

Dormitory Clubs to Organize Tonight; First Year Men To Be Guests of Upperclassmen

Members of Dormitory Groups Will Gather in Their Social Rooms This Evening at 10:30.

It has been the custom during the last few years to set aside one night in the early part of the fall quarter for the organization of the dormitories and tonight is set for this fall's meeting. Usually the freshmen are entertained with food and speech by the upperclassmen, as a gesture that the student body of the university is interested in making friends as well as in the pursuit of education.

In those dormitories that have social rooms, the members will gather at 10:30 p. m. Other dormitories will have their meetings in the first floor halls or sections. Proper signs or other means of communication will be used by the dormitory presidents to inform the members of the meeting.

At these first meetings the men are encouraged to get acquainted; to elect dormitory officers not already elected; and after the main meetings, the members will retire to their respective floors or sections and elect the councilmen. Two councilmen are elected from each floor or section, and sitting with the dormitory president as chairman, comprise the dormitory council. This council has jurisdiction over the dormitory department, and other affairs peculiar to each dormitory. The student council last year empowered the dormitory councils with complete authority over dormitory disturbances. The powers of the councils will be explained in detail at the dormitory meetings.

Each dormitory is entitled to send two representatives to the meetings of the Carolina dormitory club. This organization deals with the various problems which face the dormitory occupants and legislates concerning them. The object of the club for the past four years has been to make the dormitories better places in which to live and study. Many men have moved out of dormitories because of excessive noise. This condition should not exist. The dormitories should be the best places on the Hill to live. The club is trying to make them so.

All dormitory members are urged to turn out for these first meetings. The new men are especially urged to attend and find out the Carolina method of perfecting self-government in the dormitories.

All Alumni Clubs To Meet October 12

J. Maryon Saunders, executive secretary of the General Alumni Association, announces that all alumni clubs of the university will meet on October 11 instead of October 12, as was previously planned.

One of the main objects of this meeting will be to increase the number of active alumni clubs in this state. There are alumni living in every county of the state, but only about one-third of the counties have active alumni chapters. An effort is being made to have more alumni club meetings during the coming year than have been held in the past.

CHURCHMEN CLOSE MEET YESTERDAY

Many Episcopal Dignitaries Here for Diocesan Conference; Laymen Meet Today.

Exhorting the clergy to duplicate the record of the past year, dignitaries of the Episcopal church Thursday closed the final session of the annual fall forward movement conference of diocese of North Carolina. More than 50 clergy returned Friday to their pulpits throughout the state following the conference.

Opening with early communion at 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning, the clergymen spent the rest of the morning in a combination of addresses and open discussions. Rev. Robert E. Bribben, Winston-Salem, presided during the day.

"The Church's Mission in the Mill Town" was the subject of the first address by Rev. Norman C. Duncan. He discussed the possible activities of the church in the way of recreation and the religious life of the mill worker. Following an open discussion on the question of the mill town, Rev. W. B. Stabler, Worcester, Mass., spoke on the work of the church among students.

Advice on how to tell the missionary story was given to the clergymen by Dr. Louis B. Franklin, national treasurer of the church, New York city. "The missionary should visualize, dramatize, personalize, and vitalize his story," Dr. Franklin said.

Bishop L. F. Kent, head of the Episcopal school at Valle Crucis, entertained the conference with a story of his "Adventures along the Yukon." Bishop Penick was formerly archdeacon of the Yukon.

More than 75 laymen arrived for the first session of the conference for non-clergy. They were entertained Thursday night with a banquet in the parish house of the Chapel of the Cross last night. They are following the same program as the clergy.

CHANGE IN GLEE CLUB ANNOUNCED

New Head of Music Department Announces Plans for Fall.

An entirely new policy for the coming year will be adopted by the glee club, Harold S. Dyer, head of the musical department, said Thursday. "Enough men for more than four clubs have answered the first call of the year, and places on the first club will be awarded after intense competition," he stated.

Decrying the habit of the old men remaining away from practice sessions until immediately before the trips, Mr. Dyer said that all men failing to appear at every practice will be dropped from the group. "Instead of a select group of 30 to go through the year, 65 men will be kept in the club this season and the 30 men to make the trip will not be selected until time for the trip grows near," he said.

Dr. Dyer announced that in spite of the fact that the deadline for glee club tryouts was made yesterday at 4 p. m., there will be another opportunity for men interested in this work to tryout later providing special appointment is made with him. He is particularly anxious to give every person in the university who is interested in music a chance to tryout for the club. He has discovered some wonderful talent in previous tryouts, and he hopes to find more.

Frosh Want Everything from 'English Poets' and Thoughts, To 'Sighology' Book.

(By Milt Wood)

Do you want a "room close to campus heat?" Have you found a "bunch of keys in a 'lether' case?" How about living in a "one one-room cottage" near the campus? Perhaps you have a "sighology" book for sale? Maybe you would like to have some stationery with your name, address and the seal of the university on it "at a lower price than you can buy plain paper?" Would you like to sell that old Latin book, because a pair of young fellows want "A Vergil's Aemeid" very badly?

Step right up then, my cheerie, for the place is the bulletin board of the "Y" store, the time is the present, and the opportunity of a lifetime for bargains or laughs is revealed on that classified column register of "Scotch" student advertisers.

Boy, page Will Rogers or Mark Twain to help out on this discovery of humorous writers and modern spellers.

Professor Beard

At the recent meeting of the American Association of the Colleges of Pharmacy held in South Dakota, Professor J. G. Beard of the university's school of pharmacy was elected president.

Pharmacy School To Require Four Years for Degree

The school of pharmacy announces that in 1932 the three-year course in pharmacy leading to the Ph. G. degree will be changed to a four-year course. This change of policy is dictated by a new ruling of the American association of schools of pharmacy which requires all pharmacy schools claiming membership to institute a four-year course.

Interesting statistics are offered by Professor Beard of the pharmacy department relative to the required change. For the last three years pharmacy students have been voluntarily changing from the three-year Ph. G. course required by the school of pharmacy to the four-year B. S. in pharmacy required of those in the school of applied science. This year 18 of the 81 students registered for pharmacy are voluntarily taking the four-year course.

HEFFNER TALKS ON PLAYMAKERS

Associate Director of University Dramatic Group Speaks At Chapel Exercises.

An interesting discussion of the Carolina Playmakers was morning by Professor Hubert Heffner, the associate director of that organization. Professor Heffner explained the activities of the Playmakers as outlined for the year, and then invited all new men with any dramatic ability to take advantage of the present opportunity of getting into this work.

Professor Heffner gave the program of the Playmakers for this season and made a few comments upon each play to be presented. He also spoke of the tours to be made this year, mentioning cities to be included in them and some of the presentations to be made at each.

Due to the fact that the Playmakers is a large organization, the work is of a large variety, Professor Heffner said. Besides the opening for actors, there is an opportunity for those with ability in such work as scenic construction and painting to become connected with the club. However, as there is a need for a number of actors, Professor Heffner particularly urged that those with any dramatic ability or experience whatever, give consideration to the matter and attend the tryouts. He added, moreover, that those expecting to take part in the work of the Playmakers begin now, in order that they might gain the full benefit of their experiences.

The only prerequisite of work with the Playmakers is a satisfactory scholastic standing. Otherwise, the selection of actors is to be made solely upon merit.

Professor Heffner announced that the tryouts, open to every student interested, would be held Monday at the hours of 4:30 and 7:30 p. m.

At a meeting of the officers of the order of the Grail last Tuesday evening the date of the first dance was set for tomorrow night. Jack Wardlaw has been engaged to play for this occasion.

The Grail has a series of dances running throughout the course of the school year. All students, excepting freshmen, are eligible to attend these dances. However, due to the limited floor space in the gymnasium, only 175 tickets are sold. These will go on sale at 8:15 tomorrow night. The dance will begin at 9.

The officers of the Grail at present are Marion Follin, president; "Red" Green, treasurer; Ed Hamer, secretary, and Mayne Albright, assistant treasurer. The executive committee is composed of Aubrey Parsley, "Red" Green and Marion Follin. Gordon Gray, Buggs Race and Charley Waddell will serve as representatives of the German club.

As all dances at the university are under the jurisdiction of the German club, this committee has the duty of reporting all infraction of rules to the executive committee of the German club.

A large crowd is expected due to the presence of outsiders attending the Carolina-Wake Forest game Saturday afternoon.

Spring Publishing Calendar of Press Is Being Delayed

Entire Board of Governors Must Read Manuscripts before Going To Press.

The spring publishing program of the University of North Carolina press association is being considerably delayed because the manuscript of every book to be published must be read by each member of the board of governors before it can be accepted, according to a statement Mrs. Howard M. Jones of the press association made yesterday. Ten of the 13 members of the board of governors, who are members of the university faculty, are busy planning their work for the year and have not much time to devote to the press.

Four recent books of the press have been greatly honored, according to another statement Mrs. Jones made yesterday, by being selected by the committee on intellectual cooperation of the league of nations, as among the 40 outstanding American books of the years in which they were published.

Each year the committee of the league selects a certain number of books from each country, including 40 from the United States, as the most important books of that year. The Negro and His Songs by Howard W. Odum and Guy B. Johnson of the university institute for research in social science, was chosen among the 40 outstanding books of 1925.

Folk Beliefs of the Southern Negro by Nelson N. Pickett, also of the institute, was chosen in 1926, and America and French Culture by Howard M. Jones, head of the university English department, was among the 40 in 1927.
