

(By "Crawf" MacKethan)

For the past several days reports have been circulating among the newspapers about the 1930 football schedule for Carolina, and incidentally just what part the Gamecocks of South Carolina will play in the aforementioned schedule. Some of these reports have contained more or less of the truth, while others appear to be the product of the imagination of the writer.

Anybody that thinks they can gain a vast amount of information from Charles T. Woolley, graduate manager of athletics here at the University, concerning next year's schedule, even in its most tentative form, will certainly have more potency in their thoughts than I had in my actions. After some forty-five minutes of tooth-pulling yesterday morning, I gave it up as a bad job, and forced myself to be content with a few facts which bear pretty directly upon the South Carolina game next year; that is if there is going to be a game.

According to Mr. Woolley an engagement with South Carolina for next year has not been cancelled. The main point of interest, however, is that the Tar Heels will not be able to meet the Gamecocks in 1930 on the date November 8, since other arrangements have been made which make it impossible for the two schools to meet on that date. It is unlikely that a game between the two neighboring universities will be scheduled for next fall. So that's about all there is to it, and we might just as well settle back and patiently await something definite which will probably be given out in about ten days.

It seems a bit unfortunate that the above mentioned talk and a lot more has been going on just on the eve of the game between the two parties concerned, and the less that can be said along that line until about five-thirty Saturday afternoon, the more bouquets of love are going to be thrown at us as we arrive in Columbia this week-end for the game. Psychology may help the Gamecocks, but on top of that they are fully capable of making it a bitterly fought game, and unless we are a bit off in our prediction that is just what it is going to be.

Our conception of industrious laziness is sitting around a fire talking, in the company of some of the old timers, about the great men and teams that have in the past placed Carolina in the forefront among gridiron competition. There is something consolingly peaceful in it all; in fact there was never a better bull question. In one of those arguments have you ever tried to figure out a mythical all-time Carolina football team. Think it over, and remember that men coming along about the time of Monk McDonald were not the first grid heroes to wear the Blue and White. Through the assistance of some of the greatest football players ever to go out from Carolina, the Tar Heel is going to attempt to pick

Tar Heels Leave For Battle With Gamecocks

To Take Light Workout In Charlotte This Afternoon On Their Way To Columbia

Thirty-five Men Not Counting Coaches Left Durham Last Night.

Thirty-five Tar Heels, not including managers and coaches, left last night for Columbia, where they will engage the Gamecocks Saturday afternoon in the annual "battle of the Carolinas."

The men taking the trip are as follows: Adkins, Alexander, Allen, Branch, Brown, Crew, Dortch, Erickson, Eskew, Farris, Fenner, Fysal, Gilbreath, Harden, Harper, House, Hudson, Jackson, Koenig, Lipscomb, McIver, Magner, Maus, Moore, Nash, Nelson, Parsley, Rose, Slusser, Spaulding, Tabb, Thompson, Ward, and Wyrick. Managers Gray and Craig will accompany the team; also Coaches Collins, Fetzer and Quinlan.

The squad left Durham about 12:57 a.m. last night; the first stop will be in Charlotte, where a light workout will be held tomorrow afternoon. From there the squad will go straight to Columbia.

Coach Chuck Collins had little to say concerning his charges as he prepared to put the Tar Heels through a light practice yesterday afternoon. The main import of his remarks were that the game had every indication of being bitterly fought from the first whistle to the last. The comparative score advantage that the North Carolinians hold over their South Carolina rivals seems to hold little water with Coach Collins.

Last year the Gamecocks came to Chapel Hill and, either helped or hindered by an exceedingly muddy field, held a supposedly much stronger North Carolina eleven in check and the final whistle found both goal lines uncrossed.

A great array of backs will take the field Saturday and unless both teams present a much stronger defense than is expected, long offensive drives and flashing aerial attacks will feature the performance of the day.

Tennis Team Works For Coming Match

With three vacancies in the varsity tennis team and a meet with the University of Virginia just three weeks hence, aspirants to racket honors were working out on the University courts yesterday. The three present members of the team are: Ed Yeomans, Bill Merritt and Sonny Graham.

Coach Kenfield issued an announcement yesterday to the effect that all those wishing to try out must see him today. When the team has been selected, he will begin grooming them for the Virginia meet.

just such a team. If you are up on this sort of dope, send in your nominations to the Tar Heel Sports Department. Who knows, the weight of your nomination may place a man on this famous collection of Carolina football stars. Nominations and teams will be published in about a week or ten days.

N. C.-S. C. READY FOR ANNUAL GAME

Tar Heels Conceded Slight Edge Over Gamecocks.

With all indications for fair weather and a great horde of spectators, the football teams of the Universities of North and South Carolina were all set today for tomorrow afternoon's annual classic "Battle of the Carolinas," featuring homecoming day at the Gamecock institution.

The Tar Heels ruled slight favorites, but the consensus of opinion was for a battle royal.

The Tar Heel forwards will outweigh the Gamecock linemen several pounds to the man. The backfields stack up just about even—the Gamecocks with their Rhame, Boineau, Zobel and Stoddard; and the Tar Heels with their Magner, Branch, Nash, Ward, Erickson, Maus, and others.

The Tar Heels will be missing their veteran quarterback, Wyrick, but otherwise both teams will show just about full strength.

The North Carolina squad spent last night in Charlotte, and was to take a light workout there this afternoon. The squad is to arrive in Columbia early tonight.

The coaches today announced the probable starting lineups as follows:

N. C.	Pos.	S. C.
Holt		Powell
Koenig	1. e.	Watson
Farris (C)	1. t.	Hughey
Lipscomb	1. g.	Beall (C)
Fysal	c.	Moore
Adkins	r. g.	Shand
Fenner	r. t.	Groshette
Branch	r. e.	Rhame
Ward	q. b.	Boineau
Nash	1. h.	Zobel
Spaulding	r. h.	Stoddard

Harriers Show Form

North Carolina's fleet harriers, rulers of Southern Conference cross-country circles for three years, beat the N. C. State hill and dale men last Saturday, 15-45, the largest possible margin of defeat in cross-country. Five Tar Heels finished, hands-clasped, in a tie for the first five places. The Tar Heels dropped a close opening meet to V.P.I., but this overwhelming victory has sent their stock rushing up again, on the eve of the Conference meet to be held here November 23.

GOOD MATERIAL FEATURES 1929 FRESHMAN SQUAD

Includes An All-Southern Guard, Three Captains, and Several Who Were Prominent in Northern Circles.

At the end of last year's football season the freshman team had completed their five game schedule (Southern Conference ruling) without having suffered a single defeat. One of their most outstanding victories was with the Princeton Frosh who bowed to the Tar Babies by a score of 6 to 0.

This year the Tar Babies do not play Princeton, but on November 16 they journey to College Park where they play the Maryland freshmen in their third game. On November 23 the freshmen go to Charlottesville to play Virginia, and on the following Saturday they play the State freshmen at Raleigh.

For the past several years the coaches have used the freshmen to scrimmage the varsity squad, running an attack with plays of the opposing team. This year Coaches Enright and Sapp have been using their proteges more for work against the varsity than ever before. The freshman squad has been divided into five teams, each taking the name of some Carolina opponent and running plays against the varsity several times each week. This system, while greatly handicapping the development of a freshman team, has been of invaluable aid to the varsity.

The following statistics have been collected concerning a partial number of the 1929 Tar Babies. This year's yearling squad includes one all Southern high school guard, three captains and several who have been prominent in northern prep and high school football circles.

Fullbacks

Seymour Abrams, East Orange high school, N. J., fullback four years.

J. D. McNeill, Rayford high school, N. C., fullback three years.

Platt W. Landis, Oak Ridge institute, fullback one year; Charlotte high school four years, captain 1927.

William Sickler, Swathmore Prep, Pa., one year, fullback; George school, Newtown, Pa., two years fullback; Salem high school, N. J., two years fullback. Fred M. Laxton, Charlotte high school, two years fullback. Shearod Crumpler, Roanoke Rapids high, four years fullback.

Quarterbacks

Stuart Chandler, Durham high, three years quarterback; Bingham Military Academy, one year quarterback.

Jonathan Jackson, Hendersonville high school, three years quarterback.

Right Halfbacks

Jack Morisey, East Clinton high, four years halfback.

Norman N. Coats, Mackenzie Prep, N. J., three years halfback. Lewis Riggs, Mebane high, two years halfback.

John Daniels, Weldon high four years fullback.

Emmett Ferebee, New Bern high school, four years right end.

D. B. WAUGH WINS SCORING HONORS IN NOVICE MEET

Establishes Record By Winning Four Out of Nine Events; Follin Second; and Sickler Third.

With 23 points to his credit, D. B. Waugh of Beta Theta Phi was easily the outstanding individual scorer in the novice track meet held yesterday afternoon at Emerson field. Follin, also of Beta Theta Phi, was next high scorer with 15 points, while Sickler of "G" dorm was third high with 10 points to his credit.

Waugh scored an individual record by winning four first places out of a possible nine. He took first place in the 100 yard low hurdles, broad jump, high jump and pole vault. Follin came in first in both the 100 yard dash and the 50 yard dash, and also took second place in the broad jump, third in the shot put, and third in the javelin. Sickler's ten points were gained by winning first places in the shot put and discus throw.

The following represents the first three winners with the record set by the first man:

Pole vault: 10 feet—Waugh, Ruble, Crumpler.

Javelin: 136 feet—Morrison, Olivers, Follin.

Discus: 100.1 feet—Sickler, Stultz, Roberts.

Shot: 32 feet 1 inch—Sickler, Stultz, Follin.

High jump: 5.5 feet—Waugh; Rowland and Newland tied.

100 yard dash—11.2 seconds—Follin, Geiger, Evans.

50 yard dash—6.2 seconds—Follin, Waugh, Watkins.

100 yard hurdles—Waugh, Dudley, Shepherd.

Broad jump: 18.55 feet—Waugh, Follin, Dunn.

More than 45 men entered the meet, which was sponsored by the intramural athletic association. Stamped ribbons were presented to the first three men in each event. The officials who presided over the various events were Wallace Shelton, "Bo" Shephard, Mac Gray, George Bagby, Vernon Cowper, Dr. J. P. Harland, J. K. Smith, John Alexander, Bill Suggs and "Puny" Harper.

HARRIERS MEET BLUE DEVILS IN STADIUM TODAY

Tar Heels Out to Avenge Defeat Of Last Season; To Defend Southern Title.

A strong Duke varsity cross-country team will meet the Tar Heel harriers this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Kenan stadium in a meet which is expected to assume almost equal proportions to the gridiron clash between the two schools. The Duke frosh team will also meet the Tar Babies at the same time.

Duke is reputed to have an even better team this year than the one which beat the Carolina harriers last year. Simons, outstanding in the Navy and Washington and Lee meets, is expected to be Duke's big threat, while Heiser, Flinton, and others are also expected to be among the foremost runners.

Coach Dale Ranson is silent as to prospects but is known to be shaking up the team which beat State last Saturday quite a bit. He has not announced the starting team but will pick the starters from the following: Barkley, Baucom, Pierce, Phoenix, Farris, J. J. Cohen, G. M. Cohen, R. Brown, Simpson, and Lowry. Lowry did not get into last week's meet because of an abscessed tooth, but may run this afternoon. Wrenn, who was among the first five to enter in the State meet, will be out on account of mumps.

Ranson is also not quite sure of his starters in the freshman meet, but it is most probable that the team will be chosen from Jensen, Cox, Cordle, Lumpkin, Zelle, Stikeleather, Lewis, Walker, and Hawley.

A large number of students is expected to witness these two meets because of the intense rivalry existent between Duke and Carolina.

MISSISSIPPI COLLEGE TO PLAY MEXICAN TEAM

Mississippi college, of Clinton, Miss., will oppose the University of Mexico in Mexico City Nov. 20 in the second game of intercollegiate football to be played in Mexico. The game will be the feature event of the opening of the million dollar Valbuens athletic field, just outside the capital.

Arrangements with Mississippi college were completed by telephone recently after efforts had failed to bring the University of the South, of Sewanee, Tenn., to Mexico for that date.
