

Tar Heels Seek To Quell Duke Bowl Bid Hope In 31st Renewal Of Annual Gridiron Classic

TOM DAVIS

Chances Of Derailing 11th Team In Nation Mighty Slim For Heels

By Carroll Poplin

One of the oldest and keenest rivalries in the South will be renewed this afternoon when the bowl-bound Blue Devils of Duke University invade Carolina for their annual grid classic at 2 o'clock in the 31st meeting of the Southern Conference foes.

Coach Gene McEver has been priming his spirited and hopeful Tar Heels this week to the tune of an upset in today's melee, as the former Davidson mentor matches his young and scrappy warriors against Duke's mighty gridsters who rank 11th in the nation.

Carolina will be seeking their first win over the Blue Devils since 1940, when an underrated Blue and White squad derailed a highly favored Duke team by the score of 6-3. The game this year finds the same situation prevailing. Duke is touted as heavy favorites, despite her record of only three wins, while Carolina looms as the underdogs with only one victory under her belt.

Should the Blue Devils win this afternoon, there is a chance that they will represent the East in the Rose Bowl or the Sugar Bowl. A victory for the Tar Heels would greatly improve their season's record and would give the McEvermen their first decision over an intercollegiate team this campaign.

Today will mark the close of a somewhat successful season for Coach Eddie Cameron's gridmen, while one more contest remains on the Carolina slate. The only defeats that Duke has suffered from its tough schedule were to the four top ranking teams of the country including Penn, North Carolina Pre-Flight, Navy and Army. Neither team has gained an impressive win over the Devils. Army's mighty array of stars only toppled Duke 27-7.

Carolina's single victory so far this season was at the expense of a powerful Cherry Point Marine team, while the Tar Heels have dropped contests to six foes including Army, Wake Forest, Georgia Tech and Yale. The Tar Heels have played stout defensive ball, but signs of weakness have been evident in the offensive attack.

Past records are usually cast aside at the annual Carolina-Duke tussel, for past experiences show that records haven't always been the deciding factor of the outcome. It was in 1935 that Carolina was undefeated up until the Duke game, and the Blue Devils upset the Tar Heels' bowl hopes with a stunning

Dr. Frank Graham Reviews Sportsmanship and Honor In Initial Talk Of Year

Paying a surprise visit to the University, President Frank P. Graham delivered his first "fireside chat" of this year to a small, but very representative group of students gathered in Hill Hall on Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. The subject of his chat was "Sportsmanship and Honor."

Dwelling briefly on the fact that this is the oldest state university in the United States, he said that we did not want to live in the past too much—"although I must say that those who do not treasure their past become unworthy of their present"—but that we would rather be thought of as the youngest university than the oldest in the nation.

"Although we would like to be both," Dr. Graham continued, "we would rather be young in ideas than old chronologically."

He went on to say that Americans had a tradition of boldness such that when they were faced with unpleasant truth or truths about themselves, they did not sit in a corner and sulk, but went to the truth and erased it.

He said further that the main idea of going to a college or university is to study. Here he revealed the fact that of the three universities south of Baltimore and east of the Mississippi River which were allowed to grant PhD's, the University had more departments which are judged capable to grant PhD's than any other. "The score was: UNC, 11; 'X' university, 8; and 'Y' university, 3," he said.

"Study won't have sincerity of purpose enough for you to get full value out of it unless you trust the person next to you," he continued. "We don't want you to be honorable because you are afraid to be dishonorable. We

Coeds To Meet Candidates

Candidates for major student body offices will be presented to Carolina coeds at the monthly coed hour Tuesday, November 28, at 4:50 p. m. in Memorial hall.

Candidates for the speakership of the legislature, Charlie Hackney and Doug Hunt; candidates for the Tar Heel editorship, Jimmy Wallace and Charles Wickenburg; and Yack editor candidates, Cookie Marett and Jean Parry, will each make two-minute talks.

Dean F. F. Bradshaw will introduce Helen Blair and Mrs. Margaret Moskier, who are now in charge of vocational guidance. They will discuss briefly the year's vocational program.

Immediately following the coed hour, a reception has been scheduled in Graham Memorial where students will have the opportunity to meet the candidates for the major offices who will compose the receiving line. Coed senators will officiate as hostesses.

Nancy Jane King, Betty Lou Cypert, Mary Payne Jett and Dot Phillips are on the program committee to make arrangements for the reception.

Warfare Demonstration

On Tuesday afternoon, November 28, at 4:15 on Fetzer Field, there will be a chemical warfare demonstration staged by soldiers from Camp Butler, sent to Chapel Hill as part of the program for a 6th War Bond rally by Colonel H. W. Pool, post commander.

Crowning Of Most Beautiful Coed To Take Place Tonight At Yackety Yack Beauty Ball

Names of contestants who will compete for the title of the most beautiful coed on campus at the Yackety Yack beauty ball tonight from 9-12 at Woollen gymnasium have been announced by acting editor of the Yackety Yack, Cookie Marett.

Fred Caligan and Marion Gurney, veteran entertainers who have appeared in USO shows in New York City, will present a floor show of dancing and singing. Freddie Johnson and his orchestra will furnish music for the ball, highlight of the traditional Duke-Caroline weekend.

Announce List Of Who's Who Selections

Fifteen students of the University have been selected to appear in the next issue of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, one of the highest honors that can come to a student, announced University authorities yesterday.

Who's Who has appeared every year for the past 11 years, and represents more than 600 colleges and universities over the nation. The publication selects the campus leaders and outstanding students on the campuses of the country on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership in extracurricular activities and for future usefulness to business and society. Only juniors, seniors and students in advanced work are eligible to appear in Who's Who.

Of the 15 students selected from the campus, nine are coeds, two are Navy V-12ers stationed here, and four are civilian students. The list of the students selected as released from South building is: Betty Cypert, Shirley Hartzell, Catherine P. Kelly, Lucy Lee Kennedy, Sara McEachern, Jean Rankin, Thomasina Slayton, Wynette White, Elizabeth Wiggins, Charlie Frank Benbow, Bill Crisp, James Godwin, Douglas Hunt, Edwin B. Shultz and Harvey White. There were two students nominated last year who are still in school and are therefore automatically included, Demond Hammond and James Frederick Newsome.

Even though with wartime conditions there are fewer students attending the colleges and universities the Who's Who committee has not lowered its qualifications for nominations. Instead it has kept the standards at the same level and has reduced the number of nominations which each college or university can have. Last year Carolina had 21 students listed in the publication and this year the number was decreased by six.

Who's Who was established 11 years ago to serve outstanding honor to deserving students who had stood out above their classmates. The nominations for this honor are selected by a faculty committee with regard to all the prospective nominee's qualifications.

Joe Denker, master of ceremonies, will announce the following contestants and their sponsors:

Le Macke, Betty Black and Betty Vashaw—Sigma Nu; Jane Eisenhower and Phyllis Ganey—Sigma Chi; Linda Williams and Mary Payne Jett—Phi Gam; Margaret Fountain, Jane Foster and Margaret Penn—Chi Omega; Betty Strickland, Snookie Phipps, and Jean Murray—Pi Phi; Nell Shanklin and Ju Ju Newsome—ATO; Joy Gilbert—Beta Theta Pi; Tish Andrews and Elizabeth Mace—SAE; Mary Thomas and Marjorie Cole—Kappa Sig; Winkie White, Marian Castellow and Carroll Cone—Tri Delta;
