Hawthorne And Clark Surge To Lead In "Victory" Contest While Campus Fourth Loan Drive Surpasses Original Goal

Annual Track Classic Will Be Staged In Woollen Gym Today

Top Tracksters Will Be Ready To Enter Meet

By Ralph Parks, Jr.
Thirteen teams and 150 track stars are on hand today for the big Indoor Meet, which promises to be the fastest and most colorful event of its kind ever to be held in the history of the South.

Preliminaries for the annual indoor classic will start at 2:30 this afternoon, but ten of the thirteen finals have been saved for the big night show in Woollen gymnasium at 7:30.

The most astounding fact about this meet is that one or more entries have equalled or bettered the existing records in eight of the 13 events on the program, and they have come within a shade of four other standards. Thus it seems that new records will be written in the track annals of the now famous indoor meets.

One Mark Safe
In fact, only one mark that looks perfectly safe is a 7.6 in the low hurdles, and that figure unofficially bettered the world's record.

A complete list of the teams entered are as follows: Carolina, US Naval Academy, Pre-Flight, Cherry Point, Georgia Tech, Virginia, Sewanee, Baltimore Polytechnic, Fort Bragg, Columbia, S. C., Fort Benning, Ga., Morris Field, Charlotte, N. C., and Squadron "H" at State College.

Georgia Tech
Two changes in entries were made this week. Camp Lejeune has cancelled its entry for the games today, but the loss was offset by addition of Georgia Tech's Southeastern leaders.

The Georgia Tech entry, which arrived Tuesday, was headed by one national champion, Bill Serris, who won the national interscholastic one-mile run last year.

The reason for Camp Lejeune's cancellation, its athletic officials said, was that two of its stars are on maneuvers, two or three others on the sick list, and

Manpower Commission Sets Deferment Quotas

Academic deferments for Carolina in the fields of chemistry and physics were set by the War Manpower Commission this week at 43. Of this number 35 will be in chemistry and eight in physics.

Any student who has already been accepted by medical, dental, veterinarian, osteopathic or pre-theological schools is also subject to deferment, exclusive of this quota, if he places application for deferment with W. D. Perry.

Completed Quotas
All students in the fields of chemistry, physics, geology and geophysics who will graduate before July 1, 1944, are not affected by the newly set quotas and will be allowed to complete their courses.

Review Of "Yeomen of the Guard" Terms Show As Success With John Toms' Music As Outstanding

By Kat Hill

On the strength of advance reaction to the opening night performance for the Naval pre-flight cadets, the Carolina Playmakers-Department of Music collaborated production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Yeomen of the Guard" galloped into a two-night run before the regular campus last night, assured of a successful, if not great, showing. Fortunately the show has more than enough of what it takes to justify both the high tariff of hard work and the optimism.

For one of the highlights of the Student Entertainment Series, John Toms, musical director, and Joseph Salek, who staged the show, give their Carolina customers a colorful production of one of the theatre's modern classics (though the play itself is not one of the best works of the immortal top-team of the op-

The champs pictured above are all set for today's Invitational Indoor Meet in Woollen gymnasium sponsored jointly by Pre-Flight and Carolina. More than 150 stars from 13 college and service teams are entered in the classic, tabbed by the experts as "the most colorful event ever staged in the South." The Pre-Flight team and Navy's strong 28 man squad are favored to cop the meet.

PU Board Appoints Co-Managing Editors As Koppel Leaves for Navy Commission

By Boo Leigh

Sara Yokley and Horace Carter have been appointed co-managing editors by the Publications Union Board.

They are replacing Lloyd Koppel, NROTC, who will be commissioned at the end of this month. Koppel, who has been managing editor since succeeding Jud Kinberg in December, introduced the first semi-weekly Tar Heel January 7.

"It is the unusual emergency situation this year that made this co-managing necessary," Nancy Smith, spokesman for the PU board said. "The PU board does not wish to establish a precedent by appointing co-managing editors. It does not believe that the responsibility entailed in such a position can be divided, except in rare cases." Yokley and Carter have the qualifications that make for excellent teamwork on a job such as this."

Yokley, a senior from Mt. Airy, plans to graduate in June. She transferred from Hollins College and is a Pi Phi. A journalism major, her first experience in the field was writing a column for a local weekly.

Both Experienced

This past summer Yokley was a reporter on the Durham Sun. In June 1942 during the summer school session, she joined the staff of the Tar Heel. At present she is working on all school publications, serving as associate editor of the Yackety Yack and staff member of the Mag. Since Christmas she has been acting as the associate managing editor of the Tar Heel. She also has been serving as the clerk of the Student Legislature.

Carter, also a journalism major, is in V-12 and expects to be here until the end of the V-12 semester in July. He has much journalism experience to his credit, for he has served on the staff of the Albemarle News and Press, and has also done work for the Winston-Salem Sentinel. During his career here as a civilian, Carter was night sports editor of the Daily Tar Heel and a member of the Mag staff.

Navy Graduates Sponsor Dance In NROTC Armory

In a mid-quarter graduation dance, the first of its kind ever to be held at Carolina, the graduating NROTC, V-12, and Marine students will make their final social appearance on the campus at the Armory on the twenty-fourth of this month.

This is the first time a graduation dance at Carolina has been composed solely of service-men, and the first time a dance of this kind has come in the middle of the winter quarter.

Late Permission

Coeds will be given late permission until 12:30.

The Armory will be decked out with decorations, and the Naval Pre-Flight band, acclaimed throughout the state, will furnish the music.

A reception for those students leaving and their guests will be held in the Graham Memorial from eleven till one. Sandwiches and coffee will be served. The whole junior class of the NROTC will also be included in the dance as they too will graduate.

Buddy Owen, Chairman of the dance committee, has announced that the tickets will be given out at the YMCA on Monday and Tuesday of next week; the charge is twenty-five cents a couple.

Student Council Reports

FACTS:

A Navy V-12 student was reported by his instructor for copying almost verbatim a theme for English that had been written and turned in previously by another student. The theme was supposed to have been pledged as his own work and done in accordance with the honor code. He signed the pledge on the paper. When he realized that he had been suspected, he went to his professor and confessed giving the impression that he did not know he was suspected and was confessing of his own volition.

DECISION:

The council felt that this was a direct violation of the honor code done intentionally and with the knowledge that it was wrong. The council recommended to V-12 headquarters that he be brought before the Commanding Officer.

RESULTS:

At the Captain's Mast the facts found by the council were substantiated. The Commanding Officer separated the student from the V-12 program and transferred him to the Naval Training camp at Bainbridge, Maryland.

COUNCIL OPINION:

The Student Council would like to point out that when action is taken on a V-12 student as well as a civilian, that action is recorded in Central Records office on the transcript of the student. If a student ever wishes to re-enter this university he must apply to the Student Council for reinstatement. If the council decides to reinstate a suspended student, his record is cleared of all remarks. The Council suggests that every student suspended or placed on probation apply to the council after a suitable length of time whether or not he intends to re-enter the University. Otherwise the action taken will remain on his transcript indefinitely and any information given out by the records office concerning him will include the council's action.

Original goal of the campus effort in the Fourth War Loan Drive was set at $5,000. Boosted by the Miss Victory contest, which is sponsored jointly by the Tar Heel and the War Coordination Board, the drive has met with an early success. Although the pin-up contest ends Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, the drive will continue through next Saturday.

Victory Ball

Tickets to a Victory Ball, over which Miss Victory and the two runners-up for that title will reign, go on sale Saturday at stamp booths in the YMCA, the United Service Center and the Varsity. Admission is fifty cents in war stamps per person. If tickets are bought before Wednesday night the purchasers will be credited with five votes per ticket.

Complete plans for the Victory Ball will be released in Tuesday's issue of the Tar Heel. Chairmen by Dot Schmuhl, the dance committee of the War Coordination Board is now working on final arrangements for the ball to be held in Woollen Gym February 19 from 8:30 to midnight.

Stamp Votes

From now until Wednesday students may vote for their favorite pin-up girls in the YMCA lobby. The purchase of one ten-cent war stamp entitles a student to one vote. A war bond, based on maturity value, is worth 250 votes. Bonds bought at the post office or the bank should be reported at the booth in the YMCA, the only place where votes can be cast.
