

Autumn Council Meeting Of Women's Clubs Ended

Thirty-six Club Women Finish
Two-Day Session Wednesday.

Reports by the department chairmen and the standing committees yesterday morning concluded the two-day session of the Autumn council meeting of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs. An outline of the plans for the coming year were laid before the delegates in the committee reports.

A total of thirty-six club leaders composed of district chairmen, members of the board of trustees, officers of the federation and department chairmen, entrained last night for their homes.

A luncheon tendered the delegates by the Rotary Club of Chapel Hill yesterday officially closed the convention. Rev. C. E. Rozzelle presided at the luncheon.

Prospects for the coming year were reported to be very bright by Mrs. Edward M. Land, president of the confederation, following the convention. She expressed satisfaction with the reception given the delegates by the women of Chapel Hill.

The delegates spent Tuesday in a tour of the campus sponsored by the hospitality committee. Following the inspection trip the visitors were entertained at tea.

The official opening of the conference was held at the Carolina Inn Tuesday night. R. B. House, executive secretary of the university, and Mrs. Mary Graves Rees, of the Community Club, welcomed the delegates to Chapel Hill. Addresses by Mrs. Edward M. Land, president, and Mrs. W. D. Moss ended the opening meeting.

A reception through the courtesy of the university extension division, concluded the activities for the first day.

FIRE CHIEF WARNS OF FIRE DANGERS

"Even though a fireman's life is no bed of roses," said J. L. Foister, chief of the Chapel Hill Fire department, last night, "the force here has had an easy time these last four weeks. There has not been an alarm since about the first of the month."

"But," the chief continued, "we are expecting trouble as soon as the weather turns cooler. People will begin to fire their furnaces, and very few of them will take the precaution to see if the flues in their houses are in good shape. I guess that fully fifty percent of our alarms at this time of the year are sent in for small attic and roof blazes caused by defective flues."

"And right now I want to ask the people of Chapel Hill, and especially the house managers of fraternities, to have the chimney and flues in the houses examined before they build the first fires this fall. Such precaution will save a good bit of trouble and money for the house owners and the town."

"Also," said Chief Foister, "false alarms cost the town money. Every time we take the fire truck out on a run it costs the town at least twenty-five dollars. Be sure there is a fire and then call the station immediately."

England's summer this year was the sunniest in 18 years.

DEBATING SQUAD MEETS TONIGHT

Williams Will Speak to Forensic
Candidates; Definite Information
Regarding Carolina-N.
C. C. W. Debate Expected.

The second meeting of the debate squad will take place tonight at 7:30 in 201 Murphey hall. Dr. Horace Williams, professor of philosophy and founder of intercollegiate debating at the university, will speak.

Officials of the council expect to be able to release definite information regarding the proposed Carolina-N.C.C.W. debate at the meeting tonight.

Although the present squad enrollment is fifty-nine, all students of the University who are interested in debating are urged by the president of the council to be present at the meeting tonight and to join the squad. All intercollegiate debaters are picked from this group.

The address of Dr. Williams tonight will constitute a study of the fundamentals of debating.

WILLIAM CAIN CHAPTER REORGANIZES TONIGHT

The first meeting of the year of the William Cain student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in room 319, Phillips hall.

Dean G. M. Braune, dean of the school of engineering and active member in society activities, will make a short talk on the A.S.C.E. and its student chapters.

This meeting is to be in the nature of an organization meeting, and all men who are taking civil engineering are urged to be present, and a special invitation is extended to all freshmen and sophomores to attend by the society.

STUDENTS ESCAPE INJURY IN CRASH

Presence of Mind Saves Six
Students When Elevator
Falls.

(By B. H. Whitton)

"Two dead in elevator crash" is probably the briefest way to sum up the catastrophe that occurred in Manning hall yesterday morning about ten o'clock.

During the first-year anatomy class which meets in the dissecting room on the third floor of the med building it became necessary for several students to go to the basement of the building. They got in the manually-operated elevator and attempted to make the descent, but soon after they had started down, a rope broke, and the cage fell to the bottom of the shaft.

One of the six survivors of the deadly crash graphically described the fall saying that as soon as the elevator began to drop every one in it pushed toward the front to be ready to jump for safety when the cage passed the second floor. However, this means of exit from the death trap was securely barred, for the second-floor door was closed just at this time.

In describing the remainder of the descent, the man interviewed said: "The sensation was that of one who is in an airplane which is falling into a loop."

The men in the elevator car realizing that something had to be done, kept their presence of mind enough to grab onto the cables which run up the side of the shaft and so prevented a much more rapid fall. It is probably this which accounts for the fact that there were only two dead in the crash.

The survivor from whom the description was obtained stated that during the time while they were trying to hold the cables, the skin was burned from his hands by the friction, and that the hands of the others who were in the car looked just as if they had been scraped.

When asked what he was thinking about as the car approached the bottom of the shaft, one of the survivors replied: "I was thinking about getting out, holding the cable seemed to have lost its appeal, and everyone was pushing for the side toward the platform, which serves as a step to be used in getting on the elevator in the basement."

The crash of the elevator at the bottom of the pit, which is not equipped with springs to prevent a direct blow against the bottom, was heard over the en-

First Performance October 20;
To Entertain Southern Conference on Education.

The series of vesper concerts inaugurated several weeks ago, which became very popular, are to be continued again this year according to a statement by Dr. Dyer, head of the music department.

The concerts were usually given on the first Sunday of each month at 4 o'clock. Members of the music faculty, student organizations and visiting artists have given these concerts in the past. An unusually fine support was accorded these events, and it is felt for that reason they should be continued.

Series XI begins this month, with the first concert being held not on the first Sunday of the month, but on October 20 instead. This change in date is felt necessary, due to the fact that the university will be a host for the southern conference on education on October 19, 20, 21 and 22. As a part of this program, the university school of music will provide a vesper in Memorial hall for the visiting educators, citizens and students.

The program will be given by Professor T. Smith McCorkle, violinist, with Mrs. McCorkle at the piano, Professor Nelson O. Kennedy, pianist, and the university glee club. Professors McCorkle and Kennedy will each perform a group of numbers, following which the glee club will sing a group of numbers which will be used on their fall tour.

YOUNG METHODISTS TO HOLD INITIATION HIKE

On Friday evening the young people of the Methodist church will hold their annual "Initiation Hike." At seven o'clock they will gather in the church parlors and then will take a short hike to a camp fire for a feast of "hot dogs." There will be a painless initiation ceremony for new members of the Epworth League and student Bible classes.

Library Making Campaign to Prevent Mutilation of Books

A campaign to decrease the marking and mutilation of library books by students and faculty members was instituted Wednesday by officials of the library and the English department.

The defacing of many of the standard books in literary history with underlinings, checkmarks, and the like, was the object of the concerted effort by the university officials to save many of the valuable volumes in the library.

A request read to the English students Wednesday asked that:

1. Under no circumstances should a library book be underlined or checked in ink.

2. The practice of underlining in pencil is equally bad.

3. A light pencil check on the margin, which it is the responsibility of the reader to erase, is usually the utmost limit to which a reader should go.

"The loss to the library and the department because of the depreciation of books is great and increasing. Please help in every way you can to lessen the evil."

The campaign was instituted, library officials said, because the practice of marking books had extended to rare books, first editions and expensive sets.

STUDENTS URGED TO HAVE PHOTOS TAKEN AT ONCE

All Pictures for Yackety Yack
Must Be Made By December
10; No Extension Granted.

The iron-clad, hard and fast rule that all Yackety Yack pictures must be made by December 10 featured the opening yesterday of the annual fall quarter drive for pictures for the yearbook.

Booths have been established at Patterson's Drug Store and at the Students' Supply Store. Appointments are to be made between 1 and 3 o'clock afternoons and 5:30 and 7:30 o'clock evenings. Wootten-Moulten, the Yackety Yack photographers, will be in town regularly after October 9, and the work will be rushed ahead as fast as possible.

Business Manager B. Moore Parker has especially urged that all students comply with the requests of the Yackety Yack and have their pictures made early.

A 25c cut in the portion of the $5 student fee allotted to the Yackety Yack resulted from the extension of the Tar Heel to a daily. This necessitates strict economy. According to the terms of the contract, all pictures must be taken by December 10. Otherwise the printing and engraving bill would be increased roughly by $1,000, and the increase couldn't be handled without seriously impairing the quality of the yearbook.

As a result, Manager Parker explained, it has been found necessary to apply a strict closure rule at December 10. All pictures must be in at that time. The junior and senior pictures are being rushed from the start, and fraternity pictures may be made at any time.

Junior space, it was explained, is paid in one lump sum with fall tuition. Senior space is paid in two installments with fall and winter quarter tuition. The only charge when the picture is taken is a fee of $1.50 which is paid to the photographer.

Radio Presented Music Department

The Majestic Radio company has presented one of its best machines, the super-combination radio and Victrola, to the music department of the university for the use of the students in the music appreciation course.

The machine will be placed in the appreciation room in Person hall until the completion of the department's new quarters in the old library building. The Majestic company timed its gift, which it is making to a number of the outstanding universities, in order that the students may get the benefit of Walter Damosch's annual series of lectures. These lectures given by the country's most eminent conductor, will be tuned in on every morning at 11 o'clock beginning October 11.

However, the machine will not be for use of the music appreciation students alone. At two o'clock every day any student is welcome to go to number 10, Person, and listen to it.

Mr. D. C. Stephanson, representative of the company, in presenting the machine, stated that it is a policy of the company to make such gifts, and that it asks nothing in return.

Williams Appoints Senate Committees

The Dialectic senate held its second meeting Tuesday night at 7:15 in the Di hall, New West building.

After having called the meeting to order President Williams appointed the following standing committees: constitution committee—Senator Dungan (chairman), Senator Rector and Senator Studdert; ways and means committee—Senator McPherson (chairman), Senator J. S. Williams and Senator Kincaid; finance committee—Senator Patterson (chairman), Senator Hunter and Senator Fred Wardlaw.

The senate then proceeded to the initiation of new members. The following men were taken in: George Vick, Jr., Selma; G. H. Hine, Winston-Salem; G. W. Wilson, Jr., Gastonia; W. A. Starbuck, Winston-Salem; R. W. Lamm, Wilson; M. P. Moore, Asheville, and W. W. McKee, Chapel Hill.

Tickets on Sale

Dean Addison Hibbard of the school of liberal arts announces that season tickets for the student entertainment attractions are still on sale at the business office in the administration building at $3.00 each. The entertainment committee finds that single admissions to all the performances would amount to $11.00, a saving of $8.00 thereby being saved if the season tickets are bought. Contracts amounting to $5,800 have been let for performances during the coming college year.
