

Run Off Elections To Be Conducted Thursday

Internationalist Senator Joseph Ball To Deliver Talk Here

Military Men To Be Excused From Studies

Ball To Discuss Peaceful World

One of the most publicized senators of recent months, Senator Joseph H. Ball, Republican from Minnesota, will speak at Memorial hall Thursday, December 7 at 8 p.m.

Marines, V-12's and ROTC's may be excused from their study hour for the speech by applying to their respective executive officers, IRC president Buddy Glenn said.

Engaged by the International Relations club as the second speaker in its current series, the Senator will enlarge on his ideas for an international post-war organization. Ball is the author of the Senate resolution calling for America's participation in such a set-up, commonly dubbed the B2H2 resolution.

A non-conformist all his life—particularly non-conformist to the isolationist tendencies of his state prior to our entrance in the war, Ball has often aroused the ire of his constituents and the wonder of the nation.

Upon appointment to the Senate by Governor Harold Stassen in 1940 the Fairmont (Minnesota) Daily Sentinel published a one-line editorial comment: "Joe Ball for U. S. Senator! Good God!" Two years of statesmanship resulted in a reversal of sentiment on the part of the Sentinel. When he was formally elected by a large majority, the comment was: "Joe Ball for Senator! Thank God!" Of Ball's appointment to the Senate Collier's magazine wrote: "If he had appointed Gypsy Rose Lee, there couldn't have been a bigger uproar in Minnesota."

So varied were the IRC speaker's interests when he was in college that he never bothered to receive a degree. At the University of Minnesota he busied himself with everything from chemical research and engineering to history, sociology and journalism and after four years pronounced his formal education complete, becoming then a newspaper man.

Ball is one of the youngest senators ever to take office, having had to register for the draft before being sworn in. Like the late Wendell Willkie, he has been in complete agreement with the President's foreign policy but often at odds with him on domestic issues. It was Roosevelt's internationalist stand which induced the young Republican to withdraw his support from Dewey, whose nomination he had seconded at the Chicago convention, in favor of the Democratic nominee. He still considers himself a Republican, nevertheless.

N. C. Represented In South Calendar

The Calendar of the South will make its debut this week with North Carolina represented among the 13 states with quotations contributed by Paul Green, noted dramatist who is now on leave from the University to work on a movie, and paragraphs contributed by Frederick H. Koch, founder of the Carolina Playmakers. The paragraphs which were contributed by "Proff" Koch shortly before his death last summer were taken from his "Carolina Folk Plays."

The Dietz Press, Inc. of Richmond, Va., official publishers of Colonial Williamsburg in Virginia, have designed this first Engagement Calendar of the South for 1945. It is printed in "confederate grey" and represents the thirteen states by full page photographs selected by the Governor's wives.

The calendar includes the states' name origins, flowers, mottos and celebration days. Grace Moore, of the Metropolitan Opera, Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With the Wind," Jesse Stuart, Ellen Glasgow and other famous authors have contributed to the Calendar.

Change In Late Permission Discussed By Coed Group; Plan Mass Meeting Tonight

Nominations for junior officers and vice-president of Woman's Government will be made tonight at a mass meeting of the coed senate at 7:30 o'clock in the main lecture room of the Pharmacy building.

The offices which will be filled by the next election include two non-senior representatives to the senate, two non-senior representatives to the Honor Council and vice-president of W. G. A., who must be a senior.

At the last senate meeting a bill was introduced which would change coed dorm closing hours from 10:30 until 11 o'clock. Senators favoring the bill stressed the fact that later permission would permit coeds to study a half hour later in the library and would enable them to attend meetings which are now scheduled between 10:30 and 11 for the convenience of Navy boys.

Those opposed to the bill said that the later closing time would mean that quiet would not be obtained in the dorms until very late and that there were not a sufficient number of coeds who needed the late permission to warrant such a change. The bill will be up for vote at the next meeting.

Plans were discussed toward establishing a personality council which would work in conjunction with the senate and honor council. The purpose of such a council would be to assist those girls who have engaged in anti-social activities, to help adjust persons with personality difficulties, and to counsel offenders of Woman's Government.

24 Below Club Reorganizes

The 24 Below Club, Carolina's model night club, will open for its second season next Saturday night from nine 'til 12 in the basement of Graham Memorial.

Under the direction of Boo Leigh and Pat Hughes of the YW and Merrill Kelley of the YM and their committees, the club will run under the same conditions as it did when it was originated last spring. The usual checkered table-cloths and beer bottles with candles inserted in the necks will contribute to the cabaret atmosphere. Refreshments available will include Coca-Colas, nabs and sandwiches, while the music will consist of either an orchestra or records over the PA system. The only thing different will be a 25-cent cover charge for couple or stag, necessitated by the cost of renting the grill. It is hoped that there will be some kind of floor show or entertainment.

The idea for the 24 Below Club originated in the YW last spring and was broadened to include the YM because of the boys' interest and the need for someone to do the heavier work. Owing to the club's exceptional success, it was decided to reopen it this term.

"We hope to make it bigger and better than last time," said Boo Leigh in a statement to the Tar Heel.

Glee Clubs Sing Christmas Songs On December 13

On Thursday night, December 13, in the Hill Hall music emporium, the men's and women's glee clubs will combine to present a program of songs relative to the Yuletide season.

This musical co-op movement, fostered by Mr. Paul Young, promises to put both aggregations back into the class of living Carolina institutions.

Mr. Young, the personification of zest and vigor, has endeavored to infuse some of his enthusiasm into the men's club, which has recently undergone a renaissance. At the end of last spring the embryo Carusos were exactly eight in number. The women's club, unaffected by the draft, continued to function with a sufficient supply of vocal talent.

Setting to work with the proverbial will, after taking over the reins from the departed John Toms, Young unleashed a propaganda program designed to conscript new members. After aspirants had undergone trials, he formed a unit of approximately 30 men. The present edition is composed of the few remaining members of bygone days, new civilian students, and an infusion of Marines and Navy V-12ers.

Next week's program has a religious motif, but Mr. Young's ingenious touch promises a surprise or two.

Institute Holds Annual Session For Attorneys

The 1944 Institute for City and County Attorneys throughout the state will be conducted by the Institute of Government at the University Friday and Saturday, December 8 and 9, it was announced by Albert Coates, director.

Registration will be at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Institute building, with the first joint session following. There will also be separate discussion sessions for city and county attorneys.

Discussion leaders will be the following: Charles W. Tillett, Grover H. Jones and Susie Sharp, city attorneys of Charlotte, High Point, and Reidsville, respectively; Brandon P. Hodges of Asheville; and Peyton B. Abbott, assistant director of the Institute.

Tar Heel Staff Asked To Attend Important Meet

The Tar Heel will welcome all prospective staff members and will conduct a special reunion for those old staff members who have drifted away from the Tar Heel when Charles Wickenberg, new editor of the Tar Heel, meets with the staff for the first time Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The meeting is of undefined importance as a roll will be made of all those persons eager to work on the publication. From the list of old and new staff members the editors will change beats and create departments so that all those interested will have a fair chance to get a crack at newspaper writing of their liking.

The meeting will not be only for those interested in the editorial departments of the paper, but will be held for the students interested in the business department also.

There Will Be

An important meeting of graduate students on the fourth floor of Alumni Building on Wednesday, December 6, at 7:30 p. m. This meeting is for the purpose of formally organizing the incipient Graduate Club, and all graduate or professional students are most strongly urged to attend.

Bull's Head Tea

Bull's Head Bookshop will hold a tea on Wednesday afternoon, December 6, at 4 to put on display an exhibit of children's books. Miss Emily Meigs will be present to advise and recommend books for children and to answer questions.

University students, the faculty and the general public are cordially invited.

CRISP

Crisp, Davis To Battle For Vice-President

The results of two tightly matched races for major offices on campus will be decided, the elections committee hopes, when a special run-off election is held Thursday of this week to determine the new vice-president of the student body and the new secretary-treasurer.

In last week's elections which placed Douglas Hunt in the Speaker of the Legislature post; Charles Wickenberg in the Tar Heel editor's seat; and Cookie Maret in the Yack editor's position, there was a tie in the race for secretary-treasurer and a need for a run-off in a three-way race for the vice-presidency.

Tied with 788 votes each for secretary-treasurer were Jenks Tripp of the University Party and Boots Walker of the Student Party. In the race for vice-president, Bill Crisp failed to attain a majority over his opposition, Dal Davis and Archie Hood. Hood, however, was eliminated in the elections last week and the run-off will be between Davis and Crisp.

Crisp is running independently while Davis is a Student Party candidate. Hood was a University Party candidate. Crisp was 214 votes in front of Davis in the first election and the voting is expected to be mighty close if Davis gets the majority of Hood's votes and Crisp holds his own. If, however, Davis doesn't swing a great per cent of Hood's votes, Crisp will be the next vice-president of the student body figuring the vote is cast along the same lines of the last election.

The polls for the run-off election will be open at Kenan dormitory for all coeds living in Kenan, Alderman, McIver and Spencer from eight in the morning to five in the afternoon. All other civilian students, medical students and coeds in Carr dorm will be asked to cast ballots in the Y which will be open from nine in the morning to five in the evening. All Navy men will vote in Swain hall from 12:30 till 1 o'clock and from 6 to 7 p. m.

The elections committee hopes that votes will be tabulated early Thursday night and that an official announcement will be available in Graham Memorial before closing time Thursday night.

Dr. Schinhan Will Give Recital Wednesday Night

German, British and American music will be featured on the program when Dr. Jan Philip Schinhan, head of the piano and organ division of the University Music Department, presents an organ recital at 8:30 p. m. in Hill Hall on Wednesday, December 6.

Scheduled for two weeks ago, the recital had to be postponed for lack of an organ tuner.

The program for the recital is as follows: Bach's Chorale, "Wachet auf ruft uns die Stimme" and "Toccata," "Adagio" and "Fuga" from Bach's "Toccata et Fuga in C"; two fantasies, "No. 1 in D" and "No. 5 in D" from the living British composer Noel Ponsoby's "Five Fancies"; "Praeludium" and "Canzone" from "Suite for Organ Opus 56" by Joseph Renner, a former teacher of Dr. Schinhan's, who dedicated this composition to Clarence Eddy, Dean of American organists; and "Scherzo" and "Toccata-Finale" from "Sonata for Organ" by Rene L. Becker, an American composer.

Another feature of the program will be Dr. Schinhan's well-known improvisations on themes suggested by members of the audience.

Dr. Schinhan has appeared in many concerts in this country. His first distinguished work in America was done on the West Coast where for a number of years he was organ soloist with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, appearing with this group under such renowned conductors as Alfred Hertz and Bernard Molinari. He also appeared in recital and as accompanist for many programs at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music where he was the head of the organ department. During these years he was also regular guest organist at the palace of Legion of Honor and gave joint recitals with Edward H. Lemare of the Bohemian Club in San Francisco of which Dr. Schinhan is a member.

Dr. Schinhan received his entire musical education in Europe. His academic studies were divided between this country and Europe where he received his doctorate from the University of Vienna.

His musical studies included private lessons with such nationally known authorities as Dr. H. Binerle, Dr. F. X. Haberle, Michael Haller, and Joseph Renner, Jr., with the last-named of whom he studied composition and organ for over four years. Besides completing the course in the well-known church music school at Regensburg, he graduated from the Academy of Music at Munich where he studied under Fred Klose and Felix Motil.

Before coming to this country, Dr. Schinhan for a number of years conducted opera and orchestra concerts. He continued this work here until the outbreak of the first World War.

State Symphony Opens Season On Saturday

The North Carolina State Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Benjamin F. Swalin, will open the current season with two concerts here Saturday, December 9.

The Student Entertainment Committee of the University and the State Symphony Society will present the orchestra in the main concert in Memorial Hall Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Free Concert

On Saturday morning in Memorial Hall at 11:30, the orchestra will give a free concert for the school children of Orange county, featuring Miss Margaret Shaw, 13-year-old pianist of Macon, N. C., as guest soloist.

The children's concert, which was arranged by Mrs. Adeline McCall, well known Chapel Hill musician, will be similar to those which proved popular throughout the state last winter.

Miss Shaw, who has studied at both Duke University and Meredith College, will play "Romance from Concerto in D minor," by Mozart.

Interpreter

Foster Fitzsimons of the Carolina Playmaker staff will serve as commentator and interpreter for the remainder of the program to be played by the orchestra, beginning with the Star Spangled Banner. Other numbers include Scene XIII, Finale, from Mozart; excerpts from Beethoven's Sixth Symphony (Pastorale), and Lamar Stringfield's "Cripple Creek."

The program Saturday night will include Beethoven's Sixth Symphony, with the movements "Cheerful Impressions Upon Arrival in the Country," "By the Brook," "Peasants' Merry-Making," "Tempest and Storm" and "The Shepherds' Hymn—Thanksgiving After the Storm," and Goldmark's "Sakuntala Overture," Stringham's "Nocturne No. 1," and the prelude to Act III from "Lohengrin," by Wagner.
