

Students See Candidates On Wednesday Night

Thompson Discloses Student Slate For Coming Elections

Roy Thompson, chairman of Student Party, announced Sunday night the running ticket for his party in the special elections on July 24.

Del Leatherman, member of the V-12 will be the Student Party candidate for the office of president of the Carolina Athletic Association, Thompson said. Other Student Party nominees are Frank Ross, for student council; Coline Smith, town coed candidate for the legislature; town civilian candidate for the legislature is Bill McCarthy; Chuck Heath, Marine candidate for the legislature and Les Cook, civilian candidate for the Debate council.

"This bunch is as good as any we have ever offered," Thompson said, "and we are looking forward to this week's campaigning."

No Comment

Allen Pannill, chairman of the University Party, had no comment to make of the Student Party slate when contacted over the phone by a Tar Heel reporter but he promised that campaigning for his party would get underway this week and continue until election day next Tuesday.

Thompson said that the Student Party candidates would begin their campaigns as soon as possible.

Polling Places

Walt Brinkley, chairman of the elections committee of the student government announced that polling places for the election would be given in the next issue of the Tar Heel.

Many South Americans Take English

There are eleven Latin-American doctors now enrolled here in the Latin-American Institute taking courses in English.

This is the fifth year that English courses for Latin-Americans have been held here, the first being in 1941 when the enrollment was 108. The Latin-Americans in 1941 were of all professions and their expenses were paid by Latin-American governments, various organizations, and by themselves. This method continued in 1942 when only 11 were enrolled due to Pearl Harbor and in 1943 when the Institute was for Mexican teachers of English.

For the first time in 1944 the Institute had Latin-American doctors whose expenses were paid by the Commonwealth Fund. The purpose was to teach the doctors enough English so that they can take special medical courses of one year in American schools.

The Institute is under the direction of Mrs. J. O. Bailey.

Banquet Given Members Of French House

University Gives Event In Honor Of Bastille Day

The University, in honor of "Bastille Day," tended a banquet Saturday night at the Carolina Inn to the students and the faculty of the French House.

Guests of honor included: President Frank P. Graham; Dr. W. M. Day, head of the Romance Languages department; Mr. Guy Phillips, head of the Summer School; Mr. Russell Grumman, director of Extension Division; Lt. Claude Blanchet, head of the French officers' group at the Pre-Flight School; and five other French officers.

Mr. Hugo Guduz, director of the French House, introduced President Graham who delivered an address on "Significance of Bastille Day and Its Relationship to the Present-Day World."

President Graham, in his address, told of the revolt of the common people against the tyranny of overlords. He showed how revolution spread around the world beginning with the revolt of the English in the seventeenth century, going on to the American and French Revolutions in the eighteenth century, continuing into the nineteenth century with the South American Revolutions, and the Chinese and Russian Revolutions of the twentieth century.

He developed the theme of the attempted domination of the common people by the Nazi and Fascist parties. He concluded that "in the present struggle the desire of the people for freedom from the domination of tyrants will be predominant in the world as it has in all of the struggles for freedom."

Lt. Blanchet expressed his gratitude to President Graham and the University on behalf of himself and the French officers. He said that the kind of work being done by the French House is a credit to the University.

IRC To Hold Meeting For New Students

To Interview Those Interested In Club

On Thursday afternoon between the hours of three and five the International Relations Club will interview applicants for membership in the club. The interview will include questions on current affairs to determine the interest of the applicant and his general knowledge of the subjects discussed. The Club has several permanent vacancies left by graduating members in June and will fill the quota at this time if a sufficient number of the applicants qualify. Summer Students are eligible to join for the summer.

The International Relations Club is a student discussion group devoted to promoting interest and study on topics of vital concern to the national and international society. The Club attempts to do this by a four-fold program.

The basic function of the organization is to have weekly discussions on topics of current importance. It meets weekly in the Roland Parker Lounge of Graham Memorial on Monday night at 7:15. These are informal round-table discussions and all students are invited to come and participate in the discussions.

Another level of IRC activity is the presentation of faculty forums. Faculty members, experts in the field of discussion, form a panel to talk on topics which expert opinion is desirable. These are held in the Main Lounge of Graham Memorial and are presented approximately bi-monthly.

Another phase of IRC activity began this past scholastic year is the sponsorship of a weekly radio forum.

Plans For Summer Activity At Graham Memorial Revealed

Plans for summer activity at Graham Memorial are near completion, according to an announcement from Harvey White, manager.

A weekly outline of events includes the Friday Night Frolics and a Tea Dance each Saturday afternoon.

Friday Night Frolics this week will be held at the YMCA outdoor court and will feature an orchestra to be announced later. Dancing begins at 8:30 and continues to 11:00.

The bridge tournament will be held Thursday night at 7:30 as in the past.

Recordings will provide music for the Saturday Tea Dances, scheduled for 4:00 p. m., and Saturday evening dances in Banquet Hall.

White also announced that a record room on the ground floor is now open with over 2,000 records available.

High School Drama Classes End On Friday

Original Plays To Highlight Program

The seventh annual session of the High School Dramatic Session at the University of North Carolina will close on Friday evening, July 20th at 8:30 p.m. with a program of original plays in the Playmaker Theatre.

The program will include the production of "The Opal," an original radio play by Frank Echols of Asheville, N. C.; two original plays written in the course in playwrighting: "Heavenly Bound," a satiric fantasy by Shirley Waters of Pittsboro, and "Crown Me," a comedy of family life by Roy Alexander of Fletcher, N. C. There will also be a demonstration by students from the class in voice and diction.

At the close of the program Samuel Selden, Acting Head of the Department of Dramatic Art of the University, and Dr. J. Henry Highsmith of the State Department of Public Instruction will make a presentation of certificates to those students qualifying for high school credit.

Admission is free and the public is cordially invited to attend.

New Men Hold Friendship Council Meet

The Freshman Friendship Council, an organization composed entirely of freshmen, with supervision from the YMCA, held its first meeting of the year on Monday night. Officers were elected and short speeches, outlining the purposes and objectives of the Council, were given by the two advisors, Bill Hight, president of the YMCA Cabinet and William Poteat, assistant-secretary of the YMCA.

The main purpose of the Council, according to Mr. Poteat, is to provide opportunities for the freshmen to find social relationships and to serve the campus, in as much as freshmen are at the present excluded from certain activities. The Council is to be an organization of their own through which they can work, both for the good of the freshmen and for the campus as a whole. Also, it will be a training ground for future Senior Y Cabinet men.

Woodson Broughton was elected president of the Freshman Friendship Council. George D. Geoghegan is vice-president, George Goodwin, secretary, and Charles E. Thorn, treasurer.

Definite future plans for the Council have not yet been made, but recreational activities, such as a freshman smoker, campus sings and square dances, are being planned.

Meeting Slated For Gerrard Hall; Each Nominee Will Speak

By Robert Morrison

All candidates for student offices in the special summer election will be presented to the student body in Gerrard Hall Wednesday night at seven-thirty. The open meeting, sponsored jointly by the Tar Heel and the elections committee of the student legislature, will consist of three-minute speeches in which the candidates are asked to present their platforms.

Howe Library To Be Given To University

Gift Made As Memorial To Late Faculty Member

The Library of the late Dr. George Howe, member of the University faculty from 1903 until his death in 1936, is to be given to the University as a memorial to him by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Flinn Howe, who has been making her home in Columbia, S. C., for the last several years.

Consisting of several thousand volumes, chiefly works in the classics, the Library contains a number of valuable old editions, including rare volumes given to Dr. Howe by his uncle, the late President Woodrow Wilson, with whom Dr. Howe lived during his boyhood and student days at Princeton, and who sent him abroad to obtain his Ph.D. degree at the University of Halle.

Included in the collection also are a number of volumes given Dr. and Mrs. Howe by Mrs. Howe's father, the late Rev. William Flinn, Dean of the University of South Carolina and Chaplain for many years, and her grandfather, the Rev. Thomas Smyth, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Charleston, S. C., for 40 years.

Mrs. Howe has come to Chapel Hill to assort and classify the collection before turning it over to the University. She is staying at the Carolina Inn.

Dr. Howe was head of the University's Classics Department for many years and served as Dean of the College of Arts from 1900 to 1922. During the first World War he served as a member of the North Carolina State Council of Defense and was a member of the committee that organized a special course on American ideals which proved popular with collegians of that period.

All-State Band Gives Fifth Music Concert

The 90-piece All-State High School Band, composed of high school music students from twenty various towns and cities of North Carolina, presented its fifth concert Sunday afternoon July 15, in Hill Music Hall.

The band was under the direction of Dr. E. A. Slocum, director of the music course, W. T. Hearne, of the Henderson, N. C., Public Schools, Herbert Hazelman, director of instrumental music in Greensboro, N. C., Public Schools, and Donald Smith, of the New Bern, N. C., Public Schools.

The two highlights of the concert were "Cubana" by David Bennett, a solo for violin played by Francis Simmons, and "Deep Blues" by Lou Singer, a solo for muted trumpet played by W. T. Hearne. Both solos were accompanied by the band.

Other numbers featured on the program were: "On the Range" by Carl Frankiser, "Meadowland" by L. Knipper, "Water Music Suite" by C. F. Handel, "Bad Boy Boogie Woogie" by David Bennett, and "Stars and Stripes Forever" by John Phillip Sousa.

The band will remain in Chapel Hill until July 21.

Friday night, July 20, at 7:30, under the direction of Dr. Slocum.

Walt Brinkley, chairman of the elections committee, announced that all candidates, party publicity managers, and party chairmen will be compelled to attend as provided in the elections bill passed recently by the legislature. Failure to attend this meeting will result in a fine of one dollar. The elections committee will grant excuses from the meeting for only four reasons as specified in the elections bill; namely, out of town, infirmity, conflicting class, and conflicting military assignments. If the one dollar fine imposed for an unexcused absence is not paid to the elections committee by June 24, the candidate will be disqualified. Party chairmen or party publicity managers not paying the fine will be tried by the Men's or Women's Honor Council. Fines collected will be deposited in the Student Government Association fund.

The Tar Heel election party will be held in the main lounge of Graham Memorial on the night of July 24, according to an arrangement between the Tar Heel staff and Harvey White, manager of Graham Memorial.

The entire student body and faculty are invited, and will be entertained with refreshments and music between returns. As the votes are counted in the office of Student Government, last minute totals will be rushed to the microphone of a loudspeaker which will broadcast the returns. Returns will be posted on a blackboard as they are broadcast.

In the past, the Tar Heel has frequently sponsored such parties as a service to the students. In the April 5 election party, the main lounge was packed to capacity with hundreds of anxious students. The student building is usually kept open until all returns are in and the official totals are released.

The Wednesday night meeting in Gerrard Hall, which is compulsory for candidates and party publicity managers and chairmen, will give the student body its only opportunity of meeting and hearing all of the candidates.

Those candidates who will be presented are Bob Fahey, University Party, and Del Leatherman, Student Party, for President of the Carolina Athletic Association; Banks Mebane, University Party, and Les Cook, Student Party, for member of the Debate Council; Burt Dillon, University Party, for member of the Student Government Association.

Meeting Tonight Of All Interested In Sound And Fury

Tonight at 7:30 there will be a meeting in Gerrard Hall of all new people interested in becoming members of Sound and Fury, the campus musical comedy organization. Anyone interested in singing, dancing, comedy, etc., is invited to be present.

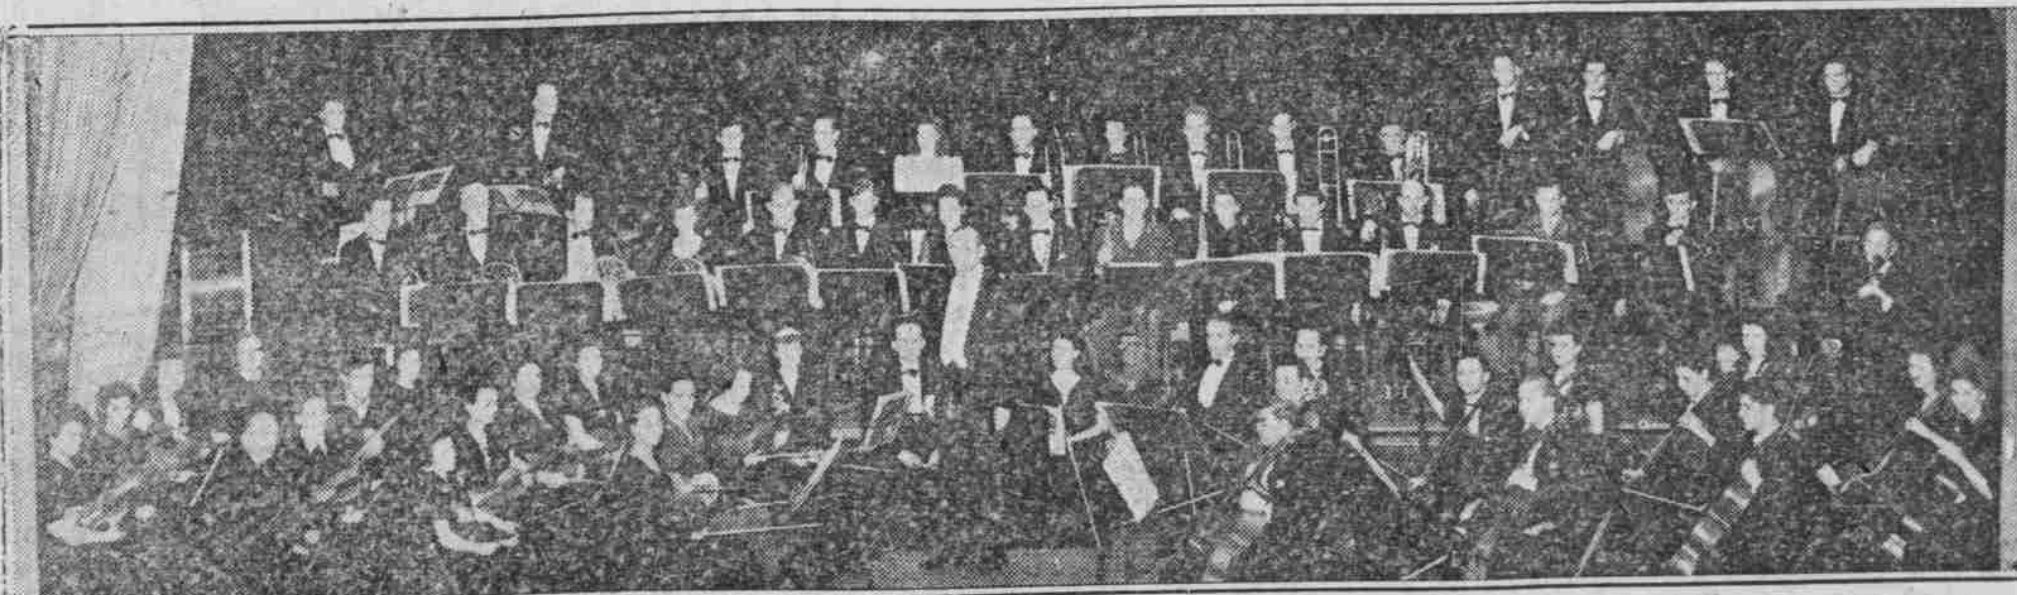

Sound and Fury now has a show in preparation which will be presented for the entertainment of the campus during this session. Many old standbys are away for the summer, so there will be places for many new people in the forthcoming production. Dancers, male and female, are especially needed, and good voices are always welcome.

In addition, anyone interested in stage technical work—lighting, scenery, etc.—is especially urged to be present, as there is a shortage of technicians now.

Keep on buying War Bonds. There is still a war to be won.

Move To Raise $100,000 For Symphony Orchestra Begins

By Betty Anne Ragland
To put the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra on a permanent basis and to increase its services throughout the state, a state-wide campaign is now underway to raise $100,000 for the orchestra, according to an announcement from Mr. Benjamin Swalin, director of the orchestra.

Green, of Chapel Hill. J. O. Bailey is head of the symphony fund. Mrs. Phillips Russell is chairman for the Chapel Hill district.

The general campaign, which began approximately June 1, will continue until the necessary amount has been raised. Outlook for the project is "pretty encouraging," says Mr. Swalin.

Chapel Hill's quota for the campaign, which was $1700, has already been exceeded, with three $500 donations plus approximately $1,000, having been collected.

Campus Campaign

A campus campaign, to collect an additional quota, will take place sometime in the fall, according to present plans.

The North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, which is the only such orchestra under the patronage of the state, receives a $4000 subsidy per year from the state to carry on its work, although no salaries are paid to the musicians. Notable among the contributions of the orchestra are its free concerts for children; as well as the presentation of concerts in towns and cities throughout the state.

Success of the campaign will enable the orchestra to have a permanent nucleus of players, which will be supplemented by musicians in various parts of the state for concerts in those specific districts.

The orchestra will also be able to expand its activities by providing more concerts for rural areas, by addition-
