Tar Heel Loses Key Man Behind Scenes

With this issue, the members of the Tar Heel staff and the Orange Printshop bid sad farewell to Bob Moore, linotype operator at the Orange Printshop.

During the course of his 19 years work at the printshop and on the Tar Heel, Bob has not only set the copy, but proof-read and corrected the mistakes that budding journalists have unintentionally made.

His loss will be felt deeply by the many staff members to whom he used to impart accounts of Tar Heel days gone by.

Playmakers Select First Major Play

Skin of Our Teeth Set for Five Day Run

Thornton Wilder's fantastic satire, "The Skin of Our Teeth," has been selected as the first major production of The Carolina Playmakers' 27th Season, it was announced today by Samuel Selden, executive director of the Playmakers.

The play is tentatively scheduled for production on November 28, 29, 30, December 1 and 2. Tryouts will be held in the Playmakers Theatre on November 8 at 4:00 and 7:30 Kai Jurgensen, new member of the Playmaker staff, will direct.

"The Skin of Our Teeth" was first produced on Broadway on November 18, 1942. It starred Tallulah Bankhead as Sabina, the eternal other woman, and Frederic March and his wife, Florence Eldridge, as Mr. and Mrs. Antrobus of Excelsior, N. J., who have been married 5000 years. Hopping through the ages, from the ice age, to the flood, to this war, the comedy's theme—the indestructibility of mankind—is indeed well reinforced.

The New York production was a smash hit, causing the biggest theatrical rumpus since Mr. Wilder's "Our Town." A controversial play, "The Skin of Our Teeth" won the Pulitzer prize of 1942 as the best original American play of that year.

Board Appoints Lemly

The PU Board has announced the appointment of J. Preston Lemly as Business Manager of the Tar Heel. Lemly is treasurer of the Carolina Veterans' Association and SP candidate for civilian representative to the Student Council.

Duke Tilt Ducats Selling Rapidly

Although there are a few tickets still available in sections on the 20-yard line on both sides of the field, the ducats for the Carolina-Duke game here on November 25 are going at a fast clip.

A check-up at the offices of the University Athletic Association here today showed that tickets are still available in section 21 on the South side and in section 9 on the North side. The advance sale indicates a sell-out for the game.

Two sections are being reserved for enlisted men and women at special rates of 60 cents each.

The Athletic Association's price for the tickets this year is the same as last year, but an increase in the federal tax adds 25 cents, making them $3 as compared to $2.75 last year.

Debate Council Meeting

War Coordination Officials Start Campus War Chest Drive Campaign Tomorrow

Davis and Leigh Are Co-Chairmen

Tomorrow will herald the beginning of the Campus War Chest Drive sponsored under the auspices of the War Coordination Board headed by Kitty Kelly.

Dal Davis and Boo Leigh have been appointed co-chairmen of the drive which will get underway officially tomorrow for at least a week's run and possibly two weeks. Nancy Jenkins and Grace Brewster are in charge of publicity for the campaign.

Tonight a meeting will be held for all dormitory canvass chairmen. R. M. Grumman of the Extension Division will present the plan of the drive to those students in the dormitories who were appointed to head the drive in their respective residences.

Climaxing the drive will be a Sound and Fury program which will be staged as a benefit for the Chest Drive. Admission will be charged for the program and the money will be used for the war chest drive.

The campus drive which has met with enviable success on other college campuses which however has been delayed here because of the change in schedules is a merger of all major drives except the Red Cross and the War Bond drives.

Each student will be asked by his respective dormitory leader to contribute two dollars to the drive. A card will be issued by the dormitory leader stating that the person has contributed to the fund.

The money is to be used for Community Chest and the USO, the former covering homefront activities and the latter a successful program for servicemen conducted both in continental United States and overseas. Some of the fund is to be used to help prisoners of war.

Kitty Kelly said that 75 per cent of the fund would go to the World Student Service Fund and 25 per cent to the War Chest fund. She also expressed the hope that the Carolina students would make the drive a glowing success as other college students have made their respective campaigns.

Fraternities Return To Their Old Houses

Campus fraternities took on the appearance of painter and carpenter guilds this week when they made a valiant effort to recondition their respective houses returned to them by the Navy November 1.

University trucks were kept busy moving beds, chairs, and various fraternity furniture that had been carefully stored away until this time.

With the exception of Eaton Hall, the Delta Sigma Pi house, new fraternity court is entirely in the hands of its former possessors.

Old fraternity court remains with the V-12 unit with civilian students occupying John Paul Jones hall, the Zeta Psi house.

Coordinated Trimester Plan For Civilian And Military Students Started Yesterday

With the termination of Navy leaves and civilian holidays following the six-weeks "short term" to synchronize fall University classes at Chapel Hill, V-12-ers and civilian students began the coordinated trimester system here yesterday which will continue for the duration.

Registration for new students, Navy transfer students, and those civilian students who did not register before the holidays were held Friday and Saturday, with indications that the civilian enrollment would top that of the short fall term.

Students may enroll for credit through Saturday, November 11.

According to administrative officials today, approximately 60 to 70 new civilian students registered, and 200 new V-12 students were enrolled. A number of new war veterans who have been discharged from active duty were also registered in addition to 67 enrolled in the short term.

Before the holidays 1915 civilian students enrolled in the short term registered for the new trimester.

This new system provides a four-months' semester with short vacation periods and is equal to the regular nine months' term which has long vacation periods. Students can, therefore, complete one full year of academic work in the eight months' period. The University will operate on a 12-months' basis with the third term beginning July 1.

With the return of practically all fraternity houses to the local chapters, the housing situation with respect to civilian men will be considerably improved. It is expected that crowded conditions, due to the pressure of a war job which had to be done, will be relieved to a great extent.

Other than the University club smoker which is set for Friday night no plans for orientation of freshmen have been made according to Dean of Students, E. L. Mackie. Last Wednesday night, President Frank Graham delivered an informal talk to the Marines who are new to Carolina and last Friday night Dean Johnson presided over a session which was set aside to introduce various officials of the school to the new students on campus.

The change from two systems, one for civilian and one for military students, was effected in order to offer a richer field of courses to both students because of the shortage of instructors and to increase the graduate department facilities as well as for economy, Dean House explained.

He also added that it was his hope that under the new system Carolina would experience one of its most successful years and he predicted that the trimester system which puts military men side by side with civilians would function harmoniously.
