

Di Society Plans Dance This Quarter

The meeting of the Dialectic Senate Tuesday night in New West building was largely a business session. The Senate voted to lend the library several portraits which at present are stored in one of the society's rooms.

President Williams appointed the dance committee, which will make all arrangements for holding the annual Di Senate dance the latter part of the present quarter. The personnel of the committee includes Senators McPherson, Patterson, Wilson, and Hamer. The committee was instructed to make a report of its plans for the dance at the next meeting of the society.

The next initiation meeting will take place on the night of October 22 in the Di hall. This will be the last opportunity to join the Senate this quarter. Candidates who report for membership before that time, however, will be given the privileges of members and be taken in at the regular time.

After having discharged all matters of business, the Senate proceeded to discuss: "Resolved, That the University of North Carolina should grant free tuition to all students who are residents of the state." Although Senator Simpson defended his resolution ably, it was defeated by an unanimous vote of the Senate.

Davidson Names Men For Rhodes Honors

Davidson, Oct. 9.—(Special).—College students or alumni, representing five different states, have been selected by the faculty's executive committee of this institution to represent the college as candidates for the Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford, England. These men will go to their respective states on October 19th for appearance before committees which will determine the winner of each state.

Competition among students or alumni who were candidates from North Carolina was keenest. Eleven men, five of them seniors and six of them alumni, presented their names as candidates to the executive committee. Of this number, three alumni were selected: T. E. Lothery, Jr., of Davidson, who has been an instructor in the department of physics here for a year; Riggs McConnell, of Davidson, now coaching and teaching at Woodberry Forest, in Virginia, and J. A. Thompson, who is now studying on his Ph. D. degree at the University of North Carolina. Mr. Thompson did graduate work at the University for a year after graduation and for two years was assistant professor at Wake Forest college.

INVESTIGATE ORIGIN OF TERM 'TAR HEEL'

(From News and Observer Bureau) Washington, Oct. 9.—Senator Overman has had the Library of Congress investigate the origin of the term "Tar Heel" as a synonym for North Carolinians. He is informed that the Oxford English dictionary says "it is a nickname for a native or inhabitant of North Carolina, in allusion to tar as a principal product of that State."

The Library of Congress expert also gives his approval to a quotation from John S. Farmer's "Americanisms," published in London in 1885, stating that it was a name given in derision by Mississippians to a brigade of North Carolinians, who in one of the great battles of the Civil War, failed to hold their position on a certain hill.

The Mississippians taunted the North Carolinians with having forgotten to tar their heels that morning, and hence the cant name.

Raleigh, Oct. 9.—(Special).—Alumni of the University of North Carolina who live in Wake county will observe their alma mater's 136th birthday with a banquet at the Carolina hotel, Friday night at 6 o'clock, according to Dr. A. S. Root, president of the University alumni club of Wake county.

DUKE TO SELECT FOUR RHODES CANDIDATES

Durham, Oct. 9.—(Special).—Four candidates for the Rhodes scholarship will be selected from among Duke university students on October 11, according to Prof. F. K. Mitchell, of the committee in charge of the selection. The students selected will appear before a North Carolina committee on December 7, among representatives of other institutions, for examination. FRESH SUPPORT GIVEN VIRGINIA SPECTATOR

University, Va., Oct. 9.—(Special).—Twenty-four applicants for positions on the "Spectator" board of the University of Virginia were present at the staff meeting Monday afternoon and will assist eight old members of the staff in a campaign which is expected to reach every man in the University during the coming week, according to Howard B. Bloomer, editor-in-chief. "If, after every person at the University has had a chance to subscribe, we can't make up seven hundred subscriptions," said a staff member, "it will be definitely settled that the University of Virginia cannot or will not support any magazine of serious purpose." Those in charge, however, think the campaign will be successful if conducted with sufficient enthusiasm. Said Bloomer: "We ought to get them."

Dormitory Club Elects Officers

leave one's room, so that one might study. Not this today. Dormitory presidents, councils, and managers guard the welfare of the dormitory members on every hand. Even itinerant agents have been "shoo-ed" away, and a dormitory office holds mercantile sway in each dormitory. In fact, with the civilization of some of the more exuberant of the younger generation, the dormitories would be the quietest and best rooming places on the campus. The dormitory club deserves considerable honor and recognition for planning and perfecting several of these reforms.

B. C. Wilson, president of Old East dormitory, was elected as president of the club. J. G. Pleasant, Mangum, was elected vice-president. J. S. Weathers, Ruffin, was elected treasurer. Short talks were made by Bob Zealy, as chairman of the grounds beautiful committee, and Jimmy Williams, as secretary of the club. Williams is connected with the dean of students' office and has been secretary of the club for three years.

Previewers Praise Show "Noah's Ark"

"The scenic effects were the most marvelous I ever saw, and for teaching a lesson, the picture is unsurpassed." This was the comment of the Reverend C. E. Rozzelle of the Methodist church on "Noah's Ark," the picture being shown at the Carolina today.

Before being shown to the public this week, "Noah's Ark" was presented at a special preview for University officials, the clergymen of Chapel Hill, and the press of the town. The picture was rushed from Atlanta by Manager E. Carrington Smith in order to be here in time for the special showing before the regular opening.

The picture brings the ancient Bible story up to date, and shows the application of the theme to a modern man and woman who are caught up and embroiled in the World war. In addition, therefore, to the famous stupendous Biblical scenes, there are pictures of the war and of the mobilization in Paris.

The sets used for the picture are the largest and most costly ever built. For the flood scenes, the climax of the photoplay, tons of water were employed. A number of the thousands of people taking part in the picture were injured during one scene depicting a stampede of wild animals as the waters of the flood rise. The picture is one of the most powerful dramas ever produced.
