Fraternities Begin Rushing Period Sunday

Few Changes Made By Social Orders

Rush Week for Carolina fraternities will begin next Sunday, Jan. 20 and continue through Jan. 27, with few changes in the rules governing procedures, Walt Brinkley, president of the Interfraternity Council, has announced.

Formal rushing begins on Sunday from 3 until 6 p.m. and 8 until 11 p.m. Monday through Friday rushing will be conducted 24 hours a day. A period of silence is scheduled for Saturday before the official "shaking-up" period on Sunday. Another period of silence will be observed from Monday until Wednesday.

Prospective pledges will report to Dean of Men Ernest Mackie's office in South Building at 3 p.m. Wednesday for final selection and payment of the $1 pledge fee.

During the week only soft drinks, sandwiches and cigarettes may be served rushers. This applies not only to the fraternity houses but any place on campus. A second regulation prohibiting coeds from visiting fraternities during rushing hours also was adopted at the last meeting of the council.

Yack Deadline Set For Greeks' Copy

Yacky Yack fraternity editor Fred Bauder has announced that all men appointed to write up their fraternity for the annual must have their papers in not later than Friday. These write-ups must be from 350 to 400 words and should relate the outstanding things which have happened in the fraternity during the year.

Bauder also asks that three snapshots taken of fraternity life be submitted with the write-ups.

Three Men Kept As Phi Elects New Term Heads

Four new officers were elected to serve in the Philanthropic Assembly at the Phi's first meeting of the new term Tuesday night. Three officers, including speaker Jack Lackey, were retained.

Charley Bortan was elected sergeant-at-arms, Bob Fentress was chosen treasurer, Lillian Reeves was elected as representative to the CRIL, and Sibyl Goerch was chosen representative to the Debate Council.

Officers retained besides Lackey were Blount Stewart, speaker pro tem, and Jean Huske, clerk.

The evening's resolution, concerning student entertainment at Carolina, was postponed because business of the first meeting of the term took all of the time.

Dr. Graham Completes Washington Service

Dr. Frank Graham returned to the campus over the weekend after serving in Washington as chairman of President Harry Truman's fact-finding board for settlement of the labor difficulties in the oil industry. The board recommended an 18 per cent increase in the industry as compared to the 30 per cent increase which had been demanded by the CIO oil workers union.

Tar Heel Aspirants Meet Thursday Night

All students with or without previous newspaper experience who are interested in working for the Tar Heel should apply at the Tar Heel offices in Graham Memorial Thursday night at 7 p. m.

Pin-Up

C. B. Daley, Delta Sigma Pi, has pinned Jane Childs, Alpha Gam.

Vets Return

Dick Pilling and Herb Bodman have been discharged from service and have returned to the University. Both are members of St. Anthony Hall.

Minister To Sweden, University Alumnus, Is Visitor On Campus

Herschel Johnson, class of '16 and present United States minister to Sweden, returned to Chapel Hill last Saturday as the guest of Chancellor R. B. House, a former classmate. He was accompanied by Josephus Daniels.

Johnson, who has been in the diplomatic service since World War I, occupied a ringside seat for World War II as he guided the precarious relationships between this nation and neutral Sweden. In an interview with Jane Hall, reporter for the Raleigh News and Observer, he said that Swedish sympathies were definitely with the Allies although she was forced to trade with Germany.

In 1930-34 Johnson served as chief of the Mexican Affairs Division of the State Department. He went to Sweden in 1941 from his post as minister of the American embassy in London. At the present time he is in this country reporting to the State Department and spending a leave.

Chapel Hill is said to be a place for which Johnson feels a particularly keen affection and he has returned to it often at intervals between diplomatic missions. Charlotte is listed as his permanent residence.

Drive Begins For Clothing

Collection Starts Here Tomorrow

A drive to obtain clothing for the destitute peoples of Europe will begin tomorrow and continue through Friday announced Bill Potat and Kay Ferrell, who are heading the coordinated drives in Chapel Hill and the University. The campus drive is under the joint direction of Lillian Leonhard and Jimmy Wallace, presidents of the Inter-dormitory Council, and Walt Brinkley, president of the Interfraternity Council.

Three people will be appointed in each dormitory, and they will visit the room of every student on campus between now and Friday to canvass for all clothes that could be of use to thinly-clad Europeans. Collections will be made by truck on Saturday after which the clothes will be sorted and packed.

All wool clothes, shoes, cotton garments and other types of clothing which would be valuable in protecting people from the cold are needed. Fancy clothes and odd pieces are not requested.

Students are urged to cooperate by looking through their closets in advance of the canvass so that when the dormitory representatives come around, the contributions will be ready.

This drive is part of a nationwide drive under the direction of Henry Kaiser.

Di Will Debate On Registration

Methods of reforming student registration procedures will be discussed at the meeting of the Dialectic Senate Wednesday night at 9 o'clock in the senate chamber on the third floor of New West, David Pittman, president pro tem, has announced.

At the conclusion of the meeting there will be a reception in honor of the new officers for the winter term. Nina Guard will be president and other officers include David Pittman, president pro tem; Gloria Chapman, clerk; Bob Morrison, critic, and Arthur Budlong, sergeant-at-arms.

Visitors are welcome at the meeting and reception and new students are especially invited.

Trustees To Meet Here

The Visiting Committee of the Board of Trustees will be on the campus next Friday. Any student or member of the faculty wishing to see the group should make an appointment by contacting the committee chairman, Victor S. Bryant, at his office at 111 Corcoran Street in Durham or by leaving a message at the Carolina Inn or Dr. Graham's office. Appointments may be made between 7 and 11 o'clock Friday night. Requests for appointments should be accompanied with the sender's phone number.

Walter (Pete) Murphy 1872-1946

(O. J. (Skipper) Coffin, head of the department of journalism in the University, and a long-time friend of Walter (Pete) Murphy's, wrote the following editorial on his old friend for the paper they both once edited, the Tar Heel.—Ed.)

Walter (Pete) Murphy, class of 1894, died at Salisbury, his home, Saturday at the age of 73. More than fifty of these years, allowing for his having performed noteworthy service to his state as legislator and having acquired an admirable family, were chiefly characterized by a complete devotion to the University of North Carolina.

Unquestionably Lux et Libertas were, so far as Pete was concerned, the state, or if not, anyhow the state's chief claim to distinction was having given birth to and nurtured Pete's alma mater. Not until last fall, when the weight of years fell upon him, had the center rush of the teams of 1892-93-94 missed a football game of consequence at the Hill. Moreover he was never heard griping at results, for he always felt that his team, imbued with his own loyalty, had given its best.

Not once was the legislature of North Carolina asked by a University administration to make adequate appropriations for its upkeep that Murphy of Rowan, as member or speaker of the house—he was speaker twice—or private citizen was not in there pitching.

It tastes a bit of the can, perhaps; but he was Carolina's No. 1 alumnus. Pete he was to more than half a century of campus citizens. His son Spencer, exceptional craftsman who edits the Salisbury Post, came in for a campus season of being Pete, and the term of respectful endearment was also used to denote his daughter Elizabeth, who wedded Peter Henderson, an A.B. in journalism from New Jersey.

Pete himself was among the first editors of the Tar Heel, back in the days when it traveled almost wholly under its power and certainly without benefit of P.U. Board or clergy.

Of visible return for his devotion Alumnus Murphy received from his University the honorary degree of doctor of laws, and Orange county, which only once had opportunity publicly to display its affection gave him a majority in 1940 for secretary of state, the one statewide office for which he was ever a candidate.

He was, it is true, for 40 years a member of the board of trustees and for the past several years a member of the executive committee. But he received that recognition from the state as a whole for his all-year, all-weather devotion to Carolina.

Senator Josiah William Bailey, non-alumnus, but father of a couple of alumni, upon receipt of word of Pete's death suggested that his remains be interred on the campus.

That is a matter better left, perhaps, to Mr. Murphy's family; but one will get you ten—or if need be twenty—that Carolina alumni of the past 50 years would prefer Pete's ashes catch-as-catch-can to the late Mr. Ackland's with a million or so for fine arts, including a mausoleum.

Secretary Of Treasury Vinson Will Address News Group Here

Institute Slated To Meet Jan. 24-25; McLean, Sauer, Davlin, Also To Speak

Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson, President Robert McLean of the Associated Press, Mack Sauer, celebrated Ohio humorist and country editor, and W. R. Davlin of the Office of Reconversion, Washington, are among headliners who have accepted invitations to address the annual sessions of the mid-winter North Carolina Newspaper Institute to be held here and in Durham on January 24-25.

The two-day sessions are being held under the auspices of the North Carolina Press Association and the University of North Carolina and Duke University.

Advance reservations indicate that all previous attendance records will be broken. Following registration on the afternoon of January 24, the first session will be held that night when Secretary Vinson will speak in Hill Hall at 8 o'clock. He will be introduced by former Governor O. Max Gardner, of Shelby and Washington, who will accompany the Secretary to Chapel Hill.

The Washington party, which will also include Mrs. Vinson and Mrs. Gardner, will arrive in Raleigh on the morning of January 24 and will be entertained at breakfast by Josephus Daniels. After a visit to State College the group will come to Chapel Hill that afternoon and will be entertained at a reception at the home of Controller and Mrs. W. D. Carmichael, Jr. The program for Friday morning, the 25th, will include a session of the Associated Dailies, to be presided over by W. Randall Harris, Asheville, president, and a meeting of the weeklies, with W. Curtis Russ, Waynesville, and Tom J. Lassiter, Smithfield, presiding.

Mr. Sauer and Mr. Davlin will speak at a luncheon session at which the University will be host. Following the luncheon will be a business session of the North Carolina Press Association at which a number of important committee reports will be made.

Friday night's session will be held in Durham with Duke University as host when AP President McLean will be the speaker. Governor R. Gregg Cherry will be among special guests.

Monogram Club Dance Scheduled For Friday

The Monogram Club will hold its winter dance in Navy Hall Friday night from 9 until 12 o'clock. The veterans' orchestra will furnish the music and the dance will be semi-formal.

Members of the Monogram Club may pick up their bids tomorrow morning in the YMCA.

Tar Heel Founder Dies In Salisbury

Walter (Pete) Murphy, Carolina Great, Succumbs After Severe Heart Attack

Walter (Pete) Murphy, 73, one of Carolina's foremost alumni and a leader in state Democratic circles for many years, died at his Salisbury home Saturday after a long illness. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at his home and burial was in Memorial Park Cemetery in Salisbury.

WALTER (PETE) MURPHY

Murphy was one of the original founders of the Tar Heel back in 1892 when it came out on a weekly basis, was a member of Carolina's remarkable football team of 1892 on which he played "center rush," founded the German Club, and was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity. He was also private secretary to President Winston while a student.

Founded Review

He later founded the Alumni Review, was president of the alumni association, member of the board of trustees, and for several years member of the executive committee of the board of trustees. He has been awarded the degree of LLD by the University.

After graduating from Carolina in the class of 1894, Murphy became prominent in state politics and served in 20 sessions of the North Carolina General Assembly and was twice speaker of the House. He was the constant champion of greater appropriations for higher education in the state and advocated better educational facilities for negroes, a better system of roads, and care of the underprivileged.

Murphy was one-time head football coach at Washington and Lee and the popular legend circulated about him is that he attended over 700 football games in his lifetime, probably a record.

Throughout his life, Murphy has

Charlie Spivak's Trumpeting Known as 'Honey in the Horn'

Charlie Spivak, the band leader whose trumpet playing is described as "honey in the horn," comes to Carolina for Midwinters on February 1 and 2. "The Man Who Plays the Sweetest Trumpet in the World" is the leader of a three year old band which has rocketed to top-flight stature in the entertainment world.

Latest successes in Spivak's musical career has been 20th Century's "Pin-Up Girl" and "Follow The Boys" for Universal. Upon completion of current tour he plans to make another movie for 20th Century.

"Downbeat" Magazine chose Spivak as the top sweet band in the nation in 1944. He organized his three-year-old band with the aid of the late Glenn Miller, for whom his ten-month-old son is named. His first big engagement at the Glen Island Casino was so successful that the casino, a summer night spot, stayed open for the winter season.

After his stand at Glen Island Casino the band went to Cafe Rouge of the Hotel Pennsylvania where it broke Glenn Miller's and Jimmy Dorsey's records. At the Hotel Commodore the band repeated its performance.

Before organizing his band Charlie Spivak was the highest paid freelance trumpeter in radio, playing on such programs as the Ford Symphony Hour, Kate Smith and Fred Allen broadcasts.

At various times he has played with the Dorsey Brothers, where fellow musicians were Glenn Miller, Skeets Herfurt and Bob Crosby, Ray Noble and his band, Benny Pollack and Paul Specht.

Charlie Spivak began trumpet playing while still in grade school. He recalls that his first trumpet was so tiny that the first valve could be played with the nose because it was so close to the mouthpiece. While a student at Hill House High School in New Haven, Conn., he studied with George Hyer, a member of the New Haven Symphony Orchestra.

As a Carolina wolf Charlie Spivak, according to publicity releases, would have much appeal.
