

Tar Heels Begin Work For Biggest Game On Schedule

Victory Over Maryland Spurs Heels on in Preparation for "Golden Tornado" Friday.

With two games gone and 91 points scored, North Carolina's flashy football team was back from Maryland today to begin priming and driving for a bigger feather to adorn the Tar Heel cap—the feather of a victory over Georgia Tech's national champions in Atlanta Friday.

Youth and ambition are synonymous, it seems. A successful connection of the Tar Heel wagon with the star of a victory over Tech would bring a magnitude of glory. The Tar Heels were beginning an intensive drive today for just that purpose—"Lick Tech."

The sports writers and coaches are conceding this to be Tar Heel year, if there ever was a Tar Heel year. Ed Danforth, of the Atlanta Constitution, rates the Tar Heels a fine chance. Curley Byrd, whose Maryland eleven the Tar Heels topped 43-0 Saturday, goes farther and tells the grid world these Tar Heels have the hottest outfit he has seen below the Mason and Dixon.

The home state fans are up in arms, and, from the advance train ticket sales, are threatening a Georgia invasion by the thousand this week. The prevailing opinion is that a great fight is in store regardless.

Against the great Thomason and Mizell the Tar Heels will present a crew of 12 fine backs. The Tar Heels are conceded to have the best crew of ball-toters in the Southland. There should be plenty of fireworks when the two backfields meet in scoring combat.

Jimmy Ward and Strud Nash, Coach Collins' starting choice for the halfback posts in the first two games, form a great combination. Ward skirts the ends and is dangerous at passing. This year he has been doing some of the kicking for the Heels. Nash did a great deal of the heavy plunging of the Heels against the Old Liners Saturday. He is also one of the best pass receivers on the squad.

Johnny Branch and Jim Magner brought the stands up with sensational runs against the Terrapins. "Yank" Spaulding seems to have hit his stride and turned in one of his best performances Saturday.

All these and others just as good are priming for Tech. Henry House, the Tar Heels' hardest driving fullback, was held in reserve Saturday. Chuck Erickson and Phil Jackson, spectacular broken field artists; Jimmy Maus, who heaves the bullet passes; Quarterback Wyrick and Fullback Harden will be ready. Nine of these men are lettermen.

Tar Heel supporters say the great Tech line can't stop these men. Tech may score too, they say, but so will North Carolina, and the question is "how much?"

CAVALIERS WILL MEET SWATHMORE SATURDAY

University, Va., Oct. 7.—(Special)—Swathmore College will come to Lambeth field next Saturday to play the University of Virginia. It will be the first game with the Quakers since 1914 when one of the greatest Cavalier teams won a 47 to 0 victory in Philadelphia.

This Swathmore game will be Virginia's only contest this fall against a team from the north. Two Old Dominion elevens will be trying their strength against Pennsylvania teams the same day, for Virginia Polytechnic Institute goes to Franklin Field against the U. of Penn next Saturday.

After playing Swathmore the Cavaliers enter upon their first round with a state rival. Virginia Military Institute will be entertained on Lambeth field the afternoon of October 19.

RUTHERFORDTON HOLDS SESQUI CELEBRATION

Rutherford County observed its sesqui-centennial in August with an all-day celebration in which alumni of the University figured prominently. R. E. Price, '18, served as chairman of the local committee in charge of the arrangements and much publicity and the many congratulations given the occasion attest the excellence of his job. Among the speakers of the day were Josephus Daniels, '86, and Dr. A. R. Newsome, '15, secretary of the North Carolina Historical Commission.

The town of Rutherfordton put on its holiday attire for the celebration, and the display of flags and banners made a fitting background for the beautiful and historical floats of the parade.

After their 43 to 0 victory over the Old Liners Saturday the Heels began work yesterday in preparation for what should be the crucial battle of the year, for the success of the season hinges greatly on the Tech game. The squad is in good physical shape with the return of Henry House and Ty Reid who have been out because of injuries. Coach Collins is working steadily with his men and from present indications the Heels should give last year's national champions lots of trouble before the fray is over.

The Heels were the only members of the Big Three in North Carolina to come out of Saturday's games with a victory. Incidentally all three teams battled foes from other states, and in each case the games resulted in runaway scores. Carolina scored over the Old Liners almost at will. Duke could do nothing to stop the powerful attack of the University of Pittsburgh. State college, with the lightest team that has represented the Raleigh institution in years, put up a great fight against a heavier Washington Washington and Lee team but went down to defeat by a large score.

The coming week-end will see the Tar Heels invade Atlanta to meet Georgia Tech. Duke's Blue Devils remain idle in preparation for their game with the Navy at Annapolis on October 19. N. C. State goes south to battle Clemson at Florence. Wake Forest meets Elon in a game which should result in an easy victory for the Deacons. Davidson's wildcats will battle the strongest team on their schedule when they tackle the Army eleven at West Point on Saturday. Only one of the Big Five teams will remain in the state to play this week-end and this game will not be of major interest since the Demon Deacons meet Elon, a team which should not give them much trouble.

With the football front shifted southward this week and the biggest thrills reserved for those who journey to Atlanta to see the Heels play Tech and Yale battle the Georgia Bulldogs, the eyes of many sports followers will be turned on the world series which opens in Chicago this afternoon. The Cubs and Athletics from a study of statistics are about as evenly matched as possible. Taking each team and comparing their position by position very little advantage can be ascribed to either in any one of the nine places. Both clubs are probably more offensive than defensive machines since each boasts a list of sluggers which have been chiefly responsible in bringing them out in front in their respective leagues. The Athletics finished the season with the higher percentage of games won and lost having a .693 standing as compared to .645 for the Cubs. However the outcome of the series could hardly be predicted from such figures and it is the opinion of the Tar Heel that each club has about an equal chance to become the Champions of the World.

CHARLIE ROOT TO PITCH TODAY

Cubs' Star Righthander Will Toss in First Game of World's Series.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Manager Joe McCarthy of the Cubs today said he planned to send Charlie Root, his star righthander, against the Athletics in the first game of the world series tomorrow, reserving Perse "Pat" Malone for the second game Wednesday.

Lefty Grove is expected to toss for the Mackmen.

CHAPEL HILL HIGHS WIN OPENING GAME OF YEAR

With strong line out front and a pony backfield running wild behind, the Chapel Hill high school griders celebrated the opening of their season here Friday by downing Asheboro highs, 25-6.

Captain Durham's 80-yard touchdown sprint after intercepting an Asheboro pass and the broken field running of Dick Dashiell featured. Both men bagged a touchdown apiece while Odell King, fullback, drove two across.
