Music, Art, Drama, Dance On Program

By W. H. Hipps, Jr.

Artists, musicians, writers, dramatists were anticipating a field day or, rather, a "field week", of enjoyment in their respective fields as groups on and off campus, both in and out of the university yesterday pursued the week's program of events.

The Carolina Workshop is an organization of students and faculty members having as its main purpose the intergration of student activity in writing, music, theatre, fine arts, photography and dancing—especially in the creative fields. It operates under the guidance of a representative council and is supervised by faculty adviser Samuel Selden of the Dramatic Arts Department.

The Women's Glee Club of the university will sing a concert of popular and semi-popular music in Hill Hall, at 8 tonight. This is the same concert that was offered to the servicemen of this state on a recent week-long tour. Students of music will give a recital in Hill Music Hall, 4:00 p. m. tomorrow.

Three new experimental plays written by students in the University course in Playwriting will be performed on the stage of the Playmakers Theatre, eight o'clock tomorrow night. The plays are Carrington Cross's "Hotel Armageddon", a play of the last resort, directed by the author; David Hanig's "Thirty Minutes Out of Midnight", a play in verse, directed by Betty Taylor; and Kat Hill's "Morning Edition", a journalistic comedy, directed by Millcent Hosh.

Margaret Cuddy's "Dreamtime: 480 Minutes", a new radio play directed by Robert Kohl, will be given a demonstration performance at the Playmakers Theatre, 8:00 p. m. Thursday, April 20.

Mr. Kenneth Ness will conduct a class in life drawing at the Person Hall studio, 9:00 p. m. Thursday April 20. Phillips Russell will preside over a Writers' Session to be held in Graham Memorial Lounge, 8:00 p. m. Saturday, April 21 at which time reviews, essays and stories from the University classes in criticism and composition will be presented. Following the writer's session will come the presentation of the Carolina Workshop citations and the election of officers for the new year.

A dance recital will be given at the Playmakers theatre, 8:30 p. m. Saturday, April 22. This recital will consist of a program of dances presented by the Dance Club of the University Department of Physical Education for Women in collaboration with the Dance Club for the North Carolina College. Spring-Time Issue of Mag To Appear Last of April

The first spring-time issue of the Carolina Mag comes off the presses the last Saturday in April, Mag editor Olive Price Charters said yesterday. Jitterbugs and swing bands will be interested in the April issue's leading article "Music on the Hoof." This summary of jazz in '44 tells where the top flight bands in the nation are and what has happened to popular records. The cover of the Mag, by photographer Joe Denker, ties in with the staff story on hot music.

Portrait of the month is of Dick Jamerson, Carolina swimming coach, written by TAR HEEL co-managing editor Horace Carter. Jamerson leaves Chapel Hill the 25th of this month to wear the gold braid of the Navy. Carter has covered sports events for the TAR HEEL and the News Bureau and knows both Jamerson and his work here at Carolina.

Female Glee Club To Sing Popular Tunes Tonight

The 30-member University Women's Glee Club will present a program of popular and semi-popular songs especially prepared for the servicemen of this area to civilian and military students and townspeople in a concert to be held tonight in Hill Hall at 8 o'clock.

Tonight's concert will climax a tour of four service camps of this area: Fort Bragg, April 10; Laurinburg-Maxton Army Air Base, April 11; Camp Davis, April 12; U. S. Marine Corps Air Station at Cherry Point, April 13; and Camp Lejeune, April 14. New Trio

Assisting the glee club will be a newly formed trio composed of Elinore Link, Lois McCauley, and Whitfield Lloyd. The members of the trio are all voice majors, pretty to both the eye and the ear, and will leave their studies of art songs and opera to sing "My Shining Hour," "There Are Such Things," and "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning."

Other members of the glee club are: Dorothy Bennett, Maureen Bennett, Marianne Browne, Sue Brubaker, Cigarette Butler, Jean LeFebvre, Joy Gilbert, Eleanor Godfrey, Valeska Haydon, Carole King, Frances Knott, Helen Lanneau, Frances Maynard, Elinor McNeill.

Mary Louise Milam, Geraldine Newsome, Jacqueline Nimock, Frances Perry, Frances Privette, Marian Saunders, Beverly Stevens, Mary Stringfield, Jean Sasser, Dorothy Phillips, Garland Warsley, Frances Ferrier, and Thelma Bolick.

Elizabeth Wiggins and Durema Fitzgerald will accompany the glee club while variety will be added to the program by specialty acts performed by See FEMALE, page 4

Deans' Tea Slated For Tomorrow

A tea honoring the incoming and outgoing deans of men, Dean Roland Brice Parker and Dean E. L. Mackie, will be given Wednesday afternoon in the main lounge of Graham Memorial from 5 to 6 under the auspices of the student union and the student welfare division.

The following representative campus groups are invited to the tea: Graham Memorial board of directors, Student Welfare board, student legislature, YM and YWCA cabinets, PU board, Interfraternity council, student council, woman's honor council, faculty committee on fraternities, faculty executive committee, Golden Fleece, Grail, Coed Senate, TAR HEEL staff, V-12 deans' committee, NROTC executive council, Valkyries, Pan Hellenic council, University dance committee, student entertainment committee, debate council, IRC, student audit board, and CPU.

NC Symphony Gives Concert

Classical melodies floated throughout Memorial Hall when the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra gave a concert, sponsored jointly by the Student Entertainment committee and the State Symphony Society, at 8:30 Saturday night. Paul Stassevitch, distinguished New York pianist, was soloist.

The good-sized audience heard the orchestra play Bach-Reger's "O Man, Bewail Thy Grievous Sin" after they had sung "The Star-Spangled Banner" with the accompaniment of the orchestra.

The orchestra then played "Allegro," "Larghetto," "Gavotta," and "Finale: Molto Vivace," all from Prokofiev's "Classical Symphony, Opus 25."

The only modern selection on the program was "Suite for Orchestra" by Irwin Heilner. This number, which was composed by the nephew of Dr. M. J. Rosenau, Dean of the School of Public Health here, as a "musical tribute to the Soviet Union's efforts against fascism" included "Song of the Oppressed," "In Memoriam," "Hunger Marchers," and "Victory March."

The last pre-intermission number played by the orchestra was Liszt's "Les Preludes."

For the first post-intermission selection, Paul Stassevitch played, with the orchestra in the background, "Allegro non troppo e molto maestoso," "Andantino Simple," and "Allegro con fuoco," all from Tchaikowsky's "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra in B Flat Minor, Opus 23."

As his encores, Mr. Stassevitch played Chopin's "Danseuse," and the "Fire Dance."

The orchestra closed the concert with the Strauss waltz, "Voices of Spring" and an encore, Lamar Stringfield's folk tune, "Crippled Creek."

Legislature Meeting

At the Thursday night meeting of the student legislature Charlie Vance or Libba Wiggins will take over the speakership and all newly elected members will be installed, the present speaker, Harvey Hamilton, announced yesterday.

The only business of the meeting will be the election of six hold-over members from the present legislative body and the approval of three new members of the Student Council.

Carolina Institution Changes Hands As Harry Leaves Town

The changing scene had a new touch last week when Harry's Grill exchanged hands and the little round-faced proprietor, Harry Macklin and family decided to sell out. With Harry's going from the Carolina scene, the final link to pre-war memories left with him.

Once an employee of the original Harry, Mr. Macklin and wife, Sybil Macklin bought the Grill some four years back and continued an institution that catered to student eating needs and served innumerable quantities of beer day in and day out. Week-ends at Harry's made the place a meeting ground for a majority of students. There was never a major athletic event that didn't see huge sandwich orders delivered to the press boxes.

The Macklins were a brisk pair. Once when Mrs. Macklin, who handled the administrative end of the business was

Yanks, Rebels Clash On Race In Di Tomorrow

Tomorrow night the Dialectic Senate discusses what promises to be one of the most controversial issues ever brought before that body for public analysis. A resolution calling for equalization of Negro rights will be brought up on the calendar by five Senators, four of whom are Yankees. Upon announcement of the resolution last Wednesday night, there arose spontaneous outburst from the Senators then assembled. Private arguments, both pro and con, broke forth upon the floor. Intrepid debating appears inevitable on this question.

Bill Crisp, President of the Di, stated Sunday night that it was unlikely that the bill would come up for vote Wednesday night. He explained that, due to the length of the resolution and because of the unlimited rebuttal which would surely be required, it would probably take two or possibly three sessions for the Di to bring the bill to vote.

The bill is divided into four sections. These sections call for the abolition of the lifting of separation laws, the restrictions on inter-marriage, and the establishment of co-racial educational institutions, with equal political, economic and social rights for both races.

Five new members will be initiated into the Di in the business session Wednesday night, and all members are urged to be present. Anyone wishing to do so is welcome to come and participate in the discussion. Membership is still open for the spring quarter.

The Dialectic Senate meets every Wednesday night at 9 o'clock in the Di Hall, 3rd floor New West.

Debate Council To Hold Meeting

The University Debate Council will hold its regular meeting tonight at 8:45 in the Grail Room of Graham Memorial. There will be an exhibition debate between the four debaters who are contesting Georgia Tech in the reciprocal debates to be held here and in Atlanta, Georgia, on April 22.

The debate will be on the national debate topic: Resolved that the United States should cooperate in establishing and maintaining an International Police Force upon the defeat of the axis.

Bill Crisp and Rene Bernard, who will furnish Carolina's opposition to Tech here Saturday, comprise the negative team. Kitty Kelly and Betsy Ross Howe, who will invade Georgia Tech the same day, comprise the affirmative team.

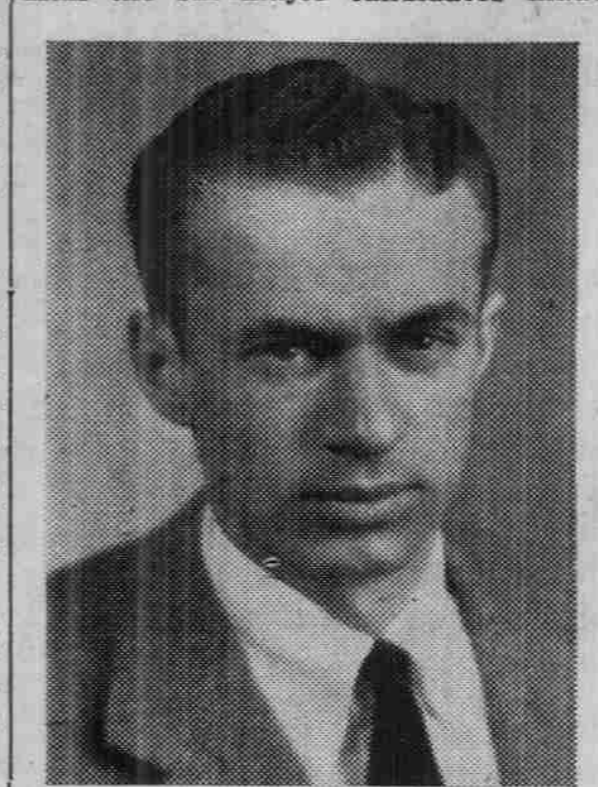

All members of the debate squad and Council are urged to be present. After the debate and squad business there will be a short business meeting of the Council.

Visitors are welcome.

The Carolina student body goes to the polls to vote today for the campus leaders of the coming school year. Polls will be open from 9 o'clock until 5 o'clock: the YMCA for civilians, Alderman dormitory for coeds, and Swain Hall for Navy students.

The annual Tar Heel election party will be held tonight in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. Beginning at 8 o'clock an up-to-the-minute account of election returns will be chalked up on a blackboard and broadcast into the lounge as the votes are counted. Everyone is invited to attend to watch the tabulation of votes.

Last night at a meeting in Gerrard Hall the six major candidates made government of the Carolina campus. Every student in the University, no matter what his status, should take an active interest in seeing that student government works. If elected, I will do everything in my power to see that every student be given that opportunity.

Only coed speaker on the program, United Party nominee Libba Wiggins outlined the three planks in her platform as candidate for speakership of the Student legislature. "I would like three-minute speeches, clarifying their platforms and stating what they intend to do if elected. Turk Newsome, acting president of the student body, conducted the meeting and introduced the candidates to the student audience.

"We must preserve the honor system at any cost," said Charlie Frank Benbow, University party candidate for president of the student body. "I am definitely opposed to splitting the Student council," Benbow stated, "for I consider such action injurious to the honor system. There will probably be cause for a lot of changes because of the speed-up program. Any change necessary will be made, but not unnecessary ones which could be harmful." Benbow urged all students to study the qualifications and experience of the candidates and vote accordingly.

Retain Government

Harvey White, United party candidate, stated his platform by saying, "I definitely want to retain student to see the following three things accomplished," said Miss Wiggins: "the creation of an active interest on the part of students in student government; the awakening of every student so that each will feel that he is a vital part of his governing body; the bringing about of a closer cooperation between students and their representatives in the legislature.

Decline Explained

Charlie Vance, University Party candidate for the top post of the legislature, pointed out in his platform speech that the "only way to preserve student government is to elect competent and experienced students as leaders." "There are many people on campus who believe that the student legislature has reached its lowest ebb at the present time. The main reason for this decline," Vance explained, "is utter disregard of the constitution of that organization."

He suggested the establishment of See CAMPUS, page 4
