Beauty Ball To Highlight Duke-Carolina Tilt

Parties Hustle As Nomination Deadline Draws To Close

Independent Ticket Might Enter Race

Nominations Must Be in Thursday

With Thursday as the deadline set aside by the legislature for nominations to be in, both the University Party and Student Party are hustling around campus attempting to complete their slates before that date.

Up to date both parties have not completed their nominations.

In the political picture for the coming election the possibility of an independent ticket loomed last weekend as rumor had it that this type might show up before Thursday and also a possibility that a third party might list candidates for the student body elections slated to be held November 30.

In the elections held last spring there were only two parties, but prior to that and at various other times in Carolina's election history there have been several independent runners and third party factions.

From reports of both the Student Party and the University Party, there seems to be a shortage of potential candidates as the two parties are putting forth every effort to fill the gaps on their respective slates.

The organizing of an independent ticket might throw a monkey wrench into the plans of the established parties. As it stands officially there is not but one candidate for editor of

All names of candidates for campus elections are to be submitted to a member of the elections committee between 2 and 4 at Gerrard Hall Thursday, November 16, 1944.

The Tar Heel. The candidate, Charles Wickenberg, is running on the University Party ticket. The Student Party and any other independent group has only tomorrow and the next day before the deadline on nominations will be closed out.

If no other party or independent files for the position of editor of the Tar Heel, before Thursday, that position will be the only post without at least two candidates in the race.

The day before elections, the elections committee of the Legislature has planned an open meeting at which candidates for the various campus posts will be given the opportunity to speak to the student body.

The three major positions open on campus to be filled in the coming elections are editor of the Tar Heel, speaker of the Legislature and editor of the Yackety Yack.

Alumna Featured In Esquire Mag

Anne Jefferys, alumna of the University of North Carolina, is featured in a full page, full-color photograph by George Hurrell in the December issue of Esquire magazine.

Anne hummed tunes before she talked, according to Esquire, and her family was convinced that there was an embryonic opera star in the house. The head of the University of North Carolina Voice Department corroborated the family's opinion and gave Anne a letter of introduction to Madame Gallucurci who graciously heard her sing. With the closing note of the first song the Goldsboro girl's education was off with a trill toward an operatic career.

Anne paid for her musical education by posing for magazine covers. She was a good model and a good music student, continues Esquire. . . good enough to win a scholarship with the Municipal Opera Association. She sang Violetta, Mimi and Nedda, and sang them well. The Metropolitan was just around the corner when Anne decided to take a rest in California.

In Cinema town people and producers looked as well as listened, and Anne was signed for a part in "Fun for the Money," followed by "I Married An Angel," followed by the siren role in the new Frank Sinatra picture, "Step Lively" on the RKO lot. Anne is definitely a "find," concluded Esquire. (Credit Esquire Magazine)

Debaters Organize Trip To Legislative Assembly

Final plans for Carolina's delegation to the annual Student's Legislative Assembly will be made tonight at 8 o'clock in the Grail Room.

The Debate Council is administering this delegation and will provide free transportation for all those who wish to attend.

Assignment of students to both houses of the Student legislature will be followed by a review of several bills which Carolina will sponsor in this fourth consecutive session of the assembly. Party structures will be made in order to facilitate the election of whatever officers in these two houses Carolina chooses to nominate.

Last year Carolina men were elected to both the speakership of the House and to the presidency of the Senate.

Likewise, every bill which Carolina sponsored last year passed both houses by a substantial majority.

The students who make this trip will be excused from all classes on Friday and Saturday. They will leave here for Raleigh Friday morning and return late Saturday afternoon. State College will provide free lodging for eleven Carolina students. The Dialectic Senate is providing free lodging for two of its members. Lots will be drawn in the Grail Room tonight to determine the eleven students who will receive the accommodations afforded by State College.

The Assembly is sponsored annually by State College in conjunction with the Secretary of State. Governor Broughton usually makes the address.

Polish Situation To Undergo Discussion In IRC Forum

The Russian-Polish dispute will undergo thorough scrutiny tonight at 8 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial when four members of the faculty mount the rostrum in the fifth of this series of International Relations club forums.

Designed to air and clarify somewhat the major problems in designing the peace, this forum follows previous ones on the subject of "The Disposition of Germany after the War", "Post-War Japan", "Another League of World Federation?" and "Basic Principles of the Conflict."

Analyzing the Polish situation will be Dr. E. E. Ericson, English professor, who has appeared frequently on IRC programs; Dr. Helmut Kuhn, native of Czechoslovakia and philosophy professor, who participated in the last IRC forum; Dr. L. C. MacKinney, history professor, who also is not new to forum audiences; and Dr. E. J. Woodhouse, of the political science department, who has several times assumed the role of mediator on IRC programs.

Laying the ground work for the discussion will be Dr. MacKinney, who will outline the historical factors involved in the dispute. It is believed he will analyze the Polish government and its efficiency since the last war and speculate concerning the outcome of its claims against the Soviet Union.

Opening the actual dispute will be Dr. Ericson. He will uphold the Russian attitude toward her eastern neighbor and her insistence on the Curzon line as the boundary. The rivalry for governmental control of Poland between the London government-in-exile and the Lublin Committee of Liberation will also enter into his analysis.

Dr. Woodhouse will reply to the Russian viewpoint by airing the Polish government grievances, and the entire problem will be summed up in Dr. Kuhn's remarks in conclusion on the ethical factors involved.

Dean F. F. Bradshaw, acting as mediator, will attempt to keep order among the conflicting factions and to analyze their analyses.

GRAHAM MAY RETURN

The possibility that President Frank Graham may return to the University of North Carolina was brought out recently when Graham asked President Roosevelt that he be released from his duties with the War Labor Board.

TEP Fraternity Reorganizes

Reorganizing after a period of inactivity of one year, Tau Epsilon Phi held its first reception Sunday in Graham Memorial, and announced that pledging will take place within the next two weeks.

The new officers include Norman Silver, chancellor; Morton Pizer, vice-chancellor; Sid Appel, treasurer; and Tim Neiditch, secretary.

Chancellor Silver has issued a call to brothers from any college who are now on the campus to contact him at 130 North St. or phone 5631.

The Omega chapter of TEP was founded on the Carolina campus in 1924 by Dr. Jack Lazarus. Due to the national emergency, it has been inactive since 1943.

Tau Epsilon Phi has produced many campus BMOCs, some of which are Sylvan Meyer, Jud Kinberg and Ernie Frankel of the Tar Heel; Ed Michael of football fame; Al Rose, member of the boxing team, Grail and Fleece, and Coach Joe Murnick of the Physical education department and coach of the boxing team.

CICA To Gear For Action Tomorrow Night

The Carolina Independent Coed Association will conduct a mass meeting tomorrow night on second floor of Graham Memorial for the purpose of planning the year's program. The meeting is set for 7:30.

Foremost purpose of the CICA is to furnish social advantages for those non-sorority girls on campus and the "stray Greeks," coeds who are members of a sorority which is not located here.

Libba Wiggins, president of the CICA, stated that the session would not last over an hour and that refreshments would be served.

Some of the plans which will be up for discussion at the meeting tomorrow night will be the staging of a CICA dance which will be for girls who are active in the CICA program, deciding upon charms for members of the executive council and members of the group who have worked most diligently and the planning of a program whereby the association will benefit coeds in entering the various extracurricular activities.

Libba Wiggins explained that all girls are invited to attend the meeting who are not affiliated with a sorority. She added that even though a coed were a rushee that the coed was welcome to attend the meeting.

Queen and Eight Attendants To Be Crowned At Yackety Yack Sponsored Dance Nov. 25

Next Magazine To Hit Campus December 10

Shirley Hartzell, editor of the Carolina Magazine, announces the next issue will be out December 10.

Deadline for all copy submitted will be next Sunday night, November 19.

The December issue will be the second of six issues to be put out this year. Formerly there have been eight each year, but in its budget the PU board has limited the number to six this year.

Features planned for the forthcoming issue include a backstage view of the Playmakers "Skin Of Our Teeth," scheduled for November 28-December 2. If possible, there will be a picture layout, showing how the Playmakers handled some of the technical difficulties in staging the show. Also planned is a story about the recent filming on campus of scenes for the moving picture to be based on Thomas Wolfe's "Look Homeward, Angel." Sidelights on his life at Carolina, where he was a student, and notes on present Carolina students taking part in the production will be given.

Another feature of the mag, planned to be a regular one, is a "Personality of the Month," undisclosed as yet.

Editor Hartzell urges that all who are poets or who think they are poets submit their work—of any type—to her. She requested prose, too, but stated that there seems to be a definite shortage of poetry so far this year.

Freddy Johnson and Orchestra to Play; Campus Organizations to Enter Choices

Featuring the crowning of the most beautiful coed on the campus and eight lovely attendants, the Yackety Yack will hold its second semi-formal Beauty Ball the night of the Duke-Carolina game, Saturday, November 25, in Woolen Gymnasium from 9 to 12 o'clock with music by Freddie Johnson and His Orchestra. Joe Denker is M. C.

The queen will be selected from coeds sponsored by organizations on the campus. Letters have been sent to the various campus organizations and fraternities asking them to select their prospective Yack Queen. Each organization is eligible to sponsor three coeds. Cookie Marett, acting editor of the Yackety Yack urges all the sponsors to get their entries in early before their prospective queen is sponsored by some other organization. Entries will be taken every afternoon at the Yack office from now until the deadline on Wednesday, November 22.

Each of the eight attendants selected and the queen herself will be featured in the beauty section of the Yackety Yack.

The Beauty Queen will be picked by five members of the faculty who will serve as judges. Members of the faculty who will exercise their eyes for beauty will be: Dean Francis Bradshaw, Captain Carroll, Dean E. L. Mackie, Dean R. B. House and Major James W. Marshall, commandant of the Marine V-12 unit here.

Plans for the ball include a short floor show while the judges make their decision of the queen. At this time Freddie Johnson and his orchestra, dancing by Fred Caligan and songs by Marian Gurney will step into the limelight. Miss Gurney is featured through the courtesy of Clyde Wade and his orchestra.

After the selection of the queen the eight attendants will form the foreground and the Beauty Queen will enter through an arch that will be placed in the gym. Following this the queen will be crowned, and she and her date will begin the last dance before the intermission.

Tickets for the Yack Ball will be on sale at the Yackety Yack office, and in the boys dormitories. Admission will be $1.00 for advance tickets and $1.25 for tickets bought at the door. This price is for both couples and stags.

Di Will Discuss Spanish Affairs Tomorrow Night

Current disputes over the Spanish problem will come to a head tomorrow night when the Dialectic Senate considers a bill which would provide for a United Nations sponsorship of self determination in that "neutral" European country.

The Executive Committee is bringing forth this bill and its articles provide for three definite steps to be taken in regard to Spain's present international position.

First, it would serve an ultimatum to General Franco demanding that a fair plebiscite be held. Second, this plebiscite would determine what form of government and economy the Spanish people want. Third, the Spaniards would then be permitted to choose their government officials democratically.

All three of these provisions would be backed by allied forces, and supervised by all the allied nations with the exception of Great Britain, the United States, Russia, and China.

In its business session the Di will consider various committees which will be presented by Bill Crisp, President.

The Dialectic Senate meets at 8 o'clock every Wednesday night. Its formal discussions are open to all students and their attendance of meetings and participation in these discussions are welcomed. The Di meets on the 3rd floor of New West.

Marshall Promoted To Marine Major

The promotion of Capt. James W. Marshall, the Commandant of the Marine V-12 Unit, to the rank of Major was announced here late last month. This promotion reflected the increased importance now being attached to the Marine College Training Program here at Carolina and throughout the country, but at the same time increased the possibility that Major Marshall may in the near future be assigned to other duties.

Major Marshall entered the Marine Corps in December 1940 and attended Officer's Candidate School at Quantico, Va. After receiving his commission there in May 1941 he was given specialized training and was then assigned to the first division of the Marine Corps which at that time was stationed at New River. In December 1941 he shipped out with his unit to Panama and performed rather varied duties until March 1943 when he returned to the States and was assigned to duties at Camp Lejeune with the fourth division. Major Marshall was ordered to report here in June 1943 for the purpose of organizing and taking command of the Marine V-12 Unit here, and he continues in that capacity.

Sorority Teas End Weekend Socials

Sororities here opened their rushing season Sunday with afternoon teas at all four houses. Similar teas were held yesterday at each of the houses. Girls attended two of the teas Sunday, then attended the remaining two teas yesterday.

Carr Dorm honored new men on campus, both civilian and servicemen, with an informal dance Friday night from 9-12 in Graham Memorial Lounge. Residents of Carr Dorm and Archer House and Mrs. Martha Vandever acted as hostesses for the occasion.

The Order of the Grail sponsored an informal dance celebrating Armistice Day, at Woolen Gymnasium Saturday night from 9-12. Music was furnished by Freddie Johnson's orchestra. Capt. and Mrs. James W. Marshall, Lt. and Mrs. J. D. Hill, Capt. and Mrs. E. E. Hazlett, Jr., Dean and Mrs. R. B. House, Dean and Mrs. F. F. Bradshaw, Dean and Mrs. E. R. Mackie, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Teague were chaperones.

Friends here have received word that Miss Eleanor Redyke, of Williamsport, Pa. and Ens. Wade Weatherford, U. S. N. R., class of 44, were recently married in Williamsport.

Playmakers Close Casting of First Major Production

After several try outs the complete cast of the forthcoming production of the Playmakers, "The Skin of Our Teeth," was announced Saturday. Heading the cast will be Kathleen Arnold as Sabina, Barbara Arnold as Mrs. Antrobus and Fred Salk as Mr. Antrobus. Dick Kiser and Barbara Rich will portray Henry and Gladys, the two children of the Antrobus family.

Also included in the cast are numerous other characters of various types and descriptions, ranging from telegraph boys to dinosaurs. Jo Sharky will appear as the fortune-teller, Jack Holcombe as Mr. Fitzpatrick, Billy Foister as the telegraph boy, Fletcher Green as the mammoth, and Mario Somer as the dinosaur.

Other members of the giant cast are Bob Kohl, Randall Brooks, Dan Anderson, Sherman Lazarus, Nick Lindsay, Jane Craumer, Mimi McGowan, Myra Sklarey and Ann Campbell. The technical staff for the production will be announced at a later date.

Coed Senate Tonight

The Coed Senate will meet tonight at 7:30 on second floor of Graham Memorial. Subsidiary organizations are requested to be represented at the meeting for budget hearings.

Religious Emphasis Week Starts Sunday

By Charles Wickenberg

Prior to the memory of Chapel Hill's oldest citizen the YMCA has been having periodic Religious Emphasis seasons of special programs bringing to the campus distinguished ministers and outstanding religious laymen as speakers and leaders. It was 85 years ago when the University YMCA was established that the first of these programs was sponsored . . . only in those days they were called "Evangelistic Meetings" and "Revivals."

For the first 125 years the campus had no big public occasions except the Di and Phi intercollegiate debates and the Y programs, plus an occasional stitute.

When Frank Graham was the Y secretary in 1913-14 he staged on a large scale the Evangelistic Series with Dr. John R. Mott, the General Secretary of the World YMCA as the leading speaker.

In 1938 the Religious Emphasis program began to take on the multiple-speaker pattern of the Institute, and on that year there was a series of six days with 14 guest speakers. The pattern now is to have a central speaker who does a series of addresses at the public meetings, and ministers
