Uncle Sam's Gain

Banks Mebane, associate editor of the Tar Heel last summer, returned to Wilson yesterday after spending several days on campus. Mebane, who was accepted by the selective service in August, expects to be called to active duty soon. In addition to his work on the Tar Heel, he held several high posts in the Dialectic Senate and was active in campus forensics. He hopes to return to Carolina after he is discharged.

Fourth Of July

Informal observance of Chinese "Fourth of July" will be held in Horace Williams Lounge at Graham Memorial Wednesday, October 10, at 7:30. This is a national Chinese holiday known as "Double-Ten," derived from the number of the month and date.

Dr. E. E. Ericson, who was exchange professor from the University to National Central University at Nanking, will review the struggle for Chinese independence and her part in the war. Ed Schumate, veteran, who was stationed in China as an officer in the air force, will also speak on his relations with the Chinese people. The program is under the auspices of the local United China Committee.

President Graham Speaks

President Frank P. Graham spoke at the annual Founders' Day exercises at Woman's College, Greensboro, Friday morning and at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs in Raleigh Friday night. In Raleigh he spoke on the state-wide medical care program and the proposed expansion of the med school here to a four-year plan. Representatives of the furniture industry in the state conferred with President Graham in his offices Saturday concerning possible cooperation between them and the University.

Honor Council

The Student Council is making plans for an individual orientation of each freshman who entered in September. Members of the Student Council will have private conferences with the freshmen before they sign the Honor Code. These conferences will probably be underway in about two weeks.

Pigskin Visitors

Navy football stars, Captain Bobby Jenkins and All-American Don Whitmore, and former Carolina football star Joe Austin visited the Sigma Chis this week-end.

Math Department

Dr. E. T. Browne, professor of mathematics on leave of absence in service, is affiliated with the math department at Shrivensham University, American University center number one, in England.

M. A. Hill, professor in the math department, will resume his classes on November 1. Until recently, Mr. Hill has served as a major in the Army and was stationed in Washington, D. C.

Spencer News

Newly-elected members of Spencer House Council are Jane Bentley, Lucy Rogers, Blanche Jacobi, Ann Nobles, and Phyllis Sullivan.

Spencer Hall had three guests last week-end. Helen Cohen visited Evelyn Shugar. Penny Durham had as her guests Pat Stephen and Nancy Pitt. Blair Myrick visited Blanche Jacobi.

Decorated

M/Sgt. Albert L. Suskin, member of the University Classics Department, now with the 12th Army Corps in Regensburg, Germany, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service.

Conant Is Principal Speaker At University Day Exercises Scheduled For Memorial Hall

Dr. James Bryant Conant, president of Harvard University, will be principal speaker in University Day exercises to be held Friday, when Carolina will celebrate its birthday—the 152nd anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of Old East on October 12, 1793.

Joining with the University in its gala celebration will be the Association of American Universities, which will hold its 46th annual meeting here and at Duke University on October 11, 12 and 13. Representatives of the association will sit in a body on the platform of Memorial Hall during the University Day exercises there.

An academic procession will form at South Building at 10:15 o'clock Friday morning and exercises will begin at Memorial Hall at 10:45. Classes will be discontinued after 10 o'clock, according to an announcement from Chancellor R. B. House.

Conant Subject

Dr. Conant, who accepted this speaking invitation extended him by President Frank P. Graham five years ago, will talk on "The Future of the American University." He will be introduced by President Graham.

Representatives of the Association of American Universities will be included in the academic procession and will be introduced at Memorial Hall by Dean W. W. Pierson, Jr., secretary of the association.

Members of the faculty, student body and the Chapel Hill community are invited to attend the convocation. Chancellor House will preside and the University Glee Clubs will sing. Dr. H. E. Rondthaler will give the invocation and benediction.

Luncheon For Educators

Following the exercises in Memorial Hall, the University will be host at a luncheon at the Carolina Inn honoring the visiting educators.

The University had hoped, under its original plans, to invite to this occasion a large number of representatives from educational institutions over the country, other than those included in the association to meet here. But ODT travel restrictions ruled out this possibility. The University, however, is planning to invite a large number of educators to attend the concluding event of the Sesquicentennial program, now tentatively scheduled for next spring.

A number of college presidents and deans will be among those participating. See UNC CELEBRATES, page 4.

Playmakers Cast Experimentals Wednesday Night

By Arnold Dolin

The Playmakers Theatre curtain will rise Wednesday night at 7:30 on the 105th bill of experimental productions of new plays presented by the Carolina Playmakers. More than 300 plays written by students have been produced by the Playmakers during its course of organization, which is an accomplishment unique among other dramatic groups.

The primary object in the founding of the Carolina Playmakers by Dr. Frederick H. Koch in 1913 was to foster play writing talent, and the plan for experimental bills was begun at that time. This is now considered the most important work done by the group because it serves as a laboratory in which the student-writer may try out his theories in actual production.

Five bills, each composed of three original one-act plays and one three-act play, are presented every year. These experimentals are written, directed and produced entirely by students, and presented to a local audience at no admission charge. After each play, a discussion of its merits and faults is carried on between the audience and the author. This affords the author an opportunity to obtain the reactions of the audience to his play and also gives the audience a chance to air its opinions.

The three budding playwrights whose works will be presented tomorrow night offered the following comments in reference to their plays:

Phyllis Sullivan, author of "Five Notes in a Bar"—"I have tried to present some lovable, laughable characters in a comedy full of movement and light. The only purpose of the play, other than sheer entertainment, is to emphasize the joy of living and the eternal youthfulness of the spirit."

Dr. Conant, Harvard Prexy, Has Eminent Service Record

Speaks Friday...

President James Bryant Conant of Harvard University, principal speaker at University Day Celebration to be held October 12, was one of the first to call for universal conscription in the early days of the war. He was a member of the Baruch Committee which exposed failures in rubber production, recommended gasoline rationing and the speed limit of 35 miles per hour.

Before becoming president of Harvard at the age of 40 in 1933, he was a chemist. He says: "Science may temporarily appear to bloom under the dictatorship of a Hitler or a Stalin, but no one who has known the history of science can fail to prophesy the ultimate withering of the scientific tradition in a totalitarian state. Progress in science has been made by the unusual person, the unorthodox individual. He cannot survive a regimented social order."

"If you value a continuation of scientific advance, either in pure science or technology, I do not see how you can fail to be concerned for the preservation of free initiative and free democratic institutions. It seems to me illogical for a scientist to be even quietly resigned to the possibility of a highly organized paternalistic state."

Conant entered Harvard as a student in 1910. In his freshman year he was awarded a $300 scholarship. During the three years in which he com-

Campus Groups Should Reserve Yack Space

Heads of all campus organizations should reserve space in the 1946 Yackety Yack immediately, according to an announcement from the Yack office. These pages will be the first to go to the printers, and contracts must be drawn up at once so that photographer Joe Denker may start taking the necessary pictures.

All contracts must be signed on or before October 15. Bills will be mailed out by the business manager of the yearbook shortly after January 1, 1946.

Space prices are as follows: two pages, 70 dollars; one page, 40 dollars; one-half page, 25 dollars. Any organization may contract for as many pages as it is able to pay for. Contracts may be drawn up by contacting Boots Walker in Whitehead Dorm, Roy Thompson at the Kappa Alpha House, or Mary Hill Gaston on second floor Carr Dorm.

The Yack office on the mezzanine of Graham Memorial will also be open Wednesday and Thursday afternoons from 2 until 5 o'clock to draw up the contracts.

Lenoir Dining Hall, recently decommissioned by the Navy after being used for the past three years as a dining hall for Pre-Flight cadets here, will open for lunch today, L. H. Gooch, who manages the cafeteria, has announced.

Manager Gooch has revealed that Graham Memorial Grill, used as a cafeteria since the advent of the Navy, closed after dinner Monday night. The Grill will probably not be used again until the capacity of Lenoir Hall becomes inadequate. Many members of the GM staff have transferred to Lenoir Hall, which has 70 regular employees and a number of self-help students.

Breakfast is served from 7:00 until 9:15 a. m., lunch from 11:45 a. m. to 2:00 p. m., and dinner from 5:00 to 7:00 p. m. It is hoped that, by prolonging the breakfast schedule 15 minutes after 9:00 o'clock, many students will be spared a trip downtown to get breakfast.

Lenoir is one of the largest and most modern cafeterias in the nation and has a seating capacity of 1,050 people. The $210,000 plant was opened in 1940 and was used by University students and faculty before the Navy took it over in 1942.

Two Entrances

There are two entrances to the dining hall. Both north and south doors open into lobbies, where room is provided for books and wearing apparel. Lounges are located off these rooms. The lobbies are connected with the main dining hall, where the latest in cafeteria equipment is in operation. Two lines, each with separate cashiers, increase the efficiency of the new set-up.

Only the main part of Lenoir are open at present. In the northeast and southwest parts of the buildings are wings which contain space for additional service. A sharp increase in the student body will be necessary before this space will be required. Before the Navy took over the dining hall, a luncheonette and a soda fountain were located in these wings, but these were closed on arrival of the

UCP Statement Of Principles Available Today

Doug Hunt, chairman of the newly organized United Carolina Party, has announced that mimeographed statements of the party's principles will be available today for distribution to the campus.

In a discussion of the membership goal of Carolina's newest political party, Chairman Hunt said, "We do not expect to enroll the whole campus in the party, but we do hope that as many students as believe in these principles will enroll in the United Carolina Party."

First step in the enrollment procedure will be to sign the statement of principle. Persons signing the issued statement will automatically be made members.

A membership committee will direct this activity for the UCP. Its duties are two-fold: it will recruit members and will refuse to admit those who are obviously joining to "get on the bandwagon" and not because they believe in what the UCP is trying to do. This does not mean that applicants have to "pass the membership committee." There are no such things as applicants (when you sign, you're in), and the membership committee will not refuse to honor the signed statement unless it is apparent that the person signing does not mean what he says. Even when rejected by the membership committee, a person may appeal the decision to the party as a whole.

The UCP executive committee will meet this week to draw up a party program for the next few months. Emphasis will be on growth in student government.

A meeting of the party will be held in the near future to act on executive committee recommendations.

Entertains Monday...

HENRY SCOTT

Scott To Perform At Memorial Hall On Monday Night

The Student Entertainment Committee, headed by J. Penrose Harland, will present Henry Scott, eminent humorist, at 8:30 p.m. Monday, October 15th at Memorial Hall. Block tickets to all concerts in the series presented by the Student Entertainment Committee must be purchased by all civilian students at registration.

Concert satire is based on the premise that humor has a place in the concert hall just as much as on the stage, in literature and in the plastic arts. Accordingly, in a series of numbers "A Great Concert Pianist," "Chopin in the Citrus Belt," "Little Boy Genius Grows Up," "Rhythm at Any Cost" and "Mittens on the Keys," Scott will satirize some of the follies and amiable weaknesses of the music world.

His program will also include a section devoted to serious classics and another section devoted to popular styles in modern piano playing, on which subject he is considered an authority. This will include swing impressions of leading modern popular piano styles in concert impressions of Eddy Duchin and others.

"Rhythm at Any Cost" and "Mittens on the Keys" will make us of Scott's peculiar trade mark, the mitten. Several years ago he invented for his piano students a finger strengthening device known as the technical mitten which is widely used by musicians. In "Rhythm at Any Cost," Scott begins a number bare-handed, and, without interrupting his playing, draws on first one mitten, and then the other before the final bars.

The classical section of Scott's program will include Scarlatti, Chopin, and Liszt.

Scott attended Syracuse University College of Fine Arts, where he was much in demand as an entertainer. He has progressed steadily as an artist and humorist since that date, culminating in a successful concert at Town Hall, New York City, this past season.

Glee Clubs Perform For Public Friday

The Men's and Women's Glee Clubs will combine forces for their first public appearance, under the direction of Professor Paul Young, at Founders' Day services Friday.

The vocal groups will sing "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place" from Brahms' "Requiem." The Men's Glee Club will also present the old Latin hymn "Integer Vitae," which has been part of the Founders' Day program for many years.
