

Collins Gives Varsity Rest As Reserves Get Scrimmage With Frosh

Moore And Redfern Show Mettle Against Freshmen; Magner Improving And May Play.

VARSITY WORKS TODAY

The 29 veterans who faced South Carolina last Saturday were given another day of rest yesterday by Coach Collins. However, the shock troops found that there was plenty of work for them as the coaches drove them through a long and tough scrimmage against one of Coach Enright's freshman teams.

The move was obviously to allow those who suffered bruises and bumps in the South Carolina contest to get in the best possible condition before the Davidson game Saturday.

The frosh proved tougher for the reserves than for the varsity, but the reserves, aided by Jimmy Moore's pass-catching activities, and Redfern's running, eked out a one-touchdown victory.

These two boys have been showing steady improvement. Moore, a quarter, broke into the lineup in the State game, and looks good to get another chance Saturday, as also Redfern, fleet little halfback.

The holiday will be over tomorrow, and the aftermath, Coach Collins said last night, will probably be a big dose of scrimmage.

Jim Magner, ground gaining ace, still had a slight limp today, despite the fact that he has shown marked improvement, and there is doubt whether he will face Davidson.

Coach Collins stated tonight that he would probably bank on Jimmy Ward, Jimmy Maus and Phil Jackson at the halfback posts.

If this happens, there is all the more reason that the sophomore Moore may get a chance. Johnny Branch, sophomore flash, is still running at quarter in place of the injured Wyrick. Jackson has been doing the relief work, and in the event Jackson works at half, Coach Collins probably intends to use Moore behind Branch.

The other injuries were coming around O. K. yesterday, and it looks like the Tar Heels will be able to put a strong team in the field when they renew their state championship drive at Davidson.

An important item in yesterday's workout was a warning against possible over-confidence when the team meets Davidson.

Davidson scouts who saw the Tar Heels subdue South Carolina 40 to 0 were quoted in the papers as having warned their squad that the Tar Heels would be a tougher foe than Army.

Overconfidence inspired by such a statement would be as disastrous to the Tar Heels as the Chicago fire was to Chicago, thinks Coach Collins.

The Tar Heel mentor's wish was that the papers bearing that story might have been banned from the village. That being impossible, he gave the squad a lecture, picking flaw for flaw, that could hardly have left anybody a victim of a superiority complex.

The Tar Heels' 33-point backfield is in good shape, and likewise the big Blue and White wall. But Coach Collins is far from believing the Davidson nut will be easy to crack on the Davidson field, on Davidson's homecoming day, and with the Cats boasting such an array of scrapping stars as McCall, Parrish, Brock and DeCamp, who led Army for a half, whipped Citadel, and blanked N. C. State!

This week-end the football season swings into its final quarter and brings speculation concerning the chances for the undefeated teams to continue their records. Southern conference title aspirants have been narrowed down to Tulane, Vandy, and Tennessee, Duke being eliminated because her schedule shows a scarcity of conference foes. Now the question is: which of the three contenders will come through? While we do not want to make any definite statement yet we believe that Tulane stands the best chance. Vandy and Tennessee battle this Saturday and of course one of the contenders will be eliminated in this game. If Tennessee wins she will then have to defeat the great Kentucky eleven to finish her schedule without a loss. If Vandy comes through Saturday she will have fairly easy sledding after that. However we doubt her ability to stop Hack and Mack. Tulane, conquerors of Georgia and Georgia Tech, should have no trouble in downing Sewanee and Louisiana State. Thus it seems logical that the Green Wave has the best chance of the three to remain undefeated and accordingly right now seems to be the most logical contender for Conference honors.

A statement from Edward K. Hall, chairman of the National Football Rules Committee intimates that the rule on fumbles which was instituted this fall is a permanent fixture. Only here and there he points out have protests been voiced against the rule. Unless three arises some general movement to abolish the provision that the ball becomes dead at the point of recovery by the defensive team, there will be no action taken. No one as yet has been able to raise a convincing argument against the rule, and it would require a loud outcry from all over the nation to make the rule receive no more than a one year trial. In fact the general satisfaction with the football rules as they now stand portends that there will be little tinkering with them when the National Committee meets this winter.

Reports from Davidson say that their scouts who saw the Tar Heels in action last Saturday are convinced that all the talk about Carolina having a wonder team is worth some thought. They report that the overwhelming victory scored by the Collinsmen was quite impressive. While this is all very pleasant and appreciated, we want to return the compliment. Though the Wildcats may not set things on fire with their powerful attack, they cannot be beaten in this section for the fight and spirit they always show. State college, another fighting bunch, was outfought by the Davidson eleven last Saturday. The old spirit instilled by Coach Younger will offer a great obstacle to the Tar Heels this week-end though the brand of football put up by the Presbyterians may not match that of Carolina.

RUNNING ATTACK MAY BE USED IN DAVIDSON CLASH

State's Passes Resulted In Presbyterian Touchdowns; Carolina Passes Good Against Gamecocks.

Since Davidson proved so adept at converting N. C. State passes into Davidson touchdowns, it is an interesting matter of speculation just what sort of offense the Tar Heels will feature against the Cats on Saturday.

Both of Davidson's touchdowns in that 13-0 N. C. State victory came as the almost immediate result of intercepted State passes and long runs—one by Joe McCall, the stellar Cat halfback, the other by DeCamp, a hard-hitting guard.

The Tar Heels have been featuring a fast aerial attack all season, interspersing running in proportion as the other team showed ability at pass defense.

South Carolina, after making both its scores on Clemson on intercepted Clemson passes, was doped to give the Tar Heels trouble on their aerial efforts.

But the Tar Heels turned the dope, didn't have a single pass intercepted, meanwhile playing havoc with the Gamecocks' aerial efforts.

Open football or aerial football—much may depend on which attack the Tar Heels will feature, and that question, although the Davidson battle is just two days off, is still an open one.

Intramural Games

Only two intramural tag football games were played yesterday. Sigma Nu won from Kappa Alpha 13 to 6. Kappa Sigma won from Sigma Phi Sigma 20 to 0.

- Thursday, Nov. 14:
- 3:30 1. Theta Chi vs. Chi Phi.
 - 2. Beta Theta Pi vs. Pi Kappa Alpha.
 - 3. Alpha Tau Omega vs. Sigma Chi.
 - 4:30 1. Pi Kappa Phi vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon.
 - 2. New Dorms vs. Aycock (F).
 - 3. Phi Sigma Kappa vs. Kappa Psi.

Marsters Still Leads

Al Marsters' total of 108 points scored in six football games for Dartmouth held good against the week-end assault of eastern rivals as the crippled Green back lay in a hospital, his gridiron career ended.

Morris, of Haverford, runner-up to Marsters in the eastern individual scoring table, added ten points to his total to climb to 75, but still faced a difficult job in any attempt to overhaul Marsters.

VIRGINIA HAS 66-0 SCORE

One of the South's oldest and hottest grid rivalries, to bloom forth anew on Thanksgiving Day when the Virginia Cavaliers stage another of their epic fights in Kenan Stadium here, might conceivably take on the nature of a grudge war. The Cavaliers, once upon a time, humiliated the Tar Heels 66 to 0, a debt which the Tar Heels have never been able to repay in kind. The Tar Heels have one of the greatest scoring machines ever turned out here, and loyal alumni are calling unanimously for a settlement of the 66 to 0 debt.

Tongue-Twisters For Cheerleaders

The Oosterbann, Mitterwainers and Ukelbergs, whose names harried headline writers and radio announcers, have gone, but the Big Ten has plenty of unique names to replace them.

Ohio State offers Bueschenschuss, Ujhelyi, Kasmerchak, Wiragos and Erf, which Indiana matches with Magnabosco, Antonini and Hojnacki, among others.

Wisconsin's threats to easy football conversation are Lubratovich and Ketelaar, which are not so bad when Minnesota presents Pulkrabek, Kakela and Oja.

Illinois has Nusspickel and Yanuskus to stack up against Yunevick of Purdue, Diedendorf of Chicago and Captain Joe Truskowski of Michigan.—The Plainsman.
