Sophomore Orders Begin Initiation Of New Men

"Sheiks," "Bulls," and "13" Clubs Have Neophytes Parading Campus; 37 Men Chosen.

With the opening last night of the initiation period for 14 members of the order of the Sheiks, the last of the three sophomore orders begin an extended program of initiation. Thirty-seven sophomores, initiates of the Minotaurs, the Sheiks, and the "13" club, will enliven the campus with their odd dress and clowning acts.

Selections for the sophomore orders are made from the ranks of fraternity members. No sophomore is allowed membership in both the Sheiks or the Minotaurs, while the "13" club is a national group, selecting sophomores from the thirteen leading fraternities on the campus.

First bids were extended Thursday night to initiates of the "13" club. The 13 chosen for membership are required to carry with them a chain of 12 links. The missing link, the 13th, is the incoming member. On requisition by a member of the order, the new man is required to explain the missing link theory wherever he may be.

Last Friday night the Minotaurs began the initiation of 10 new men. A straw hat, worn with years of disuse, and adorned with a bright red band, is the main feature of the dress of the initiates of this group. A green "mock orange," and a red bow tie complete the garb.

The period of initiation for the Sheiks and the Minotaurs will end with a football game between the initiates during the half of either the Georgia or the V. P. I. games. The antics of this group of grid skin artists are expected to entertain the large crowd attending the varsity game.

Following is a list of initiates: "13" club—Billy Draper, Sidney Lea, Joe Carpenter, Ted McLaughlin, Tom Shelton, Charles Rollins, Ed Graham, John Branch, Branch Carr, Byron Grier and Warren Thompson; Minotaurs — Mandy Webb, Thomas Alexander, Bill Bridgers, Jenks Hutchinson, "Stick" Skinner, John Parks, Tom Follin, Billy Myers, George Waterhouse and Lynn Wilder; Sheiks — W. S. Satterfield, Jr., Henry Anderson, Fred Jones, Hubert O'Donnell, Marion Glenn, Reed Perkins, Peter Gilchrist, Holmes Davis, Edward Yarborough, Tom Parsons, Frank A. Cole, Worth McAllister, Harry Finch and George Jones.

RUSSELL ARRIVES IN UNITED STATES

Stating that the American educational system is not designed to make people know the truth as it is tainted with propaganda and money of "Big Business" . . . its obvious purpose being to turn out men and women with brains as standardized as so many gum vending machines, Bertrand Russell arrived last week in America to begin another of his renowned lecture tours.

Russell, a direct descendant of the famous English reformer of the 19th century, Lord John Russell, famed for his abilities as a philosopher, economist, mathematician, radical and pacifist, is scheduled to speak here December 3.

Juniors' and Seniors' Pictures to be Made

The Business Manager of the Yekety Yack requests that all members of the Junior and Senior classes have their pictures taken as soon as possible.

Students to Choose Cheerleader Today

Tomorrow the final balloting for cheerleader will take place. The position of cheerleader is one of the most outstanding honors on the campus.

Howard Henry, assistant cheerleader last year, class of '31, and Jack Barrett, class of '32, are running. Both of these boys possess unusual qualities and either of the two would make excellent cheerleaders for the University.

The polls will be open all day. Voting booths will be in front of Gerrard hall and the Y building.

Out of a total of 615 votes cast at the last election, Barrett led with 170 votes and Henry followed with 151.

ALUMNUS TO HEAD BAR ASSOCIATION

Kenneth C. Royall, '14, Goldsboro, succeeds the late T. L. Caudle of Wadesboro as president of the North Carolina Bar association. His elevation was announced following a meeting in Raleigh of the executive committee of the association. Mr. Royall is one of the youngest men to hold this office.

Following his graduation at the University, where he made an enviable record as a student and activities man, Mr. Royall attended the Harvard law school for three years and was granted the LL.B. degree. At Harvard he was one of the outstanding scholars of his class.

Psychology Frat Meets Wednesday

There will be a meeting of the psychological fraternity, Alpha Psi Delta, Wednesday evening in New West. Russell Talks Here

The young people of the University who attended the singing service in the social rooms of the Presbyterian church last Sunday night at 8:30 had the rare pleasure of meeting and listening to Charles Phillips Russell, alumnus of the University and a noted author.

Mr. Russell gave the gathering a very interesting informal talk. His main point was on the necessity for the University to strive for quality rather than quantity in the student body. According to Mr. Russell, quantity is no criterion for greatness and sometimes quantity may mar the excellency of quality.

Chase Delivers Talk On Honor System To Freshmen In Chapel

President of University Explains Merits and Advantages Of Honor Code.

Yesterday morning President H. W. Chase delivered an address in chapel on the honor system at the University. He pointed out the ideals that are embodied in the system in operation here, and explained how the system works.

As an example he used the case of a man taking money from a cash drawer in a bank. He said that that practice is termed theft; such is the case in the University when a man uses another's knowledge for his own benefit. Every one here is left with his own particular personality. If he chooses to work honestly, all is well; but in case a man elects to borrow work he is termed a dishonest person; which automatically bars him from the University.

Sophs Get Only Six Cuts

Through some misrepresentation a part of the sophomores have the impression that ten cuts will be allowed this quarter. The dean of students wishes to announce that only six cuts will be permitted to sophomores.

University Professor Points Out Some Dangers of Modern Study.

A vitally interesting study of American scholarship is presented by Professor Norman Foerster, member of the faculty and a noted authority on American literature, in his latest book, "The American Scholar," which has just been released by the University of North Carolina press.

In this volume Professor Foerster faces frankly the question of whether our literary scholars have lost sight of their proper objects of study through an all but complete surrender to the mechanical tendencies of the age, and the sensational and commercial spirit of America.

According to the author, this is the dark age of American scholarship. He points out that we are not only fulfilling the prophecy of Renan that the study of literature would be replaced by the study of literary history, but that we are transforming our allegiance from the republic of letters to general history, sociology and psychology.

This transference of allegiance, Professor Foerster argues, is evidence that our scholars suspect their own superficiality, which they are trying to overcome by moving farther and farther from the true center of literary study.

The book contains a sharp, yet moderate, criticism of the types of the modern professor and their system of training the scholars for the future. But it is by no means merely critical. The volume presents a plan of education calculated to attract instead of repelling promising students.

Among scholars Professor Foerster is regarded as one of the country's most distinguished authorities on American literature. He is the author of a number of books and magazine articles dealing with that subject. His most recent books are "American Criticism," recognized in the League of Nations list of 1928, and "The Reinterpretation of American Literature," which he edited for the American Literature group of the Modern Language association.

The University press has scheduled nine other books for release this fall and winter.

U. S. Marine Band to Play Here Nov. 14

The campus will soon be flooded with numerous placards advertising the United States marine band which will be here November 14.

This band, sometimes known as the president's band, is composed of 50 pieces. It is one of the oldest bands in the country, having been in continuous operation for more than 135 years.

Plans are still being made for having the evening program in Kenan stadium, provided the weather permits.

Frosh Get Chapel Seats

G. P. Carr requests that all freshmen who fail to attend chapel and who do not have a regular chapel seat call by the office of the dean of students, 205 South building, from 2 to 3 o'clock and clear up the misunderstanding.

BAND WILL TAKE 62 MEN TO GAME

Uniforms To Be Issued for Tech-Carolina Game Tuesday; Begins Routine for Coming Year.

The University band has gotten under way on its routine for the coming year. The membership numbers 80 men, but only about 30 of these men have been with the band before. Although the losses were heavy among the old men, the new material is better than usual due to the growth of music work in the high schools throughout the state. The fact that the band is making a real growth is shown in the relative time required to advance through certain stages of music. During the past four years the band has worked under the following schedule: the first year through January was taken up with march music, then changes were made to easy concert music; the second year through the fall quarter shifted back to march music, and then to more difficult concert music for the second quarter; the third year began preparation of a very difficult concert program in November; this year work has already begun on concert music.

The band will make the trip to Atlanta for the Georgia Tech-Carolina game, and will possibly play for the Georgia-Yale game in Athens on the next day. For this trip the band will have the recently acquired uniforms, which were recently donated by the University athletic association. Last year the band put on a campaign to raise funds to purchase uniforms but only a small sum was obtained. This fall the athletic association agreed to purchase the uniforms, with this original fund to be maintained for repairs and replacements. Blazers of blue, trimmed and monogrammed in white, with white duck trousers will constitute the uniform for the men; with a complete uniform for the director and for the drum major. The band will maintain the tradition that has existed since its organization of the men going without hats on parade. Investigation of other schools led to the decision to buy this informal type of uniform rather than something of a military order. This is the custom among the larger universities who do not have military training and R. O. T. C. bands. The uniforms are expected to arrive Tuesday and will be issued for the Atlanta trip.

The officers of the band are as follows: T. S. McCorkle, director; J. H. Brunjes, president; J. W. Clinard, secretary; Paul Patten, manager; C. H. White, Jr., assistant director, and E. L. White, drum major.

Both the men were too aged and infirm to be given chain gang sentences.

Early Oldham, negro, was fined $15 and costs for having intoxicating liquor in his possession.
