Dean House Announces New Plans For Long-Range Expansion

UP... AND Coming

A Column of Campus News Notes... Briefed for the Busy

The Dialectic senate will hold a closed meeting tomorrow night in the Di hall at 8 o'clock. Business motions concerning the future conduct of Senate meetings and the procedures of bill proposals from party factions will be considered. Party platforms will be announced and the formation of parties through caucus will follow. Attendance is compulsory for all members.

The first supper forum of this year will be held Thursday, 6:00 p.m. in the Methodist church. Sponsored jointly by the YMCA and the YWCA this program was so popular last year that it is being continued.

The Student Directory will not go to press until the November registration is culminated, announced Harry Comer, in order to keep it up to date. About 40 percent of the students now registered are expected to change living quarters, and there will be a number of new students.

The YMCA and YWCA committee-laying plans for religious emphasis week to be conducted here November 19-21 meet a Y committee from Duke University at Durham for a joint discussion outlining plans for religious emphasis programs.

Mrs. Vandever of Graham Memorial announced that the team of Woodson and Durham won the first bridge tournament to be held here for this short summer session.

The Raleigh District Office of Price Administration has announced the following ration calendar for the period ending October 28th:

Shoes—Airplane stamp 1 and 2 (book three) valid indefinitely.

Gasoline—A-11 coupons now valid for three gallons each through November 8.

Meats and Fats—Red A8 through K5 (book 4) now valid at 10 points each for use with tokens. Good indefinitely.

Processed foods—Blue A8 through R5 (book 4) now valid at 10 points each. Good indefinitely.

Sugar—Sugar stamps 30 through 33 (book 4) are good for five pounds of sugar each indefinitely.

Business Manager Post On Tar Heel Open To Students

Margaret Woodhouse, president of the Publications Union board announced that the position of Business Manager of the TAR HEEL was open.

All persons who are interested in the position are asked to file application as to their qualifications with Margaret Woodhouse at the Tri-Delt house on Franklin street.

Previous experience on the TAR HEEL is not a pre-requisite for the job.

Coed Group Starts Monthly Series Of Get-Together Hours

Coeds will meet at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Hill Hall for the first of a monthly series of coed hours, meetings which are being sponsored in order to present information and issues for discussion to the coeds in a body and to aid in unifying the women of the campus.

At this first gathering the newly revised constitution for women, together with a sheet of amendments will be put up for approval by Betty Lou Cypert, chairman of the senate elections committee. The constitution was reviewed last May when additions were made and old amendments were included in the constitution proper or in the by-laws.

Senior girls are requested to obtain a copy of the constitution from new junior girls and read it before attending the meeting. Before the votes are cast any questions regarding the document will be answered by senators who may be identified by name tags. Some of the outstanding women on campus, Miss Helen McDevitt, first woman to become a full time math instructor at the University, Mrs. N. B. Adams who is in charge of the War Information Desk and heads the committee that brought Mrs. Tirza Anderson to the campus, and Mrs. Anderson vocational guidance director will be introduced to the group. Mrs. R. W. Finley, superintendent of nurses, will say a few words concerning the use of the infirmary.

The women's honorary organization, Valkyries will be explained by its president, Nancy Jane King. The University band under the direction of Mr. Earl Slocum will play and the cheer leaders will be on hand to teach yells and conduct a pep rally.

Attendance to coed hour is compulsory. The penalty for absences is one See COEDS, page 4

Pre-Registration Is Now Underway

Dean R. B. House reminds all students who are planning to return to the University for the fall semester beginning Monday, November 6, to take advantage of the pre-registration period that is being held this week.

By registering now students will be able to get an extra two day vacation between sessions and will not have to return for registration on November 3 or 4.

Registration began yesterday and will continue through Saturday of this week, but before a student can register he must first get a registration permit from the information desk on first floor South Building. All general college students will register with their advisers, and all Junior, Senior and Graduate students will clear with their departmental advisers and then register with their Deans.

After registering, all students will go through the check-out line in Memorial Hall. The registration hours will be from 9 o'clock to 1 o'clock in the morning and from 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Students who fail to register during the pre-registration period will have to return to the University for registration on November 3 or 4. Students who fail to register before 12 o'clock noon, Saturday, November 4, will have to pay a two dollar late registration fee.

Beauty Uplift Will Be Given To Hill Shops

Town Board's Plan Will Take 10 Years

By Bob Rolnik

The town of Chapel Hill will get a head-to-toe beauty treatment from one end of its main street to the other, with an ultra-distinctive style of colonial architecture instead of the hodge-podge of its present storefronts.

Following the blueprints now being adopted by the Town's progressive Planning board, Chapel Hill will be changed to a model village. The Planning board's chairman, Collier Cobb, well-known contractor, insurance executive and head of the State's Planning committee, is one of the main inspirations behind the new project.

Chapel Hill's men of vision foresee the small village as rising above the run-of-the-mill towns in physical appearance. With its population of about 8,000, consisting mainly of professors, scholars, merchants, famous writers and students from all over the state and nation, Chapel Hill feels it deserves a unique and tasteful appearance to fit its distinguished character.

As things now stand, any renovating of store-fronts or new building along Chapel Hill's main thoroughfare of Franklin street requires the approval of the Town Planning board, according to a city ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen.

"In reality the plan we envision is a cooperative affair," explains Collier Cobb. "We expect a certain amount of opposition at the start but as soon as some of the property owners show what glorious things really can be done at modest expense the others will fall in line. Our board already has the guarantee of cooperation of a goodly proportion of the local merchants."

Architects, engineers and artists are now hard at work finishing the colored sketches of Chapel Hill as the town should look when the plan is fully completed. Thomas Rose of the University See BEAUTY, page 4

Experimentals To Be Staged By Playmakers

Student Authors Offer New Plays

Three new one-act plays, written, directed and staged by students in the Department of Dramatic Art, will comprise the 99th Bill of Experimental Plays to be presented by The Carolina Playmakers in the Playmakers Theatre on Friday night, October 20 at 7:30.

Professor Samuel Selden will introduce the playwrights and invite comments and suggestions from the audience. Everyone is invited to attend.

First on the program is "Big Meatin' Time," by Clare Johnson Marley of Cary, N. C. Subtitled "a ritual-play of the Falconites," it brings to the stage all the spirit and unbelievable religious practices of an old time camp meeting.

The time is August, 1864 and the place Falcon, a junction near Fayetteville. There are over twenty-five in the cast, contributing intermittently with singing, chanting, keening and "the Glory Train." Nicholas Linsey plays the "fire and brimstone" Reverend, who converts scarlet Sister Hicks, played by Beverley Bartlett, and fails to touch the heart of the old drunk, Doot Simpkins, played by Randall Brooks. Others in the cast are Myra Sklarey as the old maid, Miss Lulu, Barbara Rich as the ingenue, and Vassie Balkum as the romantic heart wrecker. Carrington Cross is directing and the stage setting is designed by Joan Martin.

David Hanig, of Trenton, New Jersey, and holder of the Kay Kyser Scholarship last year, offers a drama of a modern day problem with "Unshielded Lamp." A soldier returns home only to find that his mind is still confused by the chaos of war. Ray Levine appears as Elliot Brandon, the soldier, Nancy Fitch as his wife, Myra, and Laura Parker portrays Jean, their sympathetic friend. The play is being directed by Marion Gurney. Randall Brooks designed the stage setting.

Mary Tom Colonos of Selma, N. C. will see her first play staged Friday night. In her comedy of a Greek country wedding, "Rich Man, Best Man" all the charm of the little town of Tenos on an island in the Aegean sea is preserved. Rich in folklore and quaint in its humor, the marriage is almost resolved before the lovers are reunited. Martha Gillespie appears as the bride of the moment, Maria. Randall Brooks is the seafaring lover, Petros Calas and the undesired suitor, Ioannes, is played by Jack Holcombe. The stage setting is designed by Peggy Bargonier, Shirley Pic is directing the play.

Debates Tomorrow Concern Election

Opening its season with the first political debate that it has held in several years, the Debate council will take the floor in the main lounge of Graham Memorial at 8 tonight to discuss the proposition "Resolved that the American people would benefit more by the election of Franklin Roosevelt than by that of Thomas Dewey."

The Debate council, which held tryouts last Wednesday night, has selected two debate teams to argue the question. Charles Nice and Robert Morris, both members of the debate squad, will speak for the affirmative, while Bill Mackie and Bill Crisp, members of the Debate council, will uphold the negative viewpoint.

Immediately after the debate, tryouts will be held for the dual debate with the University of Georgia. The tryouts will be held in the Grail Room. In debating the Georgia team, the resolution will be on the topic "Resolved that a fourth term is justifiable."

All military and civilian students are encouraged to try out for the Georgia debate, which will be held on November 4. Tryouts will consist of five minute formal speeches followed by round-table rebuttal.

Jujitsu Instruction

The Federal Bureau of Investigation announces that it will give a fast-moving demonstration of "jujitsu and defensive tactic in general" at the Institute of Government building Monday afternoon, October 23, at 2 P.M.

Building Program Includes Immediate And Future Needs

A long term building program designed to improve and expand the existing buildings, grounds and equipment here at the University so as to provide for the accommodation of a greatly expanded student body of seven or eight thousand students which is expected here during post-war years has just been announced by Dean R. B. House.

Covering both the immediate and future needs of the University, the program is expected to get under way sometime in 1945 and will extend over a period of approximately ten years according to the schedule outlined by Dean House.

The completion of the library by the addition of two wings is the first project to be undertaken under the new program. The present library structure was erected in 1927 and has been completely outgrown by subsequent expansion of the University.

Another major project is the construction of a new building to house the School of Commerce which is at present located in Bingham Hall. The new building is to be designed especially for use as a Commerce School and will be provided with a sufficient number of modern laboratory and demonstration rooms to take care of all future needs. The space now occupied by the School of Commerce in Bingham will be used for class rooms after the new building is completed.

The Botany Department is to be housed in a modern fire-proof building which is to be constructed near the Wilson Laboratory for zoology. The fire-proof structure will provide a much safer place to store the valuable collections owned by the botany department and, in addition, will provide sufficient classroom and office space. The most valuable of botanical collections is the famous "Aste Herbarium" which is one of the most complete collections of plants, shrubs and trees ever assembled.

The present NROTC Armory is to be replaced by a permanent structure which will be located in a more convenient location and will provide greatly improved facilities for the Department of Naval Science and Tactics which is a permanent part of the University and will continue after the war. The plan also calls for the construction of a colosseum to be used by the NROTC.

Other plans call for the construction of a new building to house the Department of Languages which now occupies a part of Murphey Hall, a new building for the Playmakers, a religious center to replace the present YMCA building, five new dormitories, a new shop building to house the University's repair shop and a general expansion of the public utilities operated by the University. The University also plans to assist the town and county in rebuilding the Chapel Hill high school which was destroyed by fire about two years ago.

Another important project is the completion of the University power plant by the addition of a soot eliminator thus solving a problem which is becoming acute for some of the residents of the western part of town. Still another provides for the installation of new seats in Memorial Hall.

Dean Mackie Announces Additional Pledge List

Dean E. L. Mackie announced the names of 14 new men pledged to Greek letter fraternities on the campus since the first week of fall rushing. The new men bring the total number of men pledged during the fall rushing period to 107.

The list as released by Dean Mackie is as follows: Alpha Tau Omega—John Earl Elliot, Leonard Edgar Brown; Pi Kap Alpha—Thaine Quintin Blumer; Pi Lambda Phi—George Breslow, Robert Fiestal Novis, Lee Ferome Unger, Charles Veil; Zeta Xi—Lone Eugene Thomas; Sigma Nu—Robert Allen Yates; Kappa Alpha—Miles James Smith; Kappa Sigma—William Lockhart Kyle, Ira Walker; Zeta Beta Tau—Philip Jacob Moskowitz; Delta Kappa Epsilon—Maclin Paschall Davis.

Staff Meeting

All staff members of the TAR HEEL are asked to attend an important staff meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Horace Williams lounge of Graham Memorial. The meeting will be held at 4:30.

PU Board Terminates Editor's Appointment

The Publications Union Board has terminated the appointment of the editor of The Tar Heel. Last June when the decision was made to continue publication twice a week during the summer, the Board filled the vacancy of editorship by appointment. This appointment was necessary inasmuch as no student elections were to be held until the Fall. It was made with recognition of the appointee's ability. In terminating the appointment, the Board still recognized that ability and competence. The basis of the action is the editor's continuous incompatibility with the staff.

Noted Jurist, Author Passes Away Here

Judge Winston Real Tar Heel

Judge Robert Watson Winston, 84, jurist and author, was found dead in his rooms at the Carolina Inn Saturday morning apparently having died in his sleep.

A former resident of Durham, Judge Winston served as a Superior Court judge in North Carolina from 1889 to 1895 and in recent years has been living in Chapel Hill and devoting his time to writing.

Graduating from Carolina with an AB degree in 1879, Judge Winston returned as a freshman at the age of 60 to, as he put it, "interpret the new South to the nation."

Judge Winston was the author of a number of books and wrote numerous magazine articles, most of them dealing with the South. His books included: "Life of Andrew Jackson," "High Stakes and Hair Trigger," "The Life of

Jefferson Davis, "Robert E. Lee, a biography," "It's A Far Cry," an autobiography, and "Horace Williams, the Gaffly of Chapel Hill."

The first day that the University opened after the Civil War it has been said that Judge Winston and his brother raced up Strowd Hill to see which of them could be the first to register, and the Judge won.

Doctor of Literature from Duke University and Doctor of Laws from Wake Forest College were but a few of the numerous honorary awards that were presented to Judge Winston in his lifetime.

Although he was in declining health the Judge continued active in recent years and was up and about his work as usual Friday and retired at his regular hour. His death was not discovered until Saturday morning
