

Square Dance Slated 8:30 Tomorrow

Bluejeans and straw hats will be in style tonight when Bob Cole and His Country Boys will whoop-it-up at another popular square dance at 8 o'clock in the "Y" Court.

Admission is free and the entire student body is urged to attend.

The square dance is one of many programs planned by the Summer Activities Council. Already the group has held two meetings and their plans are well under way.

Some of the events planned for every week are social dancing Saturday nights in the Rendevous Room in the basement of Graham Memorial and Sunday evening community sings scheduled outside Graham Memorial. The first sing is set for June 25 with Mary Neil White from Radio Station WCHL at the piano.

The first in a series of film programs will be shown Monday at 8 p. m. in the Forest Theatre and will include "The Tar Heel State," "A Visit With Cowboys," "Adventures of Willie Slumb," and "Out of the Heart." These films are designed, it was announced, mainly for families and their children, but other students will be welcomed.

The annual Watermelon Festival will be held on the evening of June 25. A highlight of the affair will be the crowning of the King and Queen of the festival. The royalty will be selected by popular ballot with dormitories, sororities, and fraternities eligible to nominate candidates.

Besides plenty of watermelon—usually all one can eat—there will be bushels of local talent including singers, comedians, dancers, pianists, jugglers, and cloggers. All prospective performers are asked to meet at Roland Parker Lounge 1 and 2 Friday at 4:30 p. m.

If not blessed with talent as a performer, there's a spot open for persons with ability to organize events, the Activities Council announced.

Bridge Meet Opens Monday

Free bridge instruction during both summer sessions, by John Beshara, the Daily Tar Heel bridge columnist and expert, is offered to all students and townspeople from four to six every Tuesday afternoon in the Main Lounge of Graham Memorial.

The class is sponsored by the Summer Activities Council in cooperation with the Graham Memorial Student Union. Anyone interested should sign up at the information desk in Graham Memorial or come to the class to learn or play next Tuesday.

"The bridge class," says Beshara, "is open to anyone who wants to learn or just play. Beginners will be taught the fundamentals of the game, experts can brush up on the fine points, and an introduction to duplicate tournament will be given also. The classes will be divided into groups

SCHOOL WEEK SLATED

N.C. Radio-TV Session Tops Expectations

The fourth annual North Carolina High School Radio-TV Institute which is now in session here is enjoying even a greater success than was anticipated, Prof. Wesley H. Wallace of the UNC Department of Radio, Television, and Motion Pictures said today.

"The highly select group of 17 high school juniors and seniors is receiving capsule form information and practical experience in radio and television writing, acting, directing and production," Prof. Wallace said.

With their daily schedule starting at 7:30 a.m. and ending at 10:15 p.m., the 5 boys and 12 girls keep very busy and appear to be enjoying themselves thoroughly. "The close cooperation and friendliness in this group is particularly noteworthy," commented Prof. Wallace, "since they range geographically from Elizabeth City to west of Charlotte."

Educational Frat Plans Luncheon Tuesday At 12:30

A luncheon sponsored by the local chapter of Phi Delta Kappa educational fraternity will be held in the north dining room of Lenoir Hall at 12:30 p. m. on Tuesday, June 22 for those attending the North Carolina School Week Conference.

Mr. J. H. Horne, a University of North Carolina graduate and principal of Grainger High School in Kinston, N. C. will preside at the luncheon.

Dr. Guy B. Phillips, Dean of the School of Education and director of the summer session, will address the luncheon meeting on the topic "The Schoolmasters' Challenge."

The luncheon, the first to be held in connection with the Annual North Carolina School Week, is open to the entire conference group.

The membership of the state organization of the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity has been invited to attend. The local chapter of the fraternity has about 350 members.

Planetarium Show Features Rare Eclipse Due June 30

The current Morehead Planetarium show, "Earth and Moon Shadows," presents detailed description of the forthcoming sun and moon eclipses and "you don't have to get up early to see them," Director Tony Jenzano quipped yesterday.

Presented each evening at 8:30 with matinees on Saturdays at 11, 3 and 8:30 p.m., and on Sundays at 3, 4 and 8:30 p.m., the performance includes a cast with two heavenly bodies, the sun and moon, playing the lead.

The plot describes the principal details involved in both solar and lunar

Rehearsals Scheduled By Music Department

The music department has scheduled the dates for the rehearsal of the summer chorus, sight-singing courses, and string orchestra.

The summer chorus will be held Thursday, June 19, Monday, June 21, and Thursday, June 24, at 5 p. m. in Hill Hall.

The sight-singing course will meet on the above days in Hill Hall from 4:30 to 5 p. m.

Rehearsal for the string orchestra will be on Tuesday, June 22, at 8 p. m. in Hill Hall auditorium. Invitations will be sent to the members of the orchestra.

eclipses and in particular the coming solar eclipse scheduled to occur on June 30.

"This eclipse," Jenzano said, "will precipitate universal interest and scrutiny because not in this generation has there been an eclipse path of comparable 'land' coverage."

In connection with the eclipse, Jenzano said that a team of scientists from the university has already departed for Canada under the sponsorship of the United States Air Force. The UNC group, headed by Dr. M. S. Davis, university astronomer, is one of 16 teams to be located along the "Eclipse Path."

The Planetarium director added that one of the reasons for the careful calculations which will be made is to determine more exactly the distances between the continents of the earth.

How this measurement is made is briefly but clearly demonstrated in the current show.

Viewed from Chapel Hill, the eclipse of June 30 will only be seen as a partial one when the sun rises. However, the eclipse in its entirety will be shown in the Planetarium rain or shine and "you won't have to get up at sunrise to see it," Jenzano said.

In addition to the sun eclipse, the lunar eclipse of July 15 is being demonstrated.

Some 400 Persons Expected As Meet Opens On Monday

Some 400 persons are expected here this week end for the North Carolina School Week which opens at the University Monday, it was announced yesterday.

The three-day conference of teachers, supervisors, principals, superintendents, and lay persons will end Wednesday.

The first general session will open 3 p.m. Monday in Gerrard Hall with Dr. W. H. Plemmons of the School of Education presiding. A five-member symposium on "Characteristics of Great Teaching" will highlight the afternoon session.

Dr. Carl Brown, School of Education, will preside in Carroll Hall at the 8 p.m. meeting. Addresses will be heard from the Rev. Kenneth Goodson of Winston-Salem and Dr. J. Harris Purks, university provost.

Discussion groups will take over Tuesday morning in Carroll Hall at 9:30 followed by a luncheon at 12:30 in Lenoir Hall, sponsored by the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity. Dean Guy B. Phillips of the School of Education will speak on "The Schoolmaster's Challenge."

At 3 p.m. Tuesday, Dr. Gordon Ellis of the School of Education will preside with talks by Dr. Robert W. Eaves, secretary of the National Association of Elementary School Principals, Washington, D. C., and Dean Virgil Rogers of Syracuse University.

Dr. W. E. Rosentengel of UNC will preside at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Dean Virgil Rogers and Dr. Robert W. Eaves will give addresses.

Discussions groups will be conducted Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. followed at 3 p.m. with an address by Chancellor Carey H. Bostian of State

Orientation Group Seeks Program Help

Students are urgently needed to help in the Orientation Committee Office on the second floor of the "Y" during the summer.

The office is open two afternoons a week, and help is needed in the work in preparation for the Fall Orientation Program. Typists, general office work, and non-typing jobs need to be done, and volunteers are urgently needed.

Office hours are from 2-4 p. m. Tuesday and Thursday and students who are interested in contributing time and effort to the work of the Orientation Committee are asked to leave their names, addresses and free times at the information desk of the YMCA.
