

Library Dedication Begins 10:30 This Morning; Keogh Will Be Principal Speaker

Governor Gardner Will Present Building for State; John Sprunt Hill To Accept for Trustees.

Preparations for the dedication of the new University library have been completed and the program will begin this morning at 10:30 o'clock. Governor O. Max Gardner will present the structure to the board of trustees of the University for the state of North Carolina. Mr. John Sprunt Hill of Durham, chairman of the building committee of the trustees, will make the speech of acceptance for the University.

Andrew Keogh, librarian of Yale University, will deliver the dedication address. Following the address by Mr. Keogh, Dr. Louis R. Wilson, librarian of the University, will announce the gifts which have recently come to the library. The devotional exercise for the affair will be in charge of Rev. W. D. Moss, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Chapel Hill. President Harry W. Chase will preside over the exercises. Music appropriate for the occasion will be played at the time.

The dedication of the library will be the beginning of the University's celebration of Home-Coming week. The visitors will attend the Georgia-Carolina football game this afternoon in Kenan stadium. At 5 o'clock the library will stage an open house and reception in the library building for the guests. At 8:30 o'clock tonight the Carolina Playmakers entertain the visitors with illustrations of their work.

The second annual Conference on Education and the annual meetings of the Southeastern Library association, the North Carolina Library association and the Citizens Library Movement of North Carolina will also begin today. The feature of the programs of the meetings will be the subject of "Libraries." The meetings will continue through Tuesday. Dean Shailer Mathews of the University of Chicago school of divinity will address the members of all the Chapel Hill denominations in Memorial hall tomorrow morning at 11:30 o'clock.

The new Library building is the largest and prettiest on the University campus, and is considered by many to be one of the prettiest in the south. It will house the largest college or university collection of books in the south with the exception of Texas University library. It was erected at a total cost of $625,000.

FARRIS ACCEPTS DANCE INVITATION

Captain Ray Farris, on behalf of the Carolina football team and their guests, the Georgia players, has accepted the invitation of the hotel Washington Duke that they be the honorees at the dance to be given there tonight.

The fact that this is to be the only dance in the neighborhood tonight should make it one of the most colorful of the year and the presence of the football men will end an atmosphere of collegiate enthusiasm rarely approached. There will be a no-break waltz at the climax of the evening in honor of the letter men.

Y.M.C.A. Lunch Stand

The Y.M.C.A. will operate a drink and sandwich stand in front of the Y Building all day today for the benefit of those who cannot secure lunch conveniently elsewhere. The proceeds will be added to the Y fund.

NEW DIRECTORY IS DISTRIBUTED

Material Gathered by University Y.M.C.A.; Bound in Book Form This Year.

The University directory, which was gotten up by the Y. M. C. A., has been distributed. This directory is considered by many as the best that has ever been published for the University, and has also been distributed earlier this year than ever before.

The directory, being neatly bound in book form, contains the names of University administrative officers, other officers, deans of the colleges and schools, heads of the departments, faculty and administrative people, personnel of the institute of research in social science, personnel of the extension division, secretarial and clerical staffs, directory of the fraternity houses, local graded school teachers, local ministers, explanation of the fire alarm system, a complete local directory, and a complete student roll with each student's class, religious preference, home town and county, and his local address.

There are and will be, of course, many changes in the directory on account of students changing their addresses, and for this reason there will be printed in Tuesday's Tar Heel a list of all the present corrections. It is advisable to make all these changes in your own directory so as to keep it as correct as possible. A list of the changes will be published in the Tar Heel at least once a month.

Dashiell Talks To Raleigh Clericus

On Tuesday last J. F. Dashiell addressed the Raleigh Episcopal church Clericus on the subject, "Is Psychology Soulless?" He made the point that the methods of psychology are inadequate to handle any metaphysical problems such as that of the soul, theologically considered, and emphasized the relation between a pure science and its applications as obtaining between scientific psychology and humanistic and idealistic lines of endeavor.

Stars In New Role

"Puny" Harper and "Sandy" Dameron, well known campus "big men," will make their debut in a new role tomorrow night. This famous pair has been chosen to act as official bouncers at the Georgia-Carolina dance at the Washington Duke hotel. With the Georgia and Carolina football men who will be the guests of the management to assist them, Harper and Dameron should have no trouble maintaining order and preventing the Atlanta debutantes from being smothered in the rush.

ALUMNI OBSERVE HOMECOMING DAY

Old Grads and Native Sons To Be Welcomed at University Today.

(By R. W. Madry)

The North Carolina home-comers, who were feted last night by the University alumni of Durham at a big banquet at the Washington Duke hotel, will move on to Chapel Hill this morning and receive the University's welcome.

Today and Sunday are the days set aside for the University's program in connection with the state-wide home-coming celebration, and those who have been receiving the glad hand of fellowship in Raleigh and Durham are expected to come on and get their Chapel Hill greetings.

The University community has been looking forward to the occasion for several weeks, and during the last few days has been especially dressing up for the celebration.

It will be home-coming day for the old grads as well as for the native sons returning.

The principal features of the program here will be the dedication of the University's new $625,000 library at 10:30 o'clock this morning; the Carolina-Georgia football game at 2:30 o'clock; a performance by the famous Carolina Playmakers at 8:30 tonight; a union service by all Chapel Hill denominations at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, with Dean Shailer Mathews of Chicago as the minister, and a musical program by the University department of music at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The library dedication Saturday will serve as a prelude to the formal opening on Monday of the second annual Southern Conference on Education and the annual meetings of the Southeastern Library association, the North Carolina Library association, and the Citizens Library Movement of North Carolina.

CHASE DISCUSSES TODAY'S PROGRAM

President of University and Dean Bradshaw Feature Chapel Exercises.

Two important matters were brought before the student body in chapel Friday morning by President H. W. Chase and Dean of Students F. F. Bradshaw. President Chase announced and discussed to some extent the following program of events for the week-end: dedication exercises, 10:30 a. m. Saturday; University sermon, 11 a. m. Sunday; glee club concert, 4 p. m. Sunday. President Chase issued a hearty invitation to the students to attend each of these events.

The other matter concerned the conduct of students following victories of the football team. Dean Bradshaw began a discussion of this subject by stating that he wished to oppose Peter Green in the debate taking place in the Open Forum column of the Tar Heel. Peter Green has defended the action of a group of students who caused no little disturbance after the Carolina-Tech game Friday night by saying such was a time-honored tradition of the University. Dean Bradshaw declared that these students acted in a most unusual manner. The accustomed method of celebrating athletic victories is a dignified and quiet acceptance of victory. He explained that the students who acted in such an ungentlemanly manner Friday were probably surprised by the victory out of their dignity and good taste. This should not happen again as Carolina can expect to win all other games, he added.

The dean ventured that a literal "reign of terror" was perhaps not unusual after athletic contests in some high and preparatory schools. Such action there is generally explained by the statement that "boys will be boys." Dean Bradshaw declared that the University freshmen were expected to be not boys, but men.

Number Of Pledges Fail To Better Mark Of 1927 Season

Staff Meeting

Sunday night at 7:30 the Daily Tar Heel staff will meet in the office, basement of Alumni building. All reporters and editors who are not present will be dropped from the staff unless they are excused before the meeting by the editor or managing editor.

Between 350 and 375 Pledged Thursday Afternoon; Average Of Over 10 for Each Fraternity.

With the end of rushing season Thursday afternoon between 350 and 375 men donned pledge buttons of the 35 social fraternities located at the University. This number is expected to be swelled considerably within the next few days as many men failed to accept bids to any fraternity at the regular time.

This mark fails to better the high mark of 1927 when more than 395 freshmen were pledged at the regular time. Within the week following pledge day that year many more became pledges to run the total to more than 400. Last year's figures were about the same as this year's.

The list of fraternities in order of their establishment at the University and the pledges are as follows:

D. K. E.

Elliott Hill Newcombe, Charlotte; Erwin Goode Walker, Charlotte; Archibald Kimbrough Davis, Winston-Salem; Aubrey Lee Brooks, Jr., Greensboro; William Vass Shepherd, Raleigh; Raymond H. Chatham, Elkin; Robert H. Carmichael, New York City; Joseph W. Lineberger, Belmont; Robert J. Mebane, Jr., Durham; John A. Preston, Lewisburg, W. Va.

Phi Gamma Delta

Charles Allen Crowson, Durham; Arthur Hynes Fleming, Louisburg; John Sills Dozier, Rocky Mount; Francis Leroy Savage, Rocky Mount; Grosser Matheson Young, Rocky Mount; Frank Payne Davis, Winston-Salem; James Robinson Hubbard, Clinton; Jack Cornelison Morisey, Clinton; Paul Boucher, Damascus, Va.; Gilbert Fleming Oberfell, Lynchburg, Va.; Robert Dorsey Davis, High Point; Robert Brock, Florence, Ala.; William Alexander Howard, Concord; Champ Clark Henry, Pittsburg, Pa.; Frank Alexander McLeod, Lumberton.

Beta Theta Pi

Charles Ashby Penn, Jr., Reidsville; Charles G. Rose, Jr., Fayetteville; Walter W. Bacot, River Forest, Ill.; William G. Roberts, Marshall; Fisher S. MANY NOTABLE TO ATTEND GAME

Georgia and North Carolina Governors Here for Big Clash.

An impressive host of notables will attend the Carolina-Georgia football game in Kenan stadium today.

Georgia's splendid team, conquerors of Yale, will be followed by a record crowd of supporters. Governor L. G. Hardman and Chancellor Charles M. Snelling of the University of Georgia will head the invasion.

North Carolina will be celebrating Home-Coming week, and the University will be celebrating Homecoming Day. Tar Heel notables will be present, headed by Governor O. Max Gardner, former governors Angus W. McLean and Cameron Morrison, Former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, and President Harry W. Chase of the University.

North Carolina's committee on Home-Coming week will be present to the last member, scores of prominent legislators and judges, and prominent educators and library executives from many sections of the country, gathered to attend the meetings of the Southern Conference on Education, the Southeastern Library association, and the North Carolina Library association, which convene here on Monday.

DEAN IOWA STATE TO SPEAK MONDAY

Dean Anson Marston, dean of the engineering school of Iowa State college, is expected to arrive on the campus Monday morning. Dean Marston is the president of the American Society of Civil Engineers and he is here to visit the William Cain student chapter of that society.

He will speak to the engineering students at 12 o'clock Monday in Phillips hall and at 1:30 will be entertained at a luncheon at the Carolina inn, given by the members of the American Society of Civil Engineers of this vicinity.

Dean Marston is very widely known and is an outstanding figure in the engineering world. He is past chairman of the Advisory board on highway research and was formerly a member of the national research council. In 1900 he was president of the Iowa engineering society and in 1904 received the Fuertes gold medal given by Cornell University. In 1924-25 he was member of the executive committee of the American society for testing materials. He contributes to numerous technical journals and his late publication, "Sewers and Drains," is widely known.
