

Women's Club Delegates Meeting Here in Annual Autumn Council Session

R. B. House Delivers Welcoming Address; Large Attendance Expected Today.

Entertainment at luncheon and tea and an inspection tour of the campus yesterday occupied delegates from various cities throughout the state to the alumni council meeting of the North Carolina federation of women's clubs. Official opening of the two-day convention was held last night at the Carolina inn.

Following welcoming address by R. B. House, executive secretary of the university, and Mrs. Mary Graves Rees, of the community club, Mrs. N. B. Adams, state president, was introduced to the delegates. Addresses by Mrs. Edward M. Land and W. D. Moss completed the first session.

Earlier in the day the executive board and the board of trustees were tendered a luncheon by Mrs. R. D. W. Connor, chairman of arrangements for the convention. The board of trustees held a meeting following the luncheon.

The district presidents convened at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Carolina inn. Following the executive session the delegates made a tour of the points of interest on the campus.

Only 31 delegates had registered at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon although a much larger number are expected to arrive today.

Y Cabinet Meetings Held Monday Night

The three Y cabinets had their first meetings last night at the Y at 7:15.

In the freshman friendship council, President Alex Webb started the program off by leading the devotion, after which A. A. Perkins introduced the new officers. They included Alex Webb, president; Robert Hubbard, vice president; Alex Biggs, secretary, and Strat Donnell, treasurer. Mr. Perkins then gave a brief outline of the work for the coming year. It was decided to have the meetings from 7:15 to 8 for the benefit of those men who have dates with fraternities. The meeting then closed with sentence prayers.

Rev. C. E. Rozzelle, pastor of the Methodist church, gave a very interesting talk to the sophomore cabinet, in which he said that we should be thankful that we live in a day of such opportunity as today. His talk was very appropriate for the first meeting of the year. The business was postponed until the next meeting.

The junior-senior cabinet had a general discussion of the committees for the year and also some of the duties of these committees. Their program was closed with a short word of prayer.

SOCIOLOGY DEPARTMENT GIVES EXAMINATIONS

H. P. Brinton and Mr. Hamilton of the University of Virginia took their preliminary oral examination for sociology Monday night. The session was conducted by Dr. Odum in his office. It was attended by all the professors in the department of sociology and by those of the department of rural economics.

DIRECTORY WILL APPEAR SHORTLY

Proof Copy Will be Posted in Y and Dormitories for Corrections.

The proofs of the university directory, published by the Y, will be out soon. A copy of this proof will be posted in each dormitory and public place for temporary use until the directories come out. The directories are expected to be out some time within the next two weeks.

All students who change their addresses are asked to call at the Y and have these changes recorded. These changes will be made in the master directory, which will remain in the Y office all during the year. All persons desiring to make use of this directory are invited to do so.

The following students failed to give their addresses when registering, and are requested to call at the Y and do so at once:

ROBERTS IMPROVED

B. W. Roberts, junior, who fainted Monday morning in Professor Frank Graham's history 7 class and was taken to the infirmary to recuperate, had virtually recovered yesterday, although because of the rain and his weakened condition he did not attend classes.

At 10 o'clock Monday evening when Professor Graham called to see Roberts he was studying, Professor Graham told his class yesterday. The youth collapsed Monday just as Professor Graham had finished outlining the required work for the term. The history tutor yesterday assured the other 70 members of his class that Roberts was the first person ever to have fainted in his classes.

Scotland is the only country in the world where the rate of suicide in urban population is less than among the rural.

Wins Art Scholarship

Miss Anna Braune, daughter of Dean G. M. Braune, of the University School of Engineering and Mrs. Braune, has been picked as the best non-professional artist in the state. The distinction carries with it a scholarship that gives her a year of study in the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts and then a year at an art school in Paris.

ODUM COLLABORATES IN NEW BOOK ON SOCIAL RESEARCH

Crawford's Recent Statement in American Mercury Borne out as Commercial Field University Professor's Fifth Book is Issued Under Joint Editorship with Dr. Katherine Jocher.

It was pointed out in a recent article appearing in the American Mercury, reviewed by this paper, that the University of North Carolina Press, among others, was pioneering in a publications field that would soon be cultivated by commercial publishers. The works of Dr. Howard W. Odum, Director of the Institute for Research in Social Science, were presented as examples of the type of books that would have a large commercial value in the near future.

This statement, by N. A. Crawford, was truthfully made, for Dr. Odum, in collaboration with Dr. Katherine Jocher, who is Assistant Director of the Institute, has recently had a fifth book published by a prominent metropolitan company. The volume, "An Introduction to Social Research," deals with important problems concerning the fields, present trends, developments, methodology, and procedure of modern research.

Reaction expressed by numerous contemporaries of the authors indicate that this and other books by the University scientists will have a promising future, in view of the fact that "the social sciences are on the eve of still greater development." Social research, in which Drs. Odum and Jocher are so well informed, is the key to that development. For these reasons their work is a volume to be read by every student, teacher, and director of research in any of the social sciences.

Among the first comments by leading social scientists is an especially significant statement by Wesley C. Mitchell, head of the Department of Economics at Columbia University. He says: "The book will prove widely useful in that it assembles in orderly sequence a great variety of stimulating suggestions on how to work."

William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago, speaking of this timely volume, also declares

Students to Vote Today For Cheer Leader; Eight Candidates for Position

LESLIE WEIL IS HEAD OF COUNCIL

Goldsboro Man and Prominent University Alumnus Chairman of Alumni Fund Administration.

Leslie Weil, prominent Goldsboro merchant, who is chairman of the alumni loyalty fund council of the university, will be directing head of a group of 12 prominent alumni who will assist in raising and administering the alumni loyalty fund, it was announced today by President Harry W. Chase.

Other members of the council who will serve with Mr. Weil are President Chase, Chapel Hill; Dr. L. R. Wilson, Chapel Hill; J. M. Saunders, Chapel Hill; W. T. Shore, Charlotte; A. W. Haywood, New York city; Dr. J. G. Murphy, Wilmington; Dr. Ira W. Rose, Rocky Mount; A. J. Barwick, Raleigh; C. R. Wharton, Greensboro; H. G. Baity, Chapel Hill, and Burton Craige, Winston-Salem.

Mr. Weil was graduated from the university in the class of 1895 and has long been actively interested in the university and alumni affairs. He is a member of the executive committee of the board of trustees, a member of its finance committee, and is a director of the general alumni association. The other members of the council have also been active in the welfare of the university since their graduation.

"It is now the move of the alumni," Mr. Weil said yesterday in a statement accepting the appointment. "Every effort should be made to get the alumni to realize that systematic, consistent income from private sources, in addition to state funds, is necessary if the modern state university is to be adequately financed."

"The alumni loyalty fund, managed by alumni, has set out upon the final step in establishing a financial policy for the university which will take into consideration comprehensive state appropriations as well as enthusiastic private support. The words 'final step' are used because other important steps have already been taken. The state has increased its appropriation in recent years; student fees have been increased; the educational foundations such as Rockefeller and Carnegie have added their considerable gifts, the most recent one being a grant of $100,000 toward the establishment of a school of library administration.

"It is now the move of the alumni."

General Alumni Meeting Nov. 27-28

The annual general alumni assembly was set for November 27 and 28 at a meeting of the alumni board of directors in South building yesterday.

The meeting of the alumni assembly is the time representatives of all local alumni clubs, all alumni classes and other alumni units come together for the annual business meeting of the general alumni association.

Nominations for alumni officers for the ensuing year are made at the assembly.

Farris Urges Students to Vote and Cooperate in Reviving Carolina Spirit Which Has Been so Strong in Past.

POLLS IN Y BUILDING

"ray, ray, rah, rah," yelled the cheerleaders down in Kenan stadium Saturday. "ray, ray, rah rah," whispered the students of the University, and when whispered is mentioned no reference is made to anything quite so loud as a stage whisper. Kike Kyser's ghost awoke and hovered over the field in mental anguish. "Are these Carolina men?" he asked himself, "the men who so spiritedly yelled a few years ago with such lusty lungs as to cause the inhabitants of Durham to wonder at the terrific thunder storm taking place in Chapel Hill?"

"Oh, yes," says Captain Ray Farris, president of the student body, "it's the same crowd; but the spirit of Carolina is sadly lacking in livelihood," or words to that effect in an interview Tuesday morning.

At the regular Chapel period Tuesday morning president Farris introduced to the student body the men who they had nominated for the office of chief cheer leader. The names of those men follow in the order in which they were nominated: Jack Barrett, Soph.; George H. Biggs, fresh.; Howard Henry, Junior; Lloyd Bass, Soph.; Allen Crowson, Fresh.; Paul Carter, Soph.; George Brown, Fresh.; Sam Glaberson, fresh.

All these men have been faithfully working with Peyton Abbott over the apparently dead body of the Carolina spirit for the past week; and it is urged by all concerned that each member of the student body cast his vote at the booth in the Y. M. C. A. building or at the one in Gerard hall.

The campus leaders urge that every student votes today in order that something might be done to get under way some organized plan to revive the fast disappearing thread of life that binds Carolina spirit to this world.

Faculty Orchestra Begins Rehearsals

The university is unique among non-musical colleges in having among its faculty members a complete concert orchestra. This orchestra was formed last year among faculty men who enjoyed playing music together. Despite the fact that some of its members had not played for years the organization made remarkable progress. Those who attended the Playmaker productions will remember the agreeable change from the phonograph music to that of the faculty musicians. The excellent selections accompanying the forest theatre production last spring were enjoyed by all.

The musical tendencies among the faculty are not limited to any one particular branch of learning. The schools of law, medicine, applied science, commerce, education and the academic school being represented by members from the departments of romance languages, mathematics, english, chemistry, bacteriology, economics, law, public welfare and the extension division.
