

Heels Work in Open Air as Maryland Game Draws Near

Three Teams Take Part in Scrimmage on First Fair Day; Leave Tonight.

The rain let up here yesterday and the Tar Heels held their first outdoor practice of the week in preparation for the Maryland game Saturday.

The field was still pretty damp and the coaches let the men off with line scrimmage and periods of defense against Maryland plays run by the freshman grid-ders.

Three full elevens took part in the day's activities. Johnny Branch ran one backfield with Jimmy Ward and Strud Nash at the halves and Yank Spaulding at fullback.

A second backfield included Pete Wyrick, quarter; Jim Magner and Rip Slusser, halfbacks, and Pap Harden, fullback.

The Tar Heels will throw their full strength into the Maryland game.

The regular varsity line of Holt and Fenner, ends; Koenig and Adkins, tackles; Captain Farris and Eskew, guards, and Lipscomb, center, was running intact except for Holt, who took another rest on account of his cold.

Jimmy Maus, who broke a nose in scrimmage last week, was running at half again today, behind a big noseguard. Holt should be in shape by game time Saturday. Henry House, plunging fullback, hurt his leg in today's work, but the injury is not expected to keep him out.

Coach Byrd Reviews North Carolina Team

College Park, Md., Oct. 1.—University of North Carolina's football team, with one possible exception, is the best ever produced in the South Atlantic section that includes Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia and the two Carolinas, in the opinion of H. C. (Curley) Byrd, the Old Line mentor, who saw the Tar Heels treat Wake Forest so ruthlessly in Chapel Hill last Saturday.

It is a team that has everything, in his estimation, and is particularly blessed with two great sets of backs. In fact, he says that the Tar Heels have eight backs any one of whom is better than Maryland's premier ball-toter.

Byrd will drive his senior eleven and his Sophomore reserves hard this week to strive to stem the North Carolina onrush here Saturday but he sees it as one of the biggest tasks the Old Liners have ever faced, Yale or any other teams not excepted.

the organizations represented by the first fifteen men to finish will receive points as follows: first, 15 points; second, 14 points; etc. — fifteenth 1 point.

(d) In track meets the organizations represented by the first four men in each event shall receive 5, 3, 2, and 1 point respectively.

No more entries for the tag football leagues will be accepted after Thursday night. Organizations that have not filed their entry should do so at once.

FROSH RUNNERS BEGIN TRAINING

Cross-Country Team Candidates Show Exceptional Ability.

The freshman cross country team began work last week with a large number of candidates reporting. Among the most promising of the aspirants are Clarence Jensen of East Orange, N. J., Mark Jones of Asheville and Nat Lumpkin of Charlotte. Jensen was a member of the cross country and track teams of Newark prep school last year, and besides finishing well toward the first in the cross country meets has to his credit the time of 4:33 in the mile. Jones ran the mile for Asheville last year and won this event in the state high school meet. Lumpkin ran the mile for Charlotte high school last year and placed in every meet.

Others who are showing up well in practice are Bonner, Boyd, Howley, London and Watkins.

Coach Ranson wishes to remind the candidates that rainy weather does not excuse them from attending practice, and that they should report to the stadium every afternoon at 4 o'clock for instructions.

Notice

Professor McIntosh, of the School of Education, asks that all students interested in high school coaching meet in room 6 of Peabody Building this morning at 10:30.
