"Libraries" To Be Topic Of Southeastern Conference Here

Meeting Will Bring Together
Many Leading Librarians of Country; Begins With Dedication Exercises.

Open discussions of county libraries, negro library service, and public library standards, and addresses by a number of prominent library administrators feature the program, announced today, of the Southeastern Library Association's meeting at the University of North Carolina next week.

The libraries will meet in conjunction with the University's annual Southern Conference on Education, whose program this year will center on the general subject "Libraries." The first meeting will not be held until Monday morning, but most of the librarians are expected to come in on Saturday.

That day, Homecoming Day for North Carolina Alumni, will mark the dedication of the University's new $625,000 Library, which is to house the largest book collection in the South. President Harry Chase and Governor O. Max Gardner are to be among the speakers. Another of the day's attractions will be the Carolina-Georgia football game that afternoon.

The librarians will hold their first separate session at 11:30 o'clock Monday morning. Dr. Louis R. Wilson will welcome them on behalf of the University. Featured speakers will be Andrew Keogh, president of the American Library associa-

What Engineering Is To Be Explained To Frosh By Professors

The first of a series of orientation and motivation lectures to be presented to the freshman class of the School of Engineering will be given this morning at 12 o'clock by Dean G. M. Braune, head of this branch of the University.

The lectures, which will be held weekly, are given for the purpose of explaining to the freshmen what engineering is and what activities are included in each branch of the profession.

Lectures will be given first by the dean of the School of Engineering, who will talk on the general topic of engineering, and then by the heads of the various departments of the school, who will explain the work of their branches of the profession. The final lectures will be given by a member of the mathematics department who will explain the relation of math to engineering and also talk on ethics in engineering.

The need for such a course of lectures for the freshmen has long been recognized, and last spring the faculty made arrangements for them to be given this fall. The faculty of this school feels that these lectures will give the first year men a view

MUSIC DIVISION COMMUNITY CLUB MEETS AT 3:30

Initial Meeting of Year To Be Held in Person Hall
Today.

The music division of the Chapel Hill community club will hold its initial meeting for the year in room 9 of Person hall (Music building) this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. All people who are interested in this work are invited to be present.

Mrs. T. S. McCorkle is chairman of this section of the club, and will conduct today's program. The program is based on early Italian vocal and instrumental music. A historical resume, illustrated with various musical numbers, will be given. Vocal numbers of Palestrina, di Lucca and others will be heard; a violin Sonatina of Clementi's will be played; and several of Scarlatti's piano numbers will be played by John Efrid, student pianist.

In addition to the personal performances, the phonograph and reproducing piano, together with the music department's library of recordings, will be at the disposal of the club.

Additional programs will be given on the second Wednesday of each month, with different club members in charge of each.

No Classes Saturday

There will be no classes on Saturday, October 19. The day will be devoted to the dedication of the University Library, the Carolina-Georgia game and other events. This was stated by President Chase in a letter to members of the faculty dated October 11. This will answer questions of various students as to whether or not there will be classes Saturday morning, October 19.

The President in his letter calls attention to the importance of the dedication ceremonies, urges all students to be present and also urges their attendance on the University sermon in Memorial hall Sunday morning, the 20th, at eleven o'clock, when Dean Shaller Mathews, of the University of Chicago Divinity School, will preach.

Give Piano Recitals

The first of a series of monthly piano recitals will be given Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium of the Chapel Hill Baptist church. These programs will be presented jointly by the pupils of Mrs. J. M. Williams and Miss Lena Mae Williams. November 20 is the date set for the next recitals, which will begin at 4 o'clock. The general public and those who are personally interested in the pupils and their work are invited to attend every program of the entire series.

Rushing Library Work

In order for the new library to be completed for the dedication exercises to be held next Saturday morning, work is being rushed forward at a quick pace. The windows are being washed today and directional signs for the use of library patrons are being placed at strategic points. The large atlas case under the rotunda on the second floor is expected to be completed by Saturday. There are also several other minor pieces of furniture to be installed.

RAY FARRIS AND BARRETT TALK IN CHAPEL PROGRAM

Tell Students That Cheering
Will Have Much To Do With Victory Over Georgia.

"Get behind your team—fight for them—fight with them! Give them everything you've got in the way of lungs, and we'll win that Georgia game Saturday, at least we expect to. That Georgia crowd is coming up here with some of the best examples of school spirit and cheering ever seen; and we've got to show them that Carolina can't be beat; either in the stadium or on the field!"

The foregoing statements and opinions were expressed jointly by Captain Ray Farris and Cheerleader Jack Barrett in chapel Tuesday morning. Continuing Captain Farris said, "We have a winning team, and we can't afford to allow anyone to leave Chapel Hill Saturday and say that the team hasn't the loyal support of the entire student body. Fellows, get out there Saturday and show them you can yell just twice as loud as they can."

At the close of these remarks Dean Bradshaw announced that all students except those in the school of liberal arts would meet with their respective deans today during chapel period at the same places they did last week. Chapel will be resumed Thursday morning.

Member of Faculty Warns Pedestrians Of Night Walking

"Pedestrians passing to and from the new fraternity houses on the Pittsboro highway are perhaps not fully aware of the hazards connected with walking two and three abreast on the highway, near the bridge, after dark. The glare of approaching headlights, especially on cars passing the Inn and bound south, is such that the motorist coming into Chapel Hill at this point is sometimes blinded for a second or two," says a University faculty member, who frequently travels the Pittsboro highway at night, speaking of the danger of pedestrian traffic along the highway and referring especially to the members of the fraternities whose new houses are situated just beyond the Carolina Inn.

This statement is published in the interest of pedestrians and travellers, because this spot is liable to become, as the person previously quoted has remarked, "a potential dead-man's curve."

SOCIOLOGY CLASS VISITS PUBLIC WELFARE MEET

George H. Lawrence, superintendent of public welfare in Orange county, was a visitor at the district welfare association meeting in Reidsville yesterday. He was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Elithe Patrick, Miss Maurine Forrester, Miss Elizabeth Barber and Miss Lena Mae Williams, all students in the University. The attendance of the group as the association is a part of their field work in sociology 14, a course in which Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Saunders of the institute for research in social science, collaborate in teaching. At the meeting of the association Mr. Lawrence spoke on juvenile court problems, along which line he has conducted considerable research.

Notables To Attend Heels-Georgia Game

A host of notables will attend the North Carolina-Georgia football game Saturday. Among them will be Chancellor and Mrs. Charles M. Snelling, of the University of Georgia; Gov. and Mrs. O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina, and two former North Carolina Governors, Cameron Morrison, and Angus W. McLean, and their wives. All will be guests of President Harry W. Chase, at the president's luncheon at noon and will see the football classic from the University's guest box.

Big Rush

The officials of the University Athletic Association here were swamped today with orders for tickets to the Carolina-Georgia game Saturday.

The big rush was caused, of course, by Carolina's defeat of Georgia Tech and Georgia's defeat of Yale. It appears now that all sport lovers are intent on seeing the Bull Dogs and Tar Heels lock horns Saturday.

Tickets were going mighty fast today, but Graduate Manager Woollen stated tonight that there are still plenty of good seats. The pasteboards are selling for $2.50 each and with 20 cents additional for registration and postage.

SELF HELP BUREAU MAKES MANY SUGGESTIONS TO AID STUDENTS

In order that there may be a better understanding between the self-help student and the employer, the self-help bureau submits the following suggestive statements. These statements are made after several years experience with the self-help problem.

A clear and definite understanding should be reached between the employer and the student as to what is expected of the student.

Many students are willing workers but are inexperienced. A little coaching usually makes a good worker out of them.

The rate for manual labor is 25 cents per hour, based on the University rate for work on the campus. There is no objection for employer to pay more to worthy students. The student should not ask for more.

Work, such as painting, waxing floors and carpentering is rated as skilled labor and the price is 30 cents to 40 cents per hour.

One hour's wages should be paid for work lasting less than one hour.

A student is generally expected to work three hours per day for his board.

A student is generally given a room or equivalent for performing one of the following tasks: (1) firing and attending an average furnace; (2) work-

Chief Speaker at Home-Coming
Celebration in Raleigh Talks
About College Newspapers
And Football; Meets Coaches.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of New York, visited Chapel Hill yesterday afternoon. Accompanied by Josephus Daniels, editor of the News and Observer and former secretary of the navy, the governor drove over from Raleigh, visited Kenan stadium, and returned to Raleigh on the return trip. He left Raleigh last night for Albany.

College newspapers and football were the topics of conversation between the governor and the Tar Heel reporter who accompanied him during his visit to the campus.

While an undergraduate at Harvard, Governor Roosevelt was managing editor and editor of the Crimson, the student daily publication there. According to him the rivalry between Yale and Harvard extended beyond athletics, for after each football game the News, Yale daily, and the Crimson staged a race to put the first extra on the streets. In 1904, Governor Roosevelt's year as editor, the Crimson rented a shop near New Haven, telephoned in a play by play account of the game and had an extra out seven minutes ahead of the News. That was considered quite a feat as the News prided itself on getting the extras out unusually early following a game in New Haven.

Turning to football the governor declined an invitation to remain over for the Georgia-Carolina game Saturday, saying that he would probably be embarrassed as he was at the Carolina-Tech game. There he was sitting between the president of Tech and Mrs. Max Gardner, wife of North Carolina's governor. However, he expressed a ing at general work six hours per week; (3) "staying in" on an average of four evenings per week.

The rate for "staying in" evenings is 50 cents for the evening until 11 o'clock. After 11 the rate is 25 cents for each additional hour.

The charge for typing is 15 cents per double spaced page and 20 cents per single spaced page. Two cents is charged for a carbon page. A stenographer gets from 40 to 60 cents per hour.

The self-help secretary is on duty from 8 to 5 on each day except Saturday and Sunday. On Saturdays he is on from 8 to 2.

Calls should be made as far in advance as possible. This is especially true if any certain student is wanted, but the secretary is glad to fill calls at any time, however. In any case of emergency he may be called at his home, phone 3196, and he will do his best to fill the call.

Any complaint should be registered at the self-help office promptly so that adjustment can be made.

Any favorable comments concerning any worker will also be appreciated. Constructive suggestions will be welcomed.

Many students are depending upon work to keep them here, and they are willing to do anything from digging ditches to nursing babies.
