Playmakers Put Final Touches On Production

Technical crews are busy this week putting final touches on setting and costumes for The Carolina Playmakers production of the comedy, "Pursuit of Happiness," in time for opening night this Thursday in the Playmakers Theater.

Pike Address Is Tonight In Gerrard

Dr. James Albert Pike, Chaplain and head of the Department of Religion at Columbia University, will speak on "The Christian Faith" in Gerrard Hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

The talk is being sponsored by the University YWCA and all students and town people are invited.

Dr. Pike is one of the more noted authorities in the country on Christianity. He is also an author and practiced law as a government attorney for a number of years in Washington.

A native of Oklahoma City, Okla., Dr. Pike received his B.A. degree at the University of Southern California in 1934 and his LL.B. in 1936. He studied at Yale under a Sterling Fellowship in 1937.

He has served as an attorney for both the Securities Exchange Commission and the Office of Price Administration in Washington and as a lecturer in Law at Catholic and George Washington universities.

After serving in the Navy for three years, Dr. Pike was Chaplain at a number of colleges before going to Columbia.

He is visiting Chapel Hill as a guest lecturer in a religious seminar being conducted this session by the University Department of Religion.

The YWCA will present other qualified speakers on religious topics throughout the summer months as a part of the organization's efforts to relate worship to the life of University students in more useful ways.

Theme To Book

Hold on to those old English 1 and 2 themes, boys! They might pay off some day.

That's the advice that Jack Wardlaw, Raleigh insurance agent and alumnus of the UNC class of '31, would offer to students here.

Wardlaw has just had a book entitled, "Sales Success Through Thought Plus Action," accepted for publication by Wilfred Funk, Inc.

Way back in 1927, after flunking out of Trinity College—now known as Duke University—Wardlaw came to Carolina, and determined to make good, took particular pains with his first freshman English theme. It was entitled "Thought Plus Action," and he got an A plus on it.

"I just decided to utilize that idea in a book when I stumbled across that old theme paper sometime ago," Wardlaw says.

Laboring to carry on Playmaker tradition of polished productions, Wray Thompson, costume designer, has had a crew of ten cutting and sewing to create 16 authentic costumes of the American Revolutionary period, elaborate with panels, ruffles, and bows.

Costume crew members are: Mark Mobley, Dorothea Jones, Madge Gould, Brooke Robertson, Edith Sewell, Louise Carter, Lee Cooper, Rebecca Hamilton, Boyce Bengel, and Barbara Dodson.

In the scene shop, set designer John Caldwell and crew chief Dick Snively have been at work reproducing the parlor of an early American farmhouse. Dorothea Jones, property master, and her assistant, Don Melvin, will furnish the picture authentically to the smallest detail.

Electricians Barbara Dodson and Charles Hadley have planned lighting to simulate differences between morning, early and later afternoon, and evening light. Sound technician Max Lindsey is standing by to insure that no playgoer will miss a laugh in the agile comedy.

With assistance from members of the costume staff, makeup chief Larry Peerce plans to add years and wrinkles to part of the cast, while house manager William Struhs coaches ushers on efficiency.

General stage manager Claude Garren and assistant manager Louise Neal have been coordinating the work of all the crews so that the curtain will rise Thursday evening at 8:30 on a polished production. Tickets are on sale at Swain Hall and Ledbetter-Pickard's.

Bankers Hold Meeting Here

More than 150 bankers from a three-state area are here this week for the 15th Carolinas Bankers Conference.

Classes comprising the week-long schedule of intensive training in various fields of banking got underway yesterday morning at 8:45 and will continue until 4 p.m. each day this week through Friday.

Top notch specialists in commercial, agricultural and credit banking will comprise the "faculty" for the Conference which is sponsored by the North Carolina and South Carolina Bankers Associations, the North and South Carolina State Banking Departments, and the University.

Among the well known authorities conducting the classes will be Dr. W. A. Irwin, economist for the American Bankers Association; T. A. Glenn, Jr., president, Peoples National Bank, Norristown, Pa., and former member of the faculty of the Graduate School of Banking, Rutgers University; M. Monroe Kimbrel, First National Bank, Thomson, Ga., and guest lecturer in economics, University of Georgia.

Student Law Talks Scheduled Tomorrow

A lecture on campus law and its enforcement will be given in Gerrard hall at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow night.

The lecture is primarily for new students who missed lectures delivered earlier this summer. After the talks by Allan Milledge and Bill Walker, members of the Men's Honor Council, there will be time for questions and discussion.

"It is important that all students should understand the Honor System as it is the basis for student government and the Carolina way of life," Council Chairman Allan Milledge explains.

Di, Phi Plan UNC Talks

The Dialectic Senate will discuss a reform of the judicial system of the campus at its Wednesday night meeting in Di Hall, 3rd floor, New West building. The bill would combine all three councils into a student council and eliminate appeals to a higher court. Defendants in honor and campus code cases would be offered a choice of the type of court before which they wish their case to be heard—the entire council composed of 10 men and 6 women or a court consisting of members of the same sex as the defendant.

Abolition of the appeal, long a hot campus issue, has plagued and inspired student politicians into frothy action and the debate before the Di should be hard fought. Judicial reform was an important issue last year when a special committee to study the problem was established by the President.

Tonight at 8:30 the Phi Assembly will debate a bill aimed at improving the social life on the campus. The bill, designed to provide for the changing of "the ratio" to a basis more closely approximating one-to-one, provides for the admission of coeds as first year students and general encouragement of coed enrollment.

In the preamble to the bill it is stated that one of the most obvious deficiencies in the social structure of the campus is the marked disparity between the number of coeds and the number of male students.

Stated purpose of the bill is to promote the equalization of coeds in order that the goal of the University in training well rounded citizens may be more fully realized by reducing the artificiality of the social atmosphere on campus and making it correspond better to that of our society as a whole.

PRE-REGISTRATION

General College Fall quarter pre-registration for students not planning to attend the second term of summer school will be held on Thursday and Friday, July 12-13.

Pre-registration for those attending the second summer school term will be held on August 6 and 7.

Kinston Teacher Seeks Acceptance By Spanish Dept., Claims Refused

The first Negro woman to bring suit against the University asking admission as a student filed her complaint in the clerk's office of Middle District Court in Greensboro last week.

Tentative date for a hearing before Judge Johnson J. Hayes has been set for Thursday, July 12, the date being subject to approval of the judge.

Plans Include Coffee Hour, Cards, Dance

The third in a series of coffee hours, to be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the lounge of Graham Memorial, will open the Summer Activities Program's final week of festivities for the first summer session.

All students and faculty members are invited to attend, while special invitations have been issued by the students to their instructors in their various courses. Hostess for the social is Mrs. Cora Bundy. The weekly coffee hours are a feature of the Cultural-Educational committee of the Summer Activities Program.

Tonight at 7:30 in the lounge of Graham Memorial, the Social Committee will sponsor its fourth weekly card party. Tables will be set up for bridge and canasta, and cash prizes will be awarded to the winners.

Voting Begins For Queen

Voting is now in progress and will continue through Thursday for the preliminary selection of the queen of the Watermelon Festival. Polls are in the Y lobby and are open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Votes are a penny each—the proceeds will go toward paying for the melons to be consumed by all comers Friday.

Five candidates receiving the highest number of votes in the preliminary balloting will enter the finals to be held in the Y lobby Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Each student and faculty member will be entitled to one vote in the finals.

Announcement of the queen will be made at the Festival at the Davie Poplar, Friday at 7 p.m.

Candidates for the title of Queen of the Watermelon Festival, entered to date, and their sponsors are Eugenia Holliday, Alpha Delta Pi; Peggy Rose Anderson, Alpha Tau Omega; Betty Cook, Grimes dormitory; Dot Guy, Kappa Sigma; Mary Louise Milliken, Kenan dormitory; Rose Holland, Monogram Club; Dodie Boyer, Old East dormitory; Ann Dover, Smith dormitory; Nancy Jo Fox, Manley dormitory; Frances Hauser, Old West dormitory; Betty Merritt, Spencer dormitory; Betty Lou Worthington, Sigma Chi; and Lucia Hutchinson, Stacy dormitory.

Gwendolyn Lolita Harrison of Kinston, who filed the suit, has asked the court to issue a preliminary injunction against the University restraining it from refusing and denying the plaintiff and all qualified Negroes similarly situated, admission, registration, and enrollment for courses in Spanish in the graduate school of the University.

She also asks that the court "enter judgment or decree declaring that the policy, custom and usage of the defendants in refusing to admit the plaintiff and other qualified Negroes as students to the graduate school of the University of North Carolina, solely on account of her race and color, is unconstitutional and violative of the 14th Amendment of the United States Constitution."

Howard Gives Gallery Talk

Robert Howard, newly appointed faculty member of the Art Department will give the fifth in a series of gallery talks in Person hall art gallery tomorrow evening at 7:30.

The series of talks, given in conjunction with the exhibit "20th Century European Painting," have been so organized that each gallery talk takes up a different aspect of the exhibition.

Howard will relate his discussion to the current exhibition of 36 original works by modern masters lent to Person Hall for the summer by Duncan Phillips, director of the Phillips Gallery in Washington. Included in the exhibition are works by Picasso, Dufy, Kandinsky, Roualt, Klee, Gris, Bonnard and Matisse.

The gallery will be open from 7 to 9 tomorrow evening. Its regular afternoon hours are from 2 to 5.

Radio Clinic

A two-week workshop in radio broadcasting for high school students scheduled here this summer will be under the dual sponsorship of the University and North Carolina radio stations through their professional organization, under a plan just completed.

The North Carolina Association of Broadcasters will co-sponsor the session with the University's Communication Center, according to Communication Center Director Earl Wynn.

To be known as the North Carolina High School Radio Institute, it will be held for the first time from July 22 to August 4 in Chapel Hill. The Institute is open to North Carolina high school juniors and seniors.
