

Carolina-Virginia Game To Revive Memories Of Old

Old Thanksgiving Day Rivalry To Be Renewed Here Thursday; Virginia Holds Edge.

By M. R. ALEXANDER

Thanksgiving day will revive the football memory of the old-timers who come back to Chapel Hill.

As they sit and watch the Carolina and Virginia youngsters of 1929 do battle, the old-timers will recall vividly the gridiron games, the heroes, and the feats of their own day—"the good old days."

The Carolina-Virginia game is the oldest continuous Thanksgiving Day football rivalry in the south. Thirty-three games have been played in the 37 years since the series was inaugurated in 1892. Virginia has won 18, Carolina 12, and three have been ties.

Virginia held undisputed edge in the days of old, but since the war it has been a different story. Of ten games since resumption of the series in 1919, the Tar Heels have won five, lost three, and two have been ties.

In total scores, the Cavaliers hold a big edge. For the 33 games the Virginians have a total of 461 points to 197 for the Tar Heels. The worst licking of the series was a 66-0 defeat of the Tar Heels in 1912. The Tar Heels had their largest margin of victory the year the series opened—26-0.

How Series Opened

The series opened with a Virginia win, 30-18, in 1892. The teams met a second time that season. Michael Hoke, now a prominent Atlanta surgeon, led the Tar Heel team to a 26-0 win in the second game—strangely enough, the largest margin by which Carolina has ever beaten Virginia.

The Cavaliers reversed the tide and blanked the Tar Heels, often by disheartening scores, every season until 1898. Vernon Howell, now dean of the University school of pharmacy here, raced 40 yards through the entire Virginia team for a 6-2 Carolina victory that year. Virginia scored 2 of 8 points that blemished the fine record of this one undefeated team of Tar Heel history.

The best showing made by a Tar Heel team in the disastrous years of 1893-97 was that of the team of 1895, captained by Edwin Clarke Gregory, of Salisbury, who has a son on the present Tar Heel squad, which held the Cavaliers to 6-0.

In 1899 a Virginia player was killed in action, and the annual game was cancelled out of respect to the Cavalier performer, but the rivalry was renewed the next Thanksgiving.

Two Virginia victories and the 12-12 tie of 1902 followed. The Tar Heels had their next win in 1903. Lyle Jones, prominent Asheville attorney, with a son in the University now, led that team.

How They Stack Up

The Tar Heels lost a disheartening 12-11 verdict in 1904, but Coach W. J. Warner's eleven overwhelmingly defeated the Old Dominion the next year, Captain Foy Roberson, now a prominent Durham physician and advisory physician to the Tar Heel squad, leading the North Staters to a brilliant 17 to 0 victory in North Carolina.

Chapel Hill High Defeats Hillsboro

Hillsboro was defeated for the first time in three years Friday afternoon when Chapel Hill barely nosed them out with a 14 to 13 count, after a hard struggle.

Chapel Hill shifted from its usual passing and reversed tactics to line plunging, registering sixteen first downs to its opponents eight.

Tripp and Upchurch, converted linesmen, playing at half back berths were the principle ground gainers for Chapel Hill. Ewbanks was Hillsboro's main threat, but retired from the game with an injury received as a result of a hard tackle by Tripp.

Hillsboro attempted four passes, completing none, while the 'Miniature Tar Heels' completed four out of eight attempts by the ariel route.

This was the last game of the season for the Hillians unless they succeed in getting a game with Durham on Friday after Thanksgiving.

Scoring: Hillsboro, — Touchdowns, Ewbanks, 2 Chapel Hill — Touchdowns, Upchurch, 2. Points after touchdown, Hillsboro, Tripp, 1. Chapel Hill, King, 1, Tripp 1.

Officials: Referee, McIver (Carolina), Umpire, Wright (Carolina). Head linesman, Merritt (Carolina).

Tennis Matches Are Postponed Again

Inclement weather yesterday caused another postponement of the last two sets of the tennis match between Wilmer Hines, Jr., of Columbia, southern junior champion, and Bryan Grant of Atlanta, southern senior champion, for the University net title.

Hines was leading two sets to one when darkness caused postponement of the match on Thursday afternoon. The remaining two sets will be played the first day that weather permits.

OLD WAR-HORSE IS ILL

Knute Rockne's leg infection, which has been causing him trouble, has spread to his other leg. There is no cause for alarm, according to the report of Dr. Robert L. Sensennich, who is attending him. On account of this development, the famous coach may not see the forthcoming game and probably will not be allowed by Dr. Sensennich to see the match between the Army and Notre Dame, which will close the Rockne schedule. The Notre Dame coach's condition requires that he have complete rest and forbids even moving either leg.

D. A. R. Meeting

The Davie Poplar of the D. A. R. had a meeting at Mrs. Warren's Wednesday afternoon.

ACCORDING TO the Tar Heel files the majority of the tag football league games between the champions of the fraternity and dormitory leagues have been won by the dormitory title holders. Last year, however, the campus title went to a fraternity. This Tuesday the New Dorms and Betas will meet to decide the campus honors.

NOT ONLY will there be a battle for the campus tag football championship this Tuesday afternoon, but the two league leaders will be working to win the turkey dinner which has been promised by the Smoke Shop to the winners of the titular match.

THE CAKE RACE was accounted a large success after a year's layoff. In spite of the cold and a slight drizzle, 106 entries toed the mark a little after 4 o'clock. The track coaches, intramural officials, and others accomplished an almost inconceivable task by picking the position in which the entries finished. According to the results 98 of the 106 finished, led by Tom Watkins, a former McCallie school track star, closely following Watkins was Joe Pratt, Rhodes and Hamilton. Out of the first four winners two, Pratt and Hamilton, were residents of Chapel Hill.

FOUL WEATHER doesn't seem to worry cross country officials much more than it does in football. In spite of the cold and rain yesterday afternoon the 77 harriers, representatives of 11 colleges and universities, entered in the meet completed Carolina's five mile course. The time of the run shows the effect of the weather on the runners. Cross country is usually considered as a minor sport but because Carolina has maintained such an outstanding record in recent years there is more interest in this sport at the University than at many of the other colleges.

THE DUKE FRESHMEN seem to be stepping out toward a state frosh title. They defeated the Davidson-Wildkittens last Friday, and had previously taken the Tar Babies in tow by a margin of one point in a hard fought 8-7 game.

RUMORS ABOUT the formation of a new Conference centers around the withdrawal of Oglethorpe and Furman from the S. I. A. A. According to reports the new league will attempt to be formed from teams from North Carolina, Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia. Some readers of recent newspaper articles about this were probably led to believe that the University of North Carolina was expected to be a member of this new conference. However, this is not the case. U. N. C., or any other North Carolina team for that matter, doesn't belong to the S. I. A. A. and is a devout member of the S. I. C. The purpose of the new league to be formed is primarily for the for-

Bad Weather Prevents Work-Outs; Sell-out Predicted for Thanksgiving Game.

In view of the slushy field and cold weather, Head Coach Chuck Collins thought it advisable to keep the University football squad indoors yesterday. He gave the players a long classroom lecture on the fundamentals of Virginia's attack and of the Carolina attack to be used.

Captain Ray Farris, star left guard, turned up yesterday with a severe attack of tonsillitis, and the veteran quarterback Pete Wyrick was still limping. Trainer Quinlan hopes to have both in shape for the Virginia game. Their loss would be a heavy blow.

Approximately 20,000 seats for the game have been sold, it was learned at the office of Graduate Manager Charles T. Woollen.

Five thousand reserved seats are still available, and a number of them have been placed on sale in Raleigh, Durham, Greensboro and Winston-Salem, it was stated.

Virginia Golf and Tennis Players To Be Here Wednesday

The University tennis and golf teams are to meet the Virginia racquetees and golfers here next Wednesday, according to announcement yesterday from Coach John Kenfield.

The golf match will be played over the Hope Valley course, while the tennis matches will be staged on the University's courts.

The two contests will be varsity preludes to the annual Thanksgiving day clash between the football teams of the two institutions, to be staged in Kenan stadium here Thursday.

CAVALIER FROSH DOWN TAR BABIES

The Tar Baby team lost to the Cavalier frosh yesterday at Charlottesville by a score of 6-0. The team did especially well by holding the strong Virginia team to so low a score, as Carolina was badly crippled by injuries to several players. Three Tar Baby regulars and six valuable substitutes did not make the trip because of injuries and McDade, star tackle, and McNeil, fullback, and Nichols, left end, all first-stringers, were not in the best shape.

When the Tar Heel went to press, full particulars were not available; but a more complete account of the game will be published in Tuesday's issue.

formation of a more centrally located, compact league. Reports indicate that Wake Forest and Davidson will be, or have been, approached in regard to their membership in the formation of the new league.

CAROLINA still leads the Big Five teams and is patiently waiting to see how the Thanksgiving results will affect her standing in the S. I. C.

HISTORY NOTICE

An examination for the removal of entrance conditions on American history will be held December 5 in room 301 Saunders hall from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Blue Devils Dump Demon Deacons 20-0

The Duke Blue Devils battled their way through mud and water to a 20 to 0 win over the Wake Forest Demon Deacons.

Through sleet and rain a handful of spectators saw Brewer and Murray lead the Blue Devils to their victory.

Both teams battled for every inch of ground but the Duke aggregation easily had the advantage from the start. Fumbles and blocked punts were costly to the Deacons and finally resulted in touchdowns.

No definite advantage was gained by either team until the last minute of the first quarter when a fumble by Wake Forest was recovered by Duke for a touchdown. Duke failed to gain the extra point.

The ball see-sawed up and down the field for the remainder of the half and the score at the mid point stood Duke 6, Wake Forest 0.

The third quarter commenced with Duke starting toward a touchdown. In the last few minutes of the quarter a Wake Forest punt was blocked and recovered by Duke on the five yard line. Brewer, for Duke, carried the ball over on the 4th down for the touchdown and a few seconds later added the extra point by going off tackle.

The last Duke scoring came in the latter part of the fourth quarter. Murray of Duke made a long run and planted the ball on the five yard line. Murray in this run would have made the touchdown but stumbled as he neared the goal line and slid for about three yards. Immediately following Murray's long run, Brewer carried the ball over. The extra point was added by a pass.

Duke kicked to Wake Forest and the Deacons almost got loose for a touchdown being stopped by the Duke safety man. On the next play Adkins of Duke intercepted a pass, the game ended with the ball in Duke's possession on their own 35 yard line.

Wake Forest threatened seriously throughout the game but showed a strong defense at times. Murray contributed to the Deacon's downfall by numerous pretty runs and again as in last year's game, he listed as the outstanding light for Duke in this game.

DUKE FRESHMEN WIN INVITATION HARRIER HONORS

Jensen, Carolina Star, Captures Individual Title in Freshman Cross Country Run.

With Clarence Jensen of Carolina taking individual honors in exceptionally fine time, the Tar Heel freshman cross country team placed second to Duke in the state freshman championship run held at Chapel Hill yesterday, immediately before the Conference meet. Duke won low score of 27 points, Carolina was second with 35 and N. C. State placed third with 67.

Jensen, who has won every freshman meet this year, closed the season by running the three mile course yesterday in 17 minutes and 30 seconds. Bray of Duke finished 70 yards behind him in 17:42, followed by Lovell of Duke in 17:46; Troutman of State in 17:59 and Wood of Duke in 18:07.

Cordle, in seventh position, was the second Carolina man to finish. He was immediately followed by Zelly, Cox and Lumpkin, all of Carolina. Strikeleather of Carolina placed seventeenth, and Jones twentieth.

Jones, who has been ill with the mumps, ran his first race yesterday wearing a heavy sweat suit. He ran a good race as far as the gate of Emerson field, where he collapsed. After resting a moment, he walked the lap around the track and came in twentieth.

Carolina's defeat was a complete surprise, as the frosh have beaten both State and Duke in dual meets. Jensen came through however with his expected easy individual victory. Coach Ranson considered his time excellent in view of the mud, wet, and cold the runners had to go through.

The freshmen started at the freshman field, went north to Rosemary street, up Rosemary to Carrboro, then turned to the left at the swimming pool. They turned to the left again at the laundry, went down Cameron avenue to the Carolina Inn, turned to the right there and went as far as the Pittsboro highway. Going along the highway by the Tin Can, they turned into Emerson field and ran a lap there to finish opposite the stadium.
