jeep-drawn 31mm. anti-tank gun will add momentum to Carolina's Fourth War Loan drive.

"Bazooka Day," sponsored jointly by the War Coordination Board and the Fourth War Loan committee of Chapel Hill, will be a day of war bond rallies.

Demonstration

The celebrated bazooka gun, firing rocket-type shells, will be demonstrated by Camp Butner soldiers in the Y court from 11:45 to 1:30. This gun has been used extensively in Russian offensives and in our Army's North African, Sicilian and Italian campaigns.

Simultaneous to the Y court demonstration a sale of war bonds and stamps will be conducted in the lobby of the YMCA. "The bazooka is a small gun as guns go," said Kitty Kelly, chairman of the campus War Coordination Board, "but it will go a long way. War stamps are small items in the total financing of the war, but a great many of them will go a long way toward winning victory."

Free Tickets

To each student who exchanges a book of stamps for a bond or who buys a bond at the bank, the Carolina and Pick theatres are offering picture show passes during the coming week. Each student who buys a bond at the bank or post office is asked to report that purchase to the War Stamp Booth in the Y.

Bazooka Day begins early Monday morning with a rally at the munitions plant in Carrboro at 7:45. The Chapel Hill high school will hold a second rally at 9:00.

Chapel Hill merchants will close up shop from 10:15 to 11 o'clock Monday to permit all merchants and employees to attend a Bazooka Bond Rally at the Carolina Theatre.

A University faculty committee to conduct a canvass of campus buildings in the interest of the 4th War Loan was announced yesterday by J. Maryon Saunders, Orange County chairman.

Dr. Cecil Johnson, acting dean of the General College, heads the faculty committee and associated with him as vice chairmen are Dr. John B. Woosley and O. V. Cook.

Class Schedules

Spring quarter classes begin March 20, following winter quarter exams from March 14 through 18, according to Dean of Administration R. B. House. This quarter's classes will end March 13.

On May 27 regular classes for the 1943-44 school year will end. Exams are scheduled on May 27 through June 1. Tentative dates for commencement programs are June 3, 4, and 5, but changes may be necessary sometime in the future.

Student Council Reports

A boy in Physics lab failed to get his instructor's okay on his laboratory data before leaving the lab. Since the data had to have the instructor's okay on it before he could turn it in, he wrote the "okay" on the paper himself and signed the instructor's initials. In the investigation that followed, it was found that he also had cheated on his physics final examination.

Action: Suspended indefinitely from school and flunked on his course in physics.

Last year a boy was involved as a suspect in a cheating violation on his last final examination of a certain quarter. When the case was tried, he was not available since he did not return to school the following quarter. At that time the Student Council ruled that he should be required to stand trial before being readmitted to school. Upon receiving a medical discharge from the Armed forces, he wished to resume his studies but found that he was unable to register. He requested the Council to hold his trial. The Council reviewed the evidence from its records and called the boy before them for trial. He was found guilty of cheating on a final exam he had taken one year before.

Dialectic Senate Installs Crisp and Ormand In First Regular Meeting of Winter Quarter

Bill Crisp and Bob Ormand were inaugurated President and President-Pro-Tem of the Dialectic Senate Tuesday night when the Senate held its first meeting of the winter quarter. Other officers installed were Tiny Towel, Clerk; Kitty Kelly, Critic; Barbara Swift, Treasurer; and Buddy Glenn, Sergeant-at-Arms. Committees for the new quarter included an elected group to draft a new Constitution, the Executive Committee, and a special committee to report on Dignity and Reflections.

The Dialectic Senate, usually referred to as the "Di Senate," is the second oldest literary society in the United States. It has had many famous men on its rolls, including James K. Polk, ninth President of the United States, and many other notables.

Inaugural Address

In his inaugural address, Crisp stated that "during the past year the Dialectic Senate has subsided into a lamentable rut. This condition was precipitated by the coming of war and the ensuing confusion which interrupted the routine of the whole campus." He then proceeded to warn against the danger of allowing the Di to continue in such a state, explaining that such continuance would "culminate in the failure of this body to fulfill its purpose on this campus." In concluding, Crisp said, "My first suggestion, as approved by the Executive Committee in its last meeting, is for the Di to participate in an expansion of campus activities. This expansion should consist of bringing speakers here to stimulate greater response from students on current national, state, and local issues." Forums, likewise, were mentioned as being considered part of the Di's activity this quarter.

In its business session, the Di consented to lend the pictures in Di Hall for temporary exhibition in Graham Memorial Lounge and announced that three teams were being sponsored by the Di in the current campus debate tourney.

The bill for next week's discussion was read. It is: "Resolved, that the Dialectic Senate should go on record as opposing a fourth term for Presi-
