First Peacetime Term Since 1941 Begins New Era

Navy Announces Changes For Carolina V-12 Unit

End Nearing For Local Military Men

By Bill Kornegay
Definite changes are soon to take place in the V-12 units here. The V-12 Seamen unit will close at the end of this term. There are 95 Seamen now here. Twenty will graduate, 50 will be transferred to the NROTC, and the remaining 25 who are pre-medical, pre-dental, and pre-theological candidates will return to inactive duty.

Post-graduate medical students will continue until December 8, when they will be returned to inactive duty. When the pre-medical, pre-dental, pre-theological, and post graduate medical students finish their training, they will be given commissions in the Naval Reserve.

Those now in the NROTC will be retained on active duty until June, 1946. Those who have not finished their training by that time will remain in the NROTC on inactive status. Said Captain E. E. Hazlett, Jr., Commanding Officer of the V-12 Unit, "It appears probable that at that time the NROTC will go back to a peacetime status and will work on the quarter basis rather than the present semester basis." If this happens the University will go back to the quarter basis also.

No new Marines will be sent here on November 1. Those already here (120), excluding those who graduate this term, will remain. However, a number of NROTC's are expected to be transferred here from other NROTC units that are closing.

This will give the NROTC here approximately 350 men in November.

The Marines have moved from Old East and the north bay of Old West to Grimes Dormitory. "Since it is very likely that the Naval Pre-Flight here will be greatly reduced in the near future, the Navy hopes to move all Naval students into the three dorms of the upper quadrangle," said Captain Hazlett.

Men's Choral Club Practices Next Tuesday

The first regular rehearsal of the Men's Glee Club will be held Tuesday, September 11, at 5 p. m. in the Choral Rehearsal room, Hill Hall. New Glee Club members as well as all old members should be present at this first meeting. Anyone who would like to join the Glee Club but did not attend tryouts this week may come to this rehearsal and be tried out at that time.

The large number of new men who turned out at tryouts this week plus a substantial group of old members gives promise for a large Glee Club and successful season.

Last year the Men's Glee Club gave their first concert of the season in conjunction with the Women's Glee Club at Christmas. In the spring, the group presented a concert which received a great deal of praise, especially for the performance of the modern setting by Phillip James of Vachel Lindsay's poem, "General William Booth Enters into Heaven," a work arranged for men's voices, two pianos, organ, trumpet, trombone, and percussion. At commencement the Glee Clubs and the Chapel Hill Choral Club collaborated on a presentation of Brahms' "Requiem."

Plans are already underway for a concert tour this season to various women's colleges in North Carolina and neighboring states. With the relaxation of government restrictions on transportation, such a tour will be possible for the first time in several years.

Coming Home????

KYSER

Kyser May Play For Grail Scrip Dance

With the lifting of the wartime ban on name bands, prospects of bright stars gracing the skies loom high. The latest big name to be approached for a stint is none other than one of Carolina's favorite sons, Kay Kyser. The old professor has been asked to appear for the first peacetime Duke week-end. Kay writes that he would love to come, but is going to the South Pacific on an army tour, and therefore is not booking now. However, he hopes to be back in the States in time to play for the first scrip dance, sponsored by the Order of the Grail with proceeds going to the scholarship fund.

Little has to be said to acquaint Carolina students with Kay Kyser, though it's been a long time since the old professor has been able to make one of his favorite trips back to Chapel Hill. Dance officials have their fingers crossed and students hope to be able to shout a hearty "welcome back" to Kay Kyser, come next Duke week-end. But whether Kay Kyser can make it or not, the Grail promises a name band for the big week-end.

First Frosh Meeting Of Year In Gerrard

The first post-war freshman class entered Carolina Friday morning—the "Class of 1949." The new class held their first meeting in Gerrard Hall. Bill McKenzie, president of the student body, welcomed the freshmen and explained student government to them. Following this the advisers talked to them.

Saturday afternoon student tours of the campus were conducted by the YMCA. At 8 o'clock Saturday night in Gerrard, Chancellor R. B. House was introduced by Bill McKenzie. Chancellor House addressed the new students, after which the student leaders instructed their advisees on life at Carolina.

A freshman retreat and reception was given by the YMCA Sunday afternoon in honor of the new students. Chancellor House talked to the students on the "Class of 1949." Following this a discussion of rules and regulations was carried on by the advisers and freshmen. Refreshments were served to the students and guests which included many faculty members, co-eds, and high school students.

UNC Band Begins Winter Practice

The University Band under the direction of Earl Slocum has resumed work in preparation for the football season and is now holding regular rehearsals on Tuesday and Thursday nights at 7:00 in Hill Hall. Mr. Slocum is particularly interested in having a full attendance next Tuesday in order that a satisfactory schedule for future rehearsals may be worked out. There are enough openings in the band for experienced players on nearly any instrument. Mr. E. A. Slocum will be in his office every afternoon to interview those interested. All interested students are asked to report to Room 4 in Hill Hall between the hours of 2:00 and 5:00 p.m.

Makes Welcome

HOUSE

On behalf of President Graham, the Faculty, personally, and for the community as a whole, I want to welcome all new students, whether they be freshmen or graduate, beginning college for the first time, transferring here from other institutions, or returning veterans. I want to welcome, also, those who have been in process here during the July-August term and those who are taking up their work again after a well-earned vacation.

We are crowded, we are confused, we are uncertain about many things; but we are certain about one thing: it is great to get to school again in a world free from war. There is no adjustment we will have to make so trying as the constant strain of study and living under the conditions of war.

Honor, too great for any attempt to express it here, is due some 15,000 boys and girls who kept Carolina going strong in the war effort. We are proud of them. They are part of a great history.

And we honor those who begin now to make the peace-time traditions of Carolina today. There is much to be done, much work, much play. We who welcome you and collaborate with you are confident in your quality and the quality of our opportunity for a fine experience here.

Cordially yours,
R. B. House, Chancellor.

STAFF MEETINGS

The Tar Heel holds staff meetings each Thursday and Sunday nights at its office in Graham Memorial. All students who wish to join the staff may make application to the editor or managing editor at one of the meetings. Anyone with newspaper experience is urged to join.

2300 Students Register For Short Session

By Buddy Glenn

The first peacetime registration Monday ended and began an era at Carolina. The ease and efficiency with which it was carried out and the joyous reunions among old friends indicated that Carolina had turned another corner and was on its way to being the great peacetime University it had been until 1941.

Approximately 2300 students signed for courses with many more expected to enter in November.

Assessing the results, Chancellor R. B. House stated that he: "was gratified with the registration and will be glad to get going on a normal term of work. The University will return to a peacetime basis as soon as possible; and at the same time discharge its obligations to the military authorities."

The registration was directed by Mr. Guy Phillips, Director of Summer School; Mr. W. H. Plemmons, Director of Admissions; and Mr. Edwin S. Lanier, Student Aid Director. These officials aided the new students in their first registration.

The usual late five-thirty applicants went through the line breathlessly, and the bells tolled the beginning of peace at Chapel Hill.

IRC Will Feature Japanese Problems

On its first meeting of the new term Monday the International Relations Club will discuss the "Peace Problems of Japan." The discussion will include the national and international aspects of the topics as well as the American administration.

The International Relations Club is a student discussion organization devoted to the promotion of interest and study in current events and foreign affairs. The IRC presents speakers and forums to the campus as well as radio and faculty to the campus.
