

Thursday Marks 151st University Day Festivity

By Fred Flagler

University Day, Thursday, October 12 of this week, marks the 151st anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of Old East, the oldest state university building in the country, a structure which was erected around ten years after America won her independence and a structure which has weathered the Civil War and World War I.

In line with the plan of the University officials to emphasize the role of Carolina in the war effort and to review Carolina's part in previous wars, General A. A. Vandegrift has been invited to deliver the keynote address for the occasion. The general theme of the celebration will be constructed around what Carolina has done through the years to better serve the state and nation as an educating channel both in peace and in war.

General Vandegrift is scheduled to arrive at the Horace Williams airport Thursday morning at 10:30 at which time the program for the day will officially get underway. He will be met at the airport by University officials and commanders of the various naval units. Vandegrift has been closely related to the operation of the present war, having been the commander of the Marines who invaded Guadalcanal.

The program Thursday will be the initial step in the celebrating of the sesquicentennial opening of the University which will be continued through 1945.

Convocation exercises at Memorial Hall will be heralded by a faculty procession in caps and gowns which will start at the Old Well at 10:40. The order of academic procession will be: colors, University band, honor guard of Marines, platform party and faculty. The Marine guard will form a double line through which the platform party and the faculty will proceed to reserved seats.

Administrative Dean R. B. House will preside over the exercises at Memorial hall. Reverend Emmet Gribbin of the Chapel of the Cross will give the invocation after which there will be a responsive reading conducted by Dean House. A minute of silence will be observed in memory of those alumni who have died since last University Day.

General Vandegrift will speak after the foregoing part of the program and the morning exercises will close with the audience singing "Hark the Sound." Following the morning program the officials will adjourn for luncheon at the Carolina Inn.

At 1:45 General Vandegrift will review the Navy V-12 unit which includes a Marine contingent and the Navy Pre-Flight cadets. The review will be staged in Kenan stadium. From 2:45 3:45, he along with other officials of the program will be guests at the regular bi-weekly sports program conducted by Pre-Flight cadets. The public is also invited attend this event which is to be held on Fetzer field.

General Vandegrift, a native of Charlottesville, Va., attended the University of Virginia for two years before entering the Marine corps. He served in the Marine corps during the last war. He attained the rank of brigadier-general in 1940 and in 1941 was promoted to major-general. In recognition of his performance in the invasion of Guadalcanal he was made a lieutenant-general in 1943 and became Commandant of the Marine Corps January 1, 1944. He has been decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal, the Croix de Guerre, the Navy Cross and the Medal of Honor.

Classes for Thursday will end at 9:50. Dean House suggests that the exercises afford many new students as well as V-12 men whose stay is limited the opportunity to witness and take part in an academic convocation.

War Coordination Board Starts Ball Of Activity Rolling

The War Coordination Board which has recently been reorganized with Kitty Kelly as temporary chairman is getting its activity schedule underway this week.

With Rosetta Davis as chairman, the paper salvage campaign will begin by placing boxes in each dormitory where discarded papers may be left.

Fran Cely and Fay Pushkin head the USO committee. This committee will work through the women's dorms to send women to act as hostesses to the USO each weekend.

A child care project is being established to serve navy wives and other women in town who desire college women to look after their children. This project is under the direction of B. J. Smith. Plans are being made to sell war stamps in the dormitories each week. These will be year-around projects.

A printed activity sheet listing all war activities on the campus, the type of work required for each, the person in charge, and the amount of time to be spent on each will be distributed to the student body. All women are urged to take part in some activity and at an early date a junior and senior co-chairman will be elected.

The War Coordination Board is a subsidiary organization of the coed senate having grown from a senate committee last year. Projects on the tentative calendar for the college term will include a war loan drive with bond booths placed around the campus, a victory dance, a United Nations week, a collection of presents for wounded soldiers in hospitals, kits for war prisoners and the sale of tuberculosis seals.

All coeds who are interested in attending a first-aid class next quarter are requested to contact Kitty Kelly, 204 Carr. Additional information concerning war projects and duties may also be obtained from Kelly.

War Chest Drive Starts Saturday

The Campus War Chest Drive which is a coordination of the various drives such as the USO and Red Cross usually carried on at the University will begin here on Saturday morning, Oct. 14.

Sponsored by the war coordinations board the campus chest includes the United war fund and the world student service fund with 25 per cent of the money collected going to the united war fund and 75 per cent to the world student service fund.

The committee on the convass of students is headed by Gid Gilliam and Boo Lee. There will be various committees working under them to convass the men's and women's dorms, fraternity and sorority houses. Grace Brewster, Nancy Jenking and Mary Oppen have been named to the committee in charge of publicity.

There will be an important meeting of all student solicitors for the drive at 9:30 Thursday night in the Horace Williams Lounge at Graham Memorial. Procedures of convassing students and the purposes of the drive will be discussed at that time.

COED SENATE

Kitty Kelly, speaker of the coed senate, requests that all subsidiary committees have a representative at the meeting Tuesday night.

Milk Prices Will Remain At Same Level

Harward To Pay Producers More

OPA regulations have given the Durham Road Dairy the right to pay their producers more for the milk, but at the same time they asked that the retail and wholesale prices be kept the same.

The possibility of Chapel Hill going dry of milk was avoided when T. A. Harward, manager of the Durham Road Dairy compromised to pay the producers more, however he will appeal to Washington for consideration to raise his retail price from 16 cents per quart to 17 cents a quart, the latter the ceiling on milk in Durham and other towns.

Producers issued two weeks ago an ultimatum that, unless they received $4.40 per 100 pounds which they could get in Durham for their milk, they would not deliver any more after October 1.

Mayor Madry and Alderman F. O. Bowman have been working to avoid a cut-off of the Chapel Hill milk supply of which most Chapel Hillians were unaware as to the danger. The producers postponed the October 1 deadline to October 7 at which time, the agreement was made under the authority of the OPA that Harward pay the desired amount to the milk producers.

The danger of a cut-off is over now, but Harward has the right to appeal for a higher retail-wholesale price, if he so desires.

Coeds Give Churchill, Kennedy Posts

Dot Churchill and Lucy Lee Kennedy became new members of the coed senate Tuesday night when this group voted their temporary seats to fill the vacancies left by Jean Rankin, president of WGA and Kitty Kelly, speaker of the senate.

The two senators will serve until junior elections which are scheduled for the first week in December.

With the passage of an amendment that had been presented to the coed senate last week, the speaker of the senate and the chairman of student advisers became members of the orientation committee. The proposed addition of two junior girls to the Honor Council was killed by the group.

A bill was introduced and passed by the senate which provides for the abolishment of the point system and advisory committee in connection with extra curricular activities. Previously every student office was rated by points with each woman entitled to only seven points unless she received permission from the advisory committee. However, the system has not been effective, and consequently the bill to

Rev. Charles Jones and Dr. E. M. Newcomer are appearing for the first time in the IRC forums while Dr. J. L. Godfrey and Dr. J. C. Russell, both of the history department, have appeared in former IRC campus round-tables. Dean F. F. Bradshaw of the War College will be the moderator.

The IRC faculty forum series has included discussions on Russia, war criminals, Germany and Japan. The chairman of the forum committee is Herbert Weber.

Ralph R. Glenn, IRC president, is planning the organization's long-range program for the coming season, including speaker presentations and a special series of discussions.

CAP Enrollment To Get Under Way Thursday Night

Preparing air-minded students of today to become the fliers of tomorrow will be the thesis of an address by Lt. Col. Frank E. Dawson, wing commander of the Civil Air Patrol in North Carolina, when he discusses the possibilities of forming a CAP squadron at the University at a public meeting in Gerrard Hall Thursday night.

Col. Dawson, together with some 100 members of the Burlington, Hillsboro and Leaksville squadrons of CAP, will initiate the enrollment drive at Gerrard Hall following a parade down Franklin street at 7 o'clock.

The meeting will open with an air-fighting movie, starring Major Jimmy Stewart, and at the conclusion of Col. Dawson's address, all those who wish to enroll in the CAP program may do so.

The local American Legion has voted to serve as sponsor for the project, and the University War Training College, in cooperation with the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs of Chapel Hill, has approved the plan.

Young men and women from 15 to 18 years will be eligible for the CAP cadet training program which will include a course in aviation ground training, embracing 200 hours of ground instruction only. Aircraft construction, instruments, map and aerial photograph reading, meteorology, navigation, reconnaissance, radio communication and other associated courses will compose the training program. The senior organization of the CAP will offer varied aviation opportunities to all those over 18.

An auxiliary of the Army Air Forces, the CAP has played an important part in abating the submarine menace along the eastern seaboard and providing military courier service for the air forces. The staff of national headquarters in New York includes officers of the AAF and civilian volunteers.

The CAP undertakes to train young men and women of high school and junior college age in military and aviation subjects in preparation for service with Army units. General Arnold has called the CAP the "best preliminary training you can get if you hope to some day fly with the AAF."

Although the CAP is a springboard into the AAF, it is a voluntary organization; no commitments to any branch of the armed services are required for enrollment.

Air Corps enlisted reserve members who are awaiting call to duty are eligible for enlistment in the CAP cadets for part time training by CAP instructors. Girls who join the program can prepare themselves for service with the WAC on duty with the AAF.

Dean F. F. Bradshaw pointed out that tentative plans for CAP courses two nights a week, two hours a night have been outlined. Instructors and facilities will be furnished by the CAP, along with University and Pre-Flight instructors who will volunteer their services. At a later date facilities for advanced flight training through CAP at the student's expense may be available, Dean Bradshaw said.
