Watermelon Festival Here Tomorrow

THE WATERMELON FESTIVAL, which was held on campus for the first time last year, is shown above in full swing. Students sitting are getting ready for a little entertainment in the way of a harmonica concert by Chancellor Bob House. The festival was a big success last year, attracting well over 1,000 students and townspeople who consumed some 400 of the juicy red melons. This year's festival is scheduled for tomorrow night at 7 o'clock under the Davie Poplar. All are invited for the free feast and there'll be plenty of entertainment, including a square dance in the Y Court. In the background can be seen the watermelon-laden table and a number of folks who haven't had their fill. But from the look on her face we'd say the young lass sitting in the first row was the victim of just a wee bit too much melon.

Large Crowd Will Gather For Feast, Entertainment

By Walt M. Dear II

The height of the first summer session's social activities will get underway tomorrow night, Friday, at 7 o'clock, as summer Carolinians gather for the second annual Watermelon Festival held under Davie Poplar.

Watermelons and more watermelons will be on the menu for hungry students and faculty members. Last year more than 400 watermelons were consumed by over 1200 watermelon fans. This year, according to Tommie Olive, chairman of the festival, even a larger crowd is expected.

Dean of Admissions Roy Armstrong will be master of ceremonies for the entertainment program which will include some of Dean Armstrong's musical innovations. The entertainment will follow an hour of watermelon eating, participated in by everyone, and a watermelon-eating contest will highlight the festival.

A student team led by Andy Cornish and a faculty team, whose captain has not been picked yet, will clash for the title of best watermelon eaters on campus. The contest is similar to a relay race and each team has 6 members. In last year's festival, Chancellor R. B. House captained his team to victory over a student relay captained by Chuck Hauser. House will be unable to attend the festival this year because of a previous engagement.

The crowning of Watermelon King and Queen by Mayor Edwin S. Lanier will be another feature of the evening. Voting for the queen has been conducted in the Y and all polls will close tonight. Candidates for the King have already been selected from among the faculty.

A gala square dance will follow the entertainment program and a faculty-student square dance will start off the promenading.

The purpose of the festival is to promote and further student-faculty relations.

Scholarship Is Awarded To 4 Here

Two University instructors and one graduate student have just been notified of their appointments to Fulbright scholarships for the coming year, it was announced here last week.

Several weeks ago Almonte C. Howell, Jr., an assistant in the Music Department, also received a Fulbright scholarship to study music at the Sorbonne in Paris.

Those announced today were Dr. Nathaniel Macon, instructor in the Mathematics Department, who will study at the University of Amsterdam; John Leroy Young, instructor of French, who will go to the University of Lille, France; and Francis Michael Casey, graduate student in dramatic art, who will study at the Old Vic Theatre School in London.

Six hundred of these scholarships have been awarded to teachers and students for 1950-51 under the terms of the Fulbright Act, according to the State Department. Opportunities will be available for a comparable number of foreign nationals to come to this country.

United States scholarship holders will study in Belgium, Luxembourg, Burma, France, Greece, Italy, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, The Philippines, United Kingdom and Colonies, Australia, Egypt, India, Iran and Turkey.

The Fulbright Act authorized the State Department to use certain foreign currencies and credits acquired through the sale of surplus property abroad for programs of educational exchange with other nations.

Grants to Americans usually include transportation, tuition, living allowance and small amount for necessary books and equipment. Grants to foreign nationals include round trip transportation only.

Dancing Classes Meet 2nd Session

Dancing classes in social and ball room dancing will be held for men and women students during the second session of summer school, it was announced this week by the Women's Physical Education Department.

Square dancing classes will also be held. Miss Ruth Price of the department will teach both of the informal courses.

All students interested in social dancing are asked to meet in the women's gym at 4 o'clock on the first Monday afternoon of the second session. Square dance enthusiasts will gather at the same time on Tuesday.

GM Schedule To Continue 2nd Session

The Summer Social Committee will continue offering summer session students the fullest possible program of entertainment and pleasure during the second session.

For the remainder of this quarter, the Rendezvous Room will be open for all students who wish to enjoy a break from exams and registering.

According to Jim Rathburn, Student Union head, the Graham Memorial weekly program will continue with square dancing, concerts, Canasta and Bridge tournaments, tea dances, "Our Best To You" and all the other entertaining programs.

In addition to these activities there will be floor shows in the Rendezvous Room next session with outstanding campus entertainers being starred.

Students who have suggestions for recreation or activities that would be enjoyed by summer school Tar Heels should see Rathburn, Dan Bell, Tommie Olive, or Rosalie Brown, members of the summer school social committee and Graham Memorial entertainment committee.

Plans for outdoor hikes or picnics were in progress, but due to a lack of interest, the plans were dropped. However, if interest is shown in the next session, there will be some outdoor activities.

One of the most popular events on the Graham Memorial program so far has been the Sunday afternoon concerts. Last week Bobby Morris, freshman student here, played requests for two hours.

"Born Yesterday" To Open In Local Theatre Tonight

"Born Yesterday," the annual Carolina Playmaker summer production, opens a four-day stand in the Playmaker Theatre here tonight at 8:30. The play will also be given at the same time tomorrow night, Saturday and Sunday.

The two lead characters are portrayed by Ed Grady and Robin Stockdale. Grady, who played Father Rafferty in "Angels Full Front" last season, takes the part of a junk dealer, Harry Brock, who comes to Washington to do business in the black market.

Miss Stockdale plays the part of Billie Dawn, Brock's gum-chewing New Jersey girl friend who manages to upset all his plans despite his efforts to educate her.

The play is described as slightly risqué and well worth seeing. Tickets went on sale last week but there are still plenty on hand and may be obtained at the ticket office in the theatre.

The play was written by Garson Kanin and is directed by William MacIlwain.

Ed Fitzpatrick, on the Playmaker staff for the summer, is directing the staging of the production. He teaches at the Women's College in Greensboro during the school year.

The play was produced in New York by Max Gordon in 1946 and became an immediate hit, running for more than three years on Broadway. In the two lead roles, now famous Paul Douglas and Judy Holliday first became well known in the show world.

Columbia Studios in Hollywood is now making a film version of the play which is scheduled to open sometime this fall.

School Heads To Meet Here

The third annual summer Conference of North Carolina school principals in elementary and secondary schools will be held at the University August 3-5, it was announced by Dean Guy B. Phillips of the School of Education, Director of the Summer Session.

The Conference begins Thursday night, August 3, with a dinner meeting. Dr. B. G. Childs of Duke University will be the principal speaker.

Orville W. Wake, President of Lynchburg College, Lynchburg, Va., has accepted Dean Phillips' invitation to deliver the keynote address Friday morning, August 4, at 10 o'clock. Dr. Wake has taught at Virginia Polytechnic Institute in the Department of Education and later assumed the same position as teacher and dean at Lynchburg College.

Registration

All students who have not pre-registered and who wish to attend the second session of summer school may do so by seeing their deans on Friday, July 21.

All pre-registered students may pick up their class tickets on the same day in the lobby of Memorial Hall between 9 o'clock in the morning and 9 at night, or on Saturday morning, July 22, between 8:30 and 8:30.

There will be a five dollar fine for picking up tickets after that time.

The last day of classes is next Tuesday, July 18 and the first day of second session classes is Saturday, July 22.

Famous Professor Visits University

Dr. K. A. Hirsch, mathematician in the University of Durham, England, who is in this country, to attend the International Congress of Mathematicians in Boston next month, is visiting the University this week.

Dr. Hirsch addressed members of the University's Mathematics Department on the "Arithmetical Relations of the Finite Groups" in Phillips Hall during the weekend.

Wins Award

Brad Arrington, University student from Greenville, S. C., is winner of the fourth Columbia Broadcasting System award for the best collegiate television script in a contest recently sponsored by CBS. It was announced here this week.

Arrington is the second University student this year to win one of these awards. Jack Robinson, Sayville, N. Y., was winner this spring.

A full length play, "The Lady Will Jump," by Arrington, was one of two Carolina Playmaker productions presented on the Commencement bill of plays last month.
