VETERANS TO GET CALL AGAINST OLD LINERS

Collins Looking to Maryland Encounter Saturday as Stiff Assignment.

The Tar Heel team that will start against the university of Maryland at College Park on Saturday will probably show a straight line of veterans of one or more years of play.

And if the Old Liners pan out as Tar Heel supporters think they will, it's probable Head Coach Chuch Collins will be drawing heavily throughout the game on his supply of 16 veteran lettermen.

The 16 monogram men form a tried and proved nucleus. There are a number of outstanding sophomores in the Tar Heel camp, but naturally they lack the experience of the older heads.

The veteran linemen are Captain Ray Farris, Bud Eskew and Jimmy Hudson, guards; Bill Koenig and Fenton Adkins, tackles, Don Holt and Julian Fenner, ends. All of the number are seniors except Hudson, who is a junior.

Center will be the only post at which the Tar Heels will show no veteran. Ned Lipscomb, a reserve from last year, started the first game and will probably start against the Old Liners. The juniors have a decided edge among the ball-carriers. Pete Wyrick, quarter; Jim Magner, Jimmy Maus, Strud Nash and Chuck Erickson, flashy halfbacks, and Henry House, driving fullback, are all third-year students. The seniors in the Tar Old Injury Giving Blue Devil Heel backfield are Jimmy Ward and Phil Jackson, halfbacks, and Pap Harden, dependable fullback. The Tar Heels made a fine showing in their opening game, running up a 48-0 score against Wake Forest in a game in which the Carolina coaches played 37 men. Tar Heel supporters, however regard Maryland's showing against Washington college as equally impressive and are viewing the Maryland engagement as one of the stiffest the Tar Heels will face.

State College Stock Slumps as Opening Game with Generals Nears.

When the Wolfpack from State College receives Washington and Lee on Friday, Captain Johnny Lepo may be very conspicuous in his absence. For the past several days now the Tech captain has been laid up with stomach trouble and the State trainers are skeptical as to whether he will be in shape to lead his teammates in repulsing the Virgnians in their first game of the 1929 schedule.
