

University Library Displays Oil Portraits Of Arthur Bye

By Sam Summerlin

The library of the University of North Carolina is showing a one-man exhibition of recent oil portraits done by Arthur Edwin Bye, the art expert, restorer, and portrait painter, who has restored during the past two years scores of state-owned portraits in Chapel Hill and Raleigh.

While engaged at this work, Dr. Bye spent part of his personal time painting new portraits of a number of North Carolinians. Eight of these have been loaned to the University by their owners for display in recognition of the artist's services to the State, not only for his expert attention to the preservation of its important paintings but also for stimulating a state-wide renewal of interest in them.

The exhibition is representative of such work done in both Raleigh and Chapel Hill. From Raleigh, there are the colorful portraits of Mrs. Ambrose G. Hampton, Mrs. Roger Wall, Mr. Robert D. Aldridge, a corporal in the Marines, and a hopeful young aviator, entitled "Boy in Red Coat." From Chapel Hill, there are portraits of Mrs. Albert Coates (wife of the Director of the Institute of Government), Dr. William C. Coker (Kenan Professor of Botany), and Charles E. Rush (University Librarian). The Coker portrait was commissioned for hanging in the new science hall at Coker College at Hartsville, South Carolina. In addition, there is a self-portrait of the artist, always difficult to do in any case, but particularly so in this instance, in which the painter successfully attempts "a retrospect of twenty years."

Dr. Bye continues as Technical Adviser for the Museum of Historic Art at Princeton University. Formerly he was Curator of Painting at the Museum of Art in Philadelphia and at one time was Professor of Art at Vassar College and Lecturer on art subjects at Princeton and elsewhere. He was a pupil of John Carlson and of Charles Rosen in Paris. In October, Dr. Bye will be located in Charleston, South Carolina, where he has extensive commissions for portraits and restorations. His family home is in Holicong, Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

The exhibition in Chapel Hill is now open from two to five p. m. daily in the Staff Room (ground floor) of the University Library. It will close on September 30.

Marine Trainees With 70 Points May Get Discharge

Marine trainees, now having seventy or more points may receive a discharge if they so desire, Captain E. E. Hazlett, Jr., commanding officer of the V-12 unit, announced recently.

Although he was unable to give the exact number of Marines here who would want to get out of the service if they were eligible, the Captain said that there was a possibility that the Marine V-12 unit here will be absorbed into the NROTC in March.

The original eighty-five points required to obtain a discharge was recently reduced to the present total.

INTRAMURALS

"I've been demoted from a pilot to a paddle-foot." Alarmed, the coed's friend sought the reason for her statement. "I had my driver's license taken away," was the answer.—Summer Reveille.

Literary Sorority Opens Eligibility For Membership

Chi Delta Phi, national honorary literary sorority, is opening its membership competition. All girls are eligible to submit unpublished manuscripts—prose or poetry. If it is a short, more than one piece is desirable. Material will be judged as to literary merit by the members of the sorority. Individual scholarship and previous literary achievements will also be considered. If you have had anything published, note it on your manuscript.

Manuscripts must be turned in by 11:00 p. m. on Wednesday, October 3, to Olive Ann Burns, 218 McIver, or to any other member of Chi Delta Phi. If you like to write don't hesitate to submit your work. Material printed in a college paper or magazine does not constitute a published article.

Three good drives for first downs by Bill Voris, hard-driving fullback, and one by Jonnie Colones put the ball in scoring position in the drive that started from the Carolina 35.

As a whole the scrimmage, although won by State, proved very valuable to the Tar Heels, for many weaknesses were uncovered which can be corrected before the season actually gets underway. It cannot fairly be held as an example of the performances that Coach Snavely's lads will give this year, for nearly every person on the 50-odd man roster was used in an effort to give each player a chance to work some. But it did show one thing: Carolina still has a lot of work to do before the Tar Heel gridgers are ready to meet the strong Golden Tornado crew from Georgia Tech.

Coach Snavely will take his team to Camp Lee, Virginia, next weekend for a formal practice game with the soldier eleven there.

The second week of regular fall practice has now been completed, the third is on deck, and two remain before the opener before an almost assured sell-out crowd here in Kenan stadium.

SIX ISSUES

The Senate voted approval to the H. P. B. action.

Tentative plans were made at the meeting for the year's first Coed Hour, which will be held Tuesday, October 2. The purpose of this meeting will be to give a general review of woman's government on the campus before the annual W. G. A. quizzes which will be given all new coeds the second week in October. One of the bills passed provides that passing mark for these quizzes will be 85.

Mary Darden Quinerly, elected Senate representative from Spencer this week, took her place in that group Tuesday night. She replaced Alma Young, who moved from Spencer to her sorority house. A bill passed regarding this provides that a senator moving from her dormitory forfeits her place in the Senate, necessitating election of another representative.

The Senate provided for a W. G. A. executive cabinet to meet twice a month to go over questions related to the three branches of woman's government. On the board will be the president, the secretary and treasurer of W. G. A., the speaker of the Coed Senate, and the president of the Interdormitory Council.

The final bill passed in this week's session stated that permissions to be extra late for special occasions will be decided on by the Interdorm Council. In the past this has been the combined function of the Woman's Honor Council and the Interdorm Council.

Super-State Given Favor Of Di Senate

In an unexpected show of unity, the Dialectic Senate went on record last Wednesday as favoring a world "Super-State." The Di, meeting for the first time this term, unanimously passed a bill calling on President Truman and on the United States Congress to take the lead in creating such a union.

All opposition to the bill faded under a barrage of favorable speeches, and two senators who early in the session had indicated opposition joined their colleagues when the final vote was taken. Hanging over the whole discussion was the spectre of atomic power, and speaker after speaker in one manner or another questioned the effectiveness of any step short of a World Union under current conditions. The foes of the "Super-State" contented themselves with expressing doubt as to the readiness of the peoples of the planet to join at this time in such an organization.

The text of the bill is now to be forwarded to Mr. Truman and to North Carolina's delegation in the national Senate and House of Representatives. The Di chose as successor to Critic Banks Mebane, who has been drafted, Senator Nina Guard. She defeated her only opponent, Senator Ralph Glenn, by three votes. President Roy Thompson, presiding after a week's absence, delivered a speech reviewing the Di's history during the two months he has held his current post. He was authorized to handle all arrangements for procuring a speaker for the group's Sesquicentennial banquet, which is scheduled tentatively for late November or early December. Heading the list of possibilities for this role is Secretary of State James Byrnes.

Proposals that the Senate discuss the "laundry situation" at its next meeting were defeated, and scheduled as the topic is the Wagner-Murray-Dingbell socialized medicine proposal, which is due for a national airing in the near future. Thompson said he would reveal the list of members of various committees for the fall term at this session.

YWCA Members Advise New Coeds

The active members of the YWCA have spent this week calling on the new girls to advise them of the different committees in the organization. This was done in an effort to interest new students in the activities of the YWCA and to give them an opportunity of becoming connected with the phase of YWCA work which appeals to them most.

The committees include music, public affairs, social service, race relations, dormitory stores, boy-girl relationships, recreation, student faculty, supper forums, worship, publicity, library, Y and Wherefore (the weekly newspaper of the Y), and the freshman council (for freshmen only).

Mrs. Kay Ferrell, resident secretary of the YWCA, will be glad to supply further information to anyone interested if she will call at her office on the second floor of the YMCA building.

850 Pre-Flight Students Hear Program On Education

Eight hundred and fifty Pre-Flight cadets about to return to civilian life met in Memorial Hall Friday morning to hear a two-hour program on college education. Speakers were drawn from faculty and student leaders at Carolina.

Plans for the program were initiated by officials of the North Carolina Pre-Flight School to instruct the cadets in what they might expect from colleges in general, as many of them will enter colleges as civilians for the first time.

Guy B. Phillips, secretary of summer school and head of the College for War Training, presided over the session. Chancellor R. B. House gave a general statement of advantages offered veterans in colleges and universities over the nation. Short talks were made by Dr. Cecil Johnson, representing Dean C. P. Spruill of the General College, Dr. A. W. Hobbs, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. John B. Woosley of the School of Commerce.

Dr. W. H. Plemmons, Admissions Director, discussed the admissions pattern for veterans and details involved in credits and transfers. The veterans' consultant on campus, Ben Husbands, spoke on veterans rehabilitation centers, and President of the Student Body Bill McKenzie told cadets about the student life they may expect.

A discussion on expenses by E. S. Lanier was followed by an open forum. Cadets were told that an information center would be set up in the YMCA building by Secretary Harry Comer and were urged to take advantage of modern testing devices and professional counselling offered veterans in Peabody Hall. Through use of these devices the cadets will be enabled to select training courses for themselves to utilize their best aptitudes.

The eight hundred and fifty future veterans were also urged to arrange for conferences with any of the student or faculty leaders who spoke to them. Other meetings such as the one held yesterday will be called from time to time if Naval officials here request them from University authorities.

Student Musicians Sought By Slocum

The University Band has started its practice sessions, which are held at 7 o'clock every Tuesday and Thursday nights in Hill Music Hall.

There are positions open for students who can play any type of band instrument. Anyone interested in joining the band can find Mr. Earl Slocum at Hill Music Hall. Mr. Slocum will be glad to talk to anyone interested. He is trying to have a full size band in tip-top shape for the Carolina-Georgia Tech classic in Kenan Stadium September 29.

New Music Club Comes To Campus

A new music club for women was organized late last spring under the unique title of the Presto Club. The organization was formed to promote an interest in music. Women who are interested in this new club are asked to contact the club's president, Martha Peatross or its faculty advisor, Paul Young, both of whom can be found in the music building, Hill Hall.

Fuses Force Finis To Legislature Meeting Thursday

A new record for brevity of its meetings was set by the Student Legislature in its first session of the new term last Thursday night. Forced by blown fuses to meet in virtual darkness, the group adjourned a little over four minutes after coming to order.

Two bills which had been scheduled for consideration failed to materialize. The Publications Union Board, which had been expected to request the Legislature to choose an interim chairman for it, voted instead to retain Fred Flagler in his post, despite the fact that he is not now registered for courses in the University. A bill asking the Student Welfare Board to investigate the laundry service failed to materialize.

Included in the reports which the Legislature heard from its standing committees was an announcement by Walt Brinkley of the Elections Committee on a special election to be held next week to choose a new cheerleader and various military posts on the Honor Council and in the Legislature which have been made vacant by graduations and resignations during the past month. A meeting was scheduled for next Thursday, despite a suggestion by Allan Pannill that the group hold its sessions bi-weekly from now on.

Tar Heel Seeks Delivery Boys

Harrison Tenny, circulation manager of the Tar Heel, has announced that he is now receiving applications for paid positions on the circulation staff of the coming Daily Tar Heel. These positions are open to anyone. In former years, high school and grammar school boys were hired to deliver the Daily Tar Heel. All who are interested should be present at a meeting of the circulation staff Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Tenny's office in Graham Memorial.

Postwar World, Germany Topics For IRC Meeting

On Monday night at 7:15 the International Relations Club will discuss "Germany and the Postwar World." This discussion will include the occupational problems and the possibility of future German entrance into the family of nations.

President Chapman announced that there are several vacancies in the IRC membership. These will be filled in the very near future by application and interview.

Dance Rules Released For New Students

The University Dance Committee, which controls and governs all University dances, wishes to inform all new students—freshmen, transfers, and veterans—of its rules and regulations.

Any fraternity, club, class, or individual student desiring to give a dance must first consult with the University Dance Committee, of which Allen Pannill is chairman and Jim Dillard secretary, and Dean Mackie chairman of the Faculty Committee.

Conduct on the dance floor at all dances given under the auspices of the University are to be governed by the following rules of the Dance Committee:

1. Any girl desiring to leave the dance hall during any evening dance with the intention of returning must be accompanied by a chaperon during her entire stay from the dance.
2. Anyone showing signs of drinking or other misconduct shall be dealt with according to the discretion of the University Dance Committee.
3. Anyone giving a wrong name is automatically suspended one quarter in addition to the one in which the offense was committed.
4. Anyone bringing intoxicating beverages on the dance floor is automatically suspended indefinitely.
5. No smoking whatsoever and no refreshments of any kind are allowed on the dance floor at Woollen Gymnasium.

VETERANS

political decisions of today will affect all of us (from science and music majors to commerce and law majors).

Let us take stock of ourselves as students. Have we fulfilled our responsibilities as alert citizens of the world? Are we taking our place among the enlightened members of a great age? In short, have we developed a political consciousness, requisite for the job that lies ahead? Are we prepared for our role in the post-war world which is now suddenly transformed from fantastic ideas of magazine ad writers to utter reality? The veteran of today expects an answer to these questions. Upon that answer rests in part the speed and type of readjustment he will make.
