

Goodwin Leads Raleigh Y Cagers To 42-29 Win Over Tar Heel Varsity

Game Close in First Half, But Capital City Five Goes Ahead in Latter Part of Game; Slater Scores 13 Points for Carolina.

Flashing a brilliantly concerted attack, the Raleigh Y. M. C. A. cagers last night administered defeat to the Tar Heel quintet by a score of 42 to 29 before a large crowd of students and sport fans in the Tin Can. The Capital City quintet attack was centered about Frank Goodwin, captain of the N. C. State southern championship team last year, who scored 27 of his team's 42 points.

During the first half the game was a nip-and-tuck affair with the Y team holding a slight edge. The end of the half found the score 20 to 13 in favor of the Raleigh team. Both teams played evenly during the early part of the second half, but a sudden spurt put the Y cagers far ahead, and the Tar Heels were unable to catch up.

For the Y team, Goodwin with 27 points, Bremer with eight and Gurnau with five were the individual scoring stars. Goodman and Byrd playing excellently at guard were responsible for the low Tar Heel score.

For Carolina Slater was high scorer with 13 points to his credit, followed by Brown with eight and Harper and Marpet with four each.

The lineups and individual scores for both teams follow:

Wilmer Hines Wins Tennis Tournament

Displaying a driving forehand and playing an offensive game throughout, Wilmer Hines, Southern Junior Champion, drove his way to victory today in the final round of the University's fall tennis tournament.

Bryant Grant, Southern Senior Champion, furnished the opposition. The two Southern champions, both University freshmen, began the finals match two weeks ago. Hines led 10-8, 7-5, 6-8 when weather forced postponement. Hines won the final set today 8-6.

Grant had a wide edge on backhand and balanced game, but Hines made up with fine footwork for what he lacked in backhand and carried the final set throughout with his fine first serves and well-placed forearm drives.

Grant made a great rally, after dropping the first three games and squared the set at 4-all. The smaller boy was making sensational returns, but the best he could do today was to stave off victory for the time being. He obviously wasn't in as good shape as Hines, and Hines' forearm was too strong.

With the score 6-all, Grant brought the 13th game up to deuce, on Hines' serve, after Hines had a 40-15 lead, but the smaller boy couldn't hold the pace. Hines took two straight points for a 7-6 lead, and on the next game broke through Grant's serve decisively for the 8-6 margin of victory.

NASH FIRST BACK TO CAPTAIN TEAM IN NINE SEASONS

Strud Nash, captain-elect of the Tar Heels for next year, will be the first Tar Heel backfield captain in 9 years.

Election of Nash broke a continuous regime of line leaders that dated back to 1921 and the palmy days of "Runt" Lowe, rated by some as the Tar Heels' greatest quarterback of all-time.

The 8-year regime showed three tackles, two guards, two centers, one end—eight fine linemen. By years they were Grady Pritchard, tackle; Roy Morris, end; Pierce Matthews, tackle; Herman McIver, center; "Red" Whisnant, guard; Garrett Morehead, tackle; Harry Schwartz, center; and this year's captain, Ray Farris, All-American guard.

The sudden break from the well established tradition is hard to explain.

There was a time when Tar Heel teams were outstanding for fine defensive work. Defense was good this year, with all opponents held to a total of 53 points. But the 346-point offense was far more conspicuous. The Tar Heels had become an offensive machine, and if more reasons are wanted, Nash himself can supply them.

The kind of back who could usually be depended upon when a pass, catch or a tackle thrust was needed for first down, he was as fine also on defense and interference.

He played well all season, and really shined against Virginia and Duke, the traditional rivals of the Tar Heel schedule.

In the former he averaged 12 yards a run, broke off-tackle for 50 yards and a touchdown and scored another on a fine pass catch and long run. In the latter he scored the first three of seven touchdowns that put the Tar Heels in second place in the national scoring chase.

He was perhaps the most consistent back on the club.

Nash is from Charleston, S. C. He has just turned 22, is a good student, and is prominent in other extra-curricular activities at the University.

Fenner and Harden Can Play Another Year In Football

A check-up reveals that news stories sent out just before the Duke-Carolina game were in error regarding the eligibility of Julian Fenner and Pap Harden, veterans on the Carolina varsity this past season.

The report was that Fenner and Harden had played their third year for Carolina. As a matter of fact, they have played only two years. The mistaken impression was due to the fact that both men are seniors.

Fenner was a member of the 1927 squad, but did not get in a single game. Harden was not out that year.

Should Fenner and Harden return the Tar Heels would lose only nine veterans instead of eleven, as was first reported.

This should be mighty good news for Tar Heel supporters. Fenner was a regular end most of last year, and one of the finest flankmen in the state during the season just closed. He played particularly brilliant games against Georgia Tech, Georgia, Virginia, and Duke.

Fenner teamed with Don Holt, third-year veteran, to keep opposing gains via the flank route to less than 10 yards a game all season and played great ball on offense as well.

Harden was one of the most dependable fullbacks on the squad last year and again this year. With his 185 pounds, he carried lots of drive and proved a fine man on backing up the line, a good interference runner, and a fair pass receiver as well.

Their eligibility greatly enhances Tar Heel chances for the 1930 season.

Nine Tar Heel veterans played their last game for Carolina this year, leaving big gaps in the Blue and White line—Captain Ray Farris and Bud Eskew, guards; Bill Koenig, Fenton Adkins and "Puny" Harper, tackles; Don Holt, end; Phil Jackson and Jimmy Ward, halfbacks; and Yank Spaulding, fullback.

Duke has five letter men back in basketball.

PROMISING TRACK MATERIAL FOUND IN GYM CLASSES

The track meet held on Emerson field yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in which members of the freshman gym classes meeting on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays participated, was successful insofar as uncovering good track material was concerned. Several good men were found in each event.

Ellis Dudley, New Jersey boy, was the outstanding sprinter of the meet, running the 50-yard dash in six seconds flat, and the 50-yard low hurdles in seven and four-fifths seconds. W. B. Ridenhour and W. C. Mitcham equalled his time in the hurdles, while Tom Watkins, winner of the cake race, and C. W. Allison followed with eight and one-fifth seconds.

W. F. Howard, R. S. Sidney and N. N. Coates were best in the shot put, each throwing the 12-pound shot 35 feet. T. L. Glascock, by his 95-foot throw of the discus showed himself to be the best freshman weight man uncovered so far.

Tom Watkins won the broad jump, leaping 20 feet 6 inches, almost two feet further than his nearest competitor. W. F. Howard was second with 18 feet 9 inches. Howard was first in the high jump, clearing the bars at 5 feet 3 inches. A. S. Vinson was second, three inches below Howard's mark.

The answer is—flavor!

It's not a hard question: Why are Kellogg's Corn Flakes the most popular ready-to-eat cereal in the world? Two words give you the answer—matchless flavor.

Just pour milk or cream into a brimming bowl of these crisp and golden flakes tomorrow. You'll want to repeat.

Ask your fraternity house steward or your favorite campus restaurant to serve Kellogg's—the original Corn Flakes.

Kellogg's
CORN FLAKES

The most popular cereals served in the dining-rooms of American colleges, eating clubs and fraternities are made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. They include ALL-BRAN, Pep Bran Flakes, Rice Krispies, Wheat Krumbles, and Kellogg's Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit. Also Kaffee Hag Coffee—the coffee that lets you sleep.
