

WATER

Gibson gets outdoors and lands on page 2. See Fun Spots.

The Tar Heel

WEATHER

Cloudy and humid with 91 high. Yesterday's high, 90; low, 65.

VOLUME 16 NUMBER 4

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, JUNE 23, 1953

FOUR PAGES TODAY

Contest Is Slated For Teachers

In celebration of the 50th anniversary of powered flight, a contest for teachers has been announced with four awards in each state.

The contest objectives are:

1. To stimulate classroom teachers to have their students engage in educational activities commemorating the anniversary of powered flight.

2. To further the public's awareness of aviation's implications in education.

3. To offer a token recognition of the increasingly effective work being done by organized education to develop air-minded citizens.

4. To collect further evidences of effective teaching techniques devised and used by classroom teachers teaching either separate courses in aviation or using the content of aviation to enrich all the school's offerings.

The contest involves the selection of classroom teachers from each state who during the year (Dec. 17, 1952 to Dec. 17, 1953) have done the best work in preparation and/or use of instructional materials for aviation education. The winners will get a three-day all-expense free air trip to Washington to attend the Wright Memorial 50th Anniversary Dinner on Dec. 17 of this year.

Awards will be made in each state for the following grade levels: primary, intermediate, junior high and senior high. Contest rules may be obtained from the bulletin board at the School of Education, Peabody Hall, or by writing to the National Committee to Observe the 50th Anniversary of Powered Flight, 1405 G Street, N. W., Washington, 5, D. C.

The contest opens Sept. 1, 1953.

Lovers' embarrassment after being caught on Alpha Gam front porch by early morning paperboy.

Peppy blind students walking springily about campus.

Silent Gerrard Hall now that Boys Staters are gone.

Dr. R. W. Linker Honored With Top Di Award

Robert W. Linker of the University's Romance Languages Department received the 1953 faculty award given annually by the Dialectic Literary Society.

The award goes to the faculty member "who has shown the greatest teaching ability and who has rendered the most service to students during the past year." Previous winners were B. L. Ullman and Preston H. Epps.

Dr. Linker has been a French teacher here for 23 years, during which time he has served in an advisory capacity to a number of student organizations. The award was presented to him at the annual Di-Phi banquet near the end of Spring Quarter.

Community Sing Needs Interested Students

With Sunday night's community sing called a success by those who conducted it, another is being planned for this weekend.

Those interested in helping to plan next week's sing are invited to a meeting at 7 p. m. tomorrow in the Y. Anyone wanting to lead the sing or play accompaniments is asked to call the Y at 6761 and an audition will be arranged.

By AFROTC

Top Award Is Given To Pawlik

Harry Pawlik of Albemarle, an outstanding student in the Air Force ROTC unit here, has been awarded the Memorial Scholarship of the Arnold Air Society.

The scholarship, a grant of $300, is awarded each year to one Air Force ROTC cadet selected from institutions throughout the nation. The selection is made on the basis of need, scholastic record and promise as a future Air Force Officer.

Along with the scholarship Pawlik received a congratulatory letter from Mrs. Eleanor P. Arnold, widow of the late General H. H. Arnold, in honor of whom the national society of AF ROTC cadets was formed. Noting that Pawlik was a native of Poland, who only recently received his American citizenship, Mrs. Arnold said, "You have overcome more than the average obstacles to receive this honor."

Pawlik spent much of his time in concentration camps in Germany, Austria, and Czechoslovakia, and was liberated at the age of 14, by soldiers of the American Third Army. During the last stages of the war, he served with the Third Army as an interpreter of Polish, German, and French.

After the war, in 1947, he came to the United States as the ward of Lt. Raymond C. Carpenter, of Albemarle, N. C. Despite the fact that he had had little previous formal education, he entered high school, made an outstanding record and was graduated in 1950.

A self-help student at Carolina, Harry has compiled a noteworthy record scholastically and as an athlete. He has served as president and secretary of the Monogram Club, was co-captain of the soccer team and was a varsity team wrestler during the first three years of his college career.

Vote Starts Today For Melon Queen

Finals Will Be Held Friday; Festival To Feature Student-Faculty Watermelon Eating Contest

The campus digs into its pockets today to buy ballots to vote for its favorites among eight coeds entered in the fifth annual Watermelon Festival queen contest.

The girls' pictures will be posted in the Y lobby with a ballot box under each photo. Each vote is one cent and as many may be bought as the individual desires. Proceeds go toward paying expenses for Friday's Watermelon Festival.

The top five candidates will be voted on Friday. A change in the voting procedure for the runoff was announced yesterday by the election committee. Instead of five cents a vote as originally planned, each student will have one vote—free—and may vote by showing his ID card at the balloting table in the Y lobby this Friday.

Winner of the contest will preside over Friday afternoon's Watermelon festival, a free affair to which all students, faculty and their families are invited. Crowning of the queen will take place about 7 o'clock.

Another highlight of the festival Friday will be a student-faculty watermelon eating contest. Judges will be Mayor Ed Lanier, Mrs. Robert B. House, wife of the chancellor, and Daily Tar Heel Editor Rolfe Neill.

The festival will start at 7 o'clock Friday night in front of Josephine Lytle. At present she lar. Bob Cole's folk music outfit will be on hand tuned up and ready to go. Also on hand will be 400 watermelons and coed hostesses. Roy Armstrong, director of admissions, will emcee the program.

Harry Aycock is general chairman of the festival and Nancy Horne is in charge of the program.

Ford Foundation Gives $50,000 To Carolina For Study Of Self

The University has been awarded a grant of $50,000 from the Ford Foundation to be used "to undertake a self-survey of its training and research programs for the scientific study of human behavior. The grant is for the academic year 1953-54.

The University was one of five leading American universities receiving grants from the Ford Foundation totalling $249,500 for this purpose. Announcement of the grants was made yesterday by Bernard Berelson, Director of the Behavioral Sciences Division of the Foundation.

Other institutions receiving grants were the University of Chicago, Harvard University, and the University of Michigan, all of which received $50,000 and Stanford University which received $49,500.

"In this self-study program the Foundation is concerned with the total resources of the university for the scientific study of man," Dr. Berelson said. "The inquiries have the purpose of obtaining facts and ideas that can be considered in further planning to strengthen the behavioral sciences at these institutions. Out of these self-studies we hope will come detailed plans at each university for further development and improvement of resources in this field."

The universities will use the funds made available under the grants to inquire into the status, problems, needs, and desirable development of the behavioral sciences at their institutions. The inquiry will be made by a faculty committee at each university assisted by a visiting committee including scholars from other in-

ART MODELS NEEDED

A dollar an hour is being offered models to pose for University art classes.

Those interested should contact Miss Warren by phoning 2801, Person Hall.

(See MONEY, page 3)

To Commerical Executives

United States Tax Head Talks Tomorrow

In its second day now, the North Carolina School Week conference will hear two outstanding speakers at sessions this afternoon and night.

Dr. W. Carson Ryan of the University faculty will talk on "Education and International Good Will" this afternoon. Tonight Dean Lindley J. Stiles of the University of Virginia School of Education will discuss secondary education.

The meeting this afternoon will be held in Hill Hall rather than Carroll Auditorium as scheduled. All meetings after this afternoon however, will be in the appointed places.

Speaking tomorrow afternoon will be Dr. Thelma Gwynn Thurstone, specialist in the field of mental testing and child guidance. Her topic will be "Measurement in Education." Tomorrow night Stewart Harral, director of public relations studies at the University of Oklahoma, will speak.

School Week will close Thursday, having completed six sessions. Cobb Dormitory is being used as living quarters by the conference participants.

Nearly 300 people are attending the N. C. School Week program. Another institute in session here this week is the Southeastern Institute Commerical Organization Executives. Topflight speakers include H. McKinley Conway of Atlanta who will speak today on "The Next 10 Years of Progress in the South" and T. Coleman Andrews who talks tomorrow. Andrews is commissioner of internal revenue for the United States. His topic will be "Taxes and Spending at the National Level."

Chamber of Commerces executives also are holding a confab here this week. Lectures are held each morning and open forums every afternoon. The conference will end Saturday.