Legislature Returns To Normalcy With New Head

New Bill Proposed By Group

Plan To Analyze Campus Systems

In its first meeting since the November 30 elections, the Student Legislature climbed into the spotlight Thursday night when the Ways and Means Committee brought forth a bill proposing a select committee to investigate the current overlapping of authorities in campus government.

Under the gavel of its newly-elected Speaker, Doug Hunt, the Legislature accepted the committee's report which would set up a nine-man committee, composed of a representative campus group, both in and out of the Legislature to hold hearings and make recommendations concerning a possible reorganization and simplification of student government.

An attempt to suspend the rules, which would have allowed the bill to be discussed and voted upon Thursday evening was defeated. The bill will come before the group next Thursday night when it meets in Phi Hall.

Speaker Hunt also announced the appointment of Bob Lipton, Law School representative, to the chairmanship of a special Archives Committee which will attempt to codify all previous work of the Legislature. A. B. Smith was elected head of the Rules Committee.

Also on the docket for next week is a bill for the revitalizing of class organizations. Hunt explained that this was necessary in that there was a class graduating in February, and certain class functions would be stymied without a class organization.

In a short informal meeting before the Legislature officially convened, outgoing Speaker Harvey O. White formally turned over the duties of Speaker to the newly-elected man. White, in a short speech, thanked the members of the Legislature for their cooperation and consideration, and stated that he had enjoyed their friendship greatly during his term of office.

Coeds Nominate Twelve Officers To WGA Positions

At a mass meeting of the Senate Tuesday night, the coed student body nominated 12 students to run for major offices in the forthcoming women's election which are set for December 19.

Peggy White of Carr Dormitory, Pat Hughes, Pi Phi and Marky Parsons, Tri Delt who withdrew her nomination were selected to run for vice-president of Women's Government.

Two junior girls will be elected from the following nominees to serve on the coed senate: Berlette Capt, Archer; Barbara Boyd, Alderman; Ida Prince, Alderman; Violay Holye, Carr; and Nancy Pinkston, Archer.

Nominees to fill two seats in the Honor Council include: Betty Edwards, Spencer; Mary Virginia Hart, Spencer; Anne Osborne, Carr; Isobel Carpenter, and Nookie McGee, Carr.

Rules for the election which will be conducted from 8 until 5 o'clock at Kenan Dormitory on December 19 were made. Only junior girls will vote for junior representatives to Honor Council and Senate while all coeds will vote for vice-president. No politicking will be permitted in the room where the poll is located. No printed material may be circulated before the election except that which has been approved by the election committee of the senate.

Duplicate Bridge

... tournaments, as usual, will be held next Wednesday in the Roland Parker Lounge in Graham Memorial at 7:15. All are cordially invited to attend.

The Navy And The Tar Heel

NAVY V-12 UNIT
University of North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.

6 December 1944

My dear Wickenberg,

In reply to your question about censorship of The Tar Heel by your military superiors, I must first say that I am slightly amazed, as I am sure you were, that such a question could be raised.

The Tar Heel is a student publication and as such belongs to the whole campus. I strongly believe in freedom of the press as a basic American tenet, and feel that the only student newspaper should express all facts of campus opinion. This, I believe, The Tar Heel has done in the past and will continue to do in the future.

I am pleased that student members of the Navy and Marine Unit here are taking an active interest in the publication of your paper, and I am particularly gratified to have a service man elected Editor. I can assure you that neither I, nor any members of my staff, have any desire to read the copy of any of your writers, civilian or service, prior to publication, or to interfere in any way. The sole exception to this is that any item which, in the opinion of the Editor, might violate military security should be submitted for approval prior to publication. This is a rule to which every Editor in the country willingly adheres.

Regarding criticism of the administration of the Navy and Marine Unit here, I welcome it. I expect, however, that any writer who is also an officer candidate will be governed by the rules of good taste and be certain of his facts. I am sure that your own good judgment can be trusted to see that this condition obtains.

Personally, I am enthusiastic about The Tar Heel and read it regularly and thoroughly. I feel that it is a strong force for campus unity and loyalty. And I have consistently recommended to newcomers to the University that a subscription to The Tar Heel affords the quickest and easiest way to get the feel of the various campus activities.

Sincerely yours,
E. E. HAZLETT, JR.,
Captain, USN, (Ret.),
Commanding, Navy V-12 Unit.

Carolina Playmakers Sponsor 100th Experimentals Series

The 100th performance in the Carolina Playmakers' series of Experimental Productions of New Plays will be presented in the Playmakers theatre next Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m. Admission, as always, is free, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Professor Samuel Selden, executive director of the Playmakers, will commemorate the occasion with an introductory speech in honor of the late Proff Koch, who initiated the experimental series in December of 1931.

Three new plays written this year by students in the University playwriting course, have been selected for presentation. First on the program is "Distances to Go," by Anne Osterhout, of Beaufort, S. C. Subtitled "A Drama of Readjustment," it presents the determination of a young wife to aid her husband, who has just returned home after three years as a war reporter on the European front. Nicholas Lindsay is cast as the husband; Bert Sulley, and Jeanne LeFebre appear as his wife, Martha. Jack Holcombe will portray Jack Britt, an old newspaper crony of Bert's. Evaline, the friendly old woman who keeps house for the Sulleys, will be played by Hazel Harris. Mary Tom Colones is directing. Dick Kiser is designing the stage setting. Mary Brooks Popkins, of Leesburg, Virginia, and a major in the Department of Journalism, has based a comedy-mystery, "Poor Mr. Burton," on a newspaper story. An hilarious situation develops when Mr. Pennington, a prominent business man, played by Sherman Lazarus, discovers that his son, Robert, played by Jack Holcombe, has endangered the family's reputation by accidentally killing a man on their front lawn. Others in the cast are Ruby Dougan as Mrs. Pennington, Randall Brooks as Dr. Applefront, Hazel Harris as the housekeeper, and Dan Anderson and Lawrence Berry as policemen. The

Ball Pleads For International Cooperation

Banquet Held Before Speech

Delivering an earnest Pearl Harbor Day plea for international cooperation after the war, Republican Senator Joseph H. Ball, second International Relations club speaker of the semester, launched out Thursday night against "narrow, nationalistic thinking."

The Senator's tone was optimistic on the chances of an effective peace, remarking that "Our chances of winning the peace now are better than at any time since November 11, 1918," thanks to the internationalistic attitude displayed by the voters in the November 7 elections.

Anticipating the passage of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals, in the Senate, the speaker outlined the provisions, which will set up an international league, reinforced by an international army.

Run Off Election Places Crisp, Tripp In Office

By Stanley Colbert

Climaxing one of the hottest political campaigns to hit the campus in recent years, Bill Crisp and Jenks Tripp were elected by a large majority to the two top seats in student government.

It was Crisp all the way, with the final count reading Crisp, 832; Davis, 631. Crisp carried the male civilians by a majority of 61 votes. At Kenan, however, where Crisp was almost assured of a safe majority, Dal Davis tied the vote. Both amassed 263 votes. It was Swain Hall that told the story, though, with Crisp getting 385 votes to Davis' 258. The final vote: Crisp, 832; Davis, 631.

Just as the Kenan vote was a disappointment to Crisp's fervent campaigning, it was a boon to Jenks Tripp. The voting at Kenan gave Tripp the sizeable margin he needed to defeat Boots Walker by 134 votes. At the Y, Tripp led Walker by 17 votes, with the voting tabulated at 139 for Tripp, 122 for Walker. At Swain Hall, Walker gained six votes, still 11 behind Tripp. The vote was 322 for Walker at Swain, 316 for Tripp.

Kenan, however, was Walker's Waterloo. Tripp accumulated 328 votes at Kenan, while Walker lagged behind with 196. The final tabulation Tripp, 789; Walker 655.

Crisp, running independently for vice-president has a sizeable background. He is president of the Debate Council; president of the Dialectic Senate, and a faculty selection for "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges."

A discharged veteran, Tripp is president of the Carolina Veteran group, and president of Steele dormitory. He is a member of Delta Sigma Pi commerce fraternity, and a member of the Student Council.

24 Below Club Opens Tonight In Grill Room

The grand opening of the 24 Below Club for the present term will be held in the basement of Graham Memorial tonight with the doors opening at nine o'clock and closing at twelve. Music will be furnished by Scott Gardner and his orchestra.

The Club was first begun during the past winter session by the YWCA. The program of the Club was later broadened to include the YM because of the interest of that group and the need for someone to do the heavier work necessary for the running of the Club.

Because of the Club's outstanding success, it was decided to reopen it this term. Directing the work of the Club are Boo Leigh and Pat Hughes, co-chairmen of the YW committee, and Merrill Kelly, chairman of the YM committee. Hostesses for the Club will be chosen from the Boy-Girl Relations Committee of the YW.

The outstanding features of the night spot will be the checkered table cloths, the light by candles inserted in the necks of beer bottles, and the general cabaret atmosphere, which became something of a tradition during the first short run of the Club. Again this time the tables will be arranged around the sides of the room to clear the floor for dancing.

Available to the hungry and thirsty customers will be Coca-Colas, Nabs, potato chips, and sandwiches. These will be served over the counter by the hostesses.

A different note in the set-up of the club for this term will be a 25 cents cover-charge per couple or stag. This was necessitated by the charge for the use of the Graham Memorial grill.

Women To Take Government Quiz

Women's Government quizzes will be given Tuesday night in the WGA room of Graham Memorial to all coeds who have not previously taken the test and for all those who failed the last test and wish to redeem their mark.

On Monday night at 7:30 a short explanation of woman's government will be given to those who will take the test and to other students who may wish a fuller understanding and explanation of the coed ruling organization. Every coed is required to take a woman's government test and a passing grade must be obtained before holding a campus office. Students who are unable to take the test on Tuesday are asked to notify Kitty Kelly, Carr Dormitory or Mary Payne Jett, Tri Delt house.

Coed Graduates

... are asked to attend an important meeting Monday night at 9 o'clock in the Pharmacy auditorium. The purpose of the meeting is to elect representatives to the Women's Honor Council.

Art Exhibition Deadline Moved Up To Tuesday

"War and Peace," the current display of drawings, prints, and lithographs at Person Hall Art Gallery, will come down next week to make way for the 8th Annual Exhibition of North Carolina Artists which will open here on December 17 and continue until January 5.

Person Hall has extended the deadline both for completed entry forms and submitted works to Tuesday, December 12. Any past or present resident of North Carolina, including students, may contribute; but each person is limited to four works.

The forthcoming exhibition will be the 8th consecutive display held sponsored by Person Hall for the purpose of encouraging art in North Carolina. See ART, page 4

Violators Subject To Expulsion

Late Trains Not An Excuse

By Barron Mills

The administration announced yesterday that all students who have unexcused absences from classes before or after the Christmas holidays are subject to loss of membership in the student body. These students can only be readmitted by appearing before a committee of deans.

If a student finds that it is urgent for him to leave the University before classes are over on December 21 or that it is impossible for him to return for classes on the 28, then he should submit a request, in writing, to Dean House. Dean House will in South building announced the following vacation periods for the remainder of the academic year. Twenty-four days of vacation were provided for the academic year and 9 of these were taken between the Indian summer session and the beginning of the fall trimester period.

December 22 to 27, inclusive, 6 days.

February 24 to March 4, inclusive, 9 days.

turn call a meeting of all the members of the committee of deans and decide on the merits of the request.

These requests should be in full and give the reasons why the student finds it important that he have extra time. The committee of deans emphasizes that only cases of emergency will even be considered. These requests must be presented before the Christmas vacation period.

The statement from South building also announced that they would adopt the following in regard to transportation difficulties:

"The committee of deans recommends that in addition to the regulations about absences before and after the Christmas holidays, which we have already adopted, we adopt the following and give it wide publicity:

"In this time of war, late and crowded trains and busses are to be expected. Lateness of, or inability to get on, any train scheduled to reach Raleigh or Durham after midnight, December 27, or lateness of or inability to get on any bus scheduled to reach Chapel Hill by 2:30 a. m., December 28, will not be accepted as an excuse."

Yack To Collect Picture Subsidy Starting Monday

Booths for the purpose of obtaining pledges from V-12 personnel as well as civilian students who wish their pictures in the Yackety-Yack will be open in the Y next week, according to Cookie Marett, editor.

Civilian students will be given a final opportunity to pay the $1.25 fee and V-12 students will make pledges Monday through Wednesday from 9 until 1 o'clock. A system has been worked out whereby Navy men can pay the fee in three installments. Civilian students were contacted by their class organizations previously and those who fail to pay the fee now will not have their pictures in the annual.

Board of Editors

Marett has announced her board of editors for the yearbook as follows: Gene Johnstone, associate editor; Joe Denker and Jim Hershey, co-photography editors; Carl Rhinehardt, art editor; Dick Stoker, assistant art editor; Marion Gurney, literary editor; Carroll Poplin, sports editor; Margaret Fountain, personnel manager; Marion Gaines and Evelyn Davis, undergraduate editors; and Betsy Dickson, senior editor. Margaret Woodhouse will announce her business staff at a later date.
