Pep Rally Friday To Open Big Georgia Tech Weekend

Sparkplugging what promises to be the biggest weekend in Chapel Hill since 1942, an all-student Pep Rally has been scheduled for Friday night, and set to follow right after it is the biggest open-to-all dance of the fall season to date.

Dick Jente, vice-president of the University Club, announced final plans for the rally, which is to include a torch-light parade, a mass meeting in Memorial Hall and presentation of the football team to the campus. The rally is set to precede the Carolina-Georgia Tech game on Saturday, first college fray of UNC's 1945 pigskin season.

The dance Friday night is scheduled to be an enlarged Friday Frolic, and will take place in Graham Memorial Lounge. Music, which so far this fall has been provided for the most part by records, will be furnished by Jimmy Fuller's band. The Fuller outfit played at some of the Frolics held during the summer.

Detailed plans for the Pep Rally have now been confirmed. Present will be Head Coach Carl Snively and Assistants Murphy, Reed and Quinlan; Laurie Hooper, president of the University Club, who will preside over the meeting in Memorial Hall; George Washington Morris, traditional UNC water boy; Head-cheerleader Jack Kirkland, and his aides; and, it is hoped, Chancellor Robert House, vice-president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

The parade will assemble in the YMCA court, march through Fraternity Court and down Franklin Street past the girls' dormitories, and wind up at Memorial Hall, where the team will be presented, speeches delivered and some of the University cheers practiced. Leading the parade will be the University Band, the football coaches and squad and the cheerleaders.

Saturday afternoon the game will be played in Kenan Stadium—first Carolina home game of 1945—and that night is the big German Club dance. Several fraternity parties have been scheduled as well. The University Club is sponsoring the pep rally, and Hooper, its president, has urged everyone to bring dates.

Girl's Interdorm, Honor Council List Regulations

In order that the new girls may know what constitutes the House Council and Honor Council offenses, the Women's Interdorm and Honor Councils have drawn up and passed the following lines of distinctions.

If a girl comes in after closing hours she will receive one night's probation by the House Council for every ten minutes after closing time.

If a girl has been brought before the House Council for her third violation of the house rules, the House Council will decide whether her offenses were serious enough to merit the case being turned over to the Honor Council.

If a girl repeatedly breaks the house rules, however minor they may be, she will be brought before the Honor Council.

Capsule-Sized Pigskinners Bring Football To GM Lawn

By Mel Cohen
Cheered on by hundreds of University students, prospects for Coach Snively's Rose Bowl team of 1960 have been scrimmaging on the lawn in front of Graham Memorial every evening for the past week. The hopefuls consist of grammar school students aged ten to thirteen.

Some 200 ardent fans of football line the lawn every day at 6:30 p.m. to encourage the fellows as they exhibit the smashing drives of their respective teams. The outstanding man on the field is triple-threat Frankie, ten year old Chapel Hill resident. Frankie is the smallest man on the field, yet fans have unanimously chosen him the star of the games.

Frankie's team invariably crushes its rival, but Friday Frankie was out with an injured foot and his seriously crippled team lost. Although the games are not refereed and the field is stripeless, the number of followers increases daily since the boys play a

Playmakers Cast First Production Of Autumn Season

The first production of the Carolina Playmakers' season is to be "The White Steed," by Paul Vincent Carroll, distinguished author of the dramatic hit, "Shadow and Substance." There will be four performances of the play at the Playmaker Theater, beginning Wednesday, October 17, and continuing through Saturday, October 20.

"The White Steed" is an Irish folk drama dealing with the relations between the Catholic clergy and the peasantry. The central figures are the Canon and Father Shaughnessy, whose constant conflicts form the central plot of the story. It was first presented on Broadway in 1939 with Barry Fitzgerald and George Coulouris creating the leading roles.

The play is now in rehearsal under the direction of Kai Jurgensen with the following cast:

John Blair as Canon Matt Lavelle; Josephine Sharkey as Roseanne; John Bridges as Father Shaughnessy; Phyllis Sullivan as Nora Phinty; Raikes Slinkard as Dennis Dillon; Jim Warren as Phelim Fintry; Fred Chamberlain and Roger Hall (double casting) as McGiolla Phaidraig; Dick Seaver as Patrick

A pep rally Friday, followed by a dance at Graham Memorial, is a starter to what promises to be the biggest week-end at Carolina since 1942.

The panel will consider the problem of socialistic collectivization for our post-war economy from the points of view of necessity and desirability. The various types of economic systems will be discussed. It is expected that this highly volatile subject will be of interest to the student body. Persons attending will be invited to join the discussion.

The Tar Heel Institute of Public Affairs (THIPA) is a committee of the Tar Heel staff. It was created because of the need for more effective presentation to the campus matters of current events of a local, national and international nature. It will hold public meetings, take polls and publish studies on current problems to be printed in the Tar Heel and Carolina Magazine.

Tar Heel Sponsors

The Institute will be in charge of the Tar Heel-sponsored pre-election speeches of candidates and election parties. It has been created to aid and supplement the activities of the other student discussion groups. It will aid them in getting better local and state publicity. It does not intend to compete with established groups but will assume any function that is being neglected to the detriment of the student body. Most of the Institute's activities will be offered with a co-sponsoring organization.

The THIPA staff is composed of Buddy Glenn, director; Elmo Roberts, assistant director; Fay Maples, executive secretary; Jack Lackey and Jack Shelton, publicity directors; Alan Pannill, program director; Russell Johnson, polls director; Sally Bryan, social chairman; Dr. C. B. Robson, advisor on political affairs; Dr. M. S. Heath, advisor on economic affairs, and Dr. F. C. Gil, advisor on cultural affairs.

The faculty advisors will serve for one year and the selections will be made with the view of getting experts in the field of public affairs. Glenn will serve as director of THIPA during this school year. Since his arrival at Carolina, he has been assistant editor of the Tar Heel, president of IRC, president pro-tem of the Dialectic Senate, executive officer of
